CITY AND SCHOOL TAX RATES ARE REDUCED

The Former Lowered by 2 1-2 Mills and the Latter by Half a Mill—$35,000 More Granted for New School Houses—Session Was the Longest in Years—And Yet the Business was not Finished—Another Meeting to be Held Tonight

The City Fathers were in session until 2.15 this morning and then were unable to complete the business necessary before adjournment for holidays can take place. Another meeting will be held this evening. Much business was transacted last night, including the passing of the estimates and striking the rate. The tax rate will be 24 1-2 mills, which is a reduction of 2 1-2 mills from last year's rate. The requisition of the School Board for $35,000 was almost unanimously agreed to. Council receives a cheque for $15,000 from the C.N.O R. as purchase money for the isolation hospital.

The members present were Mayor Ackerman, Aldermen Adams, Bleecker, Bogle, Caldwell, Caining, Chown, Clarke, Gibson, McGie, Parks Sills, Vermilyea, Woodley, Marshall.

After the reading and confirming of the minutes of the last meeting the Council went into Committee of the Whole on reports, communications etc., Ald. Woodley in the chair.

The reports of the various Civic Committees were first taken up and the various accounts were passed as were also the following recommendations;

That Harre, P.L.S., be engaged to run the line on east, west, and north of that property known as Marsh Lands in Murney Ward, owned by the city.

That a cable be put from the tower to the new police station to connect the fire alarm system to the police station at a cost of $50.

That as soon as the police cells and offices are vacated and transferred to the new building, the portion now used for cells be fitted up for an office for the assessor according to plans prepared by the City Engineer, and also that the front portion be fitted out for an office and show room for the Gas Department at a cost not to exceed $700.

That the City Engineer report upon the work done upon the new police station under contract with G. A. Bennett, and that no more money be paid on said contract until after passed upon formally by this committee.

That a three-inch main be laid on Grier Street from Evans to College Street, at an estimated cost of $300.

That the Treasurer be instructed to request Messrs. Butterfield, Carman and Biggar to provide for the payment of the Butterfield mortgage.

Chief Campbell of the fire department asked the Council to purchase 1000 feet of Keystone hose instead of 500 feet, as recommended by the Committee.

Ald. Canning contended that it was necessary to procure 1000 feet of hose for the protection of the city.

A motion prevailed to purchase 1000 feet of Keystone hose.

Ald. St. Charles and Panter came in.

The following accounts were passed:—

Intelligencer Printing Co. ..	$ 10.15
H. Walsh	50
Bell Telephone Co., ...	8.00
E. McGrath	21.00
T, Brooker	18.00
Gas Department	25.00
Trenton Electric and Water Co.	413.55
Belleville Pottery Co., ...	8.00
Intelligencer Printing Co., ..	16.00
R. McDougall & Co., ...	18.00
R. P. White	31.20

The communication of Chief Campbell for 500 extra feet of hose was on motion referred to the Fire Committee.

A claim of $7.75 from Dr. Gibson for damages to his vehicle on account of an obstruction on the highway was referred to the Claims Committee.

A communication was read from the C. N. O. R. in reference to the diversion of the road between Mary and James streets.

Ald. Panter moved that the matter be referred to the Railway Committee with Ald. Vermilyea added to that committee and have power to act.

Ald. Clarke was of the opinion that power should not be given to the committee to act, but that the committee report back to the Council. The cost to the city was not known.

Ald. Panter said the railway would bear all the expense in the matter.

A motion prevailed that the committee report back to the council.

TAXES COLLECTED.

Mr. F. D. Diamond, tax collector reported the collection of taxes to date as follows:

Collected—1909, $75; to collect none.

Collected, 1910, $305.24; to collect $15,610.

Ald. St. Charles thought this was a rather slow collection.

Ald. Vermilyea said that taxes on the 1909 roll were practically all collected. Something should be done to collect the back taxes on the 1910 rolls.

BURNHAM STREET EXTENSION

Mr. James Taylor wrote the Council that he would give the city the strip of land owned by him necessary to open up Burnham street if he could secure for $300 a portion of the Phippen porperty adjoining that portion of the said street.

Ald Clarke thought that the street should be opened by the local improvement plan. If they want to get down to Dundas street they should pay for it.

Ald. McGie said the people who are desirous of having the street opened would not consent to this.

Ald. Panter suggested that the residents contribute one-half of the expense and the city the other half.

Ald. Clarke moved that the matter be referred back to the commitee having it in charge.

An amendment to the amendment prevailed that the city pay half and the citizens the other half of the expense.

The Y.M.C.A. asked that the sewer down Campbell Street be constructed at once.

Ald. Panter moved that the petition be granted and that the Y.M.C A. and Mr. Dolan be charged with same, and if others use the sewer, they to be charged pro rata for frontage for use of same, and a bylaw for its construction be prepared—Carried.

AID FOR SCHOOLS.

A requisition was read from the Board of Education asking the Council for $35,000 and a debenture by-law

TERRIBLE HOLOCAUST IN HAMILTON ASYLUM

Fire Started in the Upper Story at 1.30 a. m.—Gallant Efforts to Save Patients—Many Tried to Rush Back Into the Flames—List of the Dead—Who They are and Where They Came from—A Large Number were Injured

HAMILTON, Aug. 1.—Eight patients are known to be dead and many injured, some probably fatally as the result of a fire which started at 1.30 a. m., on the top floor of the Hamilton Insane Asylum.

THE DEAD.

CHARLES, BILLYARD, Dunnville

ALFRED NAY, St. Catharines.

JOHN HEFFERMAN, Arthur.

THOMAS EVANS, Elora.

EDWARD SODKE, Welland.

JOHN T. HOLDAWAY, Lindenwood.

GEORGE W. STOREY, Hockley.

ALBERT BOWLER, Dundalk.

This list is complete, the officials believe.

Charles Piper almost lost his life fighting the fire with an extinguisher before the engines arrived.

Fireman Tom Fitzgerald saved six lives, dashing though the smoke and flames, and finally almost lost his own battling with a crazy man who refused to be saved.

The patients jumped, or were thrown from the top stories into fire nets and many clung to the eaves crying piteously for assistance.

The attendants had a terrible time herding 300 inmates from the top floor to safety. The poor creatures persisted in rushing back into the flames.

Dan Parker, a negro, was found sleeping soundly in the room over which five bodies were found.

LONG HOURS ON THE FARM

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Sir,—It is pleasing to find a paper ready to take up this subject, but it is doubtful if anything short of legislation will lessen the hours of labor on the farm.

Any thinking person knows that on a properly conducted farm the long hours are not necessary, but where will you find the farmer that admits it? You say that some farmers make the hours as long as possible; that is quite true, yet they cannot understand why there is a shortage of labor. They cannot see that they have driven the men to the towns. The Canadian left long since, and the Englishman who is imported to fill his place, in his turn moves away as soon as he can after finding the condition of things

Here let me ask: Ought not the young boys sent out by Christian philanthropy to get some better protection? Is it fair that they should have these terribly long hours to work?

But the remedy does not lie in bringing the men back to the land or in importing new labor. This would not shorten the hours in the least; it only have the effect of lowering the wages of the men, and at present this scarcity of labor is the only weapon the hired man has to use in his own protection.

CURRENT COMMENT

Emancipation Day.

The Canadian cruiser Niobe has made its first strike—a rock. Lucky for the rock that nothing harder hit it.

The School Board have been granted the funds for which they asked. Now the educational needs of Belleville will be supplied.

The Globe has already began to raise the "race and creed" cry on behalf of Sir Wilfrid. That cock won't fight.

The Council and the Board of Education have reduced their tax rates but the decrease is accounted for in the increase which was made in the assesment.

A Chatham farmer brought a load of thirty-five bushels of alsike clover to market the other day, and took back wit hhim $280. Does the Canadian farmer need a new market for his product? Hardly.—Spectator.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his farewell address, talks of reciprocity being desirable nineteen or twenty years ago So it was, but conditions have changed so that reciprocity is no longer desirable. Perusal of the market reports is alone sufficient to prove that

That tilting of the earth to the west is merely due to the chestiness of Toronto since she has crept up to second place in the Eastern League If she should come up to first—and stay there—the rest of us would have to give the Torontonians full walking and breathing space.—Kingston Standard.

The import trade in human hair is becoming a very important one in the United States. The purchases from China in 1909 totalled $327,559. In 1910 the amount was $695,137, the quantity imported being 567,119 pounds. In the same year China sent to all countries 1,300,000 pounds of human hair.

Gaynor and Greene, who have taken the poor debtors' oath and been released from the United States prison have gone abroad to enjoy their stealings, which they had safely planted in foreign lands. The United States government understands now that their release was a mistake, and it is not altogether improbable that prosecutions for perjury may follow.

The Ontario Plowmen's Association is being formed, the object being to encourage greater attention to thorough cultivation of the soil and to interest farmers' sons to become first class plowmen. We hope the association will succeed. It deserves to for there is nothing that looks nicer or does the farmers more good, than good ploughing thoroughly done. And there is a wide sphere of work in this Province in that respect.

The trek has started for West Algoma. Train loads of men are being rushed forward from Ottawa, Buckingham and other points to strengthen the timber gangs in Mr. Boyce's constituency. They will be too early to be of any use in timbering operations, but they will be in time to get on the voters' list. The mission is the stealing of the seat for the Laurier Government. When the West is crying for hands to take off the crop, the Laurier Government keeps in reserve a band of bravoes for expeditions of this kind. Let the residents be on their guard that the right to choose their own representative is not boldly taken out of their hands by these swashbucklers who pretend to be bushwhackers.—Mail and Empire.

A statement prepared by the post office department, giving the number and general location of free and rural mail delivery routes up to the end of January, shows that there were 422 routes authorized, 226 in which the authorized rate was accepted, and 112 in which it was refused. The total number of box holders was 9,700, the cost of the boxes for four years being $36,720.24, the increased cost of mail service for four years $88,336.96, the total increase in cost of mail service for four years. including service of rural delivery boxes, $125,057.20.

When a man was brought before a Philadelphia magistrate, charged with drinking and failing to support his children, he took refuge behind the Bible. For the edification of the magistrate he quoted from Proverbs: "Give strong drink unto him that is ready to perish and wine unto those that be of heavy hearts. Let him drink and forget his poverty and remember his misery no more." The man admitted that he had been drinking since his wife died two years ago The magistrate was so impressed by what was apparently a revelation to him from scriptural teaching that he allowed the man to go. It would probably not be safe, however, to adopt this passage from Proverbs as a general line of defence. Other magistrates might be ready with other quotations that would place the matter in a different light.

BOY INDICTED FOR KILLING NEW YORKER

NEW YORK, July 31.—The seventeen-year-old bell-boy who wanted to get money to buy gaudy clothes and so strangled a helpless old man who had been liberal to him, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday for murder in the first degree and sent to the Tombs to await trial some time in August.

In less than 40 hours after Paul Geidel slipped out of William Henry Jackson's rooms on the tenth floor of the Hotel Iroquois, leaving behind him nothing but an empty chloroform vial with a half-obliterated label, detectives found him, got a detailed confession from him and turned him over to the district attorney, their case completed.

While the bell boy was admiring in his room the new suit and patent leather shoes that he had bought with the proceeds of the crime, and while he was devouring the newspaper stories of the murder, the detectives were already closing in on him.

When they nabbed him and produced the tell-tale chloroform label that had been identified by a Newark druggist, he weakened straightway The props of his nerves let go. He confessed whiningly.

Yesterday a measure of bravado returned. Geidel regretted that he had not done a better job. Next time said he, there would not have been clues for the police to find.

His friend and room mate, Patrick J. McGrane, also a bell boy, who was arrested with him on Thursday night was not indicted by the grand jury McGrane said that he had obliged Geidel by pawning Mr. Jackson's watch in Park Row and that he had heard Geidel half-tearfully, half-boastfully remark, "I guess I have killed a man," and was held as an accessory after the fact and locked up in the Tombs.

So far as the Kanes are concerned Edward and Josephine Kane, hair dressers, who let rooms to Geidel and McGrane, they were discharged by Magistrate Barlow in the Yorkville police court.

It was Mrs. Kane who bought the vial of chloroform in East Newark on Friday a week ago, but the dectectives satisfied themselves that she told the truth when she said that she got the drug to kill a puppy and a kitten and that she did not know Geidel had taken the vial from her rooms.

Driver's Presence of Mind

Driver Gwynne, of the G.W.R., London mail train, averted what might have been a serious smash by his presence of mind in suddenly applying the brakes on finding that the train had taken the wrong points after leaving Llanelly. The engine did crash into some coal wagons, but nobody was hurt, and the train proceeded with a new engine.

What the Young Eye Needs

The effect of town life and modern lighting on the sight is referred to by the Yarmouth school medical officer, who, commenting on the fact that more than twenty per cent. of 2,350 children examined had defective sight, says: "It appears to be the result of civilization. The young growing eye needs frequent and prolonged rest, such as is obtained by living in open spaces and gazing at the far distance."

CHAPTER V.

GRANT CREATES A SENSATION.

Again the streets of Burlington are in a flutter. The Free Press is in much greater demand than usual. Newsboys skip nimbly from customer to customer crying at the top of their voices: "Free Press, Free Press. Buy Free Press. All about Alex Grant. Free Press The little fellows are enjoying their brisk sales and the pennies rattle as they race about, ever on the alert to increase their small earnings. Alex's name is handled to good advantage as he is popularly known throughout the city, and all are anxious to ascertain the news concerning him.

Not since the celebrated political upheaval, which had turned the election's tide, and is still an occasional subject of discussion, have their sales been so large. As a result the juvenile paper merchants are in high glee

"Here, boy, give me that paper,—quick," said a well-dressed, middle-aged gentleman excitedly.

"Can't do it, mister. It's all I got left, and it's promised. Th' s'ply's runned out."

"I will give you fifty cents for it."

"Sorry, mister, but can't do it. My customer's lookin' fer it, an' I got ter do bizness right."

"Will a dollar buy it?" and the gentleman looked keenly into the upturned face.

"Go me a half better an' it's yourn"

The purchaser smiled, and pressed a two-dollar bill into the small dirty hand. He liked the boy's enterprise and was willing to reward it.

"Now, my lad, tell me, what is it about Alex Grant, he asked, adjusting a pair of gold-rimmed glasses.

'Had er fight in San Fernsiscer Swiped er feller's wife, an' licked er stuffin' out'n him fer interferin'. Oh he's a jimdandy, he is. I know Alex Grant. Us'd ter be editer on the Free Press. Betcher five dollar he kin knock out any duffer 'n Californy," and off sprinted the youngster holding tightly the bill buncoed out of the rich man.

In his usual deliberate manner Robert Grant unfolded the paper and there, staring at him from the front page was a two-column black heading, reading as follows:—

AN EASTERN CYCLONE.

Handsome as a Prince, Dressed in the Latest, He Steals a Wife's Affections and Pummels Unmercifully the Husband for Attempting to Rescue Her. The Couple Leave the City. The Husband Interviewed.

"The peace, the chastity, the well-earned reputation for correct morals of our beautiful city have been ruthlessly infested. Mr. Alex Grant, a smooth-faced, innocent-appearing stripling hailing from the Green Mountains, is responsible for one of the most exciting fistic contests San Francisco has ever known.

"None of us suspected him capable of such an outbreak, or of so heinous an act. We had learned to love him during his five weeks' sojourn, for his geniality, his liberality, and apparent social standing. He came to us with unquestioned letters of credit and did business with the First National Bank. He was on cordial terms with the cashier of the corporation He moved in the highest society, and enjoyed all that heart—a conservative heart—could wish. We looked upon him as a model young man whom it might be well for some of our youths to pattern. We treated him as we supposed became his station in life. He was given the freedom of our matchless city. Above all, we approved of and admired his extreme modesty. He deprecated all reference to appearance or popularity. He was simplicity exemplified.

"But, ye gods! That lamb-like product of the Green Mountains has more dynamite to the square inch than any bucking broncho 'twixt here and the Rockies. He's full of ginger of powder, of pluck, bull-dog tenacity of genuine, unadulterated, all-wool yard-wide, dare-devil cussedness. The temperature of Vermont may serve to confine him within the six-rail fence of respectability, but he was never put up to keep in this warm climate He foments; he froths; he snaps the cork-string and fires the cork; the walled-up forces break loose, and we law-abiding citizens must stem the flood.

"A posse from Vermont should be sent here at once to conduct this youth home. We can't keep him. The state is not large enough to accommodate his antics, nor does it possess the wealth to make good the wrecks resulting from his cyclonic nature. He should be sent overland by caravan. Should he explode upon the train it would be sure death to some one; if he broke loose upon the water, the vessel would sink. He requires the free prairie air in which to expand.

THE GERM WHICH PRODUCES DADRUFF

FINALLY CAUSES BALDNESS—KILL THE GERM AND SAVE YOUR HAIR—NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE WILL DO IT.

Did you ever try to discover a reason for the dying of a valuable plant? You perhaps found that life was destroyed by some insect or parasite working about the roots and sapping away the elements which go to support plant life.

The dandruff germ exercises the same destructive influence upon the life of the hair. It forces its way down the follicle and around the hair bulb and thus prevents the hair from getting proper nourishment. The hair dies and drops out.

Newbro's Herpicide prevents this by killing the germ. It also frees the scalp from the accumulations of dirt and scarf skin. With the removal of these obstacles to a clean, healthy scaly the hair will grow naturally and luxuriantly.

Send 10c. in postage or silver to The Herpicide Co., Dept., R., Detroit Mich., for a nice sample of Herpicide and a booklet telling all about the hair.

Damaged By Log.

Chatham, Aug. 1.—The steamer Assizraze has been taken to drydock in Detroit for the second time this year. Her propeller struck a sunken log in the river. The Ottawa Government has, upon many occasions, promised to dredge the river to a sufficient depth for navigation, but so far nothing has been done, and it is with great difficulty that a passenger boat is maintained on the Chatham-Detroit run.

The navigation company, despairing of anything being done by the Government, are now engaged taking the logs out of the river themselves.

Bottomley Loses Appeal.

London, Aug. 1.—Horatio W. Bottomley, the editor, financier, newspaper owner and member of Parliament, yesterday lost his appeal in the Appeal Court from the decision of June 30, by which he was ordered to pay $250,000 to Mrs. Eleanor Curtis, wife of a London barrister. Mrs. Curtis charged Bottomley with getting money from her father by misrepresentation.

WELCOMED THE SULTAN

Extraordinary Demonstration in Honor of the Turkish Ruler

Contrary to the usual precautions taken by the Sultan in presenting himself to the populace, his return from an extensive continental tour was attended by only such police vigilance as was absolutely necessary to prevent accidents. The spectacle was one of the most extraordinary ever seen. From the early morning the weather was excellent, and an immense crowd, including many Turkish ladies, lined the quays of the Bosphorus from Galata to the Dolma Bagtshe Palace. On the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus the slopes of Scutari, and, in particular, the old Byzantine ramparts on the Sea of Marmora, were crowded with spectators, who had occupied every possible coigne of vantage, giving the city a mediaeval impression. The Bosphorus and the Sea of Marmora were filled with so many varieties of craft that river traffic became very difficult. At noon the fleet appeared on the horizon of the Sea of Marmora. It comprised the battleship Barbarossa, with the Sultan on board, and some forty other vessels, on which were various functionaries as an escort. As soon as the Imperial flag was seen, the batteries fired a salute, and this, with the cheers and the whistles of the steamers, formed an indescribable tumult. The battleship stopped in the Bosphorus in front of the Dolma Bagtshe Palace. In order to land, the Sultan entered the big Imperial ten-oared barge, and the police merely prevented private boats from getting in the way, but they were allowed to approach and almost touch the sides of the Sultan's barge. His Majesty was wearing a new blue uniform, with large gold epaulettes. Beside him was seated the Minister of Marine, Mahmud Mukhtar Pasha. The cheers and the shrieking of sirens made a deafening noise, the enthusiasm was indescribable, and many Turkish ladies wept. The evident goodness and simplicity of the Sultan made him universally popular, and in diplomatic circles it is considered that this popularity, which has greatly increased the prestige of the crown, is becoming a factor of extreme importance.

SLIPPED ON A GLACIER

A sixteen-year-old boy, named Walter Allant, living in London, had a narrow escape from death while descending the Gorner glacier from Gornergrat, accompanied by his father. He slipped on the snow, fell 150 feet into a crevasse, and was only rescued after great difficulty. A party of guides carried him to Zermatt, where it was found that his only injuries consisted of cuts on the head.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 31.—The foreign demand for old crop spring wheat was fair; but, altho prices bid were 1½c in the per quarter higher than Sunday, they were still out of line with values here, and no new business was reported. The demand for oats for export account was good, but owing to the scarcity of ocean room from here for August exporters could not accept any of those. The local market for coarse grains was quiet and steady. A fair local trade is done in spring wheat flour, and the market is moderately active. The demand for bran and shorts is good, of which supplies are light and prices firm.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, July 31.—The receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 157 cars, consisting of 2970 cattle, 1020 hogs, 1472 sheep and lambs, 109 calves and 35 horses.

Exporters.

E. L. Woodward bought for Swift & Co. 150 steers for Liverpool, 1350 lbs. each, at $5.97; also 262 steers for Liverpool, 1250 lbs. each, at $5.88.

Butchers.

Prime picked cattle, $5.90 to $6; good, $5.65 to $5.85; medium, $5.30 to $5.60; common, $5 to $5.25; cows, $2.50 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited number of milkers and springers were slow of sale at $40 to $63 each.

Veal Calves.

The market for veal calves was strong, at $4 to $8.75 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Large receipts caused prices to be easier. Lambs sold at $7 to $7.75, and a few at $7.90. Canadian sheep sold at $4 to $4.60 for ewes. American yearling sheep sold at $5 to $5.50. See sales given.

Hogs.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 31.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 29 were 3250 cattle, 1890 sheep and lambs, 3000 hogs and 1000 calves, and on the market this morning for sale were 1350 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 1950 hogs and 500 calves.

A feature of the trade was the first arrival of Canadian Northwest ranch cattle, there being over 200 head on the market. The quality was better than expected, after the long run. Altho the supply was much larger than it had been for some time past, the tone of the market was fairly steady, and prices show no important change, as compared with a week ago.

The gathering of buyers was large, and the demand was fairly good. A good clearance was made. A few choice steers sold at 6¼c, but the bulk of the trading was done in this class at 6c, while good stock brought 5½c to 5¾c, fairly good 5c to 5¼c, fair 4½c to 4¾c, and common 4c to 4¼c per pound.

The market for hogs on Sunday was strong, and prices scored an advance of 15c per 100 pounds. Sales of selected lots were made at $8 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars, but a weaker feeling developed in the market this morning, and prices declined 25c to 50c per 100 pounds. The demand was somewhat limited, and this helped to depress prices, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

The trade in small meats was fairly active, and, as supplies were not in excess of the requirements, prices ruled steady. Sheep sold at $4.50 to $6; lambs, at $3.75 to $7, and calves at $3 to $6 each, as to size and quality.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, July 31.—Cattle—Receipts, 4375 head; market, choice active, others slow; prime steers, $6.75 to $8.00; butcher grades, $5.50 to $6.75.

Dont Want our Cheese.

The American market, for home consumption, demands a soft variety of cheese, that is not made in Canada. From 100 pounds of milk the cheesemaker in the States makes about 11 pounds of cheese, whereas in Canada only 9 pounds of cheese are produced from 100 pounds of milk. In other words, the American cheese contains about 42 per cent. of water, while there is only 36 per cent. in the Canadian harder product.

Why Men Leave Home.

My wife and I have birthdays
Upon the selfsame day;
We celebrate together,
It is the nicest way.

We give each other presents—
This year the gifts were swell;
I gave my wife some diamonds,
My wife she gave me —
Goodness!
We almost said it out loud.

A Year Ahead of His Time.

Luxembourg was not so long ago the scene of an incident savoring decidedly of comic opera. When the late ruler of the Grand Duchy was Duke of Nassau he was officially informed of the death of his cousin, the King of the Netherlands, and promptly journeyed from Vienna to Luxembourg, to which state he was next in succession owing to the operation of the Salic law. A ceremonial entry was made into the capital, and the new Grand Duke had already received personal congratulations from many of his most prominent subjects, when he heard that Kink William's physicians had been misled by a cataleptic trance, and that, so far from being dead, he was on the road to recovery. So Duke Adolphus had to return to Vienna, and when, a year later, the King really pased away, several weeks elapsed before the new ruler of Luxembourg assumed the reins of government.

That Wider Market

The Toronto World is doing yeoman service in the fight aginst the proposed Taft-Laurier tariff agreement which has been miscalled reciprocity. In a recent issue The Intelligencer reproduced from the World an article as to the importation from Chicago of sheep, which after the duty had been paid on them, were sold on the Toronto market at a lower price than had been paid to the farmers of Ontario for animals of similar quality. The Globe and The Star endeavored to break the force of the World's statements by articles of which misstatements and misrepresentation were the chief components, the result of which has been to call forth from the World the following convincing rejoinder:

First—The Globe and The Star and their political chiefs have been telling the Canadian farmer that reciprocity meant two markets instead of one, and that it also meant "a wider market"; and by a wider market they meant that he would not be limited to the Canadian market, and all he would have to do would be to go across the line and get a better price for his sheep.

Our absolute answer is that sheep are cheaper in the States than they are in Canada. In fact they are so cheap that the dealers can pay duty on them, bring them into Canada and undersell the Canadian farmer! We said on Saturday that as many as 18,000 sheep, as our live stock reporter learned from three or four importers only, had been brought into the Toronto market within the last three or four months. The Globe tries to dodge the question by saying a "few sheep." We say "20,000 sheep at least, in six months" in the Toronto market alone; and we said on Saturday that 570 head were on the way and would be at the stock yards this morning. Our stock market reporter turns up from his visit to the yards and says that instead of 570, 1196 American sheep and lambs came into the market and this morning can be seen awaiting the Canadian butcher to buy them. The firm who have these 1196 sheep on sale at the market this morning are Rice & Whaley, dealers on the Buffalo and Toronto markets, and who have been doing business on the Toronto market for a long while. If these are the political agents at work The Star can crucify them in their deadly political conspiracy. Any man who would enter into a political controversy certainly ought to be crucified or chased out of this country of Canada. But if they are business men we are glad to see them here today and The World shakes hands with them this morning as furnishing the best argument against reciprocity we have met with in many a week.

Here for a moment we wish to go to The Star's reply, which is to the effect that some bad Tory politicians are manipulating this situation in order to help the enemies of reciprocity! Here now is a splendid chance for The Star with its photographer and reporters to catch these political manipulators red handed this morning in the very act of putting up a disreputable job on the Canadian electorate when a great electoral struggle is about to take place. The Star will be able to catch these men in the very act and give their pictures and grill their political allies if what they say is true; and The World will be so branded and so will these political manipulators, as they ought to be branded, as enemies of the country and the Canadian farmer.

Now, Mr. Star and Globe, go up and catch these men in the very act if you can; but The World believes these sheep are being brought in by business men for business reasons, that there is no political manipulation in the proposition, but that it is as a matter of fact the outcome of actual conditions. And it all goes to prove that the "wider market" which the Globe has been promising the Canadian sheep raiser is a myth, and all that reciprocity will do will be to allow the American sheep raiser a free entrance to the Canadian market; and once this is granted, the price of the "wider market" will rule in the Toronto market and sheep will be sold here on the average, for $1 a head less than the Canadian farmer now gets. The World met a man yesterday who said it would be between $1 and $2 instead of $1. In the light of these facts also, read The Globe's article again, wherein it says what is happening is a "chance occurrence of a day or so when a few sheep from the United States were sold on the Toronto market." The American farmer can beat the Canadian farmer out of his boots in many things, and all he wants is one chance in the Canadian market, not only in sheep, but in many things. So far we have shown what he can do in the way of sheep.

But now go back to the other argument of The Globe's that it means cheap mutton for the consumer. It is likely they will do in Canada, once they have an opportunity, what they did in the United States—put down the price to the farmer, and up to the consumer, which they are well able to do by their cold storage appliances, and their enormous business organization. The cry of the American public, farmers and consumers, is that the meat trusts have cut down the price to the farmer and put up the price to the consumer! That's a wide market. When reciprocity carries there will be no dead meat business in Toronto, or if there is, it will be controlled by Chicago, and the chances are that people in Ontario towns will be fed with mutton killed in Chicago and raised by western farmers. A lot of these sheep that are in the Toronto market today are from Chicago, and from how much further west of Chicago they came we do not know, but today they can pay the duty, come in here and swamp the Canadian farmer.

So again we ask our good friends The Globe and The Star to take another try at this situation and explain it. In the mean time The World's photographer has been up to the stock market and has got some splendid pictures of these sheep and it will be in our paper to-morrow. They are fine sheep, although some of the Canadian butchers aver that some of them are not of as good flavor as the Canadian meat. But on this point we know that the American sheep raiser has given more attention to breeding for meat than the Canadian, and he knows his business right down to the ground and he is a man who is looking for "the wider market," and he is going to get it in Canada, and that is why the President of the United States and the Senate of the United States, and the House of Rrepresentatives of the United States, and the newspapers of the United States are in favor of reciprocity.

Let this conclude for the present our sheep story for to-day. We have a bigger one to-morrow, but in the meantime The Globe and The Star can try again and tell us all about this wider market.

As a postscript to this article we append the following gleaned by our live stock reporter:

> W. J. Neely, president of the Toronto Live Stock Association, and for many years a drover, who shipped stock both to Buffalo and Toronto, gave it as his opinion that the Canadian farmer would be driven out of raising sheep if reciprocity should pass.
> John Black, Fergus, of the firm of Rice & Whaley, a lifelong live stock dealer in sheep and lambs, said the price for sheep would be $2 per head cheaper should reciprocity come into effect.

EVIL RESULTS OF LAURIER DOCTRINE

London Globe Says he is Pushing Autonomy to Excessive Lengths

LONDON, July 29.—The London Globe frankly regrets that Premier Asquith found it was not convenient to reply to Lord Walmer's question regarding Canada's decision anent participation in war. It says there have been significant signs of the Laurier doctrine. It has corrupted some of the South African politicians and appatently the Commoiwealth Premier. It has also been put to immediate use in Canada itself in the explicit report published in Le Canada, Laurier's Montreal journal that he has established a free martime zone on both the Atlantic and the Pacific, which will be absolutely under our own care." The Globe says further that it is asserted Canadian vessels will fly the white ensign and a special Canadian flag, the latter replacing the Union Jack.

"This will be regarded by many with feelings we hardly care to give utterance to," says the Globe. "It is pushing the doctrine of autonomy to excessive lengths. We know from Laurier's speech he prides himself on this."

MUST HAVE PAPER.

The Insatiable Demand of the United States.

To appreciate what the products of the pulp mills already mean to our industrial life in Canada to what degree their importance will grow in the near future, we have only to review the development of our neighbor nation, the United States. Although experiments had been made in the production of paper from cellulose, or wood pulp, as early as 1844 in Europe, and the process was introduced into the United States in 1854, the improvement by which it became commercially successful was not employed till 1867, and it only became a regular industry about 1870. At this date eight establishments were reported, whose combined annual product was worth $172,350. Ten years later there were fifty establishments reported, with an annual product of $2,256,946.

In 1850, in the days of rag paper, there were in the United States 443 mills, whose capital was $7,260,864, and whose product was valued at $10,187,177. By 1880 there were 742 establishments, with a capital of $48,139,652, producing paper and pulp to the value of $57,366,800, while in 1900 there were 763 establishments, comprising over 1,200 mills, with a capital of $167,507,713, producing paper and pulp to the value of $127,286,162, showing a remarkable expansion in the capacity of the mills and the value of their output. By 1905 the capital had again increased to $277,445,471 and the value of products to $188,715,189, while the mills paid out wages to the amount of over $38,000,000.

THE SUFFERING EDITOR.

"I have a horse that has been afflicted for the past year with periodical fits of dizziness. Please let me know what I should do with him, as he seems to get worse instead of better. I am afraid he will be unfit for work if something is not done soon."

In the next issue this answer appeared:—

"Did the senator make good his first term?" "Yes; I understand he kept mum all through it."

NEAVE'S FOOD FOR INFANTS

is the RIGHT FOOD for YOUR baby

The strongest argument for your using NEAVE'S FOOD for your baby, is that 80 years experience has proved its value for the youngest and most delicate infant. NEAVE'S FOOD contains all the essentials for flesh and bone forming in an exceptional degree—assists teething—relieves constipation—and makes baby thrive. Here's what one mother says:

"My baby has been brought up on Neave's Food, of which I cannot speak too highly. My baby did not thrive until I gave him Neave's Food, and he has never had a day's illness since. If anyone asks me what they shall give their babies, I say Neave's Food, and they get on just the same as mine, and thank me for telling them." Mrs. Savery of Bristol.

WOMAN'S WORLD

FASHIONS ETIQUETTE RECEIPTS CHIT-CHAT

TRAGEDY OF WOMEN.

There is a woman, a plain, homely old woman, without one vestige of culture, or style, or anything that you consider smart, and that would make her interesting to you. Her eyes are faded, her hands are hard and work-knotted, her face is lined and wrinkled, her hair is gray and sparse, and she gathers it into a little knob, about the size of a walnut, at the back of her head.

She doesn't know how to dress or how to pick out clothes that would conceal her defects. She prefesr to sit in the kitchen, rather than in the parlor. She has no society small talk and her grammar is not always beyond reproach. At the table she likes to eat with her knife, and drink her tea out of the saucer.

She's just a plain, ordinary old woman. There are tens of thousands like her. Nothing to make you give her a second glance, or a second thought, unless you might happen to get a glimpse into her heart, and see there a tragedy that is as black and bitter as ingratitude and wasted love and effort can make one.

Years and years ago this old woman was a young woman, pretty and gay strong of body and strong of heart, and filled with the joy of living. She was poor and she married a man no better off than she was, but they both had youth, and health, and industry and ambition, and they set out working, shoulder to shoulder, to make their fortunes.

They began housekeeping in a couple of rooms, with scarcely a stick of furniture, but the young wife kept it as neat as wax and there was always a savory meal smoking hot, on the table when the husband came home from work.

Then the babies began coming—pitching over each others heels, so fast they came—until there were six of them, but neve ra one more than there was a welcome for in the mother's heart and a place for in the mother's arms.

These were the years in which the young woman turned into an old one before her time. This was when her upstanding young figure lost its elasticity, and her shoulders grew round and bent under the burden they bore. These were the years when the long night vigils she kept by sick beds, after a weary day, faded the blue out of her eyes. This was when the heat of the kitchen range burned the roses out of her cheeks.

People asked her why she did not keep her oldest girl home from school to help her, and why she did not put Johnny, who had grown to be a big lad, out to work; but the woman steadfastly refused to listen to such suggestions. In her soul she nourished a great ambition, towards which she struggled through sickness and pain with feet that faltered with weariness and bones that cried out for rest.

And this ambition was to give her children an education; to give them! How she sewed and mended and patched that they might not be shamed by their clothes, before their comrades.

But how hard she had to work to take care of them, for she was too poor to have any outside help! How she cleaned and scrubbed to keep the little home tidy! What long hours she bent over the washtub and the ironing board that they might be kept clean and sweet! How she stewed over the cook stove that cheap cuts of meat might be turned into appetizing and flourishing dishes for advantages she herself had never had to raise them up above herself. Well she succeeded, as a woman always does when she gives her whole heart to a single object. She put her children through the grammar school, and the high school, and because education was her fetich, without almost incredible self-sacrifice, she put them through college.

As the result of all of her life's hard labor is that her children are ashamed of her.

They flout her opinions and deride her views. They criticize her grammar and correct her table manners. They sneer at her old-fashioned way of doing things, and she is without respect and without honor in her own home.

Worse, she is afraid of her children who gives themselves such airs of superiority. When they have company she meekly keeps in the background. Before she speaks she trembles lest her pronunciation should offend Mary's cultivated ear. She eats deprecatingly lest she be committing some breach of table etiquette, to which James should call attention. She quakes if she ventures to express an opinion, in dread of that contemptuous curl that John's lips will take over mother's ignorance.

None of her children's snubs are lost on the old woman. Everyone stabs down to the very spot where mother's love lives, and the wound bleeds in tears that water her pillow at night.

She wonders if her children know how cruel they are; if they realize how their criticisms hurt; if they cannot see that the reason she had no time to cultivate herself, to preserve her beauty, to learn how to dress, and play bridge, is because she gave every minute and hour, every ounce of strength and vitality that was in hre to their service, to securing to them advantages she had never had.

She laid herself a splendid sacrifice on the altar of motherhood, and those to whom she offered up herself, body and soul spurn the gift by which they profited.

Is this woman your mother, young man?

Is she your mother, young woman? Look into your own conduct and see; and if you have been in the habit of looking down upon mother, because she isn't so well educated as you are quit it, and try to pay some of the debts you owe to her.

Be sure of this—that when the roll of real heroes is written out, the names of those women who deliberately raised their own children up above themselves will lead all the rest.

THE MARVELLOUS POWER OF FRUIT

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" IS THE ONLY REMEDY MADE OF FRUIT

Fruit is nature's physician. Fruit juices increase the action of liver, bowels, kidneys and skin—and form the greatest known blood purifier. Physicians know, however, that it is impossible to use fresh fruit in practice.

"Fruit-a-tives" is made of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—which contain all the medicinal or healing properties of all fruits.

"Fruit-a-tives" is a true stomach tonic—a certain cure for Constipation and Biliousness—the best Kidney Regulator and Blood Purifying Medicine.

Canada as everybody knows is a very great food exporting country. We sent out in the year 1910 $21,607,692 worth of cheese, practically the whole of which was sent to the United Kingdom. We exported to the same destination $6,836,392 worth of bacon and ham. The wheat export of the Dominion of Canada which at confederation reached only 2,284,702 bushels, amounted in 1910 to no less than 49,741,350 bushels of which over 46,509,000 bushels was sent to Great Britain.

Our Canadian farmer is greatly interested in this export business and particularly in his connection with the British market, but it is not generally realized that this foreign or export market represents only a small part, not more than one fifth of the interest of the Canadian farmer as a producer. The statement has been very frequently made that 80 per cent of every thing that is grown upon our farms is consumed within our own borders. Some people have been inclined to challenge this. They have the general idea that the Canadian farmer is a grain grower and that Canada is a grain exporting country and have failed to appreciate the enormous growth of our own home consumption, and the vast quantity of farm produce that is necessarily consumed in a community of eight million people or by cities like Montreal and Toronto with about half a million of inhabitants each.

On examination there seems ample warrant for the statement that Canada consumes 80 per cent of this agricultural output. We may reach this result from the following calculations:

The Crop Bulletin for 1909 places the value of all the wheat, oats and barley grown in Canada that year at $289,144,000.00. To arrive at the home consumption of the crops we must deduct the net exports, i. e., the exports of such produce proper, less any imports entered for consumption. For the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1910, the exports (Canadian produce only) were:

Barley	$ 1,107,732
Oats	1,566,612
Wheat	52,609,351
Total	$55,283,695

For the same period the imports entered for consumption were:

Barley	$102,908
Oats	27,287
Total	$185,807

Deducting one from the other it leaves the net exports $55,097,888. The balance therefore, $234,046,112, or 81 per cent. of the whole, represents what was consumed by the home market.

It will be noticed that the above example deals only with three commodities, wheat, oats and barley. The computation which follows embraces all field crops.

According to the Bureau of Statistics, the total value of Canadian field crops for 1909 was $532,992,100. For the fiscal year ending 31st March, 1910, our exports of field produce (Canadian grown only) were:

To the Britith Empire	$76,427,447
To other countries	14,006,300
Total	$90,433,747

Of this $20,083,950 was exported in a manufactured state, (flour, oatmeal, etc.), leaving the exports of unmanufactured field products $70,349,788. But again, to arrive at the net exports we must deduct imports of unmanufactured field products valued at $12,601,742, bringing the final amount down to $57,748,046. From these statistics the home market appears to have consumed 89—1-5 per cent. of the total production.

Neither of the above illustrations takes cognizance of animal products, and in the absence of an annual inventory showing the value of our live stock, it is difficult to furnish satisfactory figures. The following comparison however, is suggestive. For the fiscal year ending 31st March, 1910, our exports of unmanufactured field products as shown above were $70,349,788; to this add our exports of animals and unmanufactured animal products, $43,900,000, and it shows our total exports of unmanufactured farm products to be $114,000,000. Lumping the two together they only amounted to 21 per cent. of the value of the field crop alone. As a matter of fact, the grain crop for last year of one province (Ontario) was worth $54,000,000 more than all the farm exports of the whole of Canada.

WHAT WAS DONE AT THE BLISS CONFERENCE AT MONTREAL

Pleasant Gathering at Montreal—How the Membere were Accomodated and What They Saw—Mount Royal, the French Quarter and Other Places of Interest Visited

Dear Mr. Editor,—

Permit me through the columns of your valuable paper to give a description of my trip to Montreal to attend the Bliss convention. The programme was fine and well carried out. Bliss agents arriving at any of the many railway stations or passenger wharves of the city of Montreal repaired at once to the home-like and refined St. Lawrence Hall which through good fortune and good management was secured as their temporary home during their stay while attending the convention. It is one of the modern hotel structures of Montreal, large, roomy, nicely furnished, and far-famed for the good things to eat. A representative of the Bliss Co., was on hand to greet arriving Bliss agents and to see that they were assigned to nice comfortable rooms. Each Bliss agent paid one dollar per day as his share of the hotel expenses. Although the rates at the hotel were much more than that the Home of Bliss provided the balance. This included room and meals and all the conveniences of this excellent hotel. The sight-seeing trips were so arranged as to permit of all meals being attended by Bliss agents at the hotel, the only meal which was taken away from the hotel being the convention lunch. A feature was the trip to the top of Mount Royal. This lunch was in the nature of a jolly outdoor picnic away high up on the mountain top above the city and the harbor and in view of the distant mountain peaks of the Adirondacks.

The Montreal Home of Bliss was decorated from top to bottom in its gala attire ready for the coming conventioners. Here Bliss agents spent many an interesting hour observing the working of this busy branch. The front of the main floor is occupied by offices and in the rear was seen the printing department where the Bliss almanac is printed in both French and English. Bliss note-books are produced here also. On the floor below are the laboratories which open out onto Commissioner Street, from which the shipments of the Bliss Co. are forwarded to all parts of the Dominion During convention days the Home of Bliss was the scene of many an interesting gathering of Bliss agents who found this place one of the busiest in the old French quarter, now the commercial section of the city.

On Tuesday, July 18th, the morning hours witnessed the arrival of the delegates from all directions. However all assembled at St. Lawrence Hall as fast as they arrived and were provided for. By their badge they were known and accorded all the privileges secured for agent guests. The badge was a beauty of gold and yellow and black, about as big as a quarter.

After the getting acquainted had been thoroughly accomplished and Bliss agents came to know each other well, the sight-seeing carriages assembled and the tour of the city was begun. The old French quarter was visited, the business sections, and places of historical interest, etc. Photographs of the remarkable procession were taken so that the agents could secure a fine souvenir to send home. After this extended trip the return was made to the hotel where Bliss agents spent the evening, or going about as they choose.

Wednesday was the star day of the convention. At 10 o'clock sharp a special car was taken in front of the hotel to carry the agents to the foot of the incline railway at the base of Mount Royal and the agents were deposited 750 feet in the air on top of the great mountain in the heart of the city.

The return to the hotel was made at five o'clock and after dinner a special car was ready to take the agents to Dominion Park. The agents put in an interesting evening at this great amusement park, returning to the hotel in groups or singly at any time they liked. The following morning many show places were visited. At 3 p. m. a special car left the hotel for Lachine, a town nine miles distant from where the start was made from a beautiful park on the bank of the St. Lawrence River, to shoot the rapids of Lachine on the steamer Empress This long-to-be-remembered trip will occupy the minds of Bliss agents long after it is past for they all pronounced it a rare treat, and one filled to the brim with excitement. The return from Lachine marked the closing event of the convention, many agents leaving that night and the following morning for their respective depots.

Successfully Rescued

MR HARRY GIBSON, OF KINGSTON WAS RESCUED FROM AN ENEMY THAT HAD RELENTLESSLY PURSUED HIM FOR YEARS.

Mr. Gibson was born and brought up in Kingston. By profession he is a school teacher. He received his training in Queen's University, where he took a course in arts and medicine that well befits him to talk on almost any subject.

The enemy that for 25 years relentlessly pursued Mr. Gibson is a menace to our entire population—it is the demon, Catarrh.

Mr. Gibson says: "For years I was never free from Catarrh of the nose and throat. It bothered me winter and summer and kept me so continually hawking and coughing that I found it a great impediment to the proper performance of my duties at school I used every available means of obtaining a cure, took bottle after bottle of medicine prscribed by the local doctors, but never got more than temporary relief. I consulted a well-known specialist in the States, but after spending a considerable amount of money with him to no advantage was forced to look elsewhere for relief which I first received from Catarrhozone.

I consider Catarrhozone a genuine cure for Catarrh. It drove that loathsome disease completely out of my system, and to-day I am as well as if I never knew what the word Catarrh implied."

A straightforward proof of cure coming from a well-known gentleman like Mr. Gibson carries conviction of the fact that Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it. As a cure for Catarrh and Bronchitis it positively has no equal.

RATTLER IN LUNCH BASKET IS SUPRISE TO DINER

WILKES BARRE, July 29.—Noah McCluskey of Bear Run was badly frightened yesterday when he discovered he had been carrying a large rattlesnake for over a mile in a dinner basket. McCluskey is a foreman for the lumber king, Albert Lewis. He was inspecting some lumber tracts and carried his lunch in a basket.

After eating part of it he placed the basket in some underbrush. When he started home he swung the basket under his arm. He carried it a mile along the road when he felt a sudden commotion in the basket. He dropped the basket and was surprised to see a large rattlesnake roll out. He killed the reptle after a hard fight. It was over 4 feet and 6 rattles.

STAGE REALISM.

Clara Morris' Study of a Victim of Heart Disease.

No actress ever surpassed Clara Morris in the care with which she studied for a part. When she was studying the part of Cora in "Article 47," she visited an insane asylum in order to learn the signs of insanity. Cora was not only insane, but she was disfigured by a hideous scar as well. Miss Morris spent weeks in trying to secure a correct representation, and one day she saw in a street car a woman who had exactly that kind of disfigurement. She studied it and reproduced it, but her kindness of heart shrank from reproducing it in such fashion that the sufferer might recognize it if she ever saw the play. So she worked over it until she made enough alterations to feel certain that no one, not even the owner of the original scar, could ever suspect the imitation.

When she was studying the part of Miss Moulton, who was to die of heart disease, she visited a specialist who had a number of patients suffering from that trouble. He showed her one of his patients and then, to her surprise and horror, ran the sufferer up a flight of stairs that Miss Morris might see the symptoms as produced after an excitement of the heart. Miss Morris was filled with pain and pity. She made the poor patient a present of a bank bill as she was leaving. The woman accepted it and then as she was stuffing it into her glove caught sight of the figure on the note. The size was so large that it brought on a recurrence of all the symptoms—the starting eyes, the gasping breath, the widening nostrils. This time the heart excitement was caused by joy, not pain, but Miss Morris was so overcome with horror and sympathy that she hurriedly left the house.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Waterways of Canada.

Canada has 6,000 miles of waterways from the St. Lawrence to the Mackenzie, with only 150 miles of a hard break. The Mackenzie is with its tributaries, 2,500 miles long, equal to distance from Liverpool to Halifax, draining a region three times as large as France. The Saskatchewan is 1,600 miles long; the Columbia 1,400; the Churchill 1,000; the Fraser and the Red River each 650 miles. The Saskatchewan basin is as large as that of the St. Lawrence.

SERVANTS IN NORWAY.

A Place Where They Have Solved the Servant Problem.

In Norway they appear to have solved the servant problem to the satisfaction of both mistress and maid.

In such places as Bergen, Christiania and other large cities the municipal government takes entire charge of the matter. There is a central employment bureau under municipal control and twice a year—once in summer and once in winter dissatisfied servants can look out for new masters and mistresses, and dissatisfied employers can seek to improve their service. The mistress who wants a maid can go to it, fill in a form stating her requirements and the wages she is willing to pay and then leave all the rest to the bureau.

Her card is placed on file and the position she offers is posted in a conspicuous place on a blackboard. Men and women servants in want of work examine these cards, and, when they decide upon applying for any position, submit their recommendations to the bureau for examination. If these are satisfactory, the applicant receives a card to the prospective employer, available for one day only.

Should the lady hire the servant, she fills up the card with a list of the duties, wages and forms of service agreed upon and returns it to the bureau, where it is carefully filed for future reference if necessary.

If the applicant does not suit, the card is returned with "not satisfactory," which indicates that other applicants may be sent.

The Butter Trade of Canada.

In the year ending 1910 Canada shipped only 4,615,380 pounds of butter, worth $1,010,274. Canada's imports of butter on the other hand amounted to 687,454 pounds, dorth $104,301.

These imports into Canada last year are given below, with the rate of duty that had to be paid on coming into the country; and also with the changes in that rate which would be effected under Reciprocity.

Country	Quantity	Value	Rate of Duty	Rate under Reciprocity Agreement

	Toronto	New York.
Best Creamery Butter in prints, wholesale	20	.26½
Prime chickens	18 to .20	.15
Prim turkeys	20 " .22	.18
Ducks	18 " .20	.15 to 16
Geese	15 " .16	.14
Bacon	16 " .16½	.16½
Hams	13½ .15	.14

This is about all the attention some people attract: When their procession goes by, some people enquire: "Whose funeral?"

VALUE OF NIAGARA FRUIT TREES

Estimate of the Capital Investment Represented by the Fruit Industry of the Niagara Section.

It has been estimated that the farms of the Niagara district of Western Ontario represent an investment of more than $1,000 per acre. Such a statement seems at first sight rather surprising, but a careful examination of the facts of the case gives ample warrant for its truth. Let us take up a typical unit, a ten acre fruit farm, assuming that there is, besides, half an acre for the house and buildings.

First of all, 1,750 trees will be needed to plant it; these may be averaged at 25c. apiece, and if the average be a few cents too high let it be taken as including currants, berries, etc. This makes $437.50. If the trees were all perch, it would cost less, if cherries more; usually a mixed orchard is required by the soil.

Having got the trees, capital must be expended for several years without return before the trees begin to bear. Peaches bear at the fourth year, sweet cherries not till the eighth. Plums and other fruits in between. In the meantime crops can be grown between the trees. But in the first place, the whole surface cannot thus be used, not over half and generally only one-third, and in the second place, by so doing the trees will be very markedly kept back in their growth. We thus have from three to five acres of interim crops to help pay expenses. Hay and horse feed are dear in this part of the country; spraying and manuring cannot be left out.

We have then per annum:—

Keep of team and shoeing etc.	$250 00
Repairs	25 00
Man	350 00
Taxes and Insurances	50 00
Extra Help	50 00
Manure	50 00
Spraying	25 00
Picking, baskets, etc.	50 00
Depreciation of trees and replanting and depreciation of plant	50 00
	$900 00

It is assumed that there is a house for the man and farm buildings. Against this we make the very liberal assumption that the interim crops yield $400 per annum and we arrive at a net capital expenditure of $500 per year, or $1,500 in three years. The interest on this will be $80. For the succeeding three years it may safely be assumed that the farm will run behind and that at least $400 will have to be invested. It is at the same time assumed that the owner, if in residence and working, lives like a white man.

It may then be taken that the minimum expense for buildings, wells, and fences will be $2,000. The annual interest on which will be $120.

The farm equipment will be:—

Two horses	$400 00
Spray machine	100 00
Tools, etc.	325 00
Harness	50 00
Buggy or light wagon	75 00
	$950 00

The interest on this will be $57.

Thus we have:—

Trees, etc.	$ 438 00	$ 78 00
Expenses 3 years, net	1,500 00	180 00
Farm plant	$ 950 00	$171 00
Buildings, etc.	2,000 00	360 00
Interest	789 00
	$5,677 00	$789 00
Expenses next 3 years	400 00
	$6,077 00

Or, in fact, $607 per acre capital expended, making, with land at $500, $1,107 per acre capital used in creating a fruit farm.

This estimate, taken in connection with the existing acreage of the fruit farms of the district, indicates a total capitalization of about $110,000,000.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

LEANS TO OPPOSITION

Bourassa Expected to Support Conservative Candidates.

Where No Nationalists Are Running, Quebec Party Will Vote For Opposition Men—Langlois Kickers Are Still After Dandurand—No Government Acclamations Will Be Allowed By French Party.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—The organization of the two parties is now well under way, although the Government have done nothing to satisfy the Langlois kickers, who ask that Senator Dandurand shall be replaced or assisted, so that the Liberal committee may be more representative.

The Nationalists are out against Laurier all along the line, and Le Devoir publishes a furious article entitled, "The End of a Regime," declaring that if Sir Wilfrid dissolved Parliament it was solely to escape the results of the Oliver investigation or to get away from answering questions re the Imperial Conference.

It is understood that Bourassa and his friends will support the Conservative candidates where there are no Nationalist standard-bearers, and there will be no acclamations on the Government side of the fence.

Murphy May Be Opposed.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—Louis Cousineau, a Hull barrister, may run in the Nationalist interests in Wright County, in opposition to C. B. Major.

Hon. Charles Murphy may be opposed in the Russell Liberal convention by George McLaurin, an Ottawa barrister, who is a resident of the county. McLaurin was the Liberal nominee at the last general election, but stepped down to give the then new Secretary of State a safe seat.

Hon. Robert Rogers Undecided.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—Hon. Robert Rogers of Manitoba arrived in this city last night, after having had a conversation with R. L. Borden in Ottawa. He intimated that he would shortly leave the provincial for the federal arena, and that if the Conservatives won the next elections he would be found on the Treasury benches. He stated that if the redistribution bill had been passed before dissolution he would have accepted a Manitoba nomination for Ottawa, but that at present he did not know exactly what position he would take. This depended largely upon the future conference with Premier Roblin. He will return to Manitoba immediately to take part in the Conservative conventions.

J. Nunan Will Oppose Paterson.

Brantford, Aug. 1.—Brantford Conservatives will nominate a candidate on Aug. 12 for the Dominion election. In all likelihood W. F. Cockshutt will be the choice of the party.

Rumor has it that Lloyd Harris, the sitting member, who strongly opposed the reciprocity pact, will receive the Liberal nomination.

In Brant constituency J. Nunan, a successful farmer, is slated to oppose Hon. William Paterson, and the Conservative are confident of defeating the Minister of Customs.

Abbey, the Painter, Dying.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—A cablegram received yesterday by his brother, William Abbel, states that Edwin A. Abbey, the painter, is dying in London. The message, which was sent from London, contained but two words, "Ed. dying." William Abbey, who is a resident of Mount Holly, N.J., but in business in Philadelphia, said yesterday that his brother had been ailing for some time.

Abbey's picture of the Coronation of King Edward was at Toronto Exhibition some five years ago.

London, Aug. 1.—Mrs. E. A. Abbey, wife of the painter, said yesterday that the condition of her husband, who has been in ill-health for some time, was very grave and caused great anxiety. Further than this she did not wish to discuss the illness.

Early Closing Figures.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—After a lengthy report was presented to the authorities yesterday when Chief of Police Campeau produced a document and statistics to show that since the laws for earlier closing of saloons went into effect, May 1, drunkenness had been far more prevalent in Montreal than ever before.

For example, figures for June showed five times the number of cases of drunkenness calling for police intervention this June were double those requiring similar attention in June, 1910.

The blow was somewhat softened, however, by the statement that police cases in general had somewhat increased in number, and that this was doubtless due to the increase in the population of the city.

Whisky Put Him Bad.

Hamilton, Aug. 1.—Francis Pennington, a prominent member of the Wentworth Baptist Church, who, while under the influence of liquor, stole a number of small articles out of a department store here, was remanded for sentence yesterday after Rev. Mr. Quarrington and other church members pleaded for leniency.

Dies From Injuries.

Chatham, Aug. 1.—Murray C. Hogarth, the man who was thrown from his motor cycle on a speed trip from Tilbury to Chatham, died in the Public General Hospital Sunday night. His spine was fractured, and he was paralyzed from his hips down. His trip was being made on a bet as to the speed of his motor cycle.

Tariff Reformers Deny Rumor.

London, Aug. 1.—Te Tariff Reform Association has issued a denial of the story that they are sending contributions to the Canadian Conservative campaign fund to fight reciprocity.

FIRE SWEPT FARNHAM.

Entire Business Section Wiped Out Sunday Night.

Farnham, Que., Aug. 1.—Fire destroyed the entire business centre of the town Sunday night, causing a total loss of probably a quarter million.

The blaze originated in a warehouse back of the fire station, about 10.30 p.m., and spreading to adjoining sheds and wooden buildings, got beyond control. Assistance was immediately asked from St. Johns, Montreal and Sherbrooke.

The St. Johns' fire brigade was the first on the scene and did good work checking the fire on Main street, near the Montcalm Hotel on one side of the street and D. B. Meigs' private residence on the other side.

The burnt area covers from the postoffice down to the river on both sides of Depot street, and from the Montcalm Hotel on the south side of Main street to St. Vincent street, and from D. B. Meigs' residence on the north side of the street to the bridge.

The Eastern Township Bank building, which was in the burnt district, is the only building standing, and has not been damaged to any great extent. On arrival of the Montreal and Sherbrooke fire engines the progress of the fire was soon stopped and it was under control at 4 a.m.

The death of Robert R. Ritchie, sheriff of the City and County of St. John, occurred yesterday in the General Hospital, following a severe fracture of the base of the skull, sustained on Sunday by falling down stairs.

Souvenir-Hunting Riot.

New York, Aug. 1.—Souvenir hunters nearly broke up the ceremonies that accompanied the beginning of work on the new subway yesterday. Workmen had loosened a little square of asphalt on Lexington avenue, under which the new line will run, and Public Service Commissioner Willcox was preparing to lift the first shovelful of earth with a silver spade when several thousand enthusiasts swept away the small police guard.

After the reserves had brought order out of the mob, the ceremony was continued, but the first earth was not lifted with a silver spade. It was scooped out of the hole by dozens of unofficial hands while the police fought to keep the city officers and others scheduled to perform the ceremony from being swept off their feet.

When the ceremonies began again the hole was several inches deep, while the crowd continued outside the police lines to scramble for the cubic foot or more of earth gathered by the more energetic of the souvenir hunters.

No arrests were made and nobody was badly hurt, although four women fainted and the police captain had the badge snatched from his cap, also as a souvenir.

Successful Leper Treatment.

Washington, Aug. 1.—So successful have been the operations of the American leper settlement on the Island of Celion in the Philippines, that the British Government has formally requested permission to transport to that place for treatment about forty lepers now at British North Borneo.

It will be impossible for this Government to grant the request, as the United States laws prohibiting the entry of such afflicted persons operates in the Philippines by special enactment.

Had Perilous Voyage.

Portland, Me., Aug. 1.—After three days' almost ceaseless work at the pumps to prevent their vessel from foundering, the crew of the little schooner J. Arthur Lord, brought their battered craft into this port late yesterday.

The schooner sailed from St. John for New York Thursday, with lumber. Her seams opened, the drinking water gave out and for two days the crew lived on only a few dried biscuits.

Conspiracy Charge Dismissed.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—After a lengthy hearing yesterday the charge of conspiracy to defraud the Traders' Bank of $7,600 against W. H. McBeth and F. M. McKeown, was dismissed by the magistrate. The court, however, held the accused for trial on the charge of obtaining the money with intent to defraud.

100 Passengers In Peril.

The passengers, it is reported, were all safely landed.

Drought Closes Cotton Mills.

MURDERER STILL FREE

Frank Griccio Is Wanted For Killing Tarro.

Toronto Police Are Guarding Every Exit From the City and Are Tightening the Coils on Author of Sunday's Crime—Men Had Had Quarrel Either Over Money or a Woman—Griccio Carried Revolver.

Toronto, Aug. 1.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Frank Griccio on a charge of murdering Frank Tarro at the corner of Front and Church streets on Sunday afternoon. Griccio for the past two years has lived with a young French woman named Rosa Brunet at 175 Jarvis street, who gave evidence at the inquest last evening to the effect that Griccio and Tarro had quarreled on more than one occasion, and that he carried a revolver of 38 calibre because he feared a man whom he did not like.

Griccio has been in the hands of the police before on a charge of having stolen property.

It is said that the trouble was due to money matters, and that Tarro was deeply in debt to the accused. Yet another story is to the effect that a woman is at the bottom of the case, and that Griccio and Tarro were rivals.

FRANK CRICCIO.

It appears that Tarro and Griccio set out from the restaurant on York street to meet in a duel, but changed their minds and returned to the boarding house good friends. They started out again, and the next heard of them at the York street house was that Tarro had been murdered.

So far there is no trace of Griccio, though fifty telegrams and pamphlets have been sent broadcast by the detective department. Word has been sent to nearly every place where it is thought the criminal might take refuge.

All last night the police and detective force was keeping a strict watch of the exits from the city and a constant watch has been kept on some Italian houses where it was thought the assassin might be concealed.

The disappearance of Griccio, the police believe, is good evidence against him. He has not appeared since the time he and Tarro left the restaurant in the afternoon, and yesterday morning Rosa Brunet set out in search of him. She called at the restaurant in York street, and the only reply given by the numerous men she enquired of was that he had not been seen. She returned to her room on Jarvis street and was not informed of the murder until a detective arrived in the afternoon and had her accompany him to Court street station.

"He (Graccio) always carried a revolver," said Rosa Brunet, at the inquest. He told me that there was one man in Toronto that he was afraid of, and that it was better to shoot him than to be shot. He was afraid that he would be shot in the back some day."

About three weeks ago he had some words with Tarro, but nothing to fight about. After that the two were good friends. Tarro's brother was a particular friend of Griccio.

"I last saw Griccio about 11 o'clock Sunday morning," she stated. "He had been with me all night, and left me to go to an Italian restaurant at 160 York street, where he always ate. I always eat at an American restaurant. He was dressed in a blue suit, wearing a black Christie and tan shoes."

In response to a query from Mr. Monahan she stated that she did not know his present whereabouts. She had enquired at the Italian restaurants he patronized, but they had not seen him since Sunday noon.

Griccio had been a barber by trade, and for some time did odd days' work at 174 York street. On Friday he drew his money from the Imperial Bank, but the witness declared that she knew nothing of this.

Fourteen Killed In Riot.

El Oro, State of Mexico, Aug. 1.—In repelling a mob of striking miners, who yesterday freed the prisoners in the jail, troops fired into the crowd, killing fourteen and wounding others.

More than 4,000 men representing the underground forces of the Mexico and La Esparanza mines, are out. If these men should be joined by those in El Oro, the number of strikers would number 7,000. They demand higher wages.

One hundred soldiers were sent from the state capital to El Oro yesterday afternoon. It is expected that 1,000 soldiers will be here to-day from the capital.

837 Children Died.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—For the month of July the total deaths numbered 1,175, and of these 837 deaths were those of children under five years of age, is the effect of a report presented yesterday at the City Hall. The health officials say that this showing is the worst in the history of the city.

RAID AT WOODSTOCK.

Prominent Business Men Caught at Poker Game.

Woodstock, Aug. 1.—Chief of Police Killing, accompanied by Constable Robertson of the city police force, paid an early morning visit to a Dundas street room about 1.30 yesterday morning and disturbed a quiet game of poker that had been started on Saturday evening, and which had extended into the Sabbath. As a result the names of fourteen men who were in the room at the time, and some of whom are prominent business men of the city were taken, and they in all probability will be asked to appear before the magistrate at an early date.

The raid by the police was entirely unexpected, and resulted in considerable consternation to the members of the party. The police are not talking for publication for some reason or other, but it is understood that quite a little layout was confiscated, including some of the tell-tale chips. The loose change on the table was gathered in by the players.

The raid was carefully planned by Chief Killing, who had received a tip that there was a joint in operation, and the officers effected their entrance to the room by creeping up the back stairs in their stocking feet.

HAITIAN REVOLUTION.

President Simon Has Not Quit Capital Yet—Rebels Outside.

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Aug. 1.—Some excitement was caused here yesterday by an unfounded report of the embarkation of President Simon, who on the contrary has decided to resist the revolutionists to the last. The Government has organized a defence of the capital. The public continues alarmed, and awaits with impatience the announced coming of ships of war representing the different nations.

Gabried Sylvain, a cousin of the Minister of the Interior, was yesterday made prefect of police in succession to Ferdinand, who after being accused of conspiring in the interests of Gen. Firmin, one of the revolutionary leaders, sought refuge in the French legation to avoid arrest. During the night several persons attempted incendiarism, but were surprised and fired upon by a military patrol, under command of Minister Sylvain.

The "17 Decembre" arrived here yesterday. The position of the revolutionists remains unchanged, their forces being held chiefly to the north of the city. Sunday the President appeared in the streets for the purpose of calming and re-assuring the populace.

Husband and Child Missing.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—Her husband gone and her 2 1-2-year-old son also vanished, Mrs. Charles O'Neill of 311 Cadieux street, is crushed under a double load of sorrow.

A week ago Charles O'Neill, vendor of small wares, was lost to sight. On Saturday afternoon the little son begged a penny to buy ice cream. He toddled off to make the purchase and has not been seen since.

Two or three days after her husband had failed to return, Mrs. O'Neill received word from Kingston that her husband was being detained in that city.

She communicated with the municipal authorities, but her letter could hardly have left the city when she received another from Toronto, stating that her wandering husband was there, also under detention.

Since then the distracted woman has had no word which might give her a clue as to the whereabouts of her husband, whom she hopes will return to help her seek her baby.

Duties Removed From Coal.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—With a view to relieving the situation as it has developed in the Canadian west in consequence of the prolonged cessation of operations at the coal mines in southern British Columbia and Alberta, an order-in-council was passed by the Government yesterday, providing that on and after Aug. 7 next, duties should be removed on all coal imported into Canada at the ports on the southern frontier west of Sault Ste. Marie, for consumption in British Columbia (east of the 122nd meridian of longitude), and in the Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Sticks to His Post.

London, Aug. 1.—Although he had engaged passage to New York for himself and wife on board the steamer Lusitania, which sailed last Saturday, the Earl of Cranard was compelled to stay here. The countess sailed alone. The Earl was compelled to forego the trip in order that he may be present to help pass the veto bill through the House of Lords. The fact that he holds a political appointment as master-of-the-horse in the King's household obligates him to the Government.

No Definite Date.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—In reference to the statement that the Duke of Connaught will arrive at Quebec, Oct. 13, it was learned from Major Trotter, A.D.C., that no official notice has yet been received. Major Trotter stated, however, that he had heard of the report to the effect that the duke was to sail on Oct. 6, but that no preparations would be entered upon until official notification is received.

Edward Emery Dead.

London, Ont., Aug. 1.—S. W. Emery, vice-president of the Loan & Debenture Co., and prominently identified with the financial circles of the county, died at Victoria Hospital yesterday. He had been ill some time. Edward O. Emery of Edmonton, a prominent lawyer of the west, and his son are in the city.

"Wire Pool" Fines.

VETO BILL POSTPONED

It Will Not Reappear Now For Another Week.

Insurgents and Stand-Pat Unionists Seem to Be Getting Over Their Split and Both Factions Will Meet To-night at a Dinner, Where Balfour Is Expected to Pour Oil on the Waters—Tension Is Lessening.

London, Aug. 1.—The political crisis over the veto bill has undergone a slight modification, as the Cabinet yesterday decided to postpone the reappearance of the bill before the House of Commons until August 7.

Present anticipations point to the healing of the breach in the Unionist ranks. Lord Lansdowne and his followers, who favor the bill, and the Halsburyites, who are opposed to it, will meet to-night in full force at a complimentary dinner to the Unionist party's late whip, Sir Alexander Ackland Hood, who is now known as Lord St. Audries.

At this dinner Mr. Balfour, the leader of the Opposition, is expected to make a speech in an effort to pave the way for a modus vivendi between the opposing sections of the party. As a matter of fact both sides appear to be tending to this direction. Lord Willoughby de Broke, who is organizing the insurgents, yesterday for the first time admitted that his party had gained no accessions in strength.

Lord Lansdowne last night issued a letter discountenancing the idea of any Unionist peers voting in the Government lobby for the veto bill. This belated decision on the part of Lord Lansdowne probably means that he has secured sufficient support to make the Halsburyites powerless against the votes of the Liberal peers, and that therefore there is no longer any necessity for Viscount St. Aldwyn to come to the Government's assistance, as it was rumored he would do by taking into the Government lobby sufficient Unionist peers to out vote the Halsburyites in case they challenged a division.

That the tension has lessened is shown by the fact that King George has decided to remain at Cowes for the rest of the week. There is still a strong belief in the lobbies of Parliament, however, that Premier Asquith, in order to guard against uprises, will nominate a batch of about fifty peers before again trusting the veto bill to the House of Lords.

Ex-Shah Invades Persia.

Teheran, Persia, Aug. 1.—The Ex-Shah Mohammed Ali Marzi left Astrabad Sunday with an overwhelming force, and is now marching on Teheran. There is much apprehension here that the ex-Shah's attempt to regain the throne will succeed. The Government is without power to suppress the Anarchistic conditions which prevail throughout the country.

CITY AND SCHOOL TAX RATES ARE REDUCED

for that amount be passed, but not until late in the year.

Mr. W. P. Hudson, chairman of the Board of Education, addressed the Council. He said the Board were contemplating building two schools and it was necessary to secure $35,000 to complete the two schools. They were an asset to the city. The present schools were overcrowded and new schools had to be built. He appealed to the Council to grant the request made. The assessment was increasing and the cost to the ratepayers would not be great.

Mr. Wm. Johnson said that in educational matters Belleville was on a higher status now than before. He hoped the Council would assist the Board of Education.

Col. Ponton said the members of the Board were unanimous in this requisition and it would not affect the estimates this year as the by-law would not be in effect until later in the year. The speaker said the Board had purchased two beautiful sites for the proposed schools. The tenders for the proposed schools was $91,000 and $35,000 additional was necessary to erect these schools. The Board was composed of tax payers of the city. He asked the Council to pass a resolution granting the sum asked for, and he had no doubt their action would be endorsed by the citizens.

Mr. J. F. Wills said the matter before the Board now was finances When the Board started out to build the new schools it was proposed to build two 8-room schools, but the attendance was increasing to such an extent that 10 and 11 room schools had to be built. A leading architect in school buildings was secured to prepare plans for the buildings. The buildings, it was thought at one time could be built for $3,000 per room but the cost will be about $3,700 per room. We are getting up to date buildings. He hoped the Council would pass the necessary resolution so that the contract can be gone on with immediately.

Ald. Lott asked if it would not be a good idea to build one school, say in Bleecker Ward.

Mr. Wills—If this were done it would not relieve the overcrowded conditions which exist. Two buildings will have to be erected.

Ald. Adams asked the members of the Board what they expected to realize by the sale of the old schools

Mr. Ponton said that $4,000 had to provided for to pay the architect.

Ald. Bogle said good schools were wanted, and the children were entitled to the best buildings that can be erected.

Ald. Woodley stated that the Council would deal with the matter.

Ald. Vermilyea moved that the prayer of the petition be granted.

Ald. Cannig said three or four year ago the ratepayers were asked to vote on a by-law to grant $7,000 for three schools, but the ratepayers wisely or unwisely voted it down. There was no school mentioned for West Belleville. He thought before any more money is granted it should be submitted to the ratepayers first. He would vote against the proposition after the Council had granted $65,000.

Ald. McGie said it was a disgrace for the children of the city to be compelled to go to school in the present school buildings, which he claimed were a menace to the health of the children. Many of the members of the Board of Education were heavy tax payers. The trouble was that the Board in the past had been too penurious. This extra $35,000 would not affect the estimates for this year.

Mayor Ackerman said he received a shock the other evening when he saw the school board wanted another $35,000, but he could not go back on the Board in this matter.

Ald. Panter said he would vote for the motion.

Ald. Chown spoke in favor of the motion.

Ald. St. Charles said he was ashamed of the Public schools of Belleville and he would vote for the requisition

Upon a vote being taken the motion of Ald. Vermilyea prevailed; Ald Clarke; Gibson, and Canning voting against it.

Mr. Wills thanked the Council for the grant asked for.

A motion prevailed to grant the request to open up Mulberry street across W. C. Reid's property on Dundas street.

TURNBULL STREET.

A motion prevailed that the Clerk give the usual notice that this street will be opened on the local improvement plan.

A petition for a sewer on Bleecker Avenue north of Pine street was presented, and on motion the petition was granted on condition that a frontage tax is paid by those whose property abuts the sewer.

C.N.O.R. CHEQUE.

A cheque for $15,000 signed by Mackenzie and Mann was presented to the Council for the payment of the isolation hospital pudchased by the C N.O.R.

At this stage of the proceedings the time of the Council was extended five hours.

Ald. Clarke moved that the Mayor and Treasurer sign the deed and that the money be used to retire the isolation hospital debentures issued to erect the building, and the balance to go to general purposes.—Carried.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

The Trenton Electric & Water Co. wrote the Council in reference to giving the city some free lights.—Referred to the Light and Parks Committees.

A communication was received from F. S. Wallbridge stating that the city was encroaching upon Mrs. Wallbridge's property near the quarry.—Referred to the Public Works Committee.

ASKED FOR REDUCTION.

The Thompson Co., wrote the Council asking that the assessment on their factory on Station street at the Junction of Canifton Road be $3,000 per year, as was intimated would be the assessment. It had been raised to over $4,000 this year.

Mr. Wm. Thompson addressed the Council. He said the firm was not asking for a bonus, but asked that the assessment be $3,000, the price paid for the premises.

Ald. Clarke moved that this matter be referred to the Court of Revision with a request that Court fix the assessment at $3,000.—Carried.

The Committee rose and reported The report was received and adopted

ENQUIRIES.

Ald. Bogle asked if Gordon street was going to be graded.

Ald. Panter—It will be attended to

Ald. Canning—Has the C.N.O.R purchased any extra land near the bay bridge road?

Ald. Parks—The railway purchased a lot from Mr. Bull.

Ald. Adams—Is there any remedy for the damage done to the water and gas pipes on Front street?

City Engineer—The contractor is responsible for all damages to water and gas pipes.

Ald. Gibson—Has the contractor been paid for the floor placed in No 2 fire hall?

THE ESTIMATES.

On motion the Council went into Committee of the Whole on estimates Ald. McGie in the chair.

Ald. Vermilyea, chairman of the Executive Committee, said this was a critical period in the city's history The Committee had under all circumstances struck the rate at 25 mills namely, 18 mills for general raets, and 7 mills for High and Public schools The Board of Education had offered to take off one half mill which would give the city, $2,432, which amount he would suggest be distributed to the various committees and still leave the rate 25 mills.

On motion of Ald. Clarke the estimates were taken up, item by item He contended that the hydrant rental of $7,100 could be lowered. He moved $3,000 and that the remaining $4,100 $3,000 aid that the remaining $4,100 be divided as follows: contingent $800; fire, $1,000; light and parks $500; public works, $600; and market and city property, $1,200. This would enable the rate to be lower.

Ald. Chown and Ald. Vermilyea spoke in support of the hydrant rental remaining as placed in the estimates

Ald. Panter thought the rental could be lowered, but not to the extent advocated by Ald. Clarke. We want a reduction in the rate of taxation.

Ald. Bogle moved in amendment that the hydrant rental be reduced by $2,000 and that the $2,000 be divided as follows: contingent, $500; public works, $500; fire, $500 and the industrial and printing committee $500.

Ald. Cannig wanted the fire committee's appropriation increased $1000 and this was necessary.

Ald. Chown said that the Water Works Committee would agree to a reduction of $2,000 if the rate was made lower, namely, 24 mills.

A motion prevailed that the hydrant rental be $5,000 and that the $2,1000 be apportioned by the Council where considered necessary.

Considerable discussion took place as to giving an extra grant to the Public Works. A motion prevailed to give the Committee $500 extra.

An extra grant of $1,000 was given to the Fire Committee and $400 to the Market and City Property Committee.

A motion prevailed that the general rate be 18 mills; school rate 6 1-2 mills —making a total of 24 1-2 mills.

The estimates were then adopted being as follows:

AN EXPANDING MARKET

Canada's demand for eggs is rapidly curtailing export.

Because of the steady increase in the consumptive demands of Canadians, the export trade of the Dominion in eggs has dwindled from nearly twelve million dozen in 1902 to less than a hundred thousand dozen in the fiscal year ending March 1911. There has been with this decrease in exports a corresponding increase in imports, especially from the United States. Our imports for consumption in 1902 were 772,572 dozen, and in 1911 the amount imported was 2,378,640 dozen. In spite of the protective duty of 3 cents per dozen Canada's demand for eggs is so great that she is importing about twenty-five times as many eggs as she is exporting.

Didn't Get Trip to Europe.

Montreal, July 28.—Miss Irene Joly, principal of the Institute Stenographique de France, has taken an action against the newspaper La Presse, for the amount of $475, with interest and costs.

The newspaper La Presse organized in January last a contest in which a trip to Europe was granted to the winner of each district. Miss Joly claims to have a majority of 1,919,200 votes, and alleges that another young lady had been illegally elected the winner of her district.

A pedigree hog was killed by an American railroad and a jury awarded $10,000 damages. And you couldn't get that for ten dead section men.

LOOKING FOR A BOMB

The Passengers Found the Engineer Under His Engine

An extraordinary incident has occurred on one of the suburban railroad lines. Growing anxious, owing to a long wait between two stations, the passengers got out of the train to investigate, and found the engine-driver lying on his back under the engine. In reply to questions, he declared that he believed a bomb had been placed under the engine, and that he intended to find it before it could do any mischief. The unfortunate man, who had completely lost his senses, was removed to an asylum.

BOXING

There was a good attendance at the Meyers-Harris bout in Alberta Hall last night, but the affair was a great disappointment. Harris could neither hit, stop, nor get away, and was in no respect a contender at any time. From the first he evidenced an affection for the floor, and might have been put away at any moment. Meyers "played easy" in the third round, but in the fourth round Harris took the count and a disgusted audience left the arena. Meyers was not to blame for the fiasco. He is a hard man to beat, and he could not help outclassing the imported incompetent.

NEW YORK POLICE ARE MYSTIFIED

Seven Dismembered Bodies in Nine Days—Mysterious Crimes

NEW YORK, July 31.—The finding during the last nine days of seven pieces of dismembered human bodies, one of which was from a woman, has mystified the police of New York and surrounding cities, who believe they may indicate that a series of mysterious crimes have been committed. Until the trunk of the woman, deadless and limbless, was taken from the water the police were inclined to think that the parts of bodies were dismembered in the Cummunipaw explosion last winter. Now they are inclined to believe a problem far more dense than the famous old Guldensuppe mystery is presented for solution.

On July 20 the head, trunk and right arm of a man was found in the upper bay. On July 21 the left foot of a man was picked up off the Battery, and the same afternoon a right foot and leg were found near the same spot. All were from different bodies. Each day until Thursday some pieces of bodies have been picked up. In one case, that of the woman's torso, the remains were wrapped in canvas and bagging. Unfortunately, the crew of the tug which took the body from the water failed to keep the wrappings, which would have proved a formidable clue.

According to Coroner Converse, of Hoboken, and County Physican Hutchinson, examination of this trunk indicates that the limbs and head were hacked and sawed off. One leg, which apparently belonged to this body, is also at the Hoboken morgue, and from certain marks on it the police are hopeful they can have it identified.

ANGRY SAMOAN WOMEN

Armed With Whips and Sticks They Attacked a Male Critic

The latest news from the South Seas brings a story which illustrates, in a fashion at once comic and serious, the chief difficulty of the German empire-builder in Samoa, to wit, the readiness of the German settler to intermarry with the native women. The white population of the German colony is about five hundred, and there are already about eleven hundred half-castes. Of the twenty married German officials, no fewer than twelve have Samoan wives. As the native girls nearly always speak English and refuse to learn German, the frequency of these mesalliances causes particular disquiet in colonial circles in the Fatherland. In April last a German settler named Michaelis took it into his head to express these truths in a letter to the colonial newspaper, adding that quite apart from race considerations the Samoan women made inefficient and unworthy wives. Seldom has an author had a more gratifying proof of his power to arouse interest and inspire action. The very next morning a deputation of several hundred Samoan women of various shades waited upon him armed with whips, sticks, and gardening tools. The police were just in time to rescue Michaelis by taking him into custody. But the dusky amazons scored in spite of the police, for the authorities had to bundle their calumniator out of the island as the only means of preventing serious trouble.

COMMERCIAL MAN ROBBED ON TRAIN

An Indian Named Sero Accused of the Crime and Sent up for Trial

Last evening Mr. R. J. Littlejohn a commercial traveller whose home is in Gananoque, was enroute eastward on a G.T.R. train, when a valise and rubber coat belonging to him were stolen off the train. At Marysville station Mr. Littlejohn went into the smoking department and when Belleville was reached he went after his belongings, and was surprised to find that they had disappeared. He reported the matter to the local police and it was ascertained that a party had left the train at Shannonville and took with him a valise and coat. County Constable Steele, of Shannonville, was notified of the affair with the result that he placed under arrest an Indian named William Sero, and also recovered the missing property. Sero was brought before Mr. Mayell J. P., at Shannonville this morning and was commiteed for trial on the charge of theft. Later the accused was brought to the city and placed in the county jail.

Disfigured for Life

A Reading girl named Alice Prew was awarded $2,000 damages at Berks Assizes at Reading against Mr. G. Male, a Reading veterinary surgeon, for injuries received by being knocked down by a motor-car while she was cycling. The girl sustained a fractured jaw and has been disfigured for life.

PASTOR RUSSELL'S SERMON

GALESBURG, Ill. July 30.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn, and also of London delivered addresses to large audiences at the Galesburg Chautauqua today. His topics were "Where are the Dead?" and "The Judgment of the Great White Throne." We report the former. Each address lasted for nearly two hours, but so deeply interested were the audiences that they seemed not to note the digint of time. He said:—

No other question could be of deeper interest to thinking people than the one now before us—"Where are the dead?" Our ancestors, our neighbors, our friends are dead or dying and ourselves with them. What will be our condition when the spark of life flickers out? I have no new revelation on this subject I have merely for my guide what is recognized by all Christians as the divine revelation on this subject—the bible. I hold that there is no other source of information comparable to it.

He examined carefully the Catholic view and stated that neither mind nor heart could accept the view of a long period of purgatorial suffering for the many and eternal torture for the incorrigible. He also examined the Protestant view and although himself a Protestant, pronounced it the most diabolical upon the face of the earth.

The bible confirms the ablest findings of science when it tells us that the dead are dead and not alive at all, anywhere. The scriptures declare, "The dead know not anything;" "their sons come to honor and they know it not; they come to dishonor but they perceive it not of them." "Again the bible says: "There is neither wisdom nor device, nor knowledge in the grave (sheol the bible hell) whither thou goest" (Ecclesiastes ix, 10).

Where my dear friends, is the key to the whole problem? The bible hell is the grave, sheol, hades, the death state. The salvation which God has provided is the salvation from sin and from death. The hope set before us in the gospel is—the resurrection of the dead. If nobody dies there can be no resurrection of the dead. It is not the body which dies that God has promised shall be resurected, but the soul. It was not Adam's body merely that was punished with death, but it was his soul, which involved the body and every power Adam possessed. All of his children have shared with him his fall, in his death.

God's provision for the salvation of mankind is that "as by man came death (not eternal torment), by a man (the man Christ Jesus) comes also the resurrection of the dead. For as all in Adam die, so all in Christ shall be made alive" (I Corinthians xv, 22).

Not only do the scriptures clearly set forth that the wages of sin is death and thatand that death passed upon the entire human race (Romans v, 12) but they also set forth that the redemption price which Jesus gave was this death. "He poured out His soul unto death;" He made his soul an offering for sin (Isaih liii, 10, 12.)

As a result, in due time there will be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust. By the just is meant those justified and brought into harmony with God through faith in Jesus. By the unjust is meant all others. Thus the church will share in the first resurrection with Christ; these are the elect of the scriptures. Their resurrection and complete change of nature has already begun in them through the begetting of the holy spirit

They will be like the angels and like Christ, who is the express image of the Father' person. Like God and the angels they, as spirit beings, will be invisible to mankind. These with their lord and head will set up the Kingdom of God—the Messianic Kingdom. "They will reign and live in Christ a thousand years." These are the saintly ones, a class recognized by Catholics as Protestants, by Luther, Calvin and Wesley. All are agreed respecting such a class. The entire point of discrimination is respecting the masses of our race for whom Christ died and for whom the various creeds provide torments untellable and unthinkable.

Do not the scriptures repeatedly tell you that the dead fall asleep? St. Paul writes of those who fall asleep in the Christ; and again, of those who sleep in Jesus; and again that all would sleep except those saints who would be changed in a moment, at the second coming of Messiah. Do not we read that St. Stephen, stoned to death, fell asleep? Did not Jesus say, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth," and he subsequently explains His meaning—"Lazarus is dead!" Do we not read that "Abraham slept with his fathers," and so of the kings and the prophets and all, good and bad? Abraham's fathers, being heathen men, none will claim that they sleep in heaven. Our Catholic friends will not claim that they sleep in purgatory, and surely nobody could claim they sleep in eternal torture. Where, then do they sleep, and for how long? The bible answers, "They that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake" (Daniel xii, 2). The bible tells us that the weeping, sighing and dying of the present time, of this present dark night, will give place to the glorious morning—the mornig of the Messianic reign of glory for the blessing of all mankind.

Pastor Russell disclaimed universalism; he cannot find it in the bible, else he would preach it. He finds the bible to teach a universal opportunity for salvation and everlasting life, but that the gift of God, eternal life, will be given only to those who will avail themselves of the opportunity. Upon all others will come the wages of sin, namely death. Those who sin wilfully, preferring wrong to right, after being granted full opportunity for reformation, will be destroyed in the second death, utterly, as Peter declares, "like natural brute beasts" (II Peter ii, 12.)

It was not in vain that the Redeemer taught us to pray, "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." That glorious day will come when the prophet declares, "Every knee shall bow and every tongue confess Messiah; and when the knowledge of the Lord shall fill the whole earth."

CANADIANS IN CHICAGO PLAN CLUB MERGER

DETROIT, July 30.—A club-house to cost $1,000,000, in which permanent quarters will be provided for all Canadian clubs, is being planned by former residents of Canada now living in Chicago. At a meeting held in the city yesterday the plan was discussed and arrangements made to solicit funds for the project.

Among those present at the meeting were J. W. Bowen, Wm. Robertson Thomas F. Lynch, and Thomas W Oston, President of Canadian organizations. There are said to be about 200,000 former residents of Canada in Chicago. It is planned to merge the fifty Canadian clubs into one large organization.

The London Old Boys of Chicago will make its annual visit to Canada on August 3, travelling in two special trains. One thousand men, women and children will make the trip from the Windy City.

RAILROAD TICKET TAX

Germany in Many Cases Objects to the New Levy

There is much opposition in Germany to the new tax on railroad tickets. Every railroad ticket costing less than 15 cents is exempt from taxation, but every ticket costing more pays a tax graduated according to the price. The tax on a ticket costing from $1.25 to $2.50, for instance, is 18 cents in the first class, 10 cents second class, and 5 cents third class The tax on a ticket costing from $5 to $7.50 is 60 cents first class, 30 cents second class and 22 cents third class.

The tax produces about $5,000,000 a year, but its result has been to drive the first-class passengers into the second, the second-class into the third, and the third-class passengers into the fourth class. At the present time first-class cars are run at a loss. The Government would like to abolish the first-class altogether, but influential persons who use it object.

The fourth class has hitherto been tax free, and in order to induce passengers to return to the higher classes the Government has suggested the abolition of the present system of taxation in favor of a universal tax of about 3½ per cent. on tickets of all classes. It is believed, however, that the Reichstag will not consent to this, and the latest proposal is that the tax on first-class tickets shall be reduced, that on second and third-class tickets raised, and a very moderate tax imposed on fourth-class tickets. The travelling public is already raising an outcry against the proposed changes, which would benefit only first-class passengers and are universally described as a check to social progress.

CENSUS OF SWISS ANIMALS

Everything Was Counted Except the Cats and Dogs

While England and Germany have been taking a census of all their people, Switzerland has been taking a census of all its animals. The numbering of the beasts which took place recently included even the bees, only the number of hives, of course, being taken in this case. All animals, with the exception of cats and dogs, have had to be included in the census, the exception in favor of dogs being explained by the fact that they are generally used to pull light carts, and are thus registered already. Owners of horned cattle were obliged to state the number of their cows, calves, oxen, and bulls, and how many they possessed of each particular breed.

REGIAN, Sask., Aug. 3.—E. G. W Haultain will take the stump for the Conservative party. He is arranging to hold a series of meetings in Qu-Appelle for R. S. Lake. Speaking to a Conservative meeting Mr. Haultain said: "The Conservative party is big enough to permit a difference of opinion on a minor matter of policy and great enough to unite us all on a general policy. You must not let the reciprocity red herring be drawn across the trail. If the Liberal party gave us five hundred reciprocity pacts containing all the advantages which Liberals claim the present reciprocity does, even then I would vote against them and work against them, for I cannot forget their fifteen years of malfeasance in office.

MAKING RAPID PROGRESS ON Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

The Second Floor and Its Accommodation--An Interesting Description

It seems but a few days ago that The Intelligencer gave a brief account of how things were going at at the new Y.M.C.A. biulding. The main floor was then described. Since then, the builders have gone up to the floor line of the third and top story.

The second floor provides for distinctly separate rooms for the juniors and the intermediates. Access to the boys' rooms is by a door in the outer vestibule of the main entrance. This door is to the left of the main doors and leads to separate stairs which go to their apartments. The rest of the second floor is devoted to a nice lecture room capable of holding easily two hundred. Owing to the location of this room the entire second floor has a fourteen foot ceiling. Folding doors will make it into three separate evening school class rooms.

It will also be noticed that on this same level runs the running track above the gym floor. This track will be banked so as to enable those training to keep up high speed. Doubtless many races will be pulled off here in the inclement weather.

Our old friend, Harry McGuire, who has accepted the physical directorship of the Ottawa Association, went over the building to-day. He was highly delighted with the way it is laid out He thought it was one of the handiest buildings he had ever seen for Association work. He couldn't see how it could be improved.

Mr. Henry Pringle has been appointed as Inspector during the absence of Mr. Walter Alford, who is taking an ocean voyage for the benefit of his health.

Mr. Sovereign is in attendance at the Canadian Summer Institute at Lake Couchiching, taking lectures and attending demonstrations given by different eminent leaders. The Institute will be conducted until the 17th of this month.

BASKET PICNIC ON VICTORIA PARK

A happy group of nearly forty of the Bridge Street Epworth Leaguers and their friends assembled on Queen Victoria Park Tuesday evening to have a basket picnic. The primary cause of this picnic was the near departure of oie of the League officers, Mr. Har- of one of the League officers, Mr. Harry Dickens, the Literary Vice President, who goes to Alberta next week There was no speech-making or formal farewell, but just the pleasantest kind of a social evening in which Harry and his fellow Leaguers had plenty of opportunity to say a few last words they liked to each other in the wa they liked best.

The ladies provided a splendid supper, which the young men supplemented with an abundant supply of ice cream cones. Then after supper a couple of hours more were delightfully employed in paddling or rowing about the harbor and in games and conversation about the depleted supper table.

The Rev. Roy Stafford, temporary pastor of Bridge St., church, was with the party and added much to the enjoyment if the evening by his ready wit, proving as acceptable in the social gatherings as in the pulpit

Some more lessons from the recent Bay of Quinte Conference Summer School were given on Monday evening at the regular League meeting by Mr Henry. They were arranged in the form of a talk on the practical principles of Christian living and were much appreciated.

CURRENT COMMENT

"Two markets instead of one"—for the U. S. farmer.

Are you a Canadian, like Borden or a Contineitalist, like a la Laurier?

A prisoner in the Toronto jail set fire to his trousers. The price of a beer was burning in his pocket.

No, it was not obstruction or reciprocity that drove the Laurier Government to the country. 'Twas Dan McGillicuddy who did it with his charges against Oliver.

The proposition of Representative Talcott of New York to compel all railroads to handle passenger traffic in steel cars in six and a half years looks well, but we may be travelling through the air by that time.

The best news regarding the revolution in Hayti is that it is almost bloodless. The Haytians have had so much experience in revolutions that they have evidently learned to fight these affairs with something of the same scientific perfection that the French show in fighting duels.

Fright has strange effects. A Virginian crippled from birth, accidentally shot a small girl. Under the influence of his fright he threw away his crutches and fled into the country on his bare feet at such a rate that he has not yet been caught. But that his emotion will cure him permanently is to be doubted.

"Prosperous farms make busy cities." So says the Globe. The writer of that piece of economic thought (economic rot), must have stood on his head while writing it, as it is the converse of the truth. "Prosperous cities make busy farms" is the correct way in which to put it; but reciprocity will drive away the business from the cities and prosperity from the farms.

It is reported by Oliver's friends that he was so anxious to tell where the money came from that he got "real angry" because smooth Sir Wilfrid, who knows a thing or two with regard to questionable transactions in which members of his party have been engaged, would not allow the sitting of the committee to be held. The dog that didn't want to fight cried "Hold me by the tail till I devour him." And so with Mr. Oliver

Sir Wilfrid Laurier repeatedly expressed his desire to have the Imperial Conference doings discussed in Parliament, and his supporters were led to believe that on the eve of dissolution he would deliver a set oration designed to offset the disquietude caused by his London utterances. When the Premier got down to preparing that speech, however, he evidently found it beyond even his great capabilities to accomplish the two opposite results of disarming Bourassa's Nationalist propaganda and squaring himself with the strong British sentiment pervading the rest of Canada. The only way out was dissolution.

The Montreal Witness, ardent admirer of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, though it is, has felt impelled to chastise him gently, as follows: "The difficulty of mustering was also the alleged cause for the delays in calling the Oliver committee together. Still, the suddenness and the unceremoniousness of the dissolution, like the collapse of a bubble, deserved some further attempt at explanation than the Premier has vouchsafed, without which it may count against the Government in the consciousness of the people." Such being the view of a prejudiced friend, what view of the matter will inevitably be taken by the unprejudiced electors?

GREAT SEA COW CAUGHT IN TEXAS

A seacow, believed to be one of the largest ever captured and the only one in captivity, was delivered into Maguan Madre, not far from Brownsville, Texas. It is the first seen in that section for years, and is said to be one of the species found on the African coast. It is twenty feet in length.

A high tide carried it over the joint of the peninsula from the gulf and fisherman tugged at the monster for several hours. It required the combined efforts of thirty men to land the manatee, as it is known.

The monster resembles a young whale in many respects, with a head not unlike a cow. Its forelegs are like paddles, with toe nails, but the toes are not separated. It has no hind legs, and the large tail is sort of shovel-shaped.

Unlike the seacows of the American species, the animal-like fish resisted capture and put up a powerful fight against its captors, but once in captivity it appears to be docile.

Excursions to Western Canada

The Grand Trunk Railway System announce that on Tuesdays, June 13th and 27th, July 11th and 25th, August 8th and 22nd, September 5th and 19th 1911, Homeseekers' excursions will be run from all stations in Ontario, and Quebec to Western Canada, via Chicago or Duluth or via Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis, at reduced round trip fares.

The well-known double-track line of the Grand Trunk from the far East to Chicago appeals to the traveller and with the superior train service that is offered by this line, including the famous "International Limited" from Montreal daily at 9.00 a. m., and which is the finest and fastest train in Canada, many passengers will be attracted this way. The route via Chicago is a most interesting one taking passengers through the principal cities and towns in Canada and in the States of Michigan and Indiana. In addition to this a choice of seven lines between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis is offered.

Owing to the great number of Canadians who reside in Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and other cities enroute, there is no doubt that the Grand Trunk will find many patrons who will take advatnage of the opportunity thus afforded them for a brief visit at the stations with their friends.

Canadian citizens are exempt from so-called Immigration Examination and there is no detention at any point

Baggage is carried through the United States in bond without requiring any special attention on the part of the passenger. Inspection is not necessary at any of the points at the Border.

Another feature that will appeal to the homeseeker is the comfortable transfer at points like Chicago, St. Paul and Duluth into freshly ventilated clean cars, avoiding the necessity of travelling a long distance in the same car.

In addition to the above routes the sale of tickets is also authorized via Sarnia, and the Northern Navigation Company's magnificent Steamers on Lake Huron and Lake Superior.

HAD LIVED FOR 400,000 YEARS

Three thousand feet above sea level on the slope of Mount Baldy, California, and fifty miles from the coast Thomas Donlin found a perfect fossil of a huge sea tortoise which Hector Alliot, curator of the Southwest Museum, Los Angeles, pronounced the most important discovery of the kind ever made in southern California. Donlon has an apiary and was seeking rock to hold down the lid of a hive when he saw the shell protuding from the ground. He dug it up and it proved to be solid stone weighing one hundred pounds and showing the markings and even some of the original color on the back and bottom. The specimen is nearly thirty inches in diameter.

Alliott estimates that it is 400,000 years old and beyond doubt the oldest ever picked up on the Western hemisphere.

THE NATION'S HEALTH

A Society Proposes to Take a Physical Census of the Empire

What some people of scientific mind regard as an ideal census—and what others will consider an appalling inquisition—is foreshadowed in a memorial which has been presented to the Prime Minister by the Royal Anthropological Society. This society's chief aim is to see whether mankind is going backward or forward, and why; and among its subsidiary aims is the collecting of information about all the races of the British Empire. Hitherto it has been uphill work. There have been comparatively few who felt any real pleasure in being measured or having the color of their eyes and the width of their foreheads tabulated and filed for reference. Mr. Asquith has declined to give a Government grant, but the society has now approached the Colonial Premiers and asked them to set up, in their various states, investigation staffs who, acting under a central body in London, would measure the people of the Empire.

One of the chief movers in this appeal, Mr. John Gray, of the Patent Office, explained its aims. "Our ideal," he said, "would be to have the census enlarged so as to give full particulars about the physique of all the Empire peoples—their height, girth, skull measurements, and strength of vision, and the color of hair and eyes. This would take an enormous time, and the enumerators would have to be far more numerous than now, as well as being specially trained. It has been done, however, in India, the enumerators doing the measuring. A more practicable step would be to have a staff of experts in each area, say a county, who would measure people who volunteered. Three per cent. of the population would be ample. At present our scanty statistics do not justify definite pronouncements. Galton estimated that we were a far less athletic race than the ancient Greeks, but it has been pretty certainly established from the examination of skulls of skeletons that the average Englishman of to-day is practically the same, physically, as the Neolithic man, who lived 15,000 years ago. But in these days of quick changes physical deterioration may go on rapidly owing to town life, machinery that does away with manual labor, impure air, and other causes. When the physical census is established we can put our finger at once on the weak spots in the nation's health sheet."

DANCER AS A SPY

A Russian Beauty Who Won Her Way to the Authorities

A great sensation has been caused in St. Petersburg by the news that Mme. Krezinska, the famous Polish dancer, who formerly appeared at the Imperial theatres, has been arrested at Oracow on a charge of Espionage. By her talent and beauty the dancer won such high favor that she was enabled to exercise great influence in the capital, especially in art circles. It was due to Mme. Krezinska that a Polish committee was formed to erect a statue of Chopin at Warsaw. Some time ago it came to the knowledge of the Russian authorities that secrets appertaining to the national defence were communicated to Japan and Germany. In connection with this affair several officers of the General Staff were arrested, but all were able to establish their complete innocence. However, as a result of the inquiry, the authorities obtained information which led to the dancer. She was closely watched. The police swooped down on her house unexpectedly, and documents and letters were seized which are now occupying the attention of the authorities.

THE KAISER'S HABITS

When the Kaiser is away on his yacht he gets up at six, takes a cold bath, drinks a cup of coffee, and works till nine, when there is a general breakfast. Lunch is at one, and dinner, the chief meal of the day, at night. The evening is passed with cards or conversation, and at 11.30 everyone retires. If there is a light in one of the cabins, it is in that of the Kaiser, who sometimes spends the midnight hour at his writing-table.

Small hats are not drawn over the head so far as they have been, but are now worn to show more of the wearer's face and hair.

LETITIA

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

Copyright 1908 by the C. M. Clark Pub. Co., Boston, Mass. Used by Permission

"For the past five weeks there has also been sojourning at the St. Nicholas, a very beautiful young woman purporting to be a Miss Whiting, the daughter of a wealthy resident of Montgomery, Alabama. She arrived on the same train with Grant, and appearances indicated that their acquaintance began outside the city. She was, however, expected, and luxurious apartments awaited her. She possessed an abundance of ready cash; a span, a carriage, a cochman were at her service. She, too, was modest and refined; a musician of no mean order; her voice enchanted; her conversation entertained; she was the idol of the hotel.

"Together they appeared upon our streets. Their drives into the country were unlimited. The magnificence of the city's surrounding scenery was their delight. They were conspicuous in strolls throughout our parks. The theatre was frequently their resort They worshipped as one at a fashionable church. They were inseparable We believed it for the best; they were both so handsome, so perfectly mated so peculiarly devoted to each other and contented in each other's company, that we personally went so far as to decide that it was the Almighty's plan, who had made

'For every man a woman—
For every woman a man.'

Up to within twenty-fours ago we would have considered it a sin—a flagrant sin—to separate them.

"But like many another, this daughter of Eve was not what she represented. She turns out to be the American wife of a French professor of fencing, sparring and wrestling connected for a short time past with a prominent sporting house of this city. Until to-day he was looked upon as having no peer in his profession on the Pacific Coast.

"Four months ago she left the comfortable home he had provided for her at Los Angeles, and though diligently sought for, her place of hiding could not be found. Last week Professor DeLaurie, her husband, saw the pair driving through our streets, apparently at peace with each other and the world. He watched; he gathered information. Yesterday he pleaded with the young man to allow his wife to return. His home was lonely, his heart was sore; he must enjoy her presence and love once more. He would forgive all if she would return to him. But the flint-hearted, conscienceless scape-goat refused—positively refused, to listen. An appointment was finally agreed upon for today at the St. Nicholas, in the reception room of which DeLaurie appeared at the specified hour. Grant and the woman appeared also. The husband appealed to his rival's manhood but to no purpose. He argued, he wept, but tears availed him nothing He attempted to rescue his precious wife but received a blow in the face He was about to protect himself with a weapon of defense, when the had man from Vermont knocked him down and took it away. A large number of spectators collected, among whom was our sporting editor. They all (except the writer), favored the polished villain from ruraldom, as did also the cause of the contest.

"The fight was now on. The professor, in spite of his science, was beaten and knocked down. He arose to the affray, but very soon was a pitiable sight. He was hit upon the face, upon the breast, over the heart—on any part of the person which the athletic tornado desired to reach. His exhibition of fistic science was the finest ever witnessed in this part of the country. He might have been a ring professional from the manner in which he handled the Frenchman. What that bland-faced sprig of a Green Mountain farmer don't know about blocking, ducking, side-stepping, rushing and getting away is not in the catalogue of expert pugilism. His foot work was magnificent his springs cat-like. He outpointed his antagonist at every turn.

"Finally DeLaurie clenched to save himself from further punishment, but even in that strategy he came to grief for Grant floored him with ease. At last, with face disfigured, with heart broken, and spirit crushed, he rushed for the stairs, only to be the more humiliated by a vigorous kick in the rear that sent him in a variety of ways to the hallway below.

"With the most provoking coolness the victor returned to his lady-love, who smiled sweetly upon him, proudly took his arm, and together they left the room, amid the cheers of a hundred voices.

"A mystifying feature of the affair was the approving attitude of Landlord Mansfield, whose strictness as to morals is well known, the presence and expressed pleasure of Detective Greer and the failure of any one, privately or officially, to demand justice in behalf of the injured husband. Verily the young wife-stealer and husband-smasher had bought them all up, landlord, official, spectators and all.

"Grant and his paramour immediately left the hotel, and were later seen to board a train for the Southwest. It is to be hoped that their presence in our city, as a disturbing element at least, is at an end.

"The sympathies of a patient, justice-loving public are with the bereaved husband, who was later interviewed by a representative of this paper."

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—Owing to the sharp advance in prices for wheat at American and Canadian centres yesterday, there was practically no demand from foreign buyers to-day, and what few bids did come were away out of line. Oats are wanted for August shipment, but, as there is no ocean freight available from here for that shipment, business is impossible. The local demand for American corn is fair. The inquiry from European sources for spring and winter wheat flour is fairly good, but the volume of business passing is small, as the bids in most cases are below millers' views. The local trade is fairly good. Demand for bran and shorts is good, of which the offerings are small, and prices firm.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 42½c to 43c, car lots, ex-store; extra No. 1 feed, 42c to 42½c; No. 3 C.W., 41½c to 42c; No. 2 local white, 41c; No. 3 local white, 40c; No. 4 local white, 39c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings this morning were 850 cattle, 900 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 800 calves. Owing to the continued very warm weather and the increased supplies of cattle coming forward, a weaker feeling developed in the market, and prices declined fully ¼c per pound, and even at this reduction drovers found it impossible to make a clearance, and a number were left over.

The demand was limited and chiefly for small lots to fill actual wants; consequently trade on the whole was slow, and the indications are that if receipts are large for next Monday, values will go still lower. Sales of steers were made at prices ranging from $4.50 to $5.90, cows at from $3 to $4.50, and bulls at from $3 to $3.75 per 100 pounds.

The tone of the market for sheep and lambs was also weaker, and prices since Monday have declined 25c to 50c per 100 pounds, on increased supplies and a smaller demand. Sheep sold at 3½c to 4c, and lambs at 3½c to 4c per pound.

Calves were about steady, and sales were made at from $2 to $6 each, as to size and quality. The market for hogs was weaker, and prices declined, owing to the larger offerings, and sales of mixed heavyweights were made at $5.75 to $8 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

At the Montreal Stock Yards West End market the offerings of live stock were 400 cattle, 900 sheep and lambs, 1150 hogs and 450 calves. The market for cattle, sheep and lambs was weaker on account of the fact that supplies were in excess of the requirements, and prices ruled lower, with only a fair trade doing. A weaker feeling developed in the market for hogs also, and prices declined 25c per 100 pounds, with sales of selected lots at $7.25 to $7.50 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Selecting the Ram.

The ram to head the flock should be the embodiment of masculinity in every feature. The true ram's head should be deep and broad through the forehead, the nose broad, with a large nostril, making a spacious entrance for plenty of oxygen into the lungs. The eye should be bright, large and full of vigor. The neck of the impressive sire should be short and well set on, giving style and carriage. The shoulders should be smooth and evenly muscled, which will give him an even walk, a brisket well extended and broad. A ram with a straight top line, ribs well sprung and wide loin and well muscled back will find favor with the good judges, and a twist well let down with good width. The most important feature in the selection of a good sire is a wide, deep heart girth. When good width here smoothness throughout is characterized.

Mr. Fielding to Blame

Evidence accumulates regarding Mr. Fielding's culpable negligence in issuing the Farmer's Bank a certificate to do business. As has already been brought out in court says the Toronto News, he received due warnings from a number of shareholders that the institution which he was about to authorize to open its doors had secured their subscriptions from fraudulent misrepresentations.

In addition to this we learn from Mr. Osler that before the promoters made the statutory deposit he personally told the Finance Minister that the enterprise was a fraud, that the people connected with it were not worthy, and that the funds necessary for the deposit had been obtained by absolutely illegal methods. He told the Minister that he had absolute personal knowledge of the facts, because he knew where the application had been made to raise the money on notes.

Mr. Fielding received cautions from other sources, and it is nothing short of surprising that in the face of all this adverse information he went ahead and issued a certificate to a concern rotten in its conception.

Naturally the Canadian Farmers go behind Mr. Travers and the bank's promoters, and blame the Finance Minister for their losses through the bank's collapse. A Finance Minister who cannot administer a bank act cannot be trusted with the personal control of the country's fiscal policy.

Ready, Aye Ready!

The Government organs have been felicitating themselves in the belief that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, by securing the dissolution of Parliament, has stolen a march upon his opponents. Nothing could be further from the fact.

The Mail and Empire states that in so far as the Province of ment of a general election finds the Liberal-Conservative party ready and eager for the fray. For months past the business of organization has been in progress of perfection, and it but remains to place the candidates in the field and clearly define to the country the momentous question at issue. There will be no capitulation on the part of the Conservatives, and every seat in Ontario will be contested. From the information at hand there is every indication that Mr. Borden will sweep the Province os September 21st.

Further, it has been learned from Ottawa that Mr. Borden had a lengthy conference with Hon. Robert Rogers, of Manitoba, and Hon. Frank Cochrase, Minister of Lands, Forests asd Mines in the Ontario Government. Mr. Rogers will have charge of the campaign in Manitoba and expects to increase the already phenomenally large Conservative majority in the House of Commons from that Province. Mr. Cochrane will have charge of the campaign in Ontario, and his splendid success in Northern Ontario in 1908 sufficiently justifies his selection for command in the larger field.

The Ontario campaign will be formally opened at Toronto on Saturday next by the monster picnic at the Exhibition grounds, to be held in the interest of the candidacy of Mr. E. B. Osler. Mr. Cochrane will be present on this occasion and desires to hold a conference with all the Conservative members of Parliament from Ontario, and with all the candidates and prospective candidates for Parliament in the Conservative interest in the Province. The conference will lay out in a general way the work of the campaign and details of organization will be perfected in the various ridings under the general direction of Mr. Cochrane. Mr. R. L. Borden will soon start upon a three weeks' tour through Ontario, and meetings are being arranged as rapidly as possible.

As to other Provinces the situation is equally satisfactory.

Laurier will have the fight of his life in the coming election, and public and private advices from leading Conservatives indicate that on the 21st of September he will be liable to go down to defeat.

UNMANNED MOTOR BOATS

Experiments Which Give Some Indication of Possible Future War Methods

Tests of the efficiency of an unmanned motor-boat, steered and controlled by wireless telegraphy from the shore, took place recently on the Wannsee Lake, near Berlin, in the presence of a large number of military and naval officers, engineering experts and foreign naval and military atachés.

The unmanned motor-boat was towed to the middle of the lake, about a mile from the shore, and then the captain gave a succession of orders, which Herr Wirth carried out by transmitting electric waves from the apparatus ashore to the receiver on board. In this way he started the motor, then stopped it, drove the boat ahead or astern, to starboard or port, and caused it to describe intricate figures on the water, such as the letter "S" and the figure "8." The boat, which cruised backwards and forwards for a distance varying from one to two miles from the apparatus whereby it was controlled, executed each order with absolute precision. A special naval correspondent writes: "A group of experts watched with astonishment the movements of this phantom ship, and drew conclusions regarding marine battles of the future in which torpedo-boats, controlled by wireless telegraphy, may be hurled with forty-knot speed at battleships and sink them. It is still too early to prophesy how far this invention will take us because it has only just emerged from the laboratory, and has not undergone many practical tests, but sooner or later capitalists will finance Herr Wirth's discovery, and then unmanned vessels of various sizes will be constructed in large numbers." Further tests will take place on the Wannsee Lake.

"NIGHT OF THE DROP"

An Interesting Ceremony Among the Natives of the Nile

News comes from the Soudan that the flood water of the Nile is starting to come down from the Abyssinian hills. The "night of the drop" has already been celebrated in Upper and Lower Egypt, and the first water from the Blue Nile will soon reach Assouan. The "Night of the Drop" is a great festival among the natives, for it is believed that on this night a drop from heaven falls into the Nile and causes its rise. This superstition has been handed down from the times of the ancient Egyptians, who said the drop was a tear from the goddess Isis. Thousands of natives spend the night on the banks of the river anxiously watching the sky, in the hope that their future happiness will be assured to them by a glimpse of the drop in its descent into the river. It is at this time of the year that a remarkable spectacle is to be seen at Khartoum. The city is situated, as most people know, at the junction of the White and Blue Niles, the former of which comes from the Central African Lakes and the latter from the Abyssinian hills. When the flood water of the Blue Nile joins the main stream, it dose not amalgamate with it, but for a very long distance one can see the muddy, dark red water from Abyssinia flowing side by side with the white limpid water of the White Nile.

CORONATION DIAMONDS

The coronation of King George will see the Cullinan diamond take its place among the Crown regalia for the first time. Since it was quite impossible to cut this wonderful stone as a whole, it was split into two main portions, each of which is considerably larger than any other diamond the world has ever seen. The larger of the two has just been placed in the centre of the front of the crown that the King will wear next June.

Seven Hurt In Auto Smash.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Aug. 3.—Dr. George Rombeaud, the director of the Pasteur Institute in New York, is at the point of death in the Vassar Hospital here as the result of an automobile accident yesterday. His wife, who is Mme. Gerville-Reache, who was a prima donna of the Manhattan Opera Company, is badly injured. In addition to these, five other members of the auto party, all relatives of Dr. Rombeaud or his wife, were injured, and some of them seriously. The car was going around a sharp curve at high speed when it left the roadway and the occupants were pitched out.

Victims of the Gale.

The schooner Emily Anderson, Maitland, N.S., for Philadelphia, anchored off Chatham, lost her foresail and part of the deck load of lumber. Both vessels were probably victims of Friday's gale.

The Way to Cure Rheumatism is to get the glands of the body in such a condition that they will eliminate poisonous uric acid from the system. Ordinary cathartics will not do this for they do not tone and strengthen the glands. What you need is Merrill's System Tonic, a strong, bitter tonic and blood-purifier, made pleasant to take because in tablet form. This medicine has never failed to cure rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia and constipation, for it builds up the entire system, weakened by disease or overwork. Insist on getting Merrill's System Tonic from your druggist. Price 50c. per box, 6 boxes $2.50, or sent postpaid by The Merrill Medical Co., Merrill Building, Toronto.

ROBBED THE MAIL

A Party of Masked Men Held Up an Irish Car

An extraordinary affair is reported from the West of Ireland. The Royal Mail car from Kilcolgab, County Galway, to Bellyvaughan, was held up by a party of masked men, all of whom, it is declared, were armed. A revelver was painted at the driver, who quickly dismounted and fled for his life. The car was then driven seven miles in another direction by the masked men, and when it was afterwards discovered by the roadside it was found that several mail-bags had been torn open and letters were strewn about the roadway.

MR. SIFTON ISSUES MANIFESTO DENOUNCING RECIPROCITY PACT

Says He Does Not Intend to Be Candidate but Appeals to Liberals and All Young Canadians to Oppose What He Considers a Dangerous Policy—"Serious Sacrifice of Fiscal Independence'

Hon. Clifford Sifton in an interview denounced the reciprocity pact as injurious to Canada nationally and economically and appeals to the people irrespective of party to reject it. Especially does he address himself to Liberals and young Canadians. Incidentally he announces that he does not desire to be a candidate in the general election.

"Do you intend to be a candidate in Brandon again?" Mr. Sifton was asked.

"No, I have written to the Liberal association of the county intimating that I have no intention of offering myself there for re-election."

"Will you contest any other riding?"

"I have no present intention of doing so. I prefer not to be a candidate."

"Will you take any part in the election?"

"I will be willing to do anything in my power to assist in the campaign against reciprocity. The views which I have expressed in the house have became stronger as the discussion has proceeded."

"What are the principal grounds for your opposition to the treaty?"

"From a business standpoint the arrangement is upon the whole injurious. General phrases about larger markets and greater freedom of trade are meaningless without application to the particular conditions of the country. In any arrangement of the kind proposed there will be some benefits and some injuries. I regard the benefits as largely problematical while the injuries in any case are certain. Taking the situation as a whole it appears to me that the disadvantages largely outweigh the advantages.

"To be more specific take the case of Ontario and Quebec. While there may be opened up a market for a few more or less unimportant products which are now readily saleable, and while the price of a few high-class products may be temporarily raised there is an absolute certainty that the market for the bulk of the staple products of the farm, such as butter, eggs sheep, hogs, etc., will be flooded from the outside. In addition to this it is certain that many important industries will be seriously affected.

THE QUESTION OF WHEAT.

"What about cur Northwestern wheat?"

"The contention that the Western wheat grower will get a better price under reciprocity has been pretty well shattered. A leading article in the Manitoba Free Press of the 21st inst. giving a moderate and reasoned statement of the case for the treaty does not claim the price will be higher. The article, after pointing out that Great Britain takes only 105,000,000 cwt. of wheat from all countries, and showing that the total Western wheat crop may soon reach 400 millions of bushels, puts the question as follows:

"'The problem before Mr. Borden is to demonstrate how the Canadian producer is to dispose of this volume if he is limited to the Canadian market and to the British market.'"

"Can this question be satisfactorily answered?"

"I think so. Great Britain settles the price of wheat for three reasons. She is the largest importer of wheat. She is a free trade country, and she is the world's carrier. She, therefore acts as the world's clearing house for wheat as for many other commodities.

The price is Britain is settled by the world's supply and the world's demand If the United States should become a wheat importing country and want fifty million bushels it would make not the slightest difference whether she bought it from Canada, Argentine Egypt or India. What the United States absorbed from the world's supply would affect the demand and the price in precisely the same way wherever she might get it. Ten years hence there would not be a market for a single bushel more of Canadian wheat because of wheat being free between Canada and the United States. The ratio of the whole available supply to the whole demand fixes the price in the world's centre of trade and that in turn regulates the price in the remotest corner of the earth where there is transportation to take the wheat to the world's market.

"Incidentally I may remark that a study of the statistics and the agricultural conditions of the United States does not indicate that she is any nearer to becoming a wheat importing country than she was twenty years ago.

FISCAL SACRIFICE.

"But the most serious feature of the arrangement is the sacrifice of our fiscal independence. The more you look at it the more certain does it become that from the moment the treaty takes effect our policy will be controlled by what is done at Washington. To-day we are the most independent country in the world. We absolutely control every department of our public administration. Once we put ourselves into a state of dependence upon American markets and American tariffs our freedom is gone. With it goes the mainspring of our national life.

"No intelligent man can deny that the policy followed by the United States in excluding us from her markets in the past has been a prime factor in making Canada self-reliant and an independent country. It was at first a hardship and there was every excuse for those who sought reciprocity. Now that we have overcome the difficulties and won our way to independence and prosperity, there is no excuse for throwing away the advantages of our position. The true path for Canada is the path she has has been following—a dignified independence in policy and a vigorous development and careful conservation of her own resources. The treaty is the first step towards the exploitation and the subordination of Canada.

TO THE YOUNG MEN.

"But I hope and trust that there are a great many thousands of Liberals in Canada who are patriotic enough to put country before party and stand by our true national interests. Particularly I hope that the thousands of young men who have been forming themselves into non-poiit ical Canadian clubs for purposes of discussion will see that the ideals towards which they have been working are in danger, and will, regardless of party affiliations, throw themselves into the fight. It makes little difference to the future what is the name of the party which is in power for the next five years, but it is of incalculable importance that the true lines of our national development should be firmly and jealously maintained."

OUR CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

TO-DAY'S TRICK FOR THE SUPPER TABLE.

Tell him you can make a quarter stick to the wall without using glue or anything else.

If he feels like arguing the matter, ask him if he will give you a quarter if you can make it stick to the wall. When he "bites" take the quarter and slam it flat against a smooth surface of wood—say the bookcase or a door panel—pressing it hard with a downward sliding motion, against the wood. Take your hand away and the coin will stick tightly.

The striking and pressing expel the air between the coin and the wood, forming a vacum which will hold the millionaire's dollar or Johnny's penny just alike.

BOY CAN MAKE.

Some Descriptions of Useful Articles for Camping.

Many boys look forward to going into camp as soon as school is closed, taking for their camping grounds some piece of woods or small island near their homes. It is also good fun to set up a camp in the back yard if one's parents do not wish to have one go away. Boys who are interested in this sort of good time will find it a good plan to start soon to make some of the necessary articles of the camp equipment. A boy reader has sent to this page some descriptions of articles which are useful for campers and which may be made at a very small cost or without any cost at all.

To make a camp lantern take a can and puncture it. A small block of wood may be hollowed out to make a holder for the candle. The block of wood is set inside the pail and the light shines through. This pail may also be used for carrying small fish or bait.

Another lantern is made of a glass jar which has a tin cover. Puncture holes in the cover and make a basket for the candle of wire which is twisted around so as to hold the candle, as shown in the picture. There are two long strands of wire which come up through the lid and form a handle for the lantern.

The article to be cooked may be put in a covered pail and then covered with hot coals. To make an oven fill the pail with hot coals. The articles to be roasted may be placed on top of these coals.

"Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured The Eczema

GRANDE LIGNE, QUE., Jan. 2nd, 1910

"My wife was troubled for three years with Eczema on the hands which made her hands almost useless. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, none of which had any effect. He also advised her to wear rubber gloves (she wore out three pairs).

I persuaded her, as a last resort, to try "Fruit-a-tives". The effect was marvellous. Her hands are now cured.

We both attribute our present health to "Fruit-a-tives."

THE DIAMOND SUPPLY

Experts Say That South African Fields Are Not Nearly Exhausted

The rosy prospects, indeed, the almost wonderful success, of the diamond fields in German South-West Africa in the early days of their exploitation some five or six years ago, are gradually losing their magic hue and the success of the fields is becoming more questionable. The reason is that the surface of the diamond region, which previously supplied large quantities of the gems, have practically been cleared of their rich harvest, and deeper mining, with its attendant greater costs, must be resorted to. The Colonial Mining Company, which in its infancy paid the magnificent dividend of 2,500 per cent. on a capital of about $1,000,000, has long ago come down to less Pactolian figures. The Kolmanskop Society, which paid 55 per cent. in its first year and 45 per cent. in its second, now announces a dividend for the half year of 15 per cent. The German Diamond Society paid 10 per cent. last year and 5 per cent. this, while the Combined Companies paid no dividend last year. In addition to the need of costlier methods of production is noted a shortage of labor and a high export tax of 33 1-3 of the gross value. For all this, writers on the subject do not consider that the diamond supply is near exhaustion.

LONDON OPERA HOUSE

Oscar Hammerstein Will Have Operas Sung in French and Italian

Mr. Oscar Hammerstein, who is confident that he will be able to open his London Opera House as promptly on time as he did in the case of Manhattan Opera House in New York, says that his policy of management in London will be as follows: "To be successful, I must not teach, I must interest. The operas will be sung in French and Italian; in regard to German my efforts are depending on the results of the first season. My orchestra will number over 100, directed by men of the greatest musical distinction; the chorus will number 125 and the ballet 60. In the chorus English voices will be predominant, for I am establishing a school with competent teachers for the purpose, with teaching provided free of charge. Seats will range in price from one guinea to two shillings, and in the erection of this opera house, unaided by anybody, financially or otherwise, I am paying the highest possible tribute to musical London, in whose musical taste and culture my confidence is unbounded."

DETECTED BY CIGARETTE SMOKE

A Case Which Smatters of Sherlock Holmes Fiction

Something in real life that might have been taken from Sherlock Holmes' fiction has amused the Kingston (England) magistrates, who, however, grew stern enough to sentence Tom Taylor, their prisoner, to three months' hard labor. He had stolen from Surbiton a set of Maundy money, a quantity of cigarettes, and other articles, belonging to Mr. John Long, a well-known publisher. Detective Cooke, who arrested Taylor on the Queen's riverside promenade in the dead of night, said that while he was walking along by the river with Detective Faux he detected the aroma of a cigarette. He recognized the scent as that of samples given him to try from a box which formed part of the stolen property. So he just followed the scent, and came upon the smoker. In reply to the charge, Taylor, on whom nearly all the stolen articles were found, said, "It's quite right; I broke in about half-past two this morning."

How many experiments are tried! And most of them doomed to failure from the start.

WOMAN'S WORLD

FASHIONS ETIQUETTE RECEIPTS CHIT-CHAT

AT THE ROYAL TABLE.

The London 'Daily Sketch' is authority for the statement that Queen Mary will not have fruit out of season served at the royal family table. Each morning with unfailing regularity, the menus which the master chef proposes to present at Their Majesties' own table, in the schoolroom and in the staff dining rooms, are brought on a salver to Queen Mary by one of her ladies in waiting. The Queen reads them carefully and frequently makes alterations. For instance, some time ago the chef put on strawberries for dessert, and Queen Mary promptly drew her pen through this item, 'We can wait until they are in season,' she said. 'I won't permit such extravagance while people starve.' When the King and Queen lunch privately, their children usually have this meal with them. This represents the younger Princes' dinner. The three elder members of Their Majesties' family have for several months past been permitted to have all their meals with their Royal perants when there are no guests.

CARD FOR LINGERIE BEADING

White mercerized embroidery cotton has one advantage over narrow ribbon, for runnnig through the beading or worked eyelets of lingerie, in that the former does not have to be run in after each laundering. The initial cost is about the same as that of a good quality of ribbon, but the cord wears much longer.

If a fairly heavy number of embroidery cotton is chosen, four strands should be sufficient, but of a fine cotton eight strands will be needed. Measure loosely around the top of the corset cover or night dress, add twelve inches for tying and 'take up' in twisting. Forty-five to fifty inches is generally good measure for a corset cover. Measure either four or eight times this amount, according to the number of strands to be used. Double the thread, let some one hold the end firmly, or fasten it to something secure. Twist the other end until the strands are tightly wound around each other then, very carefully, double the cord and twist the other way. If eight strands be used repeat this process. A little practice makes this work easy. Run this cord through eyelets or beading, finish with a tassel of the mercerized cotton at each end and the garment will have no more need of the tape needle. The cord will last as long as the garment, and the tassels prevent it slipping out in the wash tub. It will tie in quite an attractive bow as does narrow ribbon.

SUGGESTIONS FOR GIRLS' BOOKS

Miss Elizabeth Robbins, the well-known English writer, in a recent address before the Women Writers' Suffrage League of London, claimed that women who have lived great lives and done great things are not held up for emulation as they should be by students of history.

'We are all agreed, I imagine, as to the practically limitless power of suggestion,' she said.

'And when we talk about suggestion we know that we are dealing with forces beyond the reach of science as yet fully to gauge. Nevertheless we see how this great power of suggestion has for ages been pressed into service in the education of men. From the time a boy is able to follow a fairy story he is told how Jack killed the Giant. Jack always kills the Giant. Later, the boy begins to take from history, from the classics and from literature in general, the motive and the cue for action. The Philosophy of History is new in education. Until yesterday history was little more than a record of the deeds of heroes; of the men who fought against obstacles and overcame them.

'Now what impression is the eager girl mind given of the world? That it is a place not only where all the great deeds are done by men, but where all the great qualities are masculine. The world will never know how much power to serve it has been killed in women's hearts by that phrase, "Only a girl."

'There are girls who say they hate girls' books. But why do girls hate girls' books? Because girls very properly resent being put off with mere "goody-goody" and with variants on the theme of the Patient Griselda. Girls want to hear about girls who feel as they themselves feel, and who do some of the things that they long to do. Stand before a boy's bookcase and you will feel afresh how well men have served their half of the world in this great matter of suggestion. All those stirring stories, those high adventures—whether historic like 'The Life of Nelson" or "The Story of our Empire," whether Miss Yonge's "Greek Heroes," or tales like Stevenson's "Treasure Island," or Kipling's "Kim," and others—rows on rows! Which among all these books has anything to say about a girl's resourcefulness, a girl's endurance, a girl's courage? Have these qualities, then been lacking in our sex? We know know the answer to that. These qualities were all there but they had to wait for women themselves to celebrate them.'

IDEAS FOR COAT SETS.

The girl who crochets can join her flower motifs of Irish into handsome cuffs and collars just deep enough to cover the collar and cuffs of the coat or when the collarless coat is used the lace should be about two inches and a half deep. In making such a set cut shapes for the collar and cuffs first in stiff, glazed linen, baste the motifs to it and fill in with the desired stitches and bars. Patterns for these Irish lace sets can be found in art needlework departments.

As the motifs are crocheted separately they make nice pick-up work. This work is slow, but hand-made Irish crochet in these small pieces is always good style and the sets are costly to buy.

Good-looking sets for linen frocks can be made from remnants of heavy lace bound on the edges with linen. Sheer collars and cuffs of handkerchief linen that is not too flimsy are embroidered with an irregular scalloped line in buttonhole stitch on the edge and have a shaped design worked entirely in eyelet embroidery. For a more elaborate effect they may have inserted medallions in baby Irish or other handsome lace with an embroidered design connecting them.

The girl who must dress on little can vary a plain white linen coat suit by owning several coat sets. Use the linen of the suit for the foundation of one set and embroider it heavily in white mercerized cotton. Another set can have the body of the cuffs and collars of old blue linen with bindings of the white linen an inch wide. Stitch with three rows of machine stitching in pink deeper than the linen.

A third set can be made of white linen embroidered in coin dots outlined with violet and bound with a hem of violet linen.

Good-looking coat sets that are easily made combine stripes of old Chinese embroidery with an edge or dull gold or silver guimpe. These are effective on dark street suits.

BRONCHITIS

SCIENTIFICALLY TREATED

The best authorities agree that bronchitis is treated most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which goes right to the root of the trouble.

Bronchitis can be treated successfully only by a remedy carried direct to the affected parts along with the air breathed.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic and is inhaled at the mouth, and after passing through all the air passages of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, is exhaled through the nose.

The healing vapor of Catarrhozone goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and reaches every part that is affected. No matter how deep-seated the bronchial irritation may be, Catarrhozone is sure to reach it.

Catarrhozone protects and heals the mucous membrane, stops the cough heals up the sores, and is guaranteed to bring speedy relief and sure cure.

By means of the inhaler Catarrhozone treats the local symptoms of bronchial trouble very effectually. The poisons in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone, which is a wonderful tonic and stimulant for the entire system.

Ferrozone is a muscle and tissue builder, increases the appetite, aids digestion, and makes the body so healthy and strong that bronchitis goes away for good.

A prominent steamboat owner, well known throughout eastern Ontario Captain Dunlop, of Kingston, was perfectly cured of Bronchitis by Catarrhozone. The Captain had suffered for more than 20 years, and says that Catarrhozone is the best cure for Bronchitis on the face of the globe.

Mr. A. J. Calhoun, a prominent citizen of Neepawa, Manitoba, speaks very appreciatively of Catarrhozone as a specific for bronchitis, and states that his wife could not get along without it.

Everyone that has used Catarrhozone is satisfied that it is superior to all other remedies. It is delightful to inhale, simple and convenient to use and relieves from the first breath taken through the inhaler.

Better try Catarrhozone. All druggists sell and recommend it. Complete outfit, price $1.00; trial size 50c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

MRS. ANTHONY J. DREXEL

Because of the delicate health of her daughter, Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel has announced a postponement of her annual trip to Scotland. She will spend her summer in her London residence.

One can't always believe a woman when she is talking about her husband.

AGED CLOWN TO MARRY

James Doughty, Aged 92, Will Wed a Girl of 25

Mr. James Doughty, the oldest in the world, whose approaching marriage, at the age of ninety-two to a woman of twenty-five was announced recently, gives an interesting version of a conversation which led to his engagement. The old man's face is wrinkled and his hair is silvered, but his eye is bright and his hand-shake is one that can be felt. "I'm going to live to be a hundred," he said, when interviewed at his cottage opposite the Brighton Hippodrome. "You see," he went on, "my wife has been dead these four months, and I am getting lonely. I've had plenty of trouble and I want someone to look after me." He explained that Miss Alice Underwood, his fiancée, is a daughter of his former housekeeper.

"One day she was here, and a friend said, 'You are very lonely, Mr. Doughty; you ought to get married again.'

"'Married?' I said. 'Who's likely to marry an old man like me?'

"Alice looked up and said, 'I would.' 'Nonsense,' said I; 'but she stuck to it, and so we're going to get married.'"

Thus did Mr. Doughty tell his story, and Miss Underwood, who was listening, did not deny hi aversion.

Mr. Doughty makes his living by means of performing dogs on the West Pier at Brighton. He has just started training a new dog. "It's a long job," said he, "but I can do it." Clowning, he says, is not what it was in the good old days of the harlequinade. He would like to put on his clown's dress to be married in, but the bride shakes her head.

GAINSBOROUGH PAINTING

The Alleged Original of his "Stolen Duchess" is at the Baillie Gallery

The alleged original of Gainsborough's "Stolen Duchess" is now to be seen at the Baillie Gallery, in Bruton Street, London, under conditions which make it possible to form an idea as to its artistic merit. Although the documentary evidence in its favor is so clear and convincing that any legal mind will accept it as absolutely trustworthy, the picture itself does not advance the claims made on its behalf. There is little if any evidence of Gainsborough's brushwork to be seen on the canvas, which must have undergone many restorations, and bears a thick coat of shiny varnish. What is to be seen now reveals a coarseness of touch quite alien to Gainsborough's art. How much of this may be due to subsequent repaintings it is difficult to decide. In this connection it is interesting that Mr. Foster in his declaration distinctly states that Gainsborough, when asked to paint the portrait of Lady Betty Foster, said that he would show his ability to paint in the much-admired manner of Reynolds, but, without resorting to the "butchery patches" with which Reynolds endeavored to imitate the "impasto" of the Italian school. Of course, if Gainsborough deliberately adopted a style of painting different from his usual practice, this may account for the difficulty every student of his work most experiences in trying to discover his brushwork in the portrait in the Baillie Gallery. Whatever conclusions may be arrived at from comparing the two rival pictures which are claimants to the distinction of being Gainsborough's originals, it seems fairly established that both of them represent Lady Betty Foster, the second wife of the Duke of Devonshire, and not Georgina, his first wife.

FOUGHT IN A GRAVEYARD

Slovaks and Roumanians Mocked at Each Other's Crosses

A sanguinary free-fight between Slovaks and Roumanians occurred in a cemetery in Hungary the other day, on the occasion of the consecration of two crucifixes there. The cause of this extraordinary collision is thus stated: Both the Slovak and Roumanian inhabitants of the village decided to erect a crucifix in the cemetery, but as they could not agree regarding some trifling details, the parties resolved to raise two crucifixes, which were consecrated simultaneously. The Slovaks mocked at the cross of the Roumanians and vice versa, and after the sermon of the Roumanian Pope a free fight followed, knives, and later, hayforks, being freely used. When the gendarmes succeeded in separating the hostile parties and restoring order thirteen persons were lying in the cemetery seriously wounded. One of the injured died before he could be removed to a hospital.

TIPS FOR CONDUCTORS

German Passengers Are Liberal with Street Car Fare

A feature that surely must distinguish the street car system of Germany from that of any other country is the practice on the part of a large percentage of passengers of giving the conductor a "tip." The average fare on German street cars, including those of the capital, is two cents; but at a moderate estimate fully one-third of the passengers hand the conductor another cent. This is usually done by ladies, though it is common enough with the men, the idea probably being that of securing the support of the conductor in case of trouble. That the gratuities amount to a considerable sum in the course of a year is shown by a trial in Hamburg, arising out of a dispute between the company and one of its conductors, in which the court assumed the gratuities to amount to nearly $100 each year. The court wisely deduced that the income from tips must be considerable from the fact that very low wages were paid to the conductors in comparison with the motormen.

Square trains and pointed trains are disputing for first place and enjoy equal favor.

UNFAIR DISCRIMINATION

Operation of the Coasting Laws of the United States Injure Lake Shipping of the Dominion.

It is generally supposed that in regard to the coasting trade between the different ports of the Great Lakes the vessels of the United States and of the Dominion of Canada are on an entirely equal footing. The supposition is that international traffic, that is to say, from a port of one nation to a port of another, is entirely open, but that each of the two countries reserve to itself the exclusive right of the costal trade between its own sea-ports. In practice, however, the present operation of the system is unfair to Canada. It must be remembered that in addition to voyages which are entirely coastal and pass simply from port to port in either one country, there are voyages of the mixed character by which goods are carried from port to port in one country and also to a port in the foreign country.

In regard to this part of the trade Canadian shipping does not enjoy the advantages granted to the vessels of the United States. The Canadian Shipping Act provides as follows:—"No goods or passengers shall be carried by water from any port of Canada to another except in British ships." The corresponding law in the United States regarding the transportation of freight is as follows:—"No merchandise shall be transported by water, under penalty of forfeiture thereof, from one port of the United States to another port of the United States, either directly or via a foreign port, or for any part of the voyage, in any other vessel than a vessel of the United States."

The American interpretation of this clause is such as to prevent a Canadian boat from taking grain from Duluth, Milwaukee or Chicago to a Canadian port if the grain is going thence into the United States; for instance, to Springfield or Boston. On the other hand, the Canadian Department of Customs has ruled that grain may be carried under our laws from Fort William or Port Arthur to Port Huron, Mich., in United States vessels even if the ultimate destination is a point in Canada via Sarnia. This discrimination is unfair to Canadian boatmen. Its influence would be much greater in the event of Canadian grain being stored at United States points at the head of the Lakes. Under such circumstances the grain would undoubtedly lose its identity and the United States authorities would insist upon it being transported thence in American vessels if destined to an American port for furtherance to points in the United States.

The United States authorities, recognizing the advantages which the above gives them, have introduced in Congress a bill the effect of which is to amend the law regarding the carriage of passengers in the same way; that is to say, this bill endeavors to apply to passenger trade the same restrictions as are in force regarding freight. It also defines the number of days a passenger can stop over in Canada and be exempt from the law. It provides a penalty on the passenger as well as the boat, and permits the proper officials to refuse clearance until fines are paid.

It will be seen that, recognizing the advantage which the American boat owners have in respect to the carriage of freight, they are desirous of applying it also to passenger traffic. The ultimate effect will be disastrous to Canadian shipping. In any event Canadian shipping is now at a disadvantage in respect to carriage of freight, and as the tonnage available for Canadian shipping consists chiefly of grain east-bound, it will be seen that any arrangement which will permit of Canadian grain going into or through the United States without restrictions of any kind will tend materially to decrease the available tonnage. Canadian west-bound tonnage on the Lakes is principally merchandise. A very large percentage of this is controlled by the boat lines operated in connection with the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways. These lines do not carry grain to any extent east-bound. Their boats are built for passengers and package freight. Grain, which, as stated, forms the bulk of Canadian tonnage, is carried in tramp boats. These boats carry a certain amount of coal from Lake Erie ports to Fort William and Port Arthur. They also carry miscellaneous cargo from St. Lawrence River ports. In addition to the above, there are three lines with more or less regular sailings between Montreal and the head of the Lakes, namely, Inland Lines, Limited; Merchants' Mutual Steamship Company and the Canadian Lake Line. These lines carry some package freight west-bound, and, as above stated, grain east-bound. The tramp service above referred to operates chiefly between the head of the Lakes, Georgian Bay and Lake Huron ports, Port Colborne and Kingston.

POWDER PAPER BOOKS.

A book of powder paper is always a luxury in travelling, and one of these books, which costs but a quarter encased in a dainty linen cover or a cover of ribbon or silk, will immediately find its place among the toilet articles in the dressing bag.

Still another convenience for the traveller is a collection of small chamois lined silk or linen bags, in which to keep when not in use the coin of different countries. A tourist in these days of rapid locomotion will often cross the borders of three or four countries where different money will be needed in each place. The name of the coin should be marked on each bag, as, for example, French, German, Italian, and so on. Instead of the bags a collection of five or six tiny leather purses will make a welcome gift, but these purses should all be stamped or burned with the names of the various countries which the tourist is to visit.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

EAST NOW WANTS HELP

Laurier Hears Another Cry of Distress From Fock.

The Premier Is Now Arranging to Bolster Up His Cause In Maritime Provinces With Ten Meetings—Opening of Liberal Campaign Again Postponed—Bourassa Calls For Defeat of Government on Its Record.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is in the position of the swimmer, who, reaching the river bank, hesitates to jump in. He has postponed the inauguration of his campaign for another week. The official explanation is that things must be looked after in Ottawa before the Prime Minister can get away; in other words that there is nothing like that absolute state of preparedness which was at first represented. Sir Wilfrid will hold one meeting in Ontario and will then go down to fight the Nationalists in Quebec.

There is another development. Liberal confidence in the Maritime Provinces has been rather rudly shaken and a Macedonian cry has been heard from that direction with the result that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who didn't so much as show his white plume in the Maritime Provinces in 1908 is arranging to hold from eight to ten meetings there.

On Thursday, 17th instant, the Premier will speak at Three Rivers in Hon. Jacques Bureau's constituency. On the following day he will speak in the city of Quebec. The following week the Premier will devote to meetings in the Montreal district, comprising some forty constituencies. From August 28 to September 2 he will be in the Maritime Provinces for a series of meetings, speaking at Halifax and St. John, N..B

On September 4 Sir Wilfrid will again be in Ontario, where he will put in a week addressing meetings at various points to be fixed later. The following week he will devote to the ridings of the Quebec district. He will windup the five weeks' series of meetings with final rallies on September 18, 19, and 20 at points not yet determined.

R. L. Borden returned to Ottawa yesterday from a conference with his lieutenants in Montreal. He goes to Toronto for Saturday's gatherinf of Ontario Conservatives. Hon. Robert Rogers, who is still in Montreal, is also expected to attend the Toronto meeting.

It is announced that Thomas Chase Casgrain, who will arrive from Europe on Friday, will accept the Opposition candidature in Nicolet. Mr. Casgrain was at one time attorney-general and later on Federal member for Montmorency.

Bourassa Disclaims Both.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—In Le Devoir this afternoon Henri Bourassa publishes a long signed article stating the Nationalist position in the coming campaign. In substance he cries down both party leaders, refuses to take sides in the reciprocity question, setting it aside as a minor issue, and calling upon the electors of Quebec to judge Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his Government's general record, and particularly on his imperialistic tendencies, as evidenced in his naval policy.

"Of all the questions," he concludes, "that the Premier and the leader of the Opposition seem desirous of snatching from the judgment of the people, the most important without doubt is that collection of problems grouped together under the name 'imperialist,' and particularly the contribution of Canada to imperial armaments on sea and land; the participation of the Canadian people in men and money to the imperial wars where the fate of Canada is not at stake.

Expects a Walkover.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—The Royal Edward arrived in port last evening carrying among its passengers Premier A. L. Sifton of Alberta, and Premier Walter Scott of Saskatchewan. Both proceeded last evening to Ottawa for a short stop before returned home.

Neither Premier had anything to say on the political situation. Hon. Walter Scott, when asked if he "would take part in the fight, smilingly answered: "What fight?' 'and expressed te optimistic opinion that in his province it would be a walkover for his party, the visit of the Opposition leader notwithstanding.

Joe Martin to Take Part.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 3.—Joe Martin, M.P., will take part in the Federal elections. Writing to a friend here he says he will sail early in September, making the trip to Vancouver.

The city's nomination convention date will be decided at a emeting tonight. New Westminster Liberals are to name candidates August 11.

It is likely that John Oliver, former Liberal leader in the House and now president of the Provincial Liberal Association, will get the nomination.

Fisher at Waterloo.

Waterloo, Que., Aug. 3.—The first gun of the Federal election campaign of 1911 boomed forth here Tuesday, and the first advance was made when Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, addressed the farmers of Shefford County at a meeting held in the Town Hall here.

One of the most important features of Mr. Fisher's address was his announcement of the intention of the Government, if returned, to change the rules of procedure in the House so that obstructionist tactics will in future be impossible. His entire address dealt almost altogether with reciprocity. Several times he severely criticized the methods of the Anti-Reciprocity League, showing the fallacies in their contention against the pact.

Willing to Take Partner's Place.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—"I shall be a candidate for the House of Commons," said Mr. Alphonse Provost yesterday. Mr. Provost is a Liberal, and is a partner of A. Allard, who was M.P. here, but who has announced that he has retired.

New Residents Barred.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—A peculiar point in connection with the coming Dominion elections has been brought to light by City Clerk Boult of Hull. Any residents of Hull seeking the franchise cannot vote, unless their names are contained in the list of electors which was published at the last elections.

The city clerk states that according to the laws of the Province of Quebec a resident in the province cannot obtain a vote as is done in Ontario by registering. Only those whose names are contained in the last list of electors are entitled to a vote. This will mean that only about 3,000 will be entitled to vote at the September elections.

Students Go Liberal.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—The first development of the election campaign here is a new organization known as the Young Liberal Association of Montreal. This society came into being on Tuesday, and the members come from what was always supposed to be the heart of the Nationalist stronghold, Laval University. At the meeting the young men pledged themselves to the Liberal party.

Victor Beique, son of Senator Beique, was chosen president and Paul Mercier, son of Judge Mercier, secretary.

$70,000 Fire In Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—Seventy thousand dollars' worth of damage was done and ninety people rendered homeless by fires which broke out almost simultaneously yesterday afternoon at Strathmore and Lakeside, two summer resorts a little more than a mile apart, on the shores of Lake St. Louis. Eleven residences were totally destroyed, while others suffered more or less from fire and water. The victims are all English-speaking residents of Montreal, who spend their summers on the lake shore, coming in every day to business.

The fires, breaking out as they did, when fathers and brothers were away in thecity, and only women and children left to cope with them, spread with alarming rapidity among the wooden houses and the greater part of the summer residence section of the two little villages had been destroyed before the firemen from Lachine and Montreal arrived on the scene.

No one was killed in the fires and no one seriously hurt, many of the residents being out on the water canoeing or bathing when the fire broke out.

New Fire Apparatus.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—The Board of Control has taken steps to have the city's fire department the most up-to-date in America, the latest being to call for tenders for five automobile fire-fighting machines, and two of the latest steam pumps. They will increase the efficiency of the brigade by one automobile truck to haul the aerial ladder, one automobile truck to haul the 1,200-gallon steam engine, one combination engine with a capacity of 1,000 imperial gallons, one automobile hose wagon to carry 1,000 feet of hose, one 1,000 United States gallon steam pump and one 800 United States steam pump.

AN INTERURBAN RACE

McCurdy and Willard Fly From Hamilton to Toronto.

First City to City Race on the American Contipent Occurs When Canadian Bird-man Wins Competition After 32 Minutes In the Air—Each Man Flew In a Machine of His Own Construction—Crowds Await Them.

Toronto, Aug. 3.—This city saw the successful finish of the first city to city aeroplane race that has ever been held on the American continent, last night, when J. A. McCurdy completed a flight of fifty miles, landing at the foot of the Cherry street bridge on Fisherman's Island, 32 minutes after leaving the Hamilton aviation field, four miles west of that city and Charles Willard, Mr. McCurdy's partner in the McCurdy-Willard Aeroplane Co., landed safely in Exhibition Park at 6.45 o'clock, having left the Hamilton field 13 minutes in advance of Mr. McCurdy.

The flight was given by these aviators purely in the interests of the sport and science of aviation, and each flew in a machine of his own construction.

The men had intended landing at Donlands, where the big meet opens this evening, but when they approached Toronto flying over the lake, they saw that it would be impossible to cross the city, as nothing could be seen through the dense clouds of smoke and haze which hung over it like a cloud.

CHARLES F. WILLARD.

The aviators had vastly different experiences on their trip. McCurdy flew at an altitude of 3,000 feet for almost the entire distance and found ideal wind and atmospheric condition. Williard, in his heavier machine, flew much lower and passed through continual gusts of wind and pockets of air. His altitude for the flight was between 500 and 600 feet.

All day long the city buzzed with discussion of the proposed flight and the brisk wind which prevailed throughout the day led many to doubt that it would be made.

Both Mr. McCurdy and Mr. Willard were greatly pleased with the result of their flight, which is the first of its kind on the continent. The men are the more proud as the machines which they fly are of their own personal design and make and are the creatures of their very tender care and intimate regard.

Both regard the flight as a valuable experience and a demonstration of the varying air conditions at different altitudes. McCurdy struck straight up into the blue for 3,000 feet and was altogether untroubled until he approached the heated clouds over the city, which made him come down. Willard flew at the lesser altitude of from 100 to 600 feet and was in continual trouble with puffs, gusts, squalls and air pockets.

While making his initial flight in his Bleriot monoplane on the aviation field at Donlands last night, J. J. Jackson, the plucky Toronto amateur aviator, came to grief. Though his machine was badly smashed — one wing, the propeller and part of the frame being broken—Jackson himself escaped uninjured.

Jackson has been working on his machine for the last two weeks at Donlands, and it was only yesterday that he received his propeller from New York, which was the last thing necessary to make the machine ready for flight. It had been Mr. Jackson's intention to have Richter, the German aviator, who was injured at Hanlan's Point, give him some preliminary coaching, but as Richter's condition prevented him from being present when Mr. Jackson was ready to fly, the aviator pluckily decided to make an ascent himself, although he had never been in the air, and his knowledge of aeroplaning was purely theoretical.

Found Dead In Well.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—Staff-Sergt. Thompson, a well-known militiaman, and for years caretaker of the Government magazine here, was found dead yesterday in an old well near the Rockliffe rifle range.

The magazine was located close by and Thompson was engaged in piping water from the well which is a shallow affair. It is believed he was overcome by the heat and fell in.

Siamese Twins Born.

RELIEF MEASURES.

J. L. Englehart Says North Is Recuperating After Its Disaster.

Toronto, Aug. 3.—After a week's tour of inspection of the burned districts in Northern Ontario, Chairman J. L. Englehart of the T. & N.O. Commission returned to the city yesterday. With regard to the distribution of supplies to the needy, Mr. Englehart said that he found the relief committees to have done their duties to the fullest extent in providing food and shelter for those in want. People who were not yet able to obtain the necessities of life of their own accord, were still being attended to. There are plenty of funds on hand.

Chairman Englehart's trip has been instrumental in clearing up the freight congestion on the branch lines of the T. & N.O., about which there were several complaints recently. Owing to the limited amount of siding room at Porcupine there was considerable trouble in getting the consignments of freight, etc., to their destination, but additional switches were installed as rapidly as could be done, and there is now lots of accommodation.

Mr. Englehart is more optimistic than ever regarding the future of Northern Ontario. "We never had a pleasanter trip to the north country," he said yesterday.

Asylum Loss Is $12,000.

Toronto, Aug. 3.—That the actual money loss incurred by the fire at Hamilton Asylum will be about $12,000 is the estimate of E. R. Rogers, provincial superintendent of asylums, who has just returned from the scene of the disaster. There was no insurance on the building.

Within a month the roof will be replaced and the damaged section restored to its former condition, Mr. Rogers states.

With regard to the eight parents who lost their lives, the officials say that not one of them was burned to death. They were all suffocated by the smoke, and there was no suffering. In fact the only instance of charred flesh was in the case of one man, whose face was burned to some extent, but that happened after he was dead.

Extra Early Wheat.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 3.—Unless there is something freakish about the growth of the new unnamed variety of wheat just cut at the experimental farm, farmers will undoubtedly be much interested in this grain. This new variety of wheat was seen at the experimental farm in April and was cut on July 31, so that there are only ninety-four or ninety-five days between seeding and cutting.

Last year Marquis wheat, which is a very early variety, occupied one hundred and seventeen days between seeding and cutting, and red fife was one hundred and twenty-three days. If the new variety of wheat, which is not yet named, lives up to the record it has this year, farmers may find it much more suitable variety for the country than the other spring wheats.

Divorced In California.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 3.—Mary Legrand Reed, a prominent society lady, singer and European traveler, has been granted a divorce from Legrand Reed, Toronto insurance broker and club man.

The case has been in the courts for several weeks, and for a time it appeared that there would be a prolonged fight, but the parties came to an agreement, and the matter was disposed of in one minute by Judge Willis.

The ground for he legal action was desertion. There was no mud-slinging, no blackening of characters or anything else characteristic of the great majority of such actions.

Niobe Is Higher In Water.

Halifax, Aug. 3.—The position of the Niobe is somewhat improved today. The water in the compartments has been somewhat reduced, and the ship has risen several inches in the trim.

Commander MacDonald is said to be confident of keeping the ship free and putting her in condition to be conveyed to Halifax in the course of a few days.

The rocks where the Niobe grounded lie close to the spot where the steamer Hungarian was lost with all on board Feb. 20, 1860, and where the four-masted ship Drumlis became a total wreck some years ago.

Low Water In the Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—An examination of the lockmasters' book shows the Ottawa River has sunk about 21 feet startling fact that the water in the since last May, when it stood at 28 feet 8 inches in the Ottawa River. Since that time it has been sinking rapidly until now the water stands at 7 feet 11 inches, and bids fair to go much lower if there is no serious rainfall.

In the Ottawa River it has not affected navigation so far. In the Rideau the water is extremely low, and it may get dangerous for the boats of the Rideau Lakes Navigation Co. to make their trips.

Glidden Route Changed.

New York, Aug. 3.—The Glidden automobile tour of 1911, originally planned to be run from Washington to Montreal via New England points, last June, will be run to the south instead, according to an announcement made last night.

New England has been the scene of several Glidden tours and this partiality, coupled with the fact that the south has made much progress toward road improvement, has prompted the change of route.

Hudson Bay In Two Years.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—M. J. O'Brien of Renfrew, one of the contractors who tendered for the construction of the first two hundred miles of the Hudson Bay Railway, was in town last night. He stated that with work started at once it would be comparatively easy to complete the section within the two years' limit stipulated by the Government.

MAKING GOOD BUTTER.

Article of High Quality May Be Produced on the Farm.

Much of the butter made in the country is not as good as it might be, and this need not be so, for the process of making a first class article is very simple, writes W. H. Underwood in the Country Gentleman.

Before the milking begins the sides and udders of the cows are carefully brushed, thus preventing dirt and dust from falling into the milk. The milking is done with clean, dry hands; to milk with wet fingers would be extremely filthy. As soon as the milk is drawn from the cow it is strained through a wire gauze and three thicknesses of cheesecloth. All the milk utensils are thoroughly cleaned after being used by first washing them in lukewarm water, next in hot water, and then they are scalded in boiling water. Every dish or cloth employed in connection with the milk is put in a clean place, where there is a circulation of pure air, after being used. This is of the utmost importance.

The cream is separated from the milk with a hand separator and held until there is a sufficient quantity to churn. The churning is done three times each week with a barrel churn.

The cream is strained into the churn through a hair sieve, and the churn is never filled more than half full of cream. When the cream begins to break care is exercised not to gather the butter granules into one large lump. The churning ceases when the butter particles are about the size of wheat kernels. Then the churn is fastened and the buttermilk drawn off.

When the buttermilk is well drained from the butter it is rinsed with a little water, and after this has drained away the cork is put in the churn and cold water added. The cover is then put on the churn and the churn revolved slowly six or eight times; the water is now drawn off and the butter left to drain about fifteen minutes. When the butter is well drained it is ready to salt, and this is done in the churn when the butter is in granular form. About one and one-half ounces of salt are used for every pound of butter. This insures the right quantity of salt when the butter is finished.

It is a very easy matter to work butter too much and have it greasy. We never work the butter with the hands, because the warmth of the hands will make it greasy and give it a salvy appearance. We use the lever worker and press the lever on the surface and occasionally fold the butter over with a ladle. The lever of the butter worker or butter paddle is never allowed to slide over the surface of the butter, but it is pressed straight down when working the butter.

The butter is pressed into square one pound prints and carefully wrapped with parchment paper which has been soaked in salt water a few minutes before being used.

Canada Buys a Holman Hunt.

The national art gallery at Ottawa has been enriched by a painting by Holman Hunt, of the British Academy. The painting is a portrait of Henry Wentworth Monk, who was born in the Ottawa Valley and who was known as "The Apostle of Peace." He was an intimate friend of the artist, who painted the picture while with Monk in Palestine. The painting was secured from Mrs. Holman Hunt at a moderate price.

majority of the people to-day, that great skill is required to properly diagnose and correct errors of refraction in both children and adults, and most certainly should not be trusted to incompetent hands. Up to a very recent time little attention was given to that condition of the eye known as Muscular Imbalance. More recently the best among the profession, particularly Refracting Opticians, have delved into the subject and placed it upon a square, scientific basis. The twelve Extrinsic Muscles must be in perfect balance or the best correction made to relieve refractive errors will not be satisfactory.

STEEL CO. WON AN EASY GAME

The base ball match yesterday afternoon between the Ontarios and the Steel Company, which was expected to be close and interesting, proved a great disappointment. The Ontarios, as usual, presented a patched-up team —no less than three of their regulars being absent, one of whom was their pitcher, and the substitutes were remarkably inefficient.

The game started in favor of the boys in gray, who hits Phelps hard scoring 3 runs in their first inning Lavoie at this time did good work for the Ontarios. In the third Smith went into the box for the blue boys, and he proved to be invincible, only one run being made off him, and that in the eighth. Meanwhile H. Pitcher replaced Lavoie, whose delivery was being batted hard, and the change proved disastrous, many hits being scored off him, and bases stolen at leisure. Moore, who replaced him proved effective, although lacking control. The line up was:

S. C. C.—Simmons, 2b.; McConnel 3b.; Gerow, 1b.; Connolly, c.; Smith p.; Brown, s.s.; Carter, r.f.; Goyer, c.f.; Phelps, l.f.

S. C. C. .. 0 0 1 3 5 1 0 3 x—13

CAPTAIN HUNTER HAS "COME BACK"

He Got Bad News at Winnipeg, But Met Some Bellevillians

Capt. Hunter, who left on July 23rd for the West, with the object of meeting his wife on her return from Japan, where she had been attending the marriage of her daughter has returned a disappointed man. At Winnipeg he learned that the steamship Empress of India on which Mrs. Hunter had returned, was held in quarantine at Victoria because of a case of smallpox on board. There was nothing to do under the circumstances for Capt. Hunter but to come back, which he did, but not before with characteristic energy, he had transacted some business in connection with his official duties.

Among those whom he met at Winnipeg was Mr. W. L. Deltor, formerly of this city, who is now manager of the Royal Alexandra hotel, which is owned by the C. P. R. and is one of the largest hostelries in Canada, having a pay list of $12,000 per month exclusive of his own stipend, which reaches a high figure.

Another Bellevillian whom he met was Mr. Fred. Adams, who is a civil engineer on the Grand Trunk Pacific and is at present located at Kenora.

CHEMICALLY PRODUCED FOGS MAY RESULT IN ABOLISHING WAR

Novel Plan Projected Here Which May Outstrip the Hague Tribunal in Bringing About Universal Peace—Investigators Say Golfers are Greater Story Tellers than Fishermen and Recommend Tennis, Canoeing and Shooting to Make Truthful Children—Discovery of Ingenious Method of Living for Nothing Without Violating Law—Weird Crop of Hot Weather Stories

MONTREAL, Aug. 2.—That mechanically and chemically produced fogs, to be turned loose at will, may become a more important factor than the Hague Peace Tribunal in the elimination of war is the most significant feature of the offer of a local inventor to sell to the government a secret process by which it is claimed fogs can be produced whenever and wherever wanted. The idea originated along agricultural lines as the result of an effort to protect growing crops from the sun during dry periods, and supply them with moisture. It developed, however, that while fogs might be used to blot out the sunlight the moisture which they contained would be of little or no value as a substitute for rain. It was then that the value in case of war, of fogs which could be produced at will will became apparent. The squadron of an enemy once developed by one of those artifical productions of the dense vapor of fogs, would be practically helpless and at the mercy of the torpedo boats, while even on land a fog-bound army would be greatly hampered. While the process by which the fogs are produced has not yet been proven on a large scale, the possibilities are apparent and it may be that the idea at first considered as a purely defensive war measure may yet result in making altogether its use in both land and naval battles impossible.

LIVING FOR NOTHING

That it is impossible to live for nothing, even in Montreal, and in spite of the increased cost of living without violating the letter of the law, has been demonstrated here in a most ingenious manner by a visitor to whom the bunco men are figuratively taking off their hats. For more than two weeks this man had been living on the fat of the city without a single cent of expense to himself. Like most effective plans his was so simple that the regular residents of this city who live on their wits are still wondering how they overlooked it. The clever visitor simply went to wholesale manufactures of clothing and placed large orders to be shipped to a certain big house out of town. In every case, however, he was careful to stipulate that shipment wasn't to be made for a month, or until such time as the house which he claimed to represent had sent a check to cover the bill, thereby protecting himself against a charge of attempted fraud. His orders were large and naturally at each place where he gave them, the sales clerk took him out for dinner, theatres and the like, gladly furnishing all the summer luxuries. As a result the originator of the plan lived like a prince without any expense. His deception was ultimately discovered but since none of the goods he ordered had been delivered and nothing had been lost except the money voluntarily spent on his entertainment, the most serious charge which could be made against him was that of being a "suspicious character." Now as there are several thousand such people here the charge is not troubling the ingenious visitor.

BRIDEGROOM EATEN BY ALLIGATORS

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The tragic experience of a young English bride whose husband was eaten by alligators in the Ganges, was related at Plymouth when the P. & O. liner Malwa arrived from India.

Among the passengers was Mrs Livesay, who was married three months ago at Cawnpore, where her husband was stationed. A month ago she had arranged to leave for Cardiff to see some friends and a picnic was arranged as a farewell gathering. Mr and Mrs. Livesay, with several others started down the Ganges in a double-decked boat to reach the scene of the picnic by water. The weather was beautifully fine and the party was in the happiest of moods.

Near the landing place an accident occurred, the boat suddenly turning turtle and the occupants being thrown into the water. A terrifying scene ensued, as at this spot the river is infested with crocodiles. Within a few moments the animals were plunging among the struggling men and women, several of whom disappeared Mrs. Livesay was rescued by a colleague of her husband's, Mr. J. B Scott, but Mr. Livesay and three others were not seen again, and were it is presumed, eaten by the alligators.

Mr. Livesay, who was a merchant and a native of London, was 26 years of age. His widow is a year or two younger.

GALLANT BURGLAR LOST HIS BOOTY

Ability to play seven-up saved the home of Mrs. Charles V. Holmes, of Helena, Montana, from being robbed.

Aroused at midnight, Mrs. Holmes descended to the first floor and was confronted with an armed man.

He compelled her to stand with her hands uplifted until he packed up some silverware. She pleaded with him not to take several articles because they were wedding presents. Finally he took up a silver platter she had won at a euchre party. She told him how she won it.

The burglar became thoughtful. He asked her if she could play seven-up She said she could. Then he agreed to play three games of seven-up with her to decide whether or not he should take the booty.

"Seated at the dining-room table we began to play, he with his gun beside his hand, I in my nightrobe."

Mrs. Holmes won the first and last games, and the burglar arose. Mrs Holmes escorted him to the front door and he disappeared after making a speech of compliment and kissing her hand.

GREY HAIR AND BEAUTY

An Observation Concerning Many Social Functions in England

At the great social functions this season the number of grey-haired ladies to be seen is a matter of general comment. In these days grey hairs are apt to make their appearance in early middle life, indeed, in many cases while the owner is in the flower of her youth. The Marchioness of Ripon's hair has been white for years. Mrs. Hall Walker, one of the lovely Sheridans, has white hair, which is the envy of all her friends. She is one of the young matrons. Another is Mrs. John Jacob Astor, whose snowy tresses single her out for admiration in any crowd. Since she was seventeen Lady Henry Bentinck has had white hair. She is a sister-in-law of the Duke of Portland, and one of the most picturesque women in London. Madame von Andre, a popular American, says if a woman has the proper coloring for white hair, that it is irresistible. Her own certainly is. Countess Fritz-Hockberg, who is a sister of Lord Ferry, a typical Irish beauty, with her dark eyes and fair complexion, has wonderful white hair. Since Lady Warwick's red-gold hair has begun to turn white her friends say she is more beautiful than at any other time in her life.

MANY BIG LEAGUE STARS COST LITTLE.

The greatest six young stars in baseball—Jackson, Gregg, Cobb, Collins, Speaker and Alexander—cost a total of $18,000; $4,400 less that Barney Dreyfuss paid for Marty O'Toole, and $23,400 less than the amount paid for O'Toole, Rube Marquard, Lefty Russell and Russell Blackburne.

Vean Gregg cost the Naps $6,000. The Spokane club received $4,000 in cash and a player for him. Then Gregg was loaned to Portland for a season.

Joe Jackson cost the Naps $10,000, including the amount paid for Bris Lord, who was traded to the Athletics as a part of the Jackson deal, and remuneration made the New Orleans club.

Eddie Collins didn't cost Connie Mack a cent beyond railroad fare from New York to Philadelphia. Collins was at Columbia University, and signed with Mack after had begged a job from McGraw and was turned down there.

Ty Cobb cost Detroit $600. In 1906 Detroit loaned Eddie Cicotte, pitcher now with the Red Sox, to the Augusta, Ga., club for the privelege of buying any player on the team at the close of the season. When the time came to pick a player Bill Armour, Detroit manager, didn't know whether to take Cobb or Clyde Engle. He took a gambler's chance on Cobb. Engle broke into the major leagues three years later.

The Phillies paid $750 for Grover Alexander, and the Red Sox $750 for Tris Speaker. Both were drafted, Alexander from Syracuse and Speaker from the Texas State League. Alexander has won his twenty-first victory of the season. He has been beaten only five times in all.

Several other stars cost little or nothing. Jack Barry, Jack Coombs and Chief Bender didn't cost Connie Mack a cent. He took them from college. Jimmy Archer cost the Cubs $1,000 and Brooklyn paid $5500 for Nap Rucker, about the best left-hand pitcher in the National League.

Look here, ye modern statisticians, at the feat of the Cincinnati Reds, who in 1869-70 won 81 straight games, which is the world's record in that respect, and is likely to stand. The Cuban Giants won 35 exhibition games in 1893. Corcana Club of the Texas League won 27 consecutive victories in 1902. Same season, in June, the Charlotte team of the North Carolina League placed 25 victories to its credit. In 1900 the Houston (Texas) League Club ran 24 games before again meeting defeat. After 21 successive victories by the Lancaster Club of the Atlantic League the team had to submit to defeat at Richmond.

Big league records for straight wins: Providence Nationals, 1894, 20; Chicago White Sox, American, 1906, 19; New York Giants, National, 1894, 18. Turning to the other side, the Pittsburg Nationals in 1890 lost 23 consecutive games while, in 1889, Louisville lost 26 in a row, which is the world's league record.

BOXING

A big crowd witnessed the bout between Jimmy Barry of this city and Pewee Adams of Toronto at the armouries on Tuesday night and the unanimous verdict was that it was one of the best exhibitions of the fistic art that was ever given in Belleville. Both boys were eager, both were skilful and both showed a readiness to mix it at all times. The consequence was that every round was well contested. Barry displayed a degree of cleverness which astonished his friends, and with a little more experience he will be a formidable man in his class. Adams has been for sometime noted as one of Toronto's bantams and claims the championship of his weight. He's certainly well up in the game, being a hard hitter and shifty on his feet, but in no respect did he have much advantage of the local representative. There was, of course, no decision other than the individual opinion of those who witnessed the event.

HOLIDAY FOR THE EYES

A Rest of a Day Once a Month is Necessary

Everybody should give his eyes a day's holiday at least once a month. An experienced house-surgeon of a well-known London eye-hospital gave this advice in a lecture. "In the present age," he said, "we experience far more eye-strain, owing to increased reading habits and multitudes of glaring lights, than our forefathers did, and we suffer more from headaches. Therefore, give your eyes a holiday as frequently as possible. Give them a day's absolute rest and the relief the next day will be most refreshing. When taking an eye-holiday a room with green wall-paper is a good place to rest in if one cannot get to the country amid Nature's green fields and trees. Green rests the eyes more than any other color."

FOUR PERSONS DROWN

Montreal Has an Epidemic of Disasters in Water.

Three Young Men Lose Their Lives In Various Catastrophes In Harbor and Body of an Unknown Man Is Discovered In Wellington Basin —Hamilton Boy Falls Into Canal—Militiaman In Well.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—Four victims of drowning were taken from the water of the harbor yesterday, and in three of the cases the victims were under 20 years of age.

With his boat overladen with driftwood which he had gathered from the harbor to help in the support of his mother and sisters, John Archibald MacPherson, 19 years of age, lost his life when his boat swamped Tuesday afternoon.

The body was recovered and taken to the morgue, where it was identified by the mother yesterday morning. The coroner's inquest disposed of the case as one of accidental drowning.

Men on board the market boat Princess yesterday morning saw the corpse of a boy floating in the canal at Lachine. The police were notified and the body was recovered between Cote St. Paul and Lachine and identified as that of Zeotique Leduc, 8 years of age, who had been missing from his home at 34 St. Louis street, Lachine, since Monday night.

Victor Ethier, 18 years of age, who resided with his parents at Beaubien street, met his death while in bathing with a couple of other little chaps, all of whom had walked out to the Back River for the purpose of learning to swim. The tragedy occurred at the south end of the bridge, known as Pont Viau, where the current is quite strong. The body has not been recovered.

Still another victim was recovered from the Wellington Basin early yesterday morning, near the Dominion Coal Co.'s sheds. He was a middle-aged man, dressed in blue serge coat, trousers and vest and black boots; $3.41 in money was found in his pockets as well as his watch. He is awaiting identification at the morgue.

Boy Fell Into Canal.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 3.—Twelve-year-old Edgar Cuff, while fishing on the Turbinia Steamship Co.'s pier, was drawned at noon yesterday. The lad left his playmate at one end of the dock to secure a cork from a group of boys at the other end, and, unseen by his chum, fell, or was pushed in the water, which at that point is about twelve feet deep. The group of boys ran as soon as the splash took place, and the drowned lad's companion ran for help to the police. The latter are seeking the other lads.

Beads of perspiration are the jewels of toil.

COW AS PASSENGER

Russian Railway Employes Treated the Director's Bovine Quite Royally

Railway employes in Russia realize that they are working not in the interest of the public, but for the Director of the railway. A characteristic incident is reported from Samara. A cow belonging to the Director of the railway had to travel from Santoust to Samara. The railway officials along the line were very anxious about the safety of the animal, and as soon as the cow was placed in a specially prepared truck instructions by wire were sent all along the line. At Bugutusslau the truck was attached to a fast train, so that the cow would be saved the discomfort of slow travelling. The station-master at Kinel paid a special visit to the cow, and then telegraphed to the Director of the railway: "Cow passed in the train 911. Health excellent." When the cow reached her journey's end a crowd of railway officials met the train, and accorded her something like a royal reception. Passengers by the train were greatly annoyed, and they complain that the railway's employes concerned themselves more about the cow than the safety of human life.

DENTAL DISEASES

The Chief Cause is Soft and Sticky Food Eaten by Children

Dr. J. Sim Wallace, speaking at the Imperial Health Congress at Caxton Hall, under the auspices of the Women's Imperial Health Association, said that the cause of dental diseases was the soft and sticky nature of the foods commonly consumed by children. "When certain foods of a starchy and sticky nature lodge in the teeth," he added, "they ferment and give rise to acids which destroy the enamel. Unless such foods are eaten with a corresponding amount of food of a fibrous or firm and cleansing nature, decay is sure to result. Chronic ill-health and concommittant emaciation in children prevent the perfect development of the jaws, and this is largely the result of a system of feeding, which has resulted in the foisting on children of all ages of foods which leave the mouth in a state of chronic fermentation." Mr. Ralph P. Williams stated that out of 76,000 school children in Sheffield, 60,000—more than 79 per cent.—were in urgent need of dental treatment.

ENTRANCE TO THE NORMAL SCHOOLS

The results of the examinations for entrance into Normal Schools were announced yesterday.

The Department of Education yesterday made the following statement. The certificates of the successful candidates and the statements of marks of those who failed will be mailed to the principals or inspectors in the course of a few days.

The appeal examiners have already re-read the papers of each candidate whose marks would in former years have justified an appeal. Where such a candidate has still failed his statement of marks will be stamped as re-read and no further appeal will be allowed. In all other cases of failure appeals will not be refused if made before September 1, and accompanied by the fee of $2. In view of all the precautions taken, however, it is most unlikely that such appeals would succeed.

Successful candidates who desire to attend the coming season at the Normal schools are notified that their application for admission must be made to the Deputy Minister of Education not later than Tuesday, Sept. 5th. The Normal schools will open on Tuesday, September 20th at 9 a. m., at which time all candidates must present themselves. Applicants are required to be at least eighteen years of age before October 1. Further information regarding the condition of admission may be obtained from sections 4 and 5 of the syllabus copies of which may be obtained on application to the Deputy Minister of Education. No candidate will be admitted who does not comply fully with the conditions of these sections.

The possible effect of the hot weather on the candidates writing on this examination has been fully considered and every allowance deemed necessary has been made. It is worthy of note that the percentage of successful candidates is much higher than in either 1909 or 1910.

FORMER BELLEVILLIAN KILLED AT TORONTO

William Smith a Watchman Struck While Guarding Pavement Repair Works

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—While trying to keep vehicle traffic on the right side of the road, William Smith, a city watchman, aged 69, living at 6 Ashdale avenue, was knocked down and instantly killed by a west-bound King car last night at nine o'clock.

Just how the accident happed nobody seems to know as no person saw the fatality, which occurred opposite 1634 Queen street, fifty yards east of Coxwell-avenue, where the tracks are being repaired.

According to Mrs. Solman, who lives at 1632 Queen street, Smith was standing on the devil strip watching for moving vehicles. As the west-bound road is blocked, all traffic travelled on the south side of the road At the point where the old man was struck down, the road bed has been repaired so west-bound vehicles cross over to the other side. This is where Smith was standing warning the drivers and keeping things moving. Mrs Solman did not see the affair as she was busy doing needlwork, sitting at the front door with her back to the street. According to the motor man he did not see Smith on the track till he had hit him. He reversed the motor immediately, but the body was under the truck and one of the wheels had passed over the body. The body was wedged in so tight that a jack was necessary to raise the truck.

Coroner W. A. Young will open an inquest on the body this afternoon Mr. Smith was born in Shannonville 69 years ago and was a descendant of United Empire Loyalists. He moved to Toronto with his family eleven years ago from Belleville, where he occupied a position in the water works of that city. Mr. Smith was an Orangeman and a Conservative. In religion he was a Methodist.

Four sons and four daughters and a widow survive. The sons are: George Crawford street; Stephen, of Sydney Manitoba; Frank, of Toronto Junction and Herbert, at home. The daughters are: Mrs. Ernest Woods, Ashland avenue; Mrs. Robert Brown, Woodbine Avenue; Gertrude and Dorothy, at home.

FIFTY MILLION LOAVES TO BE BAKED

Big Bread Merger is Being Formed in Toronto by Cawthra Mulock and Associates

TORONTO, August 4.—The establishment of another large industry for Canada will result from the negotiations closed here to-day by Mr. Cawthra Mulock, for the organization of the Canada Bread Company, Ltd The company will have modern bread manufacturing plants in Montreal Toronto, and Winnipeg, and it is the intention to arrange in the near future for the erection of plants in all the other large cities of the Dominion.

This company, when the immediate plans of extensions and new plants are completed will have a weekly output of 1,000,000 loaves, giving an annual production of about 50,000,000 loaves.

According to an announcement made here to-day by Mr. Cawthra Mulock; included in the company are five of among the largest bread manufacturing companies in Canada, among them being the Bredin Bread Company, of Toronto; Stuarts Limited, of Montreal; Geo. Weston, Ltd., Toronto (known as the model bakery); W. J Boyd, Winnipeg, and H. C. Tomlin Toronto, (known as the Toronto Bakery Co.). The businesses taken over have all grown from very small beginnings and are to-day the most successful in their respective fields in the country. The services of the men who have made the different businesses pre-eminently successful are being assured to the new company. Mr. Mark Bredin, head of the Bredin Bread Co., Toronto, and regarded perhaps as the most successful bread manufacturer in Canada as yet, will be General Manager, while the Board of Directors will include Geo. Weston, President of Geo. Weston, Ltd.; H. C. Tomlin, of The Toronto Bakery Co., and W. J. Boyd, of Boyd's Bakery, Winnipeg.

The Canada Bread Company at the outset is being placed in a very strong financial position by the sum of $1,000,000 being placed in the treasury to provide for the erection of new plants and the extension of the present ones, and at the same time supply ample working capital. When seen by a correspondent to-day Mr. Mark Bredin, the General Manager, pointed out that the new bread company with its modern and up to date plants would be in a position to turn out a more uniform and better grade of bread while the systematizing of the distribution will insure to the company the saving of enormous sums that are now being wasted owing to the customers of the different bakeries being largely spread over all sections of the city.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Niobe disaster was an ill omen for the Laurier crew and foretells a worse shipwreck on September 21st.

A vote for the Fielding-Taft pact means the undoing of Canadian nationality. Vote for Borden candidates and Canada for Canadians.

BORDEN AND BUSINESS FOR CANADIAN RAILWAYS AND STEAMBOATS.

And so in Canada, where the expenditure in 1895-5, the last year of Conservative rule, amounted to $44,000,$$$, whereas under Grit rule it amounted to $133,441,524 in 1909.

Tax-raising means something in Japan. In 1893 the taxes amounted to only £43,000,000. In 1910 they reached £244,500,000. No wonder the increased cost of living is severely felt in Japan.—Hamilton Times.

When the price of hay in the United States is quoted against the Canadian price, add one-eighth to the quotation across the line. The Canadian ton is 2,000 pounds. The United States ton is 2,240 pounds.

The Canadian clubs of Chicago are to build a million dollar clubhouse And we thought that the Laurier Government had enticed all the Canadians back from the United States.—Ottawa Journal.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's navy in on the rocks and has been badly damaged. Sir Wilfrid is himself on the political rocks. The extent of the damage will not be made manifest until September 22nd. In the meantime he is flying signals of distress.

The Jersey Journal assures United States farmers that they need have no fear of competition from Canadian farmers as a consequence of reciprocity "We shall continue," it says, "to send more farming products to Canada than we import from that country."

BORDEN AND FISCAL INDEPENDENCE FOR CANADA.

Somebody ought to test that thermometer which credits Kingston every hot day with a maximum of 10 degrees or thereabouts below that of Toronto, Hamilton, Belleville, Montreal and other places. Either the instrument or the observer does not give the correct record.

The sportsmen who attended the trap shooting tournament have gone home perfectly satisfied with the event and the management, and also with the city and those of its people whom they met. The shoot was the most successful that has yet been held by the Association.

Under reciprocity Canadian prices to the producer will come to the United States' level, the cost of living in Canada will follow that prevailing across the line. The sheep imports indicate clearly what will happen to the Canadian farmer and the Canadian consumer when the protection is withdrawn that renders the Canadian market in appreciable measure independent.—Toronto World.

The U. S. millers who are trying to win back the world markets which they are fast losing to Canada, just as they lost the cheese business, declare they must have hard wheat from either Canada or Russia to mix with their softer wheat. Why should not Canada retain the profits of the great milling industry, instead of allowing foreigners to secure the profits from the manufacture at home of our products?

BORDEN AND CONSTANT WORK FOR THE WORKINGMEN OF CANADA.

Reciprocity would be a great thing for the farmer—that is—the U. S. farmer. Sheep which were bought in Buffalo, duty paid on them and slaughtered in Toronto, are now being sold in butcher shops in Belleville "Yes," said the butcher who was spoken to on the subject by The Intelligencer, "we bought the American sheep cheaper than we could buy others no better, at the shop door from farmers who are talking of the benefits of reciprocity and the market of ninety millions."

To those Ontario Liberal members of Parliament and business men who raised their voices in condemnation of the Taft-Fielding reciprocity agreement, is now added a Liberal newspaper, the Trenton Courier. The Courier cannot see how Canadian business conditions are to be bettered by the proposals now before the country, and adds that if the United States wants Canadian farm stuffs and natural products free of duty it is at liberty to get them free, just as Great Britain does now. The point is well taken What Canada wants of U. S. farm stuffs and products free it admits free The United States can copy the recipe —Montreal Gazette.

The Spokesman Review, Spokane Wash.,—"If within a year or two the United States finds it impossible to persuade Canada to extend her free trade provisions to cover all products of both countries, the Spokesman Review believes the people of the United States will insist upon the re-enactment of the tariff on Canadian farm products imported into this country."

Very good. Canada has waxed and grown so fat during the last forty-five years up the constant commercial hostility of the United States that that country is now seeking the triple object of sharing the prosperity of the Dominion and preventing possible inter-British preferential trade, with annexation as the possible—they regard it as the probable—final outcome.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Additional Attention Given to Them at this Year's C. N. E.

The new Women's Building is not the only evidence that the Canadian National Exhibition is this year giving special attention to women's and children's work. The women's and children's section of the prize list shows an extended classification covering all the departments of work by women and children. There is a special class for domestic science and another for household arts, while the boys and girls can compete either in separate classes or against each other in general competition. The wider scope thus given to this class of work and the additional advantages for displaying it, promise to make it a distinctive feature of this year's Exhibition.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box. 6

CONSTRUCTION TRAIN REACHES TRENTON

Track Laying Towards Belleville Begun—Two Spans of Moira River Bridge Arrive

The Canadian Northern from Toronto to Brighton is practically completed, ballasted and ready to be turned over to Mackenzie & Mann by the contractor, Mr. Sinclair.

The subway two miles this side of Brighton was completed last week the Grand Trunk shifting over to the new tracks on Wednesday. This stretch of a mile and three quarters of G.T.R. track built at a much higher elevation than the old tracks beside it, was built by the C.N.R. to enable it by way of a subway to pass under the G.T.R.

Track laying was commenced east of the river Monday morning towards Belleville, and the tracks should reach Cole Creek, near Belleville, in two weeks. Two spans for the Belleville bridge have arrived and will be shipped to Belleville over their own tracks Two switches have been put in, one to the north and the other to the south to Gill & Fortune's lumber yard and the Concentrator plant. The Italians are camped in box cars on the east side of the river.

FAMOUS LETTERS SOLD

Some Epistles by Oscar Wilde and Other Geniuses Go to Auction

Bernard Shaw admits he is a genius. Everybody has realized that for some time, but few people realize that Mr. Shaw once admitted there were limitations to his genius. The admission of this is found in a letter written by Shaw to Oscar Wilde, which was put up for sale at auction at Sotheby's. In this letter Mr. Shaw says:

"I hope soon to send you my play, 'Widower's Houses,' which you will find tolerably amusing, considering that it is a farcical comedy. Unfortunately, I have no power of producing beauty; my genius is the genius of intellect."

Other letters written to Oscar Wilde, twenty-nine in all, were sold at the same time that Mr. Shaw's priceless admission was offered to the public. Among the letters are Swinburne, Henley, Burne-Jones, Sargent, Miss Ellen Terry, Millais, Mrs. Langtry, and Whistler.

Whistler had evidently seen Wilde in his "aesthetic" period, walking in Chelsea wearing a coat "befrogged and wonderfully befurred." He writes:

"Oscar, how dare you. What means this unseemly carnival in my Chelsea! Restore those things to Nathan, and never again let me see you masquerading the streets in the combined character of a degraded Kossuth and Mr. Mantalini."

Some of Oscar Wilde's most important manuscripts in prose and verse were offered at this sale. The manuscripts include "The Soul of Man," the picture of "Dorian Grey," "The Florence Tragedy," and "The Sphinx."

Manuscripts by Carlyle, Jane Welsh Carlyle, Swinburne, D. G. Rossetti, and Stevenson, were also sold. Besides some rare volumes of sixteenth and seventeenth century literature.

Magisterial Platitudes

"Many a woman marries a man in order to obtain maintenance," said a magistrate at North London Police Court. His remark evoked some applause.

The proof of success is the ability to deliver the goods.

MLLE. CATRINA GELTZER

The fame of Mme. Pavlova is rivalled by Russia's latest recruit from the Imperial Theatre of St. Petersburg, Mlle. Catrina Geltzer. Mlle. Geltzer appears in a ballet called "The Dance Dream," and brilliant performances have won her a place in British hearts close to that held by Mme. Pavlova, star of the ballet.

CHAPTER VI.

A Family Consultation.

"A follower of satanic works is that boy. I am almost sorry I sent him out. But he exhibited his well-known gameness. He has the pluck and staying powers of his father without a doubt," and a smile came to Robert Grant's lips as he hailed a passing cab and requested to be driven to Champlain Avenue, his brother's residence. "There is something beneath the surface—a cause for the disturbance. Alex had good reason for displaying his prowess. There may be a woman in the mess, but I am of the opinion that blackmail is also part of the ingredient. That boy did two things—he refused to pay, and he protected the woman. I haven't watched him from babyhood without becoming familiar with his characteristics. He always was John's champion, and would face a dozen before showing the white feather. Before thirty-six hours elapse there will be another version, and my nephew will be exonerated. I'll talk to Brother about it. He will be immensely pleased with his boy's science, which is the result of his own systematic training." Then, leaning back in the carriage, Mr. Grant gave way to meditation until his destination was reached.

Instructing the hackman to wait, he walked up a gravel path to his brother's pleasant home, and entered the front door without knocking. Going straight to the library he settled himself in an easy chair and awaited the owner's pleasure, who was at breakfast with his family. Presently John Grant entered. He was a man of perhaps forty-nine, stood five feet ten; had regular features, with a jaw, which, by no means out of proportion, denoted purpose. His countenance bore a genial fun-loving expression, his deep-blue eyes twinkled merrily on the slightest provocation, or snapped dangerously at opposition. Yet there was a dignified bearing about him which made him a most attractive man. His easy motion showed athletic training, and the well-preserved vigorous body spoke of a temperate, moral life.

As a prominet lawyer he was well-known throughout the state, and in the capacity of attorney-general he was respected for his purity of purpose and devotion to the trust placed in his keeping.

"Morning, Bob," he said cordially, selecting a reclining chair. "What brings you around so early? Anything special afloat?

"I should say there was. That boy of yours has turned San Francisco into a battlefield. Read that," and he tossed the Free Press to him.

The father had just unfolded the paper when Mrs. Grant entered, and with a pleasant "Good morning, Robert," perched herself on the side of her husband's chair, her arm resting lightly on his shoulder as she read with him the account of their son's escapade.

She was a beautiful woman; tall and straight, every curve of her still perfect form exhibiting gracefulness. The facial expression was firm, yet benevolent, winning at the first glance the highest regard of an observer. To meet her was to love her; to win her love was to retain it through life. Mrs. Grant was worthy to be looked upon with pride as a descendant of the great Allens to whom her state had owed so much. And none appreciated her worth more than a loving husband and family.

A smile played about the father's mouth as he progressed. He chuckled. Then a hearty "Ha, ha, ha," broke from him.

"Why, John, I don't see anything very amusing," protested Mrs. Grant soberly.

"Oh, ha, ha, ha," was all he could answer.

"It's a serious matter to me," she continued. "Do hold that paper steady so that I may read on."

"I can't, Mary. I have an attack of the shakes."

"Then I will help you," and circling his neck with her arm, she placed a white hand over his mouth. But he continued to shake with merriment, while tears of laughter raced down his cheeks. The mother smiled occasionally, but as a whole took the incident more to heart.

Finally they reached the end, when Mr. Grant gave way to peal after peal of laughter.

"A chip from the old block, isn't he, Mary? We ought to be proud of our son. His sporting blood has come to the surface. I'll bet five dollars he went through that session without a scratch. It takes more than an ordinary professor to do up that boy. I didn't train him for pastime. I expected to hear from him when he got out in the world. Vermont always was noted for an ability to hold her own from the time of Ethan Allen to the present day."

"But, my dear, is it an accomplishment to be proud of?" asked his wife, "By this time it is known throughout the state, and what will the people think of us? You must remember the position you hold in the public eye."

"If Vermont's eye is banged up as much as that Frenchman's it won't be able to see much," and off he went into another spasm.

"John Grant, I am ashamed of you," and indignantly leaving his side she took a seat near her brother-in-law.

A CAUCASIAN MARRIAGE.

Piece of Sugar Put to Lips of Bride to Sweeten Tongue.

In the Caucasus the marriage ceremonies everywhere are of the greatest extravagance in regard to length and the amount of feasting. In Mingrelie large tents are erected for the wedding guests, and the smallest number invited comes to two or three hundred. An interesting and pretty ceremony is the going forth of the bridegroom's mother to meet the bride, to whose lips she puts a piece of sugar, wishing her happiness and joy, and hoping that her tongue may always keep the sweetness of sugar. In the marriage procession all the goods and wealth of the fomily make an appearance. An elderly lady, generally the bride's nurse, plays an important part throughout the ceremonies. She sits by the bride, who neither laughs nor eats during all the merriment and feasting. A meal is served in the nuptial chamber, to which the matron conducts the bride. The bridegroom is refused admission until he buys his entry from the matron. This old lady remains a week in the house, and when she departs the bride breaks into loud lamentations. For a year the young couple are full of respect and attention for their parents, never sitting down in their presence and submitting to their wishes in everything.

REMOVAL OF BIRTHMARKS.

Carbonic Acid Snow Treatment Proving Generally Successful.

In less than a year the carbonic acid snow treatment for birthmarks, warts, and rodent ulcer, first introduced at Charing Cross Hospital, has gained an accepted place in modern therapeutics.

The early experiments with the new remedy, described in these columns last June, have been so successful in suitable cases that now practically every hospital in the country, as well as thousands of general practitioners and skin specialists, is making use of the new medicament.

The snow is prepared by allowing a thin spray of carbonic acid gas, liquefied under pressure, to escape into a felt covering slipped over the tap of the iron cylinder containing the gas. The gas is deposited on the felt as a very fine powdered snow at a temperature of about 100 degrees below zero. The snow is then solidified into an icy pencil by being tightly packed into a hard rubber cylinder with a plunger.

Treatment consists of pressing this intensely cold pencil of carbonic acid ice for a few seconds against the birthmark, wart or rodent ulcer to be removed. The resulting intense cold freezes the part, setting up severe local inflammation, which leads to a breaking down and absorption of the frozen tissues. There is very little pain and the wound heals naturally in a few days, leaving the skin practically normal.

RUSSIAN GRAIN KING.

Was Queer Character, But His Business Integrity Was High.

Of a peculiar stamp was the man of millions, Nicholas Boukhroff, the Russian grain king, who recently died. In his externals he was a mujik merchant. He wore the top boots, the trader's kaftan—coat and overcoat in one, fitting close up to the neck and reaching to the knees—and the embroidered cotton shirt without starched collar, which are the historic garb of the Volga traders, men who carry as much as 50,000 rubles in notes stuck in the leg of a boot and who distrust the documentary machinery of credit. Boukhroff's great fortune compelled him to handle investments and bank paper, but he was in sympathy with the old simple ways. He was in fact an Old Believer and a devout churchgoer who lived his religion.

In his housekeeping he lived on much the same scale as an ordinary hand worker in comfortable employment. He gave away millions of rubles in charity, but was close fisted in personal outlays. The porters at Nijni-Novgorod and elsewhere avoided him when they saw him step from a train. He would never pay them more than 10 cents for carrying his baggage. When he met great personages he "thoued" them, as he did everybody else, keeping to the Old Believer, Quakerlike form of address. His integrity in business was of the highest.

He would lecture men in his employment if they spent five kopeks needlessly. His patriarchial ways had sometimes a welcome side. He exacted unquestioning obedience to his instructions; but every now and then a man who served him well for some years would receive a draft for 25,000 or 50,000 rubles with no further remark than:

"Thou shalt now be a Man, too. I know that thou wilt make good use of the money."

"Very clever, isn't he?"
"Yes."
"I'm told that his three older brothers are mentally weak!"
"Yes, he's the original sane fourth."

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Predictions that the export surplus in Russia this season would be only 80,000,000 bushels against a recent average of more than 200,000,000 bushels took the wheat market aloft today. There were persistent assertions, too, that the presence of black rust in Canadian fields had been confirmed by laboratory tests.

Closing prices were firm at a net advance of 1½c to 1⅝c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ⅝d higher than yesterday on wheat and ½d higher on corn. Antwerp closed unchanged on wheat, Berlin ⅛c lower, and Buda Pest ⅛c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—There was an improved demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat and oats at an advance in prices for August-September shipment, but at the close bids were 9d per quarter out of line for old wheat and 7c per bushel on the new. The enquiry from European sources for spring wheat flour was good. But owing to the sharp advance in wheat values, millers would not pay the price bid. The local demand is dull.

The Conservative Task

Under the above heading the Montreal Gazette remarks that it is not much of a task that is before the Conservative opposition in Canada in connection with the parliamentary elections, that of defeating a majority of the Government candidates, and putting an end to Laurierism. As members had sorted themselves by affiliation or general way of voting, the late House of Commons stood as follows between Government and Opposition:—

	Gov.	Opp.
Ontario	35	51
Quebec	53	12
New Brunswick	11	2
Nova Scotia	12	6
P. E. Island	3	1
Manitoba	2	8
Saskatchewan	9	1
Alberta	4	3
British Columbia	2	5
	132	89

As nearly as may be the Government had 60 percent of the seats and the Opposition 40. A change of 10 per cent. would have made them even; and when the issues are of a character to arouse the interest of the people more than that can easily be accomplished. It can be the more easily accomplished in the present case because the voting strength of the Government in the late House of Commons was grossly out of proportion to the voting strength of its supporters, as shown in the count of the ballots. After the election of 1908 the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, who keeps the records of the polling, prepared a statement of the votes cast for and against the Government candidates. It is as follows:—

	Gov.	Opp.
Ontario	224,821	236,919
Quebec	158,393	129,634
Nova Scotia	56,588	54,500
New Brunswick	40,716	34,945
P. E. Island	14,496	14,286
Manitoba	30,915	37,149
British Columbia	13,412	22,956
Alberta	23,777	22,185
Saskatchewan	33,415	25,997
	596,533	579,571

Through discrepancies in the size of the constituencies and through the operation of the redisribution of seats made after the census of 1901, and from other causes, the Government, whose candidates throughout Canada, by this showing, received only 16,962 more votes than were cast for Conservative nominees, had a majority of 20 per cent. in the House of Commons. This is a state of affairs not likely to be repeated. It shows how slim a majority in the country a large majority in Parliament may have behind it. It shows also how easy is the task of reversing a political verdict. A change of five per cent. in the vote cast for the Government supporters in 1908 would in 1911 put them in a minority in the country and probably also in a minority in the House of Commons. A change of five hundred in the voters is not much to bring about when circumstances are favoroble. They are evidently favorable to the Conservatives now. As has been mentioned, the bye-elections have been going against the Government. It has been a long time in power and its members have lost touch with public sentiment. It has offended the decent opinion of the country by favors shown to grafters and jobsmen. After working to create a national sentiment among the people it suddenly threw up its hands and sought by a commercial treaty to tie up Canada's trade wtih that of the Unitde States Thus it made hostile critics on broad as well as narrow grounds; and they have been active in pressing their views upon the public. The ground has been well prepared for the more active work of the campaign. Especially since the Taft-Fielding agreement was thrust into the public notice it can be said that, supporting the party leaders, the Conservative press has done the best work in its history. The whole situation indicates that never in Canada's politics did a resolute and capable opposition have a better chance of pushing aside an old, worn-out and badly guided administrative party.

LITERARY NOTES

CANADIAN MAGAZINE.

The Canadian Magazine for August contains an article by Professor Ira Mackay, entitled "Canada not Independent," which is a reply to John S. Ewart's article in the same magazine on "Canadian Indipendence." Professor Mackay makes a strong plea against independence. "Saints and Smugglers" is the title of a charming sketch by H. M. Clark of a walking tour in Cornwall. Louise Hayter Birchall gives a novel impression of London, under the title "City of Dreams." Other articles of excellent merit are "Mrs. Simcoe and Her Diary," by Emily R. Weaver; "The Passing of the Sailing Ship," by Chandos St. John Brenon; "Pope's Folly," by A. Wylie Mahon; "Seigneur Julien du Buque," by Sipko Francis Rederus, and "Former Landmarks of Toronto," by Mrs. Forsyth Grant. There are some excellent short sories by A. Clark McCurdy, Frank Packard, Nina E. Bacon, and St. Clair Moor, all Canadian writers.

HUNTING FOR THE KIDNAPPERS

BETHEL, Me., Aug. 3.— search made for 24 hours by a posse of 200 men and boys for Miss Elsie M. Davis, the 22-year-old Methodist church organist, who has mysteriously disappeared, was given a new turn today by the discovery that a strange automobile occupied by two men and a woman was seen to stop for several minutes in front of the Davis homestead on the day she disappeared. No one heard a woman's screams but the cries of a helpless girl could easily have been muffled after she was put into the automobile.

Miss Davis was strikingly beautiful and the belief that she may have committed suicide with her father's revolver, which is missing from a bureau, is given little credence. The townsfolk are inclined to believe that the girl was kidnapped and that she is now in some distant city held prisoner against her will. To-day the mills here and Locks Mills are shut down. All the operatives joined in the girl hunt at daybreak.

Sir Henry to Visit Kingston.

Kingston, July 29.—Sir Henry M. Pellatt will arrive in Kingston on Monday morning by steamer Toronto to attend the Kingston Old Boys' celebration. He will take part in the ceremony of unfurling the flag at Victoria Park on Monday morning.

The homely girl may take consolation from the fact that freckles are always more genuine than blushes.

Sweet oranges were introduced into Europe by the Portuguese in 1547.

REPLANTATION OF DOG'S KIDNEYS

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, reports an operation he performed for the replantation of one kidney in a female dog, which lived for almost two years and six months after the operation.

Dr. Carrel says his experiment proved that the grafting of organs was a possibility.

The experiment was performed on February 1, 1908, under an ether anesthetic, and the kidney was extirpated and washed with a small quantity of Locke's solution. After one hour had elapsed the organ was replaced and circulation was re-established.

For many days after the operation the dog was in excellent health. In March of the following year it gave birth to eleven pups. In July, 1910 the animal suddenly showed symptoms of intestinal obstruction and died.

Dr. Auer performed an autopsy and found a violent colic of the small intestine, while the kidney and other organs appeared normal.

MI-O-NA

AN EXCELLENT STOMACH REMEDY.

Mrs. J. K. Whyte, Killarney, Manitoba, says: "I have found great comfort and relief from Mi-o-na. I had been greatly troubled for months with heartburn and a heavy burning feeling in my stomach. A fair meal would disturb me so much that I would have to sit up a night—the food would sour on my stomach and form a gas which would cause belching and dizzy spells. These distressing troubles disappeared after using Mio-ona and I shall always speak highly of this excellent stomach remedy."

Mio-na is the best prescription for stomach trouble ever written. It gives quick relief and cures permanently. Mi-o-na is put up in tablet form and is small and easy to swallow Sold by leading druggists everywhere 50 cents, with a guarantee to cure or money refunded. Or postpaid from The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie Ont. You will search the world over and ont find a stomach remedy half so good as Mi-o-na. Sold and guaranteed by J. V. Doyle.

ATTEMPS TO X RAY A SOUL

H. Clyde Snook, Roentgen ray expert, and Dr. Arthur W. Goodspeed head of the department of physics at the University of Pennsylvania, have have cabled to London for a minute screen, the invention through which English scientists claim to have obtained a glimpse of a man's soul.

The factory is turning out the remainder of the necessary X-ray appliances for the wonderful search, and shortly one of the freshmen of the University of Pennsylvania will be before the X-ray while a number of the leading scientists of Philadelphia search his anatomy for the "human aura."

The attempt will meet with international approval, as Philadelphia is accredited with being the leading city in the production of results with the X-ray. There are more X-ray specialists in Philadelphia than in any city in the world.

Dr. Snook, when seen regarding the proposed attempt, laughed and remarked rather sarcastically:

"We fear that Dr. O'Donnell of Chicago, who claims that he has seen the soul, has been fooling himself Still we will withhold our judgment until after we have made a faithful investigation, for we can secure instruments in Philadelphia which are not produced elsewhere."

It is with an unbelieving attitude that the local scientists will begin their work. Both of the men directly interested and other scientists who will assist are of the opinion that some ray of light, some scientific phenomenon, or some slight unheard of physical attribute of the human body has been detected and taken for the soul.

When the apparatus for the experiment has been prepared Dr. Goodspeed and Dr. Snook will shut themselves up in one of the laboratories of the University of Pennsylvania with a human subject and begin the work and continue with it until they have proved the truth or falsity of the statement that the "aura" can actually be seen. If they succeed in seeing that which the Englishmen and Dr. O'Donnell declare they saw then the experiment will be pushed to a determination which will settle for the present a scientific question of great weight.

The second stage of the experiment will be an attempt to see the soul as it leaves the body of a dying person This is claimed to be the time when it is most visible, as it becomes completely separated from the physical parts of the human body.

FARMERS TO MEET BORDEN.

Arrangements are being made by the farmers of the three prairie provinces to meet Mr. R. L. Borden when he comes West next month. It is felt by the farmers that as Mr. Borden is Premier of Canada in prospect, he should be made fully aware of the desires of the Western people.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier toured the West last summer he was met by the organized farmers at every point where he held meetings, and the demands of the farmers were firmly and courteously placed before him.

Mr. Borden will hold thirty meetings in the West, and it is the intention to have a delegation meet him at every point and lay before him the needs of the West. The same matters will be brought before Mr. Borden as were discussed with Sir Wilfrid last summer, though the demands of the farmers are now crystallized into more definite shape.

LITERATURE IN RUSSIA

Books That are Popular Among the Russian Children.

Literature of the Sherlock Holmes and Nat Pinkerton type retains its popularity among Russian children. In an interesting report on juvenile reading presented to the Library Congress now being held in St. Petersburg, the following criticism, written by a Moscow schoolgirl, was quoted: "I adore Pinkerton. How brilliant is the picture of this prodigious man, who has consecrated his life to the extermination of criminals, these plagues of the human race." Similar tributes are paid to Sherlock Holmes by youthful readers. Hans Andersen is the most popular author among Moscow children under 12 years old. Grimm comes second. The favorite foreign writers are Mrs. Beecher Stowe, Defoe, Jules Verne, Mark Twain and Mayne Reide.

ARE THE MEN THE WEAKER SEX?

Women Gaining Muscular Supremacy.

A college professor expresses the conviction that women are gaining the muscular supremacy over men. He attributes this to their taking a more active interest in outdoor sports, while the men are becoming indolent in that respect, and prefer being spectators to participants in athletic exercises. With their admitted superiority in all the arts and graces, including fluency of expression, and to add to this physical predominance, there seems to be little left for mere man but to plod unostentatiously along in the ranks of the producers, and continue to pass up his gross earnings to his mental and physical superior every Saturday.

Mix together three cupfuls of mashed potatoes, one scant cupful of chopped onion, one saltspoonful of sage one beaten egg and pepper and salt to taste. Shape into croquettes, roll in crumbs, dip in beaten egg, roll again in crumbs, let stand one or more hours and fry in hot fat. Serve with white sauce.

TAX ON BACHELORS.

During the period under William III., when bachelordom was taxed peers had to pay more dearly than commoners for the privilege of single bliss. The yearly tax levied on bachelors ranged from £12 11s. in the case of dukes and archbishops down to one shilling in the case of those scheduled as "other persons."

Furthermore a duke was compelled to pay £50 when he married, £30 when his eldest son was born, £25 when every younger son was born £30 when his eldest son was married £50 when his wife was buried and £30 when his eldest son was buried And the other members of the peerage had to pay similar taxes graduated according to their rank.

BROWN STEW.

Two pounds and a half of neck and shoulder of fresh beef cut in small pieces. If too fat remove some of it wash meat and put on stove in about two quarts or more of hot water in a good sized kettle. Add two onions sliced thin, two good sized carrots cut in dice, three medium sized potatoes cut up. Stew should cook about three hours and a half. Don't boil too hard. Should be quite thick and very dark rich brown in color and not fat. Put in onions, carrot, salt and pepper when you put on the meat; put in potatoes about half an hour before the stew is done.

AN EGG AND CHEESE SALAD.

A fine head of crisp white lettuce a brick of cream cheese, and about four hard-boiled eggs are the necessaries. Tear the lettuce leaves from the setem, lay in ice water for half an hour, then wipe dry, using immediately. Press the cheese and egg yolk through a sieve, but not at the same time. Take separate dishes for cheese and yolks. Toss the greated cheese and grated yolks together, using twice as much cheese as egg, and make into soft balls. Roll each ball in paprika and a little salt. Dip the very edges of the lettuce leaves in French dressing and then very carefully in some fine egg. Lay a leaf or two on each plate and about three of the cheese and egg balls in the centre.

Surround with the white of the eggs chopped fine and dress with a very little oil and one-fourth as much vinegar and a pinch of salt.

SMART, SIMPLE COTTON FROCKS

The cottons for simple cotton frocks are unusually lovely this season, and lines and trimmings are so simple that with good patterns it would seem as though any seamstress could turn out attractive tub frocks. Ginghams are receiving more attention than usual and merit it because of their good colorings and wearing qualities. One can get plain pinks and blues and lavenders and buffs in this practical material now, and if one buys a good quality it will stand laundering. A dainty morning frock model is in a cool clear buff gingham, made in one piece and buttoning all the way down the front with white pearl buttons and with no trimming save white embroidery collars and cuffs Another extremely smart model is a black and white gingham—white ground with narrow black stripes—trimmed only with transverse bands of striped material and shallow little yoke piped with rose color.

Striped stuffs are used to trim plain materials and so are bands of checked or dotted material. A black and white stripe was the trimming for a likeable little rose pink gingham morning frock and another model had a wide collar and deep cuffs of white linen dotted in black used with a plain blue gingham.

A good imitation Cluny lace trims some of the cheap tub frocks effectively, but embroidery is more used, and the eyelet embroidery forms good looking little yokes. Bands of embroidery by stitched bands of plain toned linen trim sheer or lightweight cottons well.

MARRIAGE SUPERSTITIONS.

The old couplet, "Change the name and not the letter; marry for worse and not for better," holds as good today as it did in by-gone ages, although why it should be considered unlucky for Miss Smith to marry Mr Smalley is beyond the comprehension of the unsuperstitious. However there is many a girl refused a man for that very reason.

There is another superstition that a girl in love does not dare defy. It is the belief that her sweetheart must not be watched out of sight, for this portends that the meeting will be the last one. If she has several admirers and wishes to learn which one she loves best she must pluck a rose and name each petal after an admirer Then the petal should be thrown into a stream, and the one which disappears last is the favored suitor.

There are no end of superstitions concerning the wedding day itself One is that the bride who sees herself in the mirror fully arrayed in her bridal finery will be unhappy all her married life. Another concerns the ring. If it is dropped by the nervous bridegroom matrimonial misfortune will result. The wedding day itself must be favorable as to weather, for "happy is the bride the sun shines on." And rain portends evil. In Germany, however, the bride prays for rain, for "every drop brings a new joy."

If the bride sees the bridegroom before he sees her she will rule through life, and vice versa.

ABANDONED FARMS IN THE UNITED STATES

What the Market of Ninety Millions Has Not Done for the American Farmer

Mr. W. P. Eaton has an article in the American Magazine on the "Abandoned Farms" of the New England States. He deals with the picturesque side of the desolation that has overtaken a once populous district. Here in the centre of a village are not more than ten houses, three of them boarded up and abandoned. Through the window chinks of one you may see the crayon portraits still hanging on the walls and the crocheted tidies on the chairs. Just south of the millpond there is a deserted creamery.

Further down the valley is an old church guiltless of a minister now except for the Sunday afternoon visits of a pastor from a distance. There are no houses near it now; it represents the ancient centre of population But an eighth of a mile away an abandoned farm house sits in the lonesome fields. Golden rod and aster bloom amidst the neglected gravestones of the local cemetery. Only the birds break the silence, in June the sweet fluting of the Peabodies and in the golden twilight the mournful throb of the hermit thrushes. The road winds on now past scattered farms, some abandoned, some looking as if they would soon have to be.

Later on the writer comes across a little house, silvery gray where its weathered boards show through the tangle of wild woodbine, which has clambered over the black aperatures of the windows, pulled the gutters half off, and twined triumphantly about the great chimney where the last sprig of it flies like a banner at the top.

He continues:—"Here they are, between half-mile stretches of second growth timber where an abandoned stone wall shows through the glint of the birches—mute witnesses of fields once under cultivation—only the silver-gray ruins of farms and stables their surrounding fields untilled. Some of the houses, indeed, are gone completely, save for a pile of bricks where the chimney stood, and the ring of the foundation stones, half buried in fire weed and clematis. * * * If you stand at a corner of this barn, beside a ruined sled runner, serving now as a trellis for tansy, raspberry vines and jewel weed, you can look for some distance towards the southwest and count a half dozen other abandoned farm-houses or barns, like elephants browsing over the hills."

Again he says:—"As the road draws near a village, not all the houses are abandoned. One splendid old place as large and square and simply dignified as the colonial farmhouses of the earlier and richer settlements of Massachusetts, like Deerfield or Concord is now lapsing into decay. At one of the four corners of a cross-roads is an inhabitated house. At two corners are deserted house, charming houses, too with carved window caps and colonial paneled doors. At the fourth corner is the dilapidated church and ruined horse-shed. Up the road is a tiny school house, sadly in need of paint and a dwelling where the only sign of life is a horse tethered in the door yard. Land is cheap in this forgotten township, and the scene as fair as any in this beautiful State."

Mr. Eaton proceeds: "Our abandoned farms are so cheap. * * * There is much talk of mission work amogst the rural poor of New England." Let those who glorify reciprocity as a great boom for the Ontario farmer point out any abandoned farms in this Province. In certain States they run into tens of thousands Let the Government also show us whole tracts of "rural poor" in Ontario. If access to the American market has not saved New England from the desolation of abandoned farms, how is such access going to enrich the whole Canadian agricultural community?

BELGIAN CHILDREN.

Parents share their Pleasures with Offspring.

This delight in the family life is characteristic of all Belgians. One sees in Brussels and Antwerp monsieur promenading in the boulevard or the bois with a cigar in his mouth, madame leaning on his arm and the children, hand in hand, walking sedately under the proud eye of their parents.

One finds children in the restaurants and children in the music halls. The pleasures of father and mother are shared always with the nursery. To go junketing without the children would appear to the Belgian not only selfish but dull. His happiness is the happiness of his children. He sees the circus half with his own eyes and half with theirs. The toyshops and bookshops in Brussels tell of th paramount part played by the child. The happiness of this people is the pleasure of domesticity.

OUR VANISHING OYSTER SUPPLY

When eating oysters did you ever wonder where they were grown, The chances are even that they came from the United States. Last year Canada paid out over $369,000 for foreign oysters that she could have easily have grown herself. In addition to this the consumer had to pay over $43,000 duty on them. Although the natural conditions for growing oysters in the Maritime Provinces are excellent, the annual production has been steadily decreasing. In 1882 there were 64,649 barrels, harvested while in 1907 the production was only 27,299 barrels. This decrease has taken place in the face of an increase in price of 240 per cent in the past twenty years, which, needless to say, has greatly stimulated the efforts of the fishermen.

We may well ask why Canada is committing the economic blunder of importing a product that she could produce herself. The reason in this case is that a dispute over jurisdiction between the Dominion and Provincial Governments has left the fisherman in such a state of uncertainty that he does not care to invest his capital in the artificial cultivation of oysters. The experience of other countries goes to show that the oyster industry can only be put on a permanent basis by means of oyster farms maintained by private individuals. Indeed, in the United States $10,000,000 worth of the $18,000,000 worth of oysters produced annually is derived from private culture. As the jurisdictional dispute nou stands as the result of a decision of the Imperial Privy Council in 1898, the Provinces own the foreshore on which the oysters are grown, while the Dominion has the right to impose regulative restrictions such as close seasons and the kind of fishing gear that may be used, which could virtually render the privilege of the right to fish worthless. By the same decision it wsa held that both the Dominion and the Provinces concerned had the right to tax the oyster culturist. Unless the Governments concerned can soon arrive at a compromise, definitely settling matters of jurisdiction so that the oyster farmer will be enabled to engage in artificial propagation, the oyster beds will be fished out. Unrestricted fishing stimulated by high prices will now speedily complete the depletion of this valuable natural resource unless private cultivation can be induced.

The opening of a new fluorspar mine east of Crookston, on the Tweed road has been commenced. It gives great promise, and contains traces of copper, peculiar to that ore. All indications point to a fine mine, but trouble from water is anticipated. Wm Storing, of Crookston, is in charge.

The company which owns a mine of fluorspar near Moira Lake have bought the water right and will proceed to develop the mine.

The mill at Mr. Hungerford's talc mine will be ready to start in about two weeks. A large amount of the mineral is on hand.

There were 560 boxes offered at the cheese market. The leading price was 12 5-16c.—all sold to Kerr.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev Mr. Montrae. Among the guests was Mr. John R. Ketcheson, father of the bride's mother, who is hale and hearty in his ninety-fourth year, also Mr James O'Hara, father of the bride's father, who is 86 years, and was the first white child born in the township of Madoc. The presents were elegant and of a useful character. The groom's present to the bride was an elegant pearl necklace. The happy couple left for the Queen City and other points west.

The work of flooring the new steel bridge at the lake with cement will be commenced two weeks hence. The bridge at all times will be opened to foot passengers.

CERTAIN IT WAS GRIRO

Witnesses Strengthen the Case Against Fugitive Italian.

Inquest at Toronto Into Death of Frank Tarro Results In a Verdict Expressing Belief in the Guilt of Murdered Man's Former Friend—Several Persons Identify the Picture and One Tells of Selling Knife.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—"That a certain person, whom we, the jurors in the case, believe to be Frank Griro, on the 30th day of July, did feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought, kill and murder Frank Tarro."

The coils of circumstantial evidence have been surely tightening around the missing Frank Griro, or Grossio, alias Rossaro, for whom the police are searching for the murder of his compatriot, Frank Tarro, last Sunday, and last night, at the conclusion of the inquest, the chain of evidence was practically completed, and the foregoing verdict returned.

Witness after witness identified the murderer with the picture of Griro, as taken by the police department. Slowly his route of escape is being worked out.

A witness, last evening, Herbert Eastough, a street railway conductor, giving evidence to the fact that he got on his car at Front and John streets in a very nervous condition, getting off again at Bathurst street, and striking down over the tracks. It is believed that he boarded an eastbound freight train. Oran Benson gave evidence that he had passed the man on Yonge street shortly after the murder.

P. C. Craig told the story of the fruitless chase. He was at West Market and Front street when he heard shots fired. Running to the scene, he started in pursuit of the fleeing assassin, but a man shouted to him to come back. Still he ran on, but again the man shouted, telling him, as he thought, that the fugitive was returning. He came back, but found that he meant the man was dead. He thought it a suicide.

He told of finding a revolver and said that another revolver and a stiletto were handed him by the other men.

The strongest evidence against Griro was given by Max Guenberg, who, after identifying him by the photograph, stated that he had known him for some time, having met him in Hamilton. He told of his coming into his store for a knife. When he showed him the knife he declared he wanted a larger one, explaining that it was for a friend. He identified the knife found near the scene of the murder as the knife he sold to Griro on Friday night.

Won't Store Any More Grain.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—As a result of the conditions which have existed in the port of Montreal since the present season of navigation opened, it is understood that the harbor commissioners will shortly announce that in future no grain will be received in their elevator which is not destined for immediate transshipment to transatlantic ports. It is also stated that the period of twenty days' free storage at present allowed by the commissioners will be discontinued.

The commissioners state that the congestion is due to shippers sending grain here and keeping it in storage, instead of at once shipping it across the Atlantic.

Refused to Give Evidence.

Winnipeg, Aug. 4.—The efforts of the Provincial Commission to investigate the circumstances surrounding the methods by which the St. Peter's Reserve lands of great value were secured by speculators at the time the Indians surrendered their titles to the Government was suddenly blocked yesterday by the refusal of J. O. Lewis, who represented the Indian Department of the Dominion Government in the deal to testify. He refused on the ground that the commission has no legal authority to grant the investigation. The commission adjourned until the courts can order Lewis to testify.

New Sanitarium.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—Dr. J. E. Laberge of the infectious disease department, has presented an application to the City Council for the inauguration of a sanitarium on the mountain, for incipient sufferers from tuberculosis.

His scheme would provide a building wherein the patients would be able to have suitable diet specified by the medical officer of health, and sleep out in the open at night. Special cars would bring them down to work in the city during the day. This idea, he is convinced, would have a great tendency to lessen the spread of the disease, which is alarming the city.

Admiral Togo Arrives at New York.

New York, Aug. 4.—Admiral Count Heihachiro Togo, chief of the naval staff of the Japanese Empire, and hero of the battle of the Sea of Japan, will land in New York from the Lusitania to-day, to be the guest of the United States for the following two weeks. He will leave for Canada by way of Niagara on the 16th or 17th, taking the steamer for Japan at Vancouver.

Building Trades Boom.

Kingston, Aug. 4.—Building operations in Kingston this year will figure close on $300,000. For the seven months ending July, the amount of building was $172,614 against $135,961 last year.

Two buildings yet to report are, in addition to the postoffice and lead smelter, which will add $70,000 to the present amount.

Aeroplane Dropped Into Crowd.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Physicians yesterday reported the injury of five persons, who narrowly escaped death last on Wednesday when an aeroplane dropped 100 feet into a crowd of spectators at West Pullman, Illinois. Frank Belfai, the aviator, was uninjured.

TO SIGN ARBITRATION

Epoch-Marking Treaty Concluded by Three Powers.

Great Britain, United States and France Will All Have Affixed Their Seals to Agreement by Which They Will Not Go to War on Any Matter Which Either Thinks Capable of Arbitration.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Three of the world's greatest nations joined hands yesterday in opening the way to the coveted goal of statesmen of modern times—universal peace. Before the day is closed, Great Britain and the United States and France will have signed general arbitration treaties for the peaceful settlement of all disputes that may be locked in the mystery of the future, even though they concern the national honor or vital interests of the signatories, subjects invariably excepted in existing arbitration treaties.

The general features of the new treaties are:

All differences internationally justiciable, shall be submitted to The Hague, unless by special agreement some other tribunal is created or selected.

Differences that either country thinks are not justiciable shall be referred to a commission of inquiry, composed of nationals of the two Governments, empowered to make recommendations for their settlement. Should the commission decide that the dispute be arbitrated, such decision will be binding.

Before arbitration is resorted to, even in cases where both countries agree that the difference is susceptible of arbitration, the commission of inquiry shall investigate the dispute with a view of recommending a settlement without arbitration.

The commission, at the request of either Government, will delay its findings one year to give an opportunity for diplomatic settlement.

The Senate will ratify the terms of submission of each dispute to arbitration.

The conventions grew directly out of President Taft's speech in Washington December 18 last, before the American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes, in which he said:

"If now we can negotiate and put through a positive agreement with some great nation to abide the adjudication of an international arbitral court in every issue which cannot be settled by negotiation, no matter what it involves, whether honor, territory, or money, we shall have made a long step forward by demonstrating that it is possible for two nations at least to establish, as between them, the same system of due process of law that exists between individuals under a Government."

Signed In France.

Paris, Aug. 4.—The Franco-American Arbitration Treaty was signed at 2.08 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This is hailed in this country as meaning the extension of a movement in all countries for the reduction of armaments to have absolute prevention of wars. The general view is that a tremendous impetus has been given to the world-wide peace campaign.

The Figaro in a long study of the situation resulting, declares that if other nations do not join the movement, those who have pledged for arbitration should adopt the principle of boycotting by inserting a clause in the international agreements, providing that they shall suspend all relations of commerce, transportation, and postal intercourse with any country warring upon one of the signers. For example, the paper says that if Great Britain, the United States, and France should boycott Germany by refusing all relations with her, the action would be certain to cause the confusion and ruin of that nation.

"By boycotting," The Figaro adds, "we will obtain obligatory arbitration, and then the limitation of armaments."

Catholic Foresters Raise Rates.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 4.—After a long and stubborn fight, the Catholic Order of Foresters in their bi-ennial convention here yesterday, decided to raise the order's insurance rates so as to equal the rates adopted by the National Federal Congress.

The new rates will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1913. The decision to increase the rates was carried by only nine votes. The delegates by a large majority vote decided to continue holding bi-ennial sessions and not change to quadriennial sessions.

Election of officers will be held to-day.

Auto Was Second-Hand.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—Montreal's municipal authorities were badly fooled when they bought Fire Chief Tremblay an automobile to enable him to be quickly on the scene when fires are reported.

Chief Tremblay reported to the Board of Control yesterday that the car has been under expert examination, and is now said to have been second-hand when bought.

Aeroplane Postal Service.

London, Aug. 4.—The Postmaster-General is arranging with Graham White, the aviator, for an experimental aeroplane postal service between London and Windsor.

King George is greatly interested in the project and has given permission to use Windsor Park as the terminus of the route. The service will start during the present month.

Mangled Beyond Identification.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 4.—The finding of a man's hat and coat on the cow-catcher of a locomotive cleaned at Moncton told the tale of an awful accident. A search revealed the body of a man lying near the track at Sunnybrae, a suburb, in a mangled condition.

MAY NEVER HEAR TRUTH

Imperial Conference Report Is a Hazy Mystery.

Sir Wilfrid, by Reason of Early Dissolution of Parliament, Is Now In a Position to Say What He Likes About Empire Affairs—Tons of Liberal Literature Going Out Under Franking Privilege.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Another point in which the sudden dissolution helps the Laurier game is being widely discussed in political circles. On the last day of the session, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier brought down in the House the reports of the Imperial Conference, including the decision in regard to naval matters, he went through the form of moving that these documents be printed for distribution. The next day he got his dissolution.

The Conservative members have no guarantee that they will get the printed record, if, indeed, the printing is done at all, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier is free to go about in Quebec and Ontario giving his own version of what happened in London.

Tons of Liberal literature are going out of Ottawa, addressed to all parts of Canada. The franking privilege for ordinary members closes on Saturday, and to get over this difficulty the stuff is going out under the evergreen frank of the absent Minister of Railways.

The place selected for Sir Wilfrid Laurier's opening meeting of the campaign on August 15 is the town of Simcoe, Norfolk County.

All the Ontario Ministers will speak at various points throughout the province, and Hon. W. S. Fielding will also address several meetings in Ontario before going to the Maritime Provinces.

Hon. William Paterson will speak at the Liberal convention for Lennox and Addington in Napanee on Tuesday next, at the North Lanark nomination at Almonte on the 11th and at his own nomination for Brant at Paris on the 15th.

McBride Not Running.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 4.—"I do not intend to enter this election as a candidate, but will do my utmost, consistent with my position, to aid in victory, which I feel sure will crown Federal Conservatives in this campaign."

Premier McBride made this statement in an interview prior to his welcome here yesterday by members of the Conservative party, which took the form of a public reception.

In reply to an address which approved his stand against reciprocity, the Premier repeated his view that such a measure would lead to the exploitation of Canada by the United States. Furthermore, Canada would be a broken link in the chain of empire.

Convention In Stayner.

Collingwood, Aug. 4.—Arrangements have now been completed for the holding of the Conservative convention to nominate a candidate for the House of Commons. It will take place at Stayner on Saturday, the 12th inst., commencing at 1 o'clock.

It goes without saying that Major John A. Currie will be the unanimous choice of the convention.

Laurier to Visit Hamilton?

Hamilton, Aug. 4.—Members of the local organization of the Liberal party this morning announced that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would include this city in the intinerary of his campaign. It is not definitely known, however, when the Premier will speak here.

Major Beattie May Retire.

London, Aug. 4.—The Conservatives will meet Saturday to decide on a candidate for the Federal elections. Major Beattie has repeatedly expressed his opinion that he did not care to run again, so his name may not go before the members of the association. Billy Gray is the popular choice, and it would be like Major Beattie to retire at this time and give Billy his long-delayed chance of representing this city.

G. F. McKim for South Lanark.

Perth, Ont., Aug. 4.—Yesterday afternoon the local convention of South Lanark met and C. F. McKim of The Rideau Record of Smith's Falls was chosen Liberal candidate for the coming election.

Cattleman Lost Money.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—Thomas Joyst of Shallow Lake, Ont., arrived in town yesterday with a load of cattle. After he had disposed of them he was assaulted and robbed of $80 on Terauley street.

Later yesterday afternoon Detective Murray arrested James Britton on a charge of assault and robbery. When searched the money was found on him.

Justifiable Homicide.

Montreal, Aug. 3—"Justifiable homicide" was the verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of Auguste Leroux, held in connection with the death of J. B. Bison.

The tragedy was the result of a dispute on religious matters, forced upon Leroux, it was stated, by the deceased.

2,000 Harvesters From Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—Two thousand able-bodied men, representing Montreal's answer to the call of the Canadian west to send harvesters to gather in the great wheat crop of the prairie provinces left the city yesterday for western points over the local roads.

Lambert's Body Recovered.

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 4.—The body of Lorne Lambert, who was drowned in the river a week ago while operating the gasoline launch of the Model Dairy, was recovered yesterday at the New Ontario dock, about half a mile from the scene of the accident.

Bad Outlook For Potatoes.

Kingston, Aug. 4.—If there is no rain within a day or so the potato crop in this district will be a failure. On the market yesterday potatoes sold at $2 per bushel. The ground is burning up with the heat and drought.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Heavy rains have fallen through Manitoba and Saskatoon for 48 hours, interfering with harvest operations.

Empress Auguste Victoria of Germany is ill with an attack of heart trouble. It is stated, however, that the attack is not severe.

Because of the contention of Canada that a treaty is violated by naval militia manoeuvres on the great lakes, none will be held this year.

A young man named Boisvert from Cap Magdaline, near Three Rivers, aged 17, was drowned in the St. Maurice River last evening while bathing.

Wm. Brennan, who claimed to have no permanent address, was fined $50 or three months in jail on a charge of peddling cocaine in the streets of Montreal.

The Hamburg-American line steamer Albingia sailed from Kingston, Jamaica, yesterday. It is believed she has gone to Hayti to bring ex-President Simon here.

The dead body of a child was found at Hull Thursday and last night a jury returned a verdict that Miss Rosanna Villeneuve, mother of the child, was responsible for the death.

Plans for aiding fallen women will be laid before the general synod meeting in London next month by the committee on social and moral reform of the Church of England in Canada.

The heaviest rain for the season fell at Niagara Falls yesterday and caused considerable damage along the frontier. Tons of rock were washed on to the tracks of the Gorge Railroad.

A party of berrypickers, returning to Mansfield, Mich., in a launch capsized in the Michigan River, near the mouth of Fence River. The launch contained seven persons, five of whom were drowned.

Mrs. Allen Sheppard, in whose house the fire which rendered 19 families in Longue Point, Montreal, homeless last week, originated, died in the general hospital yesterday as the result of the burns she suffered at the fire.

A man named Larson, an escaped convict from Dorchester Penitentiary, is creating terror in Westmoreland County, N.B. He has stolen three horses ,and Wednesday night after stealing the last one, he set fire to the barn.

Trawler Lost.

Halifax, May 4.—While approaching Canso harbor Wednesday night in a dense fog, the steam trawler Cambodia struck on Flag Island Point, and is hard and fast.

While running out the anchor after the steamer struck, Mate Simon Sorenson and one of the crew named Paul Thompson were drowned by the sinking of their boat. A third man was picked up by a fishing dory and put off on shore. He escaped by jumping clear as the boat went down.

The Cambodia is one of the largest type of steam trawlers belonging to Grimsby, England, and is commanded by Capt. Oleson, an experienced trawler. She has been fishing on this side only a few weeks, with but fair success. It is not known yet what may be the chances of floating the vessel.

The bodies of the two men have not been recovered.

Removing the Maine.

Havana, Aug. 4—The work of removing the wreck of the battleship Maine entered an exceedingly interesting and important phase yesterday afternoon when the process of dissecting the shattered and distorted remains of the vessel by a gas blast apparatus was begun.

The work was begun on the highest part of the wreckage above the central superstructure, which at the present rate of progress will be entirely cut away in a few days, greatly facilitating the exploration of the hull. Afterwards the wreckage of the forward section will be removed. The stern section of the vessel, however, will not be touched by the gas blasters pending the settlement of the question whether there is a possibility of placing a bulkhead in it and floating it out of the cofferdam.

Republicans Alarmed.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 4.—Alarmed over the possibility of an attempt to pass the wool tariff revision bill over the anticipated veto of President Taft, the regular Republican leaders of the Senate yesterday set about to bring all the absent Republican Senators to the city before next week.

The House Ways and Means Committee yesterday refused to accept the farmers' free list tariff bill as amended by the Senate and instructed Chairman Underwood to move that the House nonconcur and ask a conference with the Senate.

"I have not the slightest doubt we can come to an agreement on the bill in conference," said Mr. Underwood.

One Life Lost.

Ogdensburg, Aug. 4.—While entertaining four friends yesterday in a motor boat, near Huckleberry Island, in the St. Lawrence River, Alexander Harris set fire to the craft by striking a match to light his pipe. Flames from the resultant explosion of gasoline burned the boat to the waters' edge and resulted in Harris' death.

The five men clung to the boat's edge as long as they could, dropped off when the fire got too hot and started for shore. Harris, who could not swim, was drowned in eight feet of water. He was 30 years of age, and leaves a widow and three small children. Searching parties are grappling for his body.

Drowned In Artificial Pond.

INSURGENTS WEAKEN.

Halsbury's Faction Are Now Returning to Balfour.

London, Aug. 4.—Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, again yesterday displayed the political sagacity which for so many years has given him undisputed leadership of his party, when he announced in the lower chamber that he purposed on Monday next to move a vote of censure on the Government for having secured from King George the promise of sufficient peers to pass the veto bill.

This move will change nothing in the actual situation. It will be defeated in the Lower House and be carried by the House of Lords, where Lord Curzon will move an identical vote. Nevertheless, it is a subtle means for satisfying Mr. Balfour's rebellious followers with a phrase, and is proposed at the psychological moment when doubts had begun to assail many members of the Halsbury revolt as to the wisdom of their procedure.

During the last few days, there has been a distinct rally towards Mr. Balfour among the insurgents, except in the small section which is seeking to wrest the leadership from his hands. Thus the effect of the proposed vote of censure will be seen immediately. It was received with extraordinary enthusiasm by all ranks of the Unionist party and little else than it was talked of in Parliament lobbies and the political clubs last night.

The Halsburyites take the credit to themselves of having driven Lord Lansdowne and Mr. Balfour to this tardy act of leadership. Lord Willoughby de Brooke, in an interview last night, declared the situation was unchanged and that nothing would induce the members of his party to refrain from voting for the retention of Lord Lansdowne's amendments to the veto bill.

Judging by the comments of the morning newspapers, however, Mr. Balfour has completely re-established his lost authority. The Morning Post says: "At last, though late in the day, the Unionist leaders have taken a step which will cause immense satisfaction to all their followers—a step which will save the party from disgrace and the Unionist cause from disaster."

Twenty Thousand Strike.

London, Aug. 4.—As a result of Wednesday night's call for a general strike of all classes of London dock workers and affiliated trades, about 8,000 more walked out yesterday, bringing the total number of strikers to about 20,000. Leaders predict that 40,000 men will be out by to-night.

There is a possibility that a general international strike will be declared, and this would result in a tie-up of all shipping between America and European ports.

Provision dealers are greatly concerned over the situation. Supplies of meats and other perishable goods will be quickly exhausted. There already is a scarcity, and the strike is but two days' old.

Two Are Killed.

North Bay, Aug. 4.—Paul Tessier, from Montreal, a passenger of the Soo westbound C.P.R. express yesterday, on his way to work in the lumber shanties, fell from the train near Warren and was instantly killed.

Joseph Lafratier of Chalk River, a C.P.R. employe on a work train, fell under the wheels of the train on Kippawa branch. One arm was badly crushed and other injuries sustained and he died later at Mattawa Hospital.

Up to a very recent time little attention was given to that condition of the eye known as Muscular Imbalance. More recently the best among the profession, particularly Refracting Opticians, have delved into the subject and placed it upon a square, scientific basis. The twelve Extrinsic Muscles must be in perfect balance or the best correction made to relieve refractive errors will not be satisfactory.

Men Badly Needed

A conference was held in Winnipeg recently between Deputy Ministers of Agriculture for the Provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the Dominion Government Commissioner of Immigration dealing with the question of harvest laborers needed this year and the most conservative estimates place the number from 40,000 to 45,000. Government reports show that winter wheat in Alberta and earlier districts in South Saskatchewan and Manitoba will commence cutting before the 10th of August, and harvesting will be in full sway by August 15th to 20th. The railway companies are taking action to cooperate with a view to obtaining the necessary labor, and in this connection the general agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific advises that that company take care of 4,000 or 5,000 along their line by August 8th and 9th, and commencing August 15th as fast as they can be obtained. dtt wlt

TRENTON AND THE CANADIAN NORTHERN

The Neighboring Town to be the Divisional Point if Certain Inducements are Made

Perhaps the actions of the Canadian Northern Railway with regard to Trenton, both real and prospective have caused more flutters of alternate excitement and depression to local citizens than have any concern connected with this town, since the old "boom days." The first thrill came with the announcement that we were to have the C.N.R. through our town Then when work was commenced on the surveys, and subsequently on the road-bed, the feeling of satisfaction became more pronounced. By and by we began to dream and talk about a Divisional Point possibility. Our energetic Mayor and Aldermen took up the idea and the Board of Trade discussed ways and means of inducing the railroad officials to make Trenton the divisional headquarters between Toronto and Ottawa. A dozen times we have been told that we would have it, and as often, in contradiction, that we would not.

However, the thrills bid fair to cease very soon. As the result of a visit made by General Manager D P. Hanna of the Canadian Northern to our town last week, it has been decided by the railway to make Trenton the Divisional Point, contingent upon the town granting them concessions as to taxation and a cash bonus well within reasonable bounds. An agreement embodying these terms is being drawn up in Toronto, on the basis of which a by-law will likely be submitted for ratification to the electorate, at an early date. We are not as yet conversant with the tentative details of the agreement, but feel sure that it will call for nothing more on our part than the town can afford to pay for the benefits of being a Divisional Point. And thus we keep on progressing. A year hence home-comers to the old town will wonder if this is really the Trenton they used to know.—Trenton Courier.

WAS THE CRUISER CRUISING FOR VOTES

It is Claimed That She was Vote-Catching When She Struck Bottom

OTTAWA, Aug 3.—A big row is in prospect over the wreck of the Niobe That the cruiser, which constitutes the Atlantic fleet of the Laurier navy, can be patched up and will not be a loss does not alter the circumstances which brought about the wreck. It is claimed that the Niobe was out campaigning for the Laurier Government when she bumped into the dangerous ledge southwest of Sable Island.

With elections under way the Government conceived the idea of using the Canadian navy, the Niobe, as a vote catcher, just as the Intercolonial railway has been used as a vote-catcher these many years.

An old boys' reunion was to be held at Yarmouth, a Liberal town, in a Liberal riding, next door to the political home of the Minister of Finance To provide free show for the old boys at the expense of the country, the Niobe was ordered to proceed to Yarmouth and thence to Liverpool, in Mr Fielding's constituency.

It so happend that this part of the Nova Scotia coast is notorious for bad currents and shoals. The Niobe is a big ship, over 400 feet in length, and drawing 27 1-2 feet of water. She was sent into waters where the best anchorage is about twenty feet, more than a fathom less than is necessary to float this particular cruiser.

The approaches to the harbor are thus described in the Nova Scotia Pilot: "The anchorage within Bunker harbor is safe from all winds, but the channel leading to it is narrow, circuitous and being studded with dangers, should not be attempted without a pilot." A well known authority is quoted as saying that "Yarmouth is a good summer anchorage for vessels of fifteen feet."

G. T. P. a Big Factor

The exceptional demand for Farm Laborers in the Canadian Northwest to harvest the crop of 1911 is being actively taken hold of by the various Railway lines. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is comparatively a new factor in the field, and is putting forth every effort to relieve the situation, and are prepared to place as many as can be obtained in the territory contiguous to their lines in the West.

With this in view efforts are being made through their European organization to obtain help; and in addition they are operating excursions from points in Ontario and Quebec, tickets for which are available on August 3rd, 15th, 16th, 23rd and 25th.

Full particulars may be obtained on application to any Grand Trunk Agent.

Special arrangements have been made for the distribution to points where men are needed from Winnipeg by the Government for those not engaged before starting for the West. dtt wlt

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

BASE BALL

TY COBB BATTS 438.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the southern star, the real and only one gained a few points during the last few days in the American League's batting race. The Tiger's sensational outfielder is now clouting at a .438 clip. His nearest rival, also from the South, Joe Jackson, of the Naps, who once wore a White Elephant uniform, is rapidly coming up the ladder, with a .390 average.

Nap. Lajoie, the Cleveland second sacker, who has been out of the game for several weeks, comes back into the limelight during the past few weeks by acting in the role of a pinch hitter on several occasions, and fattened his batting average until he has now a .386 mark.

The great value of batting to the success of baseball standing is well illustrated in the American league for the season. The Detroit Tigers, who enjoy a comfortable lead over Connie Mack's band, are hitting, collectively, much better than any opponent.

The Tigers as a team are hitting at .305 clip, five points better than the Athletics have done. Cobb, Crawford, Willett, Gainor, Mullen, Delehanty and Schmidt are hitting .300 or over, and are keeping the Jungle Band in the lead.

EACH YEAR SEES NEW STAR PITCHER IN AMERICAN LEAGUE.

A star pitcher has been born in the American League ranks during each of the past five years. Washington was the first to benefit, then Detroit, Philadelphia, New York and finally Cleveland.

It was back in 1907 that Walter Johnson made his bow to American League fans and there are none who will say that Johnson is not one of the best pitchers in the world. With a losing team behind him he has pitched in records of .337, 500, .312, .595, and .579.

Eddie Summers helped the Tigers win pennants in 1908 and 1909. His record with Jennings' crowd has been .667, .679, .520, and .625.

Harry Krause set the American League afire by winning 10 games in a row for Connie Mack at the start of the 1909 campaign. He finished the season with a .692 rating. Last year he won just a half of his games, while this season he has a mark of 700.

Russell Ford replaced Krause in the American League spot-light in 1910. He won 26 and lost 6 during the season, a mark of .813. Up to date this year he has won two-thirds of his games, 12 of 18, a .667 rating.

Vean Gregg is travelling the same road traversed by Krause and Ford. The Naps' big southpaw has now won nine games in a row. It looked as if he was down for a beating Sunday but Dame Fortune smiled upon him and the Naps eventually won out, although Gregg did no receive credit for the victory. Gregg's record to date surpasses that of the other four youngsters who have started during the past five years, as he has a record of 17 victories and only three defeats, an average of .850.

DEININGER TWICE SCORES FROM FIRST ON SINGLES.

There's been a lot of wind raised over Ty Cobb's alleged wonderful feat of scoring from first on a single. Well, Otto Deininger, the Hustler cast-off, now with Jersey City, did it twice in one day. Here's how a Newark paper figures it out:

"Otto Deininger, the demon slugger of the Jersey City Insects, gave a great exhibition of ball playing in the second game of the double header at Jersey City, Wednesday. Otto banged out a home run, a triple and a single from 4 times up, to say nothing of his wonderful base running. Twice during the fray the speedy one came all the way home from first on a single. In the first with a man on base Otto hit for the circuit. In the third round, McGinnity decided to pass The Insect, and he raced home when Abstein walloped the pill to centre for a hassock. Deininger duplicated the feat again in the seventh when he tallied on Wheeler's wallop to centre. The huskey one also slammed out a triple in the fifth, which scored Dolan, who had tripled at bat. All told it was Deininger's day and the speedy one celebrated it in great style at the expense of the Braves and McGinnity."

"I DID IT, MOTHER" SAYS MURDERER

Young Son's Confession Caused Woman to Fall Into Dead Faint

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A pathetic drama was witnessed in the Tombs, when the mother of Paul Geidel came from her home in Hartford to ask her boy if he murdered Wm. Henry Jackson in the Hotel Iroquois on Wednesday night of last week.

She met her son for the first time since his incarceration in the dim lights of his barred cell. She tearfully clasped him in her arms and pleaded with him to state his innocence. In his mother's embrace her son broke down for the first time and admitted the crime

"I did it, mother," were the words he uttered.

As the meaning of the confession slowly pierced her brain she fell forward in a dead faint.

THE WINNER OF THE KING'S PRIZE

Scenes at Bisley Marking Clifford's Win—Kitchener of Khartoum Waves Hand

Private W. J. Clifford, Royal Grenadiers—winner of the King's prize of £250, to which also was added the Natoinal Rifle Association gold medal and gold badge, and the cup presented by the "Standard of Empire" for the best overseas marksman in the final hundred marksmen in this classic shooting competition—has just gone riding by in the chair of state, borne on the shoulders of his exultant comrades, surrounded by a crowd of cheering admirers, and preceded by a full military band, pounding out that somewhat pathetic, but appealing musical jingle, the "Conquering Hero."

LOOKED LIKE WESTERNER.

As the procession swept by and I gazed at the dirty, deshevelled, but withal imperturbable Clifford—who looked strangely like a cowboy—I experienced all the thrills born of a good melodrama. As the hero of the moment, this hardy little Canadian had indeed, the centre of the stage with a full band and an enthusiastic audience, and a Kitchener of Khartoum to wave a genial hand as he swept by the famous field marshal.

POPULAR VICTORY.

The victory of Private Clifford had about it all elements of popularity The perspiring crowds behind the ropes discussed the chances of various riflemen quite impartially, and when we got back to the last range, which is 1,000 yards long, we were prepared to hail with enthusiasm a Scotchman, a South African or a Canadian. In the end representatives of these three countries secured the first three prizes, Corporal Nutting of the 16th, London, being fourth, with the same score as the second and third.

By common consent crowds surged around Clifford, and Sergeant Ommundsen, 4th Royal Scots, who won the championship in 1901, for Private Garrod, of Oxford University, Corporal Nutting and a few other likely winners at the end of the second stage had gone more or less to pieces.

AT THOUSAND YARDS.

Private Clifford..	282
Sergeant Ommundsen	278
Lieutenant J. P. Gunn	277
Private Garrod	275
Coporal Nntting	274
Private Bright	274

Clifford and Ommundsen were separated by the length of fifteen targets the latter being on No. 2 and the former on No. 16, but a few amateur messengers ran back and forth to report progress.

THREE BULLS.

Thus it was that we knew almost at once that, after scoring two bulls Ommundsen sank to an outer, which made his case parlous, for Clifford had made three bulls. Then, when we were sure that it was all over, bar shouting, Clifford missed the target! Had a dry rot set in, and, if so, who would send the news to Canada? The next shot was also signalled a miss and we gave him up, but Clifford challenged it, and they allowed an outer or 2 points. After that he did better and finished with a score of 37 out of a possible 50.

POINTS IN HAND.

Several other men made higher scores at this range, but Clifford had too many points in hand, his grand total being 319—6 points ahead of the second, third and fourth men, who each scored 313, their positions being determined by the position of their shots, those with the most V's or centrals having priority of place. That is how it comes about that with the same scores, Grant takes second place with £50, Ommundsen third place with £25 and Nutting with the also-rans who get £10 each.

BORDEN'S RUNNING MATE EXPECTS 12 SEATS

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—Mr. A. B. Crosby, of Halifax, the running mate of Mr. R. L. Borden, who dropped down to Toronto before leaving for his native city in the east, described a campaign statement out from Ottawa that a Conservative member had admitted that only two seats in Nova Scotia were safe as a deliberate manufacture, and absolutely untrue.

"The real position in Nova Scotia," he told The News, "is that out of the 18 seats we have good ground for expecting twelve. The talk about reciprocity helping the Liberals is all rubbish, and we need only go back to the recent Provincial election to prove this. The only counties where the Liberals tried to make reciprocity an election cry, changed over from Liberal to Conservative. So far as Halifax is concerned, we will not be satisfied unless we return Mr. Borden with 2,000 majority."

Mr. Crosby is one of the best liked among the Eastern members by his Ontario colleagues, and is very popular in his own city. He returns at once to carry on his campaign there.

BORDEN AND BRITISH CONNECTION.

New Publication on British Columbia

A new publication has just been issued by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in connection with a territory that is practically unknown. This publication deals with the Plateau and valley lands in Cental British Columbia, and fhich will be reached by the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway west of Fort George and east to Hadelton, British Columbia.

The descriptive matter was secured with much difficulty by an exploration party sent out last year who discovered the possibilities of the marvellously rich and climate favored land referred to, and the statements made are based directly on these researches. Facts have also been secured and incorporated it this publication from Government Agents' reports and equally reliable sources, and every care has been taken in the compilation of the text which will be found correct in all statements.

The publication deals with the markets, mineral production climate, settlement, soil and class of land, temperature, altitude, pre-emption, timber lands, homesteads, etc., and also gives full particulars as to how to secure Government lands, taxation, education, social conditions and advice to emigrants

A new and very interesting map accompanies the book which is profusely illustrated in every particular. The illustrations are made from direct photographs taken by the specially equipped party sent out by the Grand Trunk system last year.

Any one desiring a copy of this publication may obtain the same without cost by applying to Mr. C. E. Horning, C. P. & T. A., G. T. Ry. system, north-west corner King and Yonge, streets, Toronto, Ont. d4t w1t

MR. MANLEY SEEKS AN INJUNCTION

He Alleges Irregularity in Connection With Letting of Contract for New Schools

Mr. W. P. Hudson, Chairman of the Board of Education was yesterday afternoon served with the following notice, which speaks for itself:

To the Chairman of the Board of Education, Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Sir,—We have received instructions from Thomas Manley, Esq. of this city to take proceedings against your Board to prevent you entering into any contract as proposed for the erection of contemplated schools, not because our client is not anxious that additional schools should be built and are necessarily required, but owing to irregularity in connection with the tenders and acceptance thereof. We are writing you this notice in order to prevent you taking any further steps in the matter, and we intend to use this notice as evidence against the Board in future proceedings.

Dated this 4th day of August, A.D. 1911.

Yours truly,
PORTER & CARNEW,
Robertson Block, Front St., Belleville
Ontario.

On Monday evening a special meeting of the Board will be held to consider the above and other matters.

WILL HAVE A REPRESENTATIVE HERE

Mr. J. S. McKeown, druggist, Front street, has made arrangements with the celebrated International College of Ophthalmology, Toronto, by which a representative of that famous firm will be in Belleville the week of August 7th to 12th prepared to test eyes and fit persons needing them with proper glasses. The firm is so well known throughout Canada that little need be said in their praise. When it is stated that last year in Canada they fitted no less than ten thousand people some idea of the immensity of the operations carried on by them may be had. In Belleville alone last year five hundred people were fitted with glasses, and their work has been pronounced eminently satisfactory in every case. No better endorsation of the merits of their work could be given than the fact that the International College of Ophthalmology has fitted nearly all the representatives of Canada shooting in the rifle matches at Bisley and Wimbledom. Surely no person has to be more careful about his eyes than a crack shot and the fact that the greater number of Canada's team have patronized the International College, speaks well for the efficiency of their products. Their specialist will be at McKeown's drug store all next week.

DENTIST BECOMES A HOLD-UP MAN

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—A man who gave his name as Dr. Wm. Tenney and who says he is a dentist, and his home is at 131 West 125th street New York city, was held under $1,000 bail on the charge of highway robbery. The prisoner says his parents are wealthy residents of New York and are spending the summer at Bay Shore, a fashionable resort on Long Island.

The alleged dentist is accused of holding up a man on Saturday night and rifling his pockets, taking $3. A short time later the same evening, it is charged that he also held up a sailor, again threatening to use a blackjack if any resistance was offered. While engaged with the sailor Tenney was arrested by a policeman after a battle in which the officer was badly beaten.

Behind the arrest of the young dentist is a narrative, not told willingly, but in answer to persistent questioning; of a struggle for success in his chosen profession, until driven to desperate straits. He was too proud to admit defeat, and rather than appeal to his family for aid resorted to the alleged hold up to secure enough money to get back to New York.

Unable to make any headway towards success in New York, Dr. Tenney came to this city in May, expecting to find employment in a dental establishment untill he should be able to strike out for himself. He claims to have made every effort to secure employment, but failed, and was out of funds.

JOHN FREGO, HERO OF CATASTROPHE SAVED FIFTEEN FROM DROWNING

MASSENA, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Grief-stricken Massena is shrouded in deep gloom. In various parts of the city streamers of crepe are mute evidence of the toll collected in the sinking of the excursion steamer Sirius in the Grass river.

With curling eddies racing about her beams, the fated Sirius lies crosswise in the current, more than half-submerged. Drooping from her forward mast is a bedraggled Canadian Jack.

The water is pouring into her cabin and it is expetced that her position on the mudbed will remain unchanged till the inspectors have viewed her when it is planned to raise the steamer and continue traffic.

While there are hints of criminal proceedings being instituted, it is the general belief here that Capt. Weston U. Cline and his men were helpless in the grip of six-mile currents and the frenzied movement of the passengers which combined to founder the boat.

To the herculean efforts of John Frego, Charles P. Williams, of Massena, and Rev. Theopalus Wells, of Evans Mills, are giving the credit for minimizing the number of fatalities.

John Frego will probably receive his reward in the shape of a medal. He was sitting with his little baby boy on a life raft on the pilot house. His wife was some yards away when the boat began to tremble under the in rush of water into the hold.

Telling his little boy to cling to the railing on the upper deck, Frego rushed over to where his wife was clinging to the railing with one hand, and clasping her baby, one and a half years old, with a vise-like grip in the other. It was several seconds before Frego could pry the child from the half-senseless woman. He carried it back to his other son, aged three, and told him to hang tight to his brother.

When Frego returned to rescue his wife a hand and hat were the only signs of Mrs. Frego visible above the water. After pulling her up on the deck Frego rteurned to the life saving clutching waving hands as their owners sank beneath the water. He saved more than fifteen by this method.

"When I woke up this morning I was crying. I couldn't stop. Then I went over and kissed my wife and children, I was so happy."

This was John Frego's simple statement of heroism that will earn for him substantial recognition from many fathers and mothers in Massena who owe their lives or their children's to the stalwart Frenchman.

One woman in sheer gratitude for his courage in rescuing her baby threw her arms about his neck and kissed him.

In danger of perishing herself, Mrs Florence Dowe, of Massena, saved the lives of two other babies. When the boat careened the mother seized the children, aged two and four, and jumped into the water. While she sank in water ovre her head she held the two children above the surface and breasted her way to the shore.

CURRENT COMMENT

The Globe has a standing heading "Humor of the Hour," which ought to be placed over nearly all its editorial matter.

The pleasing news comes from Ottawa that the Intercolonial is to be double tracked at all leading points Who said election?—Kingston Standard.

DON'T LET LAURIER FINISH HIS WORK.—FINISH LAURIER.

"President Taft is using Canada for the purpose of again being elected as President of the United States," said George A. Clare, of Preston, who will again be the Conservative candidate in South Waterloo.

Some of the grangers of Connecticut have decided to protest against reciprocity by refusing to meet President Taft when he visits their state fair Will they apologize to him when they discover that reciprocity hasn't hurt them?—Ottawa Journal.

FIFTY CENTS was the market price paid for a PECK OF POTATOES this morning in Belleville How much more would our potato growers get for them if exported to the 90,000,000 market under the Laurier reciprocity pact? Reciprocity-ites give us an answer.

The Laurier Government is to make special voters' lists for some of the Manitoba constituencies. The story of the "red line" frauds indicates what this means. Conservative names will be revised off the lists in Liberal committee rooms by Liberal election workers. People at this election are to see Laurierism at its worst.—Montreal Gazette.

DON'T MORTGAGE THE OLD HOMESTEAD.

The Yankee anglophobists are "hollering" before they are out of the woods. Imperial trade preference has not yet been killed—that "gain" of which the galvanized Yankee-Canadian Hill boasts has yet to be made And let them remember that

The man who sold the lion's skin
Before the beast was slain,
Was killed in hunting him.

The Gazette, of Worcester, Mass. commends Mr. J. J. Hill's views of the effect of the pact in the following terms:—

"In our opinion there is much truth in the observation of President James J. Hill, of the Great Northern, to the effect that this country is bound to profit more by what it has prevented than by what it has gained. And the chief thing which reciprocity has a tendency to prevent is, as Mr. Hill suggests, 'imperial trade federation.'

A "CURE"? FOR BALDNESS

The above expression is one which is used frequently in connection with hair preparations. Just exactly what is meant by it in each instance is a question. Baldness is not a disease and hence, does not permit of a cure It is a result invariably to be traced to the dandruff germ and if the condition has become chronic, that is if there is complete atrophy of the hair follicles, a "cure" is absolutely impossible.

Approaching baldness, seen in falling hair, may always be checked and if the hair follicles are not atrophied the hair may be induced again to grow.

This is accomplished by regular applications of Newbro's Herpicide which cleanses the scalp and kills the dandruff germ. The destruction of the dandruff germ does away with the accumulation of scarf skin and thus eliminates the most common enemy to beautiful hair.

Soft, glossy, fluffy hair cannot grow on a scalp infested with dandruff any more than a delicate plant can grow on an ash heap. The scalp must be kept clean and free from dandruff The best remedy for doing this is Newbro's Herpicide which receives the highest endorsements from professional men, the stage and the best people everywhere.

Herpicide is sold and guaranteed in one dollar size bottles by all druggists. Applications obtained at all first class barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Address The Herpicide Co., Dept R., Detroit, Mich, enclosing 10c. in postage or silver for sample and booklet.

ANOTHER SCENE IN CAMORRIST TRIAL

VITERBO, Aug. 4.—If a trial for murder can be in any sense funny the description fits to-day's proceedings in the Camorrists' case. The prisoners themselves were responible for the diversion. From the start they have not failed to use every means to confuse the state witnesses usually hurling angry invectives. To-day they adopted the more potent weapon of ridicule and mercilessly guyed Marshal Farris, to the undisguised amusement of every one else.

Farris is the third of the famous trio of detectives to be heard against the Camorrists. He is a serious man and on the stand assumed the delivery of a preacher. The sermon effect was accentuated by an unfortunate nasal twang. The prisoners were not slow to see their opportunity, and before the witness had proceeded far there was a groan from the great steel cage, followed by sighs and sobs, as the prisoners pretended to be greatly affected by what they heard. This mockery continued, the witness being frequently interrupted with familiar quotations from the church service.

'A certain man named Guzzi purchased a beautiful girl,' droned the witness. 'Amen,' shouted a prisoner and a chorus of 'Amens' drowned his voice.

'—Purchased her through the Camorri,' solemnly continued the detective.

So the interrogation proceeded. Farris illustrating the power of the Camorra particularly over certain classes of women, told how Guzzi bought Signorita Lombardi through the Camorra, which, however, constantly black mailed him thereafter. Hoping to escape them he took the girl to New York, where he fell into the hands of American associates of the Italian criminals and their persecution continued. Finally, he gave the girl a cheque for $2,000 and a ticket for her return to Naples.

On arriving at Naples the witness said that Signorita Lombardi was met by Camorrists, including some of the defendants, who extracted from her a share of the money that Guzzi had given her.

LETITIA

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

Copyright 1908 by the C. M. Clark Pub. Co., Boston, Mass. Used by Permission

"What is all this noise about," said a bright voice, and pretty Ethel appeared through the door. "Father, you will raise the neighborhood. Good morning, Uncle Robert. Have you received any news from Alex recently?"

"I think we have, dear," said her father, handing her the paper. "I think that ought to satisfy you for a few days."

Ethel Grant was the prettiest of a group of young ladies and a favorite with all her associates. Resembling her father in features and her mother in form, with a quaint humor peculiarly her own, she was numbered among the most attractive girls in her state. Her tendencies had always been foward home life, caring little for the gaieties of the community. When she did go out it was usually in the company of her brother, whom she idolized. Since his departure she had not been herself. It was their first separation and her life was lonely. The horseback rides had been neglected, the croquet and tennis sets lay in the storehouse, and often traces of tears were upon her cheeks. Frequently letters reached her from Alex, which were read and re-read. Every few days she would appear at the lumberman's office and demand the privilege of perusing the latest news, which was always gratified.

"You make as much fuss over that brother of yours as most women would over a brand new husband," her uncle had bantered on one occasion as she sat in the private office devouring a letter.

"He is better than a husband. He is my darling brother, and I love him," she had answered promptly. "I expect other women to fall in love with him, for Alex is handsome, talented and good. But the one who takes him from me will be his equal, or I shall object."

"Which means there will be a row."

Now she sat at the window eagerly reading the article which had so pleased her father. Upon reaching the end she looked up, a half-dazed expression on her face.

"That is the end of all my pleasures, so far as Alex is concerned."

"What do you mean, dear?" questioned her mother.

"Alex has found his wife," she answered, in a low voice. "And Uncle Robert is to blame."

"In what way, pray?" asked that gentleman.

"You sent him away. If he had remained at home, where he belonged, he would never have seen her, never would have fallen in love with her and would have avoided the fight. But it is just like Brother Alex. He always was a protector of weak women, and I am glad he gave that wretch the whipping he deserved. If she is pretty and good, as this article admits, I shall love her. But ——" her voice ceased, and once more she was carefully studying the account.

"I am undecided what course to pursue," said the uncle. "I have been backing the boy with an expectation of his keeping from side issues. While I admit to his having covered much territory, and no doubt having been thorough in his search, I question the consistency of putting up at an expensive hotel and enjoying himself on my bounty."

"Uncle Robert, I object to such a reference to my brother," said Ethel sharply. "Alex is not squandering your money. He has not called on you for a cent over the sum placed to his credit; nor will he spend that much. He is simply resting after months of continuous travelling. If you are not willing to allow him a breathing spell, then recall him at once. I for one shall be glad to have him here."

Mr. Grant laughed. "I might have expected such an outbreak from you, Ethel. I will retract the reference. It may be the account is incorrect, which I hope is the case."

"Don't worry, Robert. Alex will find John, and his limit will be the ten thousand," said the father. "I imagine he will leave California at once and make for the northwestern lumber regions. Your boy is not familiar with any other line of business and will undoubtedly continue in his legitimate profession. I expect to hear of their meeting by fall, if not sooner."

"I have always placed confidence in Alex's honesty of purpose, but the suddenness of this California affair has slightly upet me," admitted the lumberman. "However his own version may untangle the snarl."

"It's no snarl," laughed the father. "It's an outright victory over a villain who makes his livelihood by swindling soft-headed, weak-kneed people who are not clear as to the propriety of their mode of living. He came against an unprecedented proposition when he tackled Alex, and is now nursing innumerable wounds as the result of his rashness. It was unquestionably a case of blackmail, and my boy hedged. To-morrow, or the next day we will read the other side. The paper simply published the outbreak and evidence of the complainant. When the defense is heard the shoes will change feet."

REBELS FULMINATING

Extremist Tories Bitterly Assail Premier Asquith.

At Meeting of Those In Favor of Throwing Out Veto Bill Prime Minister Is Condemned for Allowing Redmond to "Drag King George Into Trouble"—Lord Morley Publishes List of Supporters.

London, Aug. 5.—The progress of the veto bill toward the crisis next week, is now coming into clearer light. Viscount Morley yesterday published a list of 76 Liberal peers who have written promising to support the Government in the passage of the measure.

A meeting of Unionist peers who favor supporting the Government was held yesterday. It was presided over by Viscount St. Vincent, formerly Sir Michael Hicks-Beach. The meeting decided that it would not be advisable to take organized action in the vote on the bill, but to leave each peer to act on his own discretion. This may add ten or more votes to the Government side making the total 86 to 90 in favor of the measure. The only list of names the followers of the Earl of Halsbury has as yet permitted to be published, gives 68. Thus the bill, according to present probabilities, will be adopted by a narrow majority of between ten and twenty.

The insurgents continue to breathe undiminished defiance to the Government. They held two crowded meetings last night in London, one in Holborne, and one in Chelsea, at which the Earl of Halsbury, the Earl of Selborne, Lord Milner, Lord Willoughby de Broke, Austen Chamberlain, F. E. Smith and Sir Charles Wyndham all made strong speeches, their chief theme being denunciation of the Government for what they termed revolutionary proceedings in dragging King George into the mire of politics at the behest of John Redmond, the Irish leader. Resolutions pledging a "no surrender" policy were carried amid scenes of intense enthusiasm.

The Spectator and other moderate Unionist newspapers continue their urgent appeals to the party to allow the bill to pass the House of Lords without the creation of new peers and thus keep the King from a struggle which could only cause him anxiety and embarrassment. They say also that if the bill is defeated by the Lords, it will no longer be a question of the creation of a few peers, but at the very least 400 of them.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Step In Right Direction

London, Aug 5.—Afternoon papers unstintedly approve the signing on Thursday of the arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States.

The general trend of opinion is that while there is nothing in the agreement to prevent war, it is all to the good that there should be such a court of appeal and revision as the treaty sets up, to step in the breach when disputes arise.

Famous Motorist Coming.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—Bob Burman, champion motorist of the world, will be the star at the auto race meet to be held under the auspices of the Automobile and Aero Club of Canada at Delorimier Park on Aug. 19 and 20.

Burnam will drive his 200-horse power Blitzen Benz, the car which drove a mile in 25 2-5 seconds over the sands at Dayton, Fla., last April on his 27th birthday.

Does Whiskey Do Your ThinkinG ?

DRINKING LIQUOR has never yet made any man famous but it HAS made many a man INFAMOUS. It has ruined thousands of homes, and is still doing so. If you desire to succeed in business; if you would GO UP instead of DOWN; if you value your MENTAL and PHYSICAL health; if you care to prevent "FAILURE" being connected with your name, you MUST STOP drinking liquor at once.

THE GATLIN TREATMENT

Eradicates the Liquor Craving in Three Days

There are no hypodermic injections no "strong" drugs, no disagreeable features. The Gatlin treatment removes the CAUSE of drunkenness—stored up alcoholic poison in the system—that is why it cures in three days—a longer period would be superfluous and wasted. Craving, desire physical and NERVE NECESSITY or liquor are but EFFECTS of the poison in the system, and disappear immediately with the CAUSE. Where the EFFECTS are smothered up by hypodermic injections of SUBSTITUTIVE STIMULANTS, from three to six weeks' time is required, and but ONE chance in FIVE of permanent sobriety.

Each patient is accepted for treatment at the Gatlin Institute under a plain, legal contract to do away with liquor craving in THREE DAYS, or the full fee paid shall be refunded at the end of the third day and treatment shall cost NOTHING. In other words, any expression of dissatisfaction with either the cure effected or with the treatment on leaving the institute will mean that the fee paid will at once be returned.

The Gatlin Home Treatment for those who cannot conveniently come to the institute for three days carries practically the same contract to cure the only change being one to protect us against unscrupulous persons.

The Laurier Handicap

Not since the campaign which ended in the overthrow of the Mackenzie Government in 1878 has a ministry entered on a general election with so much to discourage it, says the Montreal Gazette, as to-day confronts Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues. In 1878 Mr. Mackenzie strong in his own views, and accepting the declarations of the men who surrounded him as the opinion of all Canada, would not seet the signs of the times and led his party to overwhelming defeat. In 1911, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, without any particular views of his own, but impressed with the belief that he is a great commercial diplomat, and accepting what is said by the followers about him, is also refusing to see the signs of the times, and is marching, as did Mr. Mackenzie, on a route along which all his old supporters will not follow. He has not been able to hold at his side even the men in Parliament who were selected as his friends and supporters The Liberal members of Parliament who spoke or voted against the agreement Mr. Fielding made at Washington include:

Hon. Mr. Sifton, a former member of the Cabinet and in the past the most influential Liberal politician in the West.

Mr. W. M. German, the representative of Welland in the late House of Commons just dissolved.

Mr. Lloyd Harris, the representative of Brantford in the late House of Commons.

Mr. W. O. Sealey, the representative of Wentworth in the late House of Commons.

It is easy to think that when four elected representatives feel so strongly on an issue that they will vote against their party rather than accept it, a large percentage of the voter will be with them. Evidence that this is the situation in the present instance is seen on every hand. It is seen in the Senate where the Hon. Mr McMullen is avowedly opposed to the Fielding-Taft agreement on national grounds, and where Sir George Ross is reported to hold the same views as his colleague, and it is understood they are not alone.

The pronounced opposition of Liberals to the Taft-Fielding agreement is not, however, confined to men in politics. In February last, shortly after the meaning of the pact had been appreciated, eighteen citizens of Toronto, all associated with the Liberal party, united in a declaration of opposition, the force of which will be felt throughout the campaign. They condemned the agreement as being made without authority, as being opposed to the national unity and development of Canada, as being more likely to injure than to help Canadian trade interests, as restricting Canada's fiscal freedom, and as being a likely source of danger to Canada's political independence. The manifesto, whose substance is thus summarized, besides the names of Sir Mortimer Clarke, late lieutenant-governor of the province, bore those of the following gentlemen:—

John L. Blaikie, President of Canada Landed and National Investment Company.

W. D. Matthews, grain dealer and director of the Canadian Pacific railway.

W. K. George, President of the Toronto Fair and manager of Standard Silver Company.

Z. A. Lash, K. C., partner of S. H. Blake.

W. T. White, general manager of National Trust Company

G. T. Somers, President Sterling Bank of Canada.

Robt. S. Gourlay, President Board of Trade.

Sir Mortimer Clarke, ex-lieutenant governor of Ontario.

R. J. Christie, President Christie Biscuit Company.

H. Blain, director and vice President of Eby, Blain & Co., wholesale grocers.

H. S. Strathy, director of Traders' Bank.

L. Goldman, managing director of North American Life Assurance Company.

Geo. A. Somerville, manager Manufacturers' Life Assurance Company.

W. Francis, barrister.

Jas. D. Allen, former Liberal candidate.

E. R. Wood, managing director of Central Canada Loan and Savings Company.

John C. Eaton, President of T. Eaton Company, Limited.

Such a statement supported by such a strength of names, all associated with the Liberal party, means that in every constituency hundreds of quiet thinking men who seek noth- and desire nothing personally because of the interest they take in public affairs will be persuaded that the departure advocated by the Government is unsafe and should be condemned. They will condemn it with their votes on September 21st. And if the Government's party suffers from such a cause in one province it will suffer in another province. The handicap will be felt everywhere. It means that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is leading only a part of his party and in such a contest as the country is now preparing for a divided party is doomed.

A Plain Question

Twenty-five thousand farmers are said to have gone from Nebraska and Iowa to Canada, taking with them more than twenty-one million dollars and from other states hundreds of thousands of farmers have migrated into Canada, taking with them many millions of dollars worth of stock, implements and household effects.

Why is it that these skilled farmers, who have had the "market of ninety millions" open to them are leaving their own country, changing their allegiance and undergoing the hardships inseparable from founding new homes in a strange country?

Will the supporters of the Taft-Laurier compact please answer without circumlocution, this plain question.

A Promising Enterprise

An enterprise which might very well engage the attention of the Board of Trade because it would add materially to the business of the city, and would be profitable to the proprietors, is that of an electric railway between Belleville and Trenton.

There will be within a short time, it is true, two steam railways connecting the city and its western neighbor, and a third line of the same kind within two years, but the local traffic cannot be efficiently served by such means. What is needed is a cheap and rapid means of communication between Belleville and the territory to the west. Were this provided the residents along the thickly settled front of Sidney and even many of the citizens of Trenton would come to trade in the city, as here they would find larger stores, more of them and larger stocks from which to make their selections. Also there would be created a considerable passenger traffic between the Deaf and Dumb Institution, the cemetery, and camping grounds on the bay shore and the city.

Such a line could be very cheaply constructed and might reasonably be expected to pay from the start.

OTTAWA AGENT GOES TO JAIL

J. O. Lewis Committed for Contempt During Indian Land Probe

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3.—The efforts of the Provincial Commission to investigate the circumstances surrounding the methods by which the St. Peter's Reserve lands of great value were secured by speculators at the time the Indians surrendered their titles to the Government was suddenly blocked today by the refusal of J. O. Lewis, who represented the Indian Department of the Dominion Government in the deal to testify. He refused on the ground that the commission has no legal authority to grant the investigation. The commission then adjourned until the courts can order Lewis to testify.

His refusal to testify was based on his counsel's contention that the Provincial Commission has no authority to investigate the sale, which was a Dominion tract. Mr. Andrews raised this point previously, but the commissioners sustained their own validity as enquirers.

BINFORD GIRL GETS DELUGE OF LETTERS

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 4—Plans to remove Henry C. Beattie, jr., and Beulah Binford from the Henrico county jail have been abandoned by the state, and they will remain there until taken to Chesterfield county, Aug. 14, for trail. Henry C. Beattie is in a solitary cell and the Binford girl, the soul mate and affinity of Beattie, was placed today where she cannot have any communication with him whatever.

Beattie declares he expects to be free in a short time after the trial is begun Mayme Shaffer and Ida Hildreth, the women brought from Norwalk yesterday confirm the statements they had made to the police, were allowed to return home. The women kept the house in Norwalk in which Beattie and the Binford woman lived from time to time They denied having said that Beattie told the Binford woman in their presence that he would get rid of his wife and go away with the Binford woman. Before the jury on Aug. 14 these women will be made to appear again.

No one is allowed to see the prisoners in the jail because of alleged attempts to tamper with them. Detectives and lawyers are only allowed to see them at certain times. Cranks are sending letters of all sorts, and one or two or more threatical firms have offered the woman a "stage career."

WHY LAURIER IS IN SUCH BREAK-NECK HASTE

First—Taft can't wait. He knows that the Canadian people cannot be humbugged into giving something for "the larger market" when they see, as they now see, that Congress will give them a still larger market for nothing. Thus Taft's annexation scheme is hopeless unless Laurier gets this country to act favorably and act quickly on the pact.

Second—Because the chickens of the great graft brood are coming home to roost. The last days of the last Parliament were days of shame and humiliation for the Laurier Government. The air of the House reeked with scandals brought home to Minister after Minister, and to spare his colleagues the disgrace of further exposures, the Premier wisely or unwisely put the whipcord about the neck of Parliament.

Third—Because if the House had sat two or three days longer the truth or much of it, would come out about the charges made against the Minister of the Interior. The witnesses had arrived, especially the one who could tell most and who could not be gagged. There was but one way to head this off and that was by preventing another meeting of Parliamen.

Fourth—Because Redistribution had to be delayed at all cost, and because with everything ready for it, if became every day harder to make excuse for putting it off.

Fifth—Because, having become bankrupt of political morals, the Government lost its morale.—Mail and Empire.

Men Badly Needed

A conference was held in Winnipeg recently between Deputy Ministers of Agriculture for the Provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the Dominion Government Commissioner of Immigration dealing with the question of harvest laborers needed this year and the most conservative estimates place the number from 40,000 to 45,000. Government reports show that winter wheat in Alberta and earlier districts in South Saskatchewan and Manitoba will commence cutting before the 10th of August, and harvesting will be in full sway by August 15th to 20th. The railway companies are taking action to cooperate with a view to obtaining the necessary labor, and in this connection the general agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific advises that that company take care of 4,000 or 5,000 along their line by August 8th and 9th, and commencing August 15th as fast as they can be obtained. dlt wlt

CHILDREN'S MEALS.

If there ever is a time when the human machine needs the very best and most nourishing food it is between the ages of five and fifteen. During those years, and when the body's growth is most rapid, the child's strength must be kept up to the mark and as varied as possible a menu of food readily converted into suitable building materials must be provided.

Too many parents, particularly those of the old-fashioned school, cling to the theory that a child's likes and dislikes in the matter of food are of no importance whatsoever; that the child must eat what is placed before it whether it likes it or not.

This is a very poor system, because it often results in the child taking a dislike to foods, which if a little tact had been used, it might have been led to eat with some pleasure and appetite. Another point is that food that one dislikes never does as much good as it would if it had appealed to the appetite.

A child should not be brought up on a large amount of meat; a little in the middle of the day is quite enough and then it should not be too well done. Cold meat is not easily digested by young children; a little hot beef or mutton with plenty of gravy is both nourishing and more suitable to the youthful stomach.

There should always be vegetables—potatoes in not too large a quantity, as they are not blood-making—and whole-wheat or standard bread, as much of this with gravy and a green vegetable as the child likes. After this he should have a junket or a milk pudding with stewed fruit, or any pudding made with milk and eggs.

Never let a child have twice cooked meat; the nourishment has been largely cooked out of it the first time, leaving only a mass of fibrous matter which can do the child little good.

It is well to encourage in children a liking for fruit; let them have it whenever they want it—that is to say, at every meal. All kinds of ripe fruit as it comes in season should be given to them, as well as stewed fruit, but in the case of raw fruit the skin should always be removed.

A banana, when peeled should be scraped with a silver knife, as the stringy substance thus removed contains a pungent bitter oil, injurious both to children and to grown people.

Never allow children to eat between meals; let these meals be regular and wholesome, and do not give them too many sweets. A few directly after their midday meal, however, are quite harmless.

EASING THE FEET.

There is a moment in the case of every schoolgirl when she becomes conscious of the size and prominence of her feet for the first time. Curiously enough it is when her skirts are prolonged to ankle length that self-consciousness may be said to become apparent where the shoe leather is concerned.

Just now we are all more or less going through the schoolgirl stage of awakened self-consciousness. Short skirts in weather when patent leather pinches, and a callousness about boots is infectious, are more or less of a problem which is not easily solved even by constant visits to the shoemaker.

In the case of a French woman of the day more stress is laid upon the art of walking and sitting under the disabilities of a short skirt than upon the choice of a fashionable cordonnier.

Another point which is carefully considered is that of blacking the sole of the boot as well as rubbing polish on the kid uppers. A light-colored sole increases the width of the feet if they should be injudiciously posed when sitting. Consequently the polishing of the soles is a daily care.

Crossing the feet, resting the weight of the foot on the heels or on the sides when sitting, and crossing the leg, so that one's shoe is particularly in evidence are all comfortable, at-ease poses, which are, however, condemned to-day under the disability of the short skirt.

To soak the feet in warm sour milk—which is not difficult to obtain just now—is said to be an excellent restorative after dancing.

RECIPES.

Chicken and Rice Croquettes:—An excellent way of serving a small quantity of chicken which may be left from a meal is to cut all the meat from the bones, chop fine, and to each cupful of the chicken add a cupful of boiled rice, a saltspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one half cupful of sweet milk, a little pepper and an egg. Set the milk on the fire and as soon as it boils add the other ingredients, the egg, thoroughly beaten, last of all. Stir the mixture one minute remove from the fire and when cold take up by the tablespoonful and lightly roll with the hands into an oblong roll. Roll the croquettes lightly in the breadcrumbs, dip in well beaten egg and again in the crumbs. Fry brown in deep fat.

Peach Pie:—Line a buttered pie plate with the following paste. Sift two cupfuls of flour into a basin, rub four teaspoonfuls of butter finely into it with the tips of the fingers, add one teaspoonful of baking powder, a pinch of salt, one tablespoonful of sugar, then gradually add enough cold water to make a stiff paste. Roll out to the size of a pie plate. Peel and slice the peaches; lay them on the crust sprinkle with sugar, a few drops of rose extract, chop four peach kernels fine and add them to the peaches pour in a very little water, cover an upper crust and bake in a hot oven.

Baked Macaroni:—A good recipe for baked macaroni and cheese is the following: Wash carefully half a package of French macaroni. Boil it in water enough to cover it; adding half a teaspoonful of salt, for about twenty minutes. Drain and cover with a cream sauce. Put it in a pretty baking dish, cover with a thin layer of grated Parmesan cheese, and bake 10 minutes. A few bits of butter may be added to give the top an attractive crust.

Chicken Salad Rolls:—Take long French rolls, very fresh, cut off one end and remove the interior crumb. Fill the hollowed out roll with chicken salad, replace the end and tie on with baby ribbon. These are easily eaten and are so delicious that they promise to become the rage at afternoon teas.

Excursions to Western Canada

The Grand Trunk Railway System announce that on Tuesdays, June 13th and 27th, July 11th and 25th, August 8th and 22nd, September 5th and 19th 1911, Homeseekers' excursions will be run from all stations in Ontario, and Quebec to Western Canada, via Chicago or Duluth or via Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis, at reduced round trip fares.

The well-known double-track line of the Grand Trunk from the far East to Chicago appeals to the traveller and with the superior train service that is offered by this line, including the famous "International Limited" from Montreal daily at 9.00 a. m., and which is the finest and fastest train in Canada, many passengers will be attracted this way. The route via Chicago is a most interesting one taking passengers through the principal cities and towns in Canada and in the States of Michigan and Indiana. In addition to this a choice of seven lines between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis is offered.

Owing to the great number of Canadians who reside in Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and other cities enroute, there is no doubt that the Grand Trunk will find many patrons who will take advatnage of the opportunity thus afforded them for a brief visit at the stations with their friends.

Canadian citizens are exempt from so-called Immigration Examination and there is no detention at any point. Baggage is carried through the United States in bond without requiring any special attention on the part of the passenger. Inspection is not necessary at any of the points at the Border.

Another feature that will appeal to the homeseeker is the comfortable transfer at points like Chicago, St. Paul and Duluth into freshly ventilated clean cars, avoiding the necessity of travelling a long distance in the same car.

In addition to the above routes the sale of tickets is also authorized via Sarnia, and the Northern Navigation Company's magnificent Steamers on Lake Huron and Lake Superior.

For further particulars apply to any agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System, or write to Mr. J. Quinlan, District Passenger Agent, Bonaventure Station, Montreal, or Mr. A. E. Duff District Passenger Agent, Union Station, Toronto.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS IN SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 6th, 1911.

Jeremiah tried and Acquitted. Jer. xxvi.

Golden Text—The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? Ps. xxvii:1.

(1) Verses 1-6—What was the character of Jehoiakim, also of Josiah, his father?

(2) To whom did the word of the Lord come?

(3) How did God probably speak to Jeremiah?

(4) May all persons to-day, with the goodness and the ability of Jeremiah, hear the voice of the Lord as distinctly as he did?

(5) What was the message which God gave Jeremiah to deliver?

(6) If the people had repented at the command of the Lord, would the kingdom of Judah have been preserved?

(7) Why can there be no escape for sinners, from the just punishment of their sins, unless they repent?

(8) Verses 7-10—How do you account for it that the priests and the prophets wanted to kill Jeremiah, for delivering the message that God had given him?

(9) If a professional priest, or preacher, is backslidden and living in sin, why is he apt to be more cruel to a faithful preacher or righteousness than an ordinary sinner?

(10) From the days of Jesus until now, by whom have the martyrs been put to death, or admittedly men of God expelled from the churches?

(11) Which are the more cruel to those who rebuke them, men who under cover of religion are doing wrong, or outstanding sinners such, for example, as gamblers?

(12) Verses 11-12—Did these priests and prophets who wanted to put Jeremiah to death for preaching the truth believe that he was wrong and they right; not knowing he was right, want to get rid of them for exposing their sins?

(13) What qualities did Jeremiah possess which are essential to all who must obey God in rebuking sin?

(14) Must a good man always rebuke what he knows to be wrong, no matter how much danger it may involve to himself? Give your reasons?

(15) Is it the lack of knowledge that they are wrong, or something else, which causes people to remain in sin?

(16) Verses 13-15—Do you know of any Bible threat against sinners, that is not associated with a promise of forgiveness on repentance?

(17) Is it possible for a good man to die, or to be put to death, before his work is done? Why?

(18) Verses 16-26—The priests and the prophets are the accusers of Jeremiah and want to put him to death, and the princes and the people appear to be the judge and jury; what was their verdict and upon what was it based?

(19) Is it safe in these days to trust the people to decide moral issues? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(20) What were the two historic incidents mentioned as precedents, for the acquittal of Jeremiah?

(21) What has been the fate in the past of true and courageous prophets and how are they treated to-day?

(22) Which is better; to faithfully do the will of God at the expense of our lives, or to dodge His will and save our lives?

You have got to be mighty careful in hot weather, if you don't want to be laid up with Kidney Trouble. You are so apt to be imprudent and do things which you shouldn't, in warm weather. And it is so easy to take cold, even on the hottest days.

We all sit in draughts and get chilled, in our endeavor to keep cool. The first thing we know, we have a pain in the back. Some times it is preceeded by a fit of sneezing, then a chill and finally a good hard pain in the small of the back; at other times, the pain just grips you and you know you have "Kidney Cold".

When the first symptoms appear, you should take "Gin Pills". They will cure pain in the back and Kidney Colds quicker than any other medicine known.

GIN PILLS are wonderful in their action on the Kidneys and Bladder. They relieve the congestion—soothe and heal the inflamed membranes—and neutralize the excess of uric acid which accumulates.

PORTUGUESE RIOTING

They Protest Against Increased Cost of Food.

Price of Living Has Gone Up Since Republic Was Formed and Olive Oil Which Is Widely Used Is Unaccountably Dear—Shots Are Fired and Troops Are Forced to Charge the Rioters.

Lisbon, Aug. 5 (via Badajoz, Spain, Aug. 4.)—Several clashes between the Government troops and large crowds occurred in the streets of Lisbon on Thursday night and early Friday morning. Cavalry repeatedly charged the mob and many arrests were made.

The cost of food, including olive oil, which is one of the principal necessities of the poorer classes, has risen unaccountably since the revolution. A crowd marched towards the Parliament Buildings, where the National Assembly was in session Thursday, to protest against the high prices.

By the time the Parliament Buildings were reached the mob had swollen to 4,000 persons, who tried to break through the line of infantry which had been hastily summoned to protect the Chamber. The second regiment of infantry, the fourth cavalry and detachments of the municipal guard were called out. Some revolver shots were fired at the soldiers from the crowd, whereupon the troops charged the mob. The manifestants retreated, but later reformed and hooted the Cabinet Ministers. Deputies who sought to calm the people were met with cries of "Down with the Conservatives! They are thieves!"

Two More Victims.

Porcupine, Aug. 5.—Rain followed the intense heat of Thursday. It is cooler to-day. The burned mines in the outlying districts are rebuilding very rapidly considering the fact that all transportation must be by teams. Bones of two more bodies were found in Deloro, two miles south of the Tisdale line. No identification was made as only the bare skeletons are left. This brings the death list as the result of the holocaust up to 73, with three unidentified.

The Government boat inspector tied up all motor boats yesterday until the regulations relative to ballast and life preservers were observed. Many complied at once and were permitted to run. The small boats were not released. High winds on the lake made boating in light craft dangerous where ballast was not carried.

Asylum Fire Enquiry.

Hamilton, Aug. 5.—The enquiry into the death of the eight victims of last Tuesday's fire at the asylum, after sitting till 11 o'clock last night, was adjourned until Aug. 10, when it will again be resumed at the asylum.

Nothing of a particular sensational nature was disclosed in the evidence adduced last night, the low pressure of the asylum water works and the loss of time in notifying the city fire department being the only things brought out which might serve as a basis of criticism against the management of the institution.

Made Four Flights.

Toronto, Aug. 5.—Skill overcame bad weather conditions at the meet here yesterday and the crowd of 4,000 people were shown some magnificent flying by Charles F. Willard. There was another accident which put Willard's machine out of commission shortly before eight o'clock, but the damage was slight and the 'plane will be in working order for to-night. Willard make four flights, though the air currents were very treacheous and at all times his machine was wobbling in a most dangerous way.

Ottawa Archaeologist.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—An important appointment has been made to the staff of the Victoria Museum in the person of Harlem I. Smith of the American Museum of Natural History, New York.

Mr. Smith becomes the archaeologist of the new museum and has already started work. He is one of the best known archaeologists on the continent, and his work is very well known in Canada, particularly in British Columbia.

Verdict Against Hurst.

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 5.—The coroner's jury appointed to enquire into the death of Thomas Brown have returned the verdict that "according to the evidence, said Thomas Brown came to his death by blows administered by Charles Hurst."

The evidence showed no provocation for the assault although conversations were repeated which indicated that Hurst claimed Brown insulted the woman, Mrs. Taylor.

Want Stars and Stripes.

Detroit, Aug. 5.—"If the American flag does not go to London, Ont., next week the Detroit-London Old Boys don't go," declared George Moore, president of the London Old Boys' Association of Detroit yesterday afternoon, when asked what action would be taken as a result of the removal of the United States flag from the street decorations in London in preparation for next week's home-coming.

Brockville, Aug. 5.—Herbert Swan, a Walford lad of 15 years, was driving a team along the road near his home when one of the animals kicked him in the breast, causing almost instant death.

BELAND PROMOTED.

He Becomes Postmaster-General in Cabinet.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—The Cabinet changes foreshadowed some time ago in connection with the retirement of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries and of Naval Affairs, to take the position on the Supreme Court Bench rendered vacant by the death of Justice Girouard, will take place next week.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur is now winding up pending matters of departmental administration in connection with his portfolio, so as to have things in good shape for his successor, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the present Postmaster-General. Dr. Henri S. Beland, the young, able and popular member for Beauce will enter the Cabinet as Postmaster-General, and will be sworn in within a few days at Murray Bay, Que., where His Excellency Earl Grey now is.

The new Minister will address meetings both in Ontario and Quebec during the campaign. Hon. Mr. Lemieux will go to Simcoe with Sir Wilfrid for the Prime Minister's opening meeting of the campaign on Aug. 15. The other Ministers to accompany Sir Wilfrid to Simcoe will be Hon. Geo. P. Graham and Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

John F. Thompson of Green Point, near Picton, fell from a load and, striking his head on a cement floor, was probably fatally injured.

S. F. McKinnon of Toronto passed away at the Holborn Viaduct Hotel, London, as the result of an attack of asthma. Mrs. McKinnon is also ill.

An unknown man dived off the Holland River Road bridge at Bradford yesterday, evidently with the intention of having a swim, but was drowned before help could reach him.

Miss Mamie Quinn of Beaconsfield avenue, Toronto, fell from the stern of a boat off Howe Island, ten miles from Kingston yesterday, and drowned in sight of a number of friends with whom she had been fishing.

J. Valentine landed at 6.47 o'clock last evening at the Brookland's aviation field (England). He is the first English aviator and the third competitor in The Daily Mail's race for $50,000 to compete the circuit of Great Britain, a distance of 1,010 miles.

Report Cotton Goods Bill.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 5.—The Insurgent-Democratic combination in Senate sprang a surprise yesterday when it directed the finance committee to report the House cotton goods bill, reducing tariff duties nearly fifty per cent., not later than Aug. 10, and predictions of an early adjournment are shattered.

There is no doubt that the cotton bill will be passed and sent to President Taft, along with the wool and farmers' free list bills.

Curiously enough the conferees on the wool bill yesterday named Senator Lafollette, the anti-Taft Republican from Wisconsin, and Representative Underwood, of Alabama, the Democratic leader of the House as a sub-committee to draft the bill that will go to Taft.

It is safe to say that Taft's wishes will not be consulted.

Fired at Policeman.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—The entire police department yesterday were engaged in a man hunt growing out of a desperate fight between a highwayman and Constable Trayner, who had arrested him Thursday night. Nightly, for several days, citizens have been held up and robbed on the streets by two thugs armed with guns.

One was arrested Thursday night on complaint of his landlady, but Constable Trayner did not realize he had arrested a dangerous man until his prisoner jerked away, drew a revolver and fired at him repeatedly. The thug escaped into the railway yards. A search of his rooms showed unmistakable evidence of highwaymen. The two said they came from Toronto and were railway men.

Census Takers' Pay.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—The Department of Agriculture yesterday afternoon issued checks to the census enumerators throughout the country where the original accounts, have been corrected. It was decided after completion of the enumeration to withhold ten per cent. on all checks until accounts had been examined and found correct. Many of the enumerators have been awaiting their pay for some weeks. In Ottawa those who covered one section of the city were paid in full, but the money of the others was held up, much dissatisfaction arising as a result.

JOB-HUNTERS CLAMOR

Ottawa Is Invaded by Hungry Liberal Workers.

Silence Regarding Names of Tenderers For the Hudson Bay Railway Now Explained—Resentment Against the Firm Is Feared In the West—Fielding and Pugsley Off For East—Borden Missed Toronto Rally.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—Ottawa is the mecca of the Liberal job-hunters. Trainloads of Laurier workers are coming into Ottawa, each man bent on seeing Laurier himself, and each man insisting that his party services in the past be immediately recognized.

It leaked out last night that there is some ulterior motive on the Government's part in not announcing the successful tenderers for the preliminary construction of the Hudson Bay Railway.

The lowest tenderer is said to be a well-known railway firm, but Hon. Geo. P. Graham is holding back the announcement on account of the wave of popular resentment which would follow the official statement to that effect in the west.

The company in question is said to have tendered under a nom de plume, but the identity is known, and in view of Mr. Borden's policy of government building, ownership, and control by independent commission of the road, the Government is in a quandary as to what to do. Hence the delay in announcing the successful tenderer.

Messrs. Fielding and Pugsley leave for the Maritime Provinces to-day, and the Minister of the Interior is already on his way west. Both Mr. Fielding and Mr. Fisher are to be heard on the stump in Ontario.

Further plans for the Premier's campaign tour have been made. Opening at Simcoe on the 15th he will speak at Three Rivers on the 17th, and at Quebec on the 19th. From Aug. 20 to 26 will be spent in the Montreal district. Then he will go to the Maritime Provinces, remaining there until Sept. 2, speaking in Halifax, St. John, Moncton, Pictou and other centres. Ontario will see him in the first week of September, and then he will go back to Quebec province, where he will speak at various points up to the 16th.

The last few days have not yet been allotted, but he will probably wind up the campaign with a meeting in Ottawa.

R. L. Borden was compelled to abandon his intention of going to Toronto to attend the Conservative rally in the Exhibition grounds there to-day. He finds the pressure of work here too great to allow him to get away just yet.

Wilson For North Wentworth.

Hamilton, Aug. 5.—Gordon C. Wilson, M.P.P. for North Wentworth, will oppose W. O. Sealey, M.P., in the Wentworth riding in the Dominion elections. Wilson was waited upon by the Wentworth Conservative executive Thursday night, and gave his consent. He left for Toronto yesterday morning to confer with Premier Whitney. This means that there will be a provincial bye-election in North Wentworth shortly after the Dominion elections.

Possible Candidates.

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 5.—W. R. Givens, editor of The Kingston Standard and president of the Conservative Association and Dr. A. E. Ross are spoken of as possible candidates for the party.

Hon. W. Harty and J. McD. Mowat are mentioned for the Liberals, but it is considered almost certain that Harty will be the man.

Labor Candidate for Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—There are indications to-day of a three-cornered political fight in Ottawa. Last night the Allied Trade and Labor Association met to decide whether or not it will put a candidate in the field.

South Lanark Convention.

Perth, Ont., Aug. 5.—The Conservatives of South Lanark have called a convention for August 17 to elect a candidate for the coming election.

Winnipeg Voters' Lists.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—The report that the Dominion Government will insist on handling the registration of the voters' list in Winnipeg for the approaching election is not credited here. The new Lieutenant-Governor, who was placed in office Monday, signed the proclamation of the printed lists Thursday. It is not at all likely he would have done such a thing if the Dominion contemplated taking over the work.

Help For the Niobe.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 5.—A wireless message from H.M.S. Cornwall to Commander Martin states that she has heard of the Niobe's plight, and is on her way to render assistance.

She will probably take hold of the Niobe to-day, and both may be expected here to-morrow. No change is reported in the Niobe's condition.

Two Killed by Cave-In.

East Liverpool, Ohio, Aug. 5.—In a sewer cave-in at the plant of the Pittsburg Crucible Steel Co. at Midland, Pa., seven miles from here early yesterday, fifty men were buried. Two were taken out dead and four others were probably fatally hurt. Rescuers are still at work and the death list may grow larger.

Cars Thrown Off the Track.

Anson, Texas, Aug. 5.—Three passenger coaches attached to a southbound train on the Wichita Valley route were thrown from the tracks north of here Thursday night. Practically every passenger, about thirty received more or less severe bruises One infant was fatally hurt.

New Zealand Commissioner.

London, Aug. 5.—There is keen competition among New Zealand politicians for the High Commissionership about to be vacated by Sir William Hall-Jones. It is expected Thomas Mackenzie, Minister of Land and Agriculture, will receive the appointment

TOGO RIDES IN ENGINE.

Famous Japanese Admiral Sees Sights of New York.

New York, Aug. 5.—Admiral Togo left New York late yesterday afternoon for Washington. His departure had a feature quite as unusual as his midnight arrival and welcome in New York bay Thursday night, for he left the city in the cab of a big electric engine drawing a heavy train for the capital city.

Although the luxurious car Olivette, which the Government had provided for the distinguished guest while in this country was attached to the train, the naval hero elected to sit by the engineer's side and watch him operate the 40,000 horsepower motor.

"I am intensely interested in your pre-eminence in electric engineering and railroading," the admiral said through his interpreter, "and I wish to avail myself of this opportunity to closely observe both. Therefore, I will ride with the engineer"

The admiral rode in the cab to the limit of the electric zone at Harrison, N.J., and there entered his car. He asked many questions of the engineer concerning the electric equipment. In fact, it was remarked that he displayed more interest in this incident of his visit than in anything previously.

During his fourteen hours' stay in the city, Admiral Togo had many conflicting experiences, but there was not the least change in his almost blank countenance. He was not seen to smile, nor to frown, although he had much occasion to do the latter. He was entirely impassive so far as his countenance might reveal his emotion.

Once when an over-zealous photographer for whom he had graciously consented to pose, roughly shoved his head to one side with a "Don't hold your head so stiffly," he evinced no displeasure. Again, when the photographers became involved in a quarrel in his presence as to preference for camera position, he looked on without changing his expression, even while Chandler Hale, third assistant secretary of State, and official representative of the Government, in entertaining the admiral, ejected the photographers.

LIVES IN PERIL.

S. A. Landers Protests Against Danger From Fire In Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—S. A. Landers, secretary of the United Garment Workers of America, went before the Board of Control yesterday to protest against the lack of fire protection in factories where garment workers are employed.

Mr. Landers stated that there were many glaring cases of inadequate protection and gave a list of factories where the lives of hundreds of women and children workers are in jeopardy. This list included not only old establishments, but several buildings newly erected, with fine business fronts, which Mr. Landers declares are little more than fire traps.

He mentioned a number of factories where he declares the laws are winked at. One in particular had 500 women and girls working on the sixth floor, with no fire escapes, and only one exit.

Mr. Landers' statements were followed with great interest by the Board of Control and the building inspector and fire chief will be instructed to take immediate action.

Fifty Die In Floods.

New York, Aug. 5.—Fifty persons are dead in Nicaragua as a result of the recent floods on the Gulf Coast and in the interior, according to cable advices from Bluefields. The floods are said to have been the worst which have visited this region in a generation.

Smith Centre, Kansas, Aug. 5.—Northwestern Kansas was flooded by a cloudburst Thursday and all streams are out of their banks. Six inches of rain fell here in two hours. Swollen streams carried out bridges and culverts worth $100,000. The Rock Island Railroad lost thirty bridges and culverts in 45 miles.

Harlan, 14 miles south of here, was struck by a tornado and several houses were blown down. A flouring mill was blown down, and its wreckage was swept away by the Solomon River, which is several miles wide at that place. Much live stock was killed, but no persons were seriously hurt.

Wilbur Mines Closed.

Kingston, Aug. 5.—On account of the break-up in the iron ore market, J. B. Hanna, Cleveland, president of the Ontario Exploration Co., arrived here and closed up the company's mines at Wilbur. There is no chance of shipping any ore this year and the mines will not likely reopen until spring. This is rather hard on the one hundred and forty men engaged at the mine.

No Black Rust In Manitoba.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—G. M. Bosworth, vice-president of the C.P.R., yesterday wired W. M. Lanigan, assistant freight agent of western lines, Winnipeg, as follows: "Any truth in newspaper reports this morning regarding black rust in Manitoba?"

To which Mr. Lanigan replied: "No truth in newspaper reports of black rust in Manitoba."

Washout Near Guelph.

Guelph, Aug. 5.—A cloud burst, which occurred shortly after 6 o'clock Thursday night, caused a washout on the Grand Trunk six miles north of this city. Water filled the ditches to four feet in depth, and lay right over the rails. The temporary fill-in required three hours' work before traffic could be resumed. Passengers assisted with shovels.

Wheels Crushed Him.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—George Papillon died in the Water Street Hospital yesterday. Driving a lumber wagon at Hull, he fell off in some way and the wheels passed over his body causing death a few hours later.

Empress Has Tonsilitis.

Berlin, Aug. 5.—Emperor William will remain at Potsdam. He is not to see the Empress, who is suffering with tonsilitis, for fear of infection.

IF YOU HAVE

CATARRH

Remember the best Catarrh medicine that money can buy is Catarrhozone; it cures quickly and permanently when all others fail.

The remedy doesn't exist that will cure Catarrh as quickly as Catarrhozone. It relieves the most stubborn cases in a short time, and drives the disease so thoroughly from the system that it never returns.

Druggists boldly recommend Catarrhozone in preference to other remedies, because they know it is the best, and every progressive doctor prescribes it for the same good reason.

Catarrhozone is a rational, common sense treatment that finds favor with everybody. It cures by the inhalation of medicated air, which comes in contact with the mucous surface of all the breathing organs. It gets at the source of the trouble, kills the germs and drives every vestige of catarrh right out of the system.

It doesn't matter how deep-seated or chronic your case may be, Catarrhozone can cure it. Even though a thousand other remedies have failed don't give up hope until you have tried Catarrhozone. It has cured other cases probably worse than yours, and will cure yours if it gets a chance

Mr. Dutcher Law, a prominent citizen of Italy Cross, N. S., says.—"I experimented with hundreds of catarrh remedies and found the majority to be worthless, dismal failures. Catarrhozone was the first to give lasting relief; it cured me and I am with pleasure testifying to its merits as a cure for Catarrh of the nose and throat.

(Signed) DUTCHER LAW."

You are sure to derive the most pleasant results from Catarrhozone. It has been tested may times and never found wanting. Every druggist in Canada sells it. Complete two months' treatment, guaranteed to cure costs $1.00, or a trial size, 50c.

All Haiti's Candidates.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Aug. 5.—Gen. Firmin sailed Thursday night on the French steamer Caravelle for Cape Haitien, Haiti, by way of San Domingo. He has received a cablegram from Gen. Leconte assuring him that he will succeed to the Presidency of Haiti. Thirty Haitien exiles, including Gen. Roche, also a candidate to succeed Simon, boarded the Caravelle at St. Thomas, Danish West Indies. The German steamer Presidente sailed yesterday for Haiti with thirty Haitien exiles from St. Thomas and Porto Rico.

Found Dying on Railway.

St. Thomas, Aug. 5.—Arthur Armstrong, aged 35, married with a family, was found on the Wabash tracks near New Sarum Thursday night with one hand cut off and his skull fractured. He was brought to the hospital here and died yesterday morning. His home is near New Sarum. He was fined in the police court here Thursday morning for being drunk.

"You couldn't do that in the city," piped the lad, in whose mind milk and cow were inseparable.

EDITOR'S WIFE WAS MURDERED

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 4.— A native servant named Sophie Sylvester has baan arrested on a charge of murdering her mistress, Mrs. Margaret Douglas Palmer, wife of Mr. W. T. Palmer, formerly assistant editor of the Cape Times.

Mrs. Palmer was left alone in house with the servant girl for a few hours and on Mr. Palmer's return in the evening he found his wife missing. The servant girl was questioned and she said she thought her mistress had gone out.

A search led to the discovery of Mrs Palmer's body in some bush at the back of the house, the clothing being disarranged and dirty as if the body had been dragged through the mud. Evidence was given that Mrs. Palmer had been strangled.

The next day the native servant, a powerfully built woman of 30, was arrested. She has made a statement to the police and has been remanded. Mrs. Palmer was an Australian and was well known as a novelist and a poet. She was 53 years of age.

A PLEASANT TRIP IN NEW ONTARIO

Farmers Prosper Despite Forest Fires—Crops in General are Excellent

The twenty District Representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture made a tour of New Ontario last week in the care of the T. & N. O. and report a very progressive and successful season for the New Ontario farmers in spite of the devastation of big fires in July. Clearing of land is rapidly spreading. Crops of hay and oats are fine. Potatoes are very promising. Ready markets are being afforded for all farm products in the mining centres of Cobalt, Porcupine Elk Lake, etc. The T. & N. O. service has lately been heavily taxed in both freight and passenger departments. There were 390 cars of freight going into Porcupine alone last week People in older Ontario will soon have an excellent market for pure bred stock, high grade draft horses and first class seed grain and the larger fruits. Raspberries and blueberries (wild), are very plentiful, but still bring good prices locally all over the settled portions of New Ontario. The mining areas are being thoroughly and extensively exploited and explored The robust looking children indicate a healthy climate and plenty to eat

In telling of his experiences and observations during the tour, Mr. McIntosh of Hastings Branch of Department of Agriculture, said that no party could have been more cordially received or more heartily welcomed and entertained. The representatives were banqueted at Englehart by the Agricultural Society, over one hundred farmers and business men being present. Drives through the country were arranged and so carefully planned that much of the new country was seen and still the comfort of the party was never lacking.

One of the most promising features of New Ontario according to Mr. McIntosh's report was the excellent class of immigrants and settlers. Robust thrifty and intelligent men were found on all sides. One settler had been a jeweler in Toronto, another had been a carpenter from southern Ontario, and another a graduate from a German agricultural college.

The Provincial experimental farm was one of the points of interest visited by the representatives. A practical demonstration of clearing land was made, and evidenced the wisdom of the Department in having such a farm in that new country where settlers might see and learn how to proceed to clear the forests and break and conquer the strong new soil. Much building was going on, both at the Provincial farm and on adjacent farms.

Some fruit trees are being planted vegetables of all kinds grow to perfection. Although stove wood is so plentiful, yet tamarack stove wood was selling in town for $2.50 per cord. Crops were so profitable evidently, that the farmers had not time to saw wood and haul it to town. New roads were being rapidly opened up and old ones repaired.

Mr. McIntosh was very optimistic for the excellent future of New Ontario, and he had nothing but words of praise for the excellent service of the Provincial Railway and the great work it was doing in opening up a greater Ontario than has been.

The farmers and business men of the north were all unanimous in expressing their appreciation of a visit from agricultural experts from older Ontario parts, feeling confident that a fair and just report of New Ontario would attract many who would otherwise intend to leave for the West.

G. T. P. a Big Factor

The exceptional demand for Farm Laborers in the Canadian Northwest to harvest the crop of 1911 is being actively taken hold of by the various Railway lines. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is comparatively a new factor in the field, and is putting forth every effort to relieve the situation, and are prepared to place as many as can be obtained in the territory contiguous to their lines in the West.

With this in view efforts are being made through their European organization to obtain help, and in addition they are operating excursions from points in Ontario and Quebec, tickets for which are available on August 3rd, 15th, 16th, 23rd and 25th.

Full particulars may be obtained on application to any Grand Trunk Agent.

Special arrangements have been made for the distribution to points where men are needed from Winnipeg by the Government for those not engaged before starting for the West. dti wlt

THE VALUE OF LENSES AND PRISMS IN THE CORRECTION OF EYE STRAIN.

majority of the people to-day, that great skill is required to properly diagnose and correct errors of refraction in both children and adults, and most certainly should not be trusted to incompetent hands. Up to a very recent time little attention was given to that condition of the eye known as Muscular Imbalance. More recently the best among the profession, particularly Refracting Opticians, have delved into the subject and placed it upon a square, scientific basis. The twelve Extrinsic Muscles must be in perfect balance or the best correction made to relieve refractive errors will not be satisfactory.

CURED CONSTIPATION QUICKLY
Tells of a remedy that is safe for young and old, for all Stomach and Bowel troubles.
Writing from his home in Barcelona Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states:— "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did from constipation for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over, to make me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box satisfied me that I had found a true remedy. Instead of griping by undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose, and indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."
No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are the ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

BASE BALL

"RUNT" WALSH

You can't always identify a man by his nickname. In the case of William Walsh, the best all around player on the Philadelphia National League club, the nickname "Runt" doesn,t signify. You might as well call President Taft "Skinny."

When Walsh began playing ball he weighed 215, which was the same tonnage he held for sometime and considerable for a youth of only five feet ten. He was dubbed "Runt" at once.

The Phillies secured Walsh in 1909 from South Bend. When the team went south last year, Dooin picked as a reporter the husky Walsh and had to pinch himself to believe he was a player when so informed.

And he is some player, too. He is so good that it is hard to fix him in one place. He has played every position save that of batteryman.

Dooin planned to make an infielder of Walsh but he is filling the shoes of Sherwood Magee so well that in his first nine games the team won eight and lost one. His catches saved the day frequently and his hits helped to win the games.

Walsh has two hobbies, Boston terriers and automobiles. He has always one and sometimes more of the former. The less said about the gasoline gig the better. It is a runabout and Walsh says it will do ten miles an hour when it runs. The farther it goes away from home the slower it runs and is often returned to the garage by a slow but patient horse.

CLOSE RACE FOR E. L. PENNANT.

Fans around the Eastern League circuit, at least those who are unprejudiced, have eliminated all but three clubs from the 1911 championship race. It is generally conceded that Baltimore, Toronto and Rochester are the only teams with a chance for the pennant. They are running so close a race that injury to a star batsman or pitcher will put any one of them out of it. On the face of things the race seems to be between Rochester and Toronto. Baltimore had been tried and found wanting as a road club and has half of its remaining games away from home, Rochester has one more to play on the road than at home, while Toronto will play 11 more on the home grounds than it has contests abroad.

Toronto has a club hard to beat at any stage of the game because of its hitting. The Leafs aren't the best base running club in the league and its pitchers have not shown a great deal above the boxmen of other clubs, but the long distance swatting is making up for other deficiencies and the Leafs are piling up their share of games in the won column. At home they are next to invincible. On paper it looks like Toronto's pennant, but baseball is a funny game. It is the uncertainty of the sport that makes it the national game. The poorest man in the world can put out a clean drive off the best pitcher in captivity and break up the tightest of games.

Rochester has 8 more games with the Leafs, 4 at home and 4 over the river. To date Toronto has taken a majority of the games in the inter-city series. Toronto and Baltimore have 8 games to play between themselves, 4 in each city. Chances favor the Leafs and if they have the better of Rochester and Baltimore on dope, the Birds and Hustlers must go like a house on fire against the weaker clubs if they are to beat the Leafs.

Toronto has 53 games to play; 32 at home and 21 abroad. Rochester has 55 to play, 28 on the road and 27 at home, while Baltimore will play 52, evenly divided between the home and foreign diamonds.

ANGLICANS TO SEEK CHURCH UNION

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—The general trend of the religious bodies towards church union, at least towards a working agreement, is shown by the following motion which Judge Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, will put before the general synod of the Anglican church in Canada, in London next month.

"That the spread of the gospel message and of Christian administrations can be more effectively and speedily promoted by the elimination of unnecessary competition between the several Christian churches, whose doctrines are practically the same.

"Be it therefore resolved that a standing committee of both houses be appointed to co-operate with similar committees of other Christian churches in formulating a plan for defining territorially or otherwise the fields of operations of the respective churches and taking the necessary steps to carry the same into effect."

Cobwebs in the Morning.

Cobwebs in the head on rising in the morning is the result of a Lazy Liver, one or two mornings in succession and sick headache follows.

Father Morriscy's Liver Pills will clear the Brain.

These Pills are a purely vegetable compound prepared with great care, and are without doubt the very best pills for general use, on the market. The greatest care has been given to selecting the ingredients, and being entirely vegetable, they act upon the liver and bowels in such a manner as not to disturb the other functions of the body as many pills do.

As a Liver Invigorator, Blood Purifier and General System Renovator, they are unequalled. Sick headache is invariably brought on by a sluggish liver, constipation or irregular bowels; these pills are a cure for sick headache in any form.

Pimples, eruptions and yellow skin are often caused by a lazy liver; one pill three times a week, will soon clear the complexion.—Price 25c. per box.

RAGING HEADACHE STOPPED AT ONCE

When He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

SHANLY, ONT., Sept. 23rd, 1910.

"You certainly have the Greatest discovered Headache Cure in the world. Before "Fruit-a-tives" came before the public, I suffered tortures from Headaches caused by Stomach Disorders.

"One of your travellers called on me when I had one of my raging headaches and had my head almost raw from external applications.

"I hated to see any person coming into the store (much less a commercial traveller) and I told him very curtly that I had a headache but he insisted on my trying "Fruit-a-tives".

"I did so, with what I would call amazing results. They completely cured me and since then (nearly six years ago) it is only necessary for me to take one occasionally to preserve me in my present good health. I was 65 years old yesterday and have been a general store keeper at the above address for twenty-five years". WM. PITT

Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives" at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

New Publication on British Columbia

A new publication has just been issued by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in connection with a territory that is practically unknown. This publication deals with the Plateau and valley lands in Cental British Columbia, and which will be reached by the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway west of Fort George and east to Hadelton, British Columbia.

The descriptive matter was secured with much difficulty by an exploration party sent out last year who discovered the possibilities of the marvellously rich and climate favored land referred to, and the statements made are based directly on these researches. Facts have also been secured and incorporated in his publication from Government Agents' reports and equally reliable sources, and every care has been taken in the compilation of the text which will be found correct in all statements.

The publication deals with the markets, mineral production climate, settlement, soil and class of land, temperature, altitude, pre-emption, timber lands, homesteads, etc., and also gives full particulars as to how to secure Government lands, taxation, education, social conditions and advice to emigrants

A new and very interesting map accompanies the book which is profusely illustrated in every particular. The illustrations are made from direct photographs taken by the specially equipped party sent out by the Grand Trunk system last year.

Any one desiring a sopy of this publication may obtain the same without cost by applying to Mr. C. E. Horning, C. P. & T. A., G. T. Ry. system, north-west corner King and Yonge, streets, Toronto, Ont. dit wlt

DOES ELECTRICITY AFFECT CLIMATE?

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The American says editorially:—

Does electricity generated for commerce and sent through countless wires on its mission of usefulness affect the climate?

Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent English scientist says it does, and he is joined by Dr. Lockyer, the astronomer and other noted men.

According to Sir Oliver, atmospheric conditions along the Pacific coast are undergoing a change due to the prevalence of electricity in the air which escapes from the wires. So important does the Government regard this announcement that it has detailed experts to investigate, with the assurance that the question will be solved in the near future.

Wires and wireless have had an effect on our civilization which we cannot estimate. Who knows but that the time may come when we can make climate to order with electricity?

KITCHENER IS WELL LIKED BY EGYPTIANS

As British Agent There, He Has Been Received With Great Enthusiasm

LONDON, Aug. 5.—[illegible] among the Egyptian Nationalists, who, however, have been very quiet of late, the appointment of Lord Kitchener as British Agent in Egypt and the Soudan, has been received with the greatest enthusiasm. Here in England satisfaction is expressed at the fact that the Government has at last found something for the greatest of British generals to do, something that is considered worthy of his talents, while the British residents in Egypt have received the news with the greatest delight.

Although Sir Edward Grey has announced in the House of Commons that the appointment of Lord Kitchener does not foreshadow any change in the both here and in Egypt, that if there Government's policy, there is a feeling is no change, there will at least be a different way of carrying out that policy. Kitchener's reputation gives the Imperialist hope that he will deal a little more drastically with those Nationalists who at the commencement of Sir Eldon Gorst's administration attempted and to some extent succeeding in stirring up trouble.

While the Nationalists are quiet and their leaders dissociate themselves from all talk of violence, there is known to be a great deal of smoldering discontent encouraged by the Socialist members of parliament. A strong man, it was felt, was needed to keep this under, and in Kitchener the people believe they have the man. His long experience in Egypt and the Soudan further fits him for the place and his appointment was doubtuless made with the absolute practical certainty that British prestige would benefit from his administration. There are some optimists who believe that this benefit will spread throughout the Near East and that with Kitchener and a strong army in Egypt, Britain will be able to formulate and carry out any plans she may have in Turkey and Persia, or frustrate any schemes of other powers that might interfere with England's policy.

WILL GAIN IN EVERY PROVINCE

Hon. Robert Rogers Will Enter Field if He Can be of Service to Borden

TORONTO, Aug. 5.—The word defeat" in the vocabulary of the Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works for Manitoba, has only one application at the present moment. It applies wholly and solely to the Laurier Government. The Hon. Robert has no doubt on that score. When seen by the Telegram at the King Edward Hotel this morning, he expressed himself as saified and exceedingly hopeful of the result of the election.

"The prospects of the Conservative party, then are bright?" said the reporter.

"Put it the prospects of the defeat of the Laurier Government are bright," replied Mr. Rogers. "Prospects are bright because of the fact that we are getting support from men, not only of great prominence, but of men who recognize their responsibility of Canadianship, who are ready to join hands with us in fighting a battle which means the saving of our Canadian nationality.

"That task we are going to accomplish regardless of our own party affiliations. After we have won Canada's battle," (and here he put emphasis on the word Canada) "we can then sit down and discuss questions of party politics. But our first duty is to our country.

"If you saw the evidence that comes to us day after day," continued Mr. Rogers, "you would have no fear of the result. Not only in the east but also in the west, we will gain seats. I believe we will gain sats in every province.

"My own position as to whether I will leave provincial politics and enter the federal arena is a mere detail. That'll depend when I get back to Winnipeg, and whether I think I could best serve Mr. Borden and his party by entering the federal arena, or whether I could serve him more effectively by remaining where I am. I return to Winnipeg next week.

"The election was brought about by a combination of conditions, but it is my firm belief that the announcement of the dissolution was really the result of a panic on the part of the Ministers."

CAPTAIN ARRESTED ON THEFT CHARGE

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 4.—Capt. Alex Cunning of the wrecking tug Favorite, which put into Amherstburg yesteday, was placed under arrest by the chief of police at that point, charged with having committed wholesale larceny. The offence is said to have taken place between January and February 1910.

The name of the vessel does not appear on the face of the warrant but it states that the wreck lay off the Duck Islands. The warrant was forwarded to high constable Fred. Campeau, of Windsor, by Magistrate Wm. Price, of Gore Bay. The goods alleged to have been stolen, are shoes, groceries, clothing, merchandise, etc.

Cunning was brought to this city and will be held during such time as Soo officers arrive to escort him there for trial.

The steamer Wissahickon was wrecked off Duck Island in the winter of 1910 and it is a well known fact that she was plundered of the cargo the time the wreckers were at work, but no charge was ever made and the underwriters paid the loss. Inspector Miller of the Provincial Police worked on the case.

BORDEN WILL; LAURIER WON'T

(Intelligencer Special.)

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 7.—It is not likely that Laurier will speak here during the campaign unless at the very end. Arrangements are being made for a meeting to be addressed by Mr. Borden.

RIGHT TO PREACH IS DENIED DEAN

LONDON, Aug 6.—The Bishop of Winchester has recalled the license to "exercise the cure of souls" from the Rev. J. M. Thompson, dean of Magdalen College, Oxford. The Rev. Mr Thompson is the nephew of the late Bishop of Oxford. Recently he published a book attacking the leading doctrines of orthodoxy. He maintains that positive evidence of the origin and birth of Jesus are exceedingly weak and negative and that the evidences are very strong that the resurrection was not a physical fact but a spiritual one.

The notion that Jesus worked miracles is so inconsistent with the doctrine of incarnation as is the idea that his body, mind and normal naaure were not really human, but distinctly miraculous. That the elementary gospels are unessential and removable without destroying the historical and psychological unity of the clergymen have aroused fiery controveray at Oxford and throughout the Church of England.

PLUNGES OVER FALLS CLIFF; JUSTICE WINS WHEN DEATH LOSES

Kelly of Buffalo, Drops 125 Feet Into Niagara Gorge, Lives is Arrested and Fined—Tree Broke Awful Fall

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 5.—After a fall of 125 feet, a miraculous escape from death, a risky rescue by rope and quick repairs by a police surgeon, Charles Kelly, who gave his address as Auburn avenue, Buffalo, today was fined $2 and costs by Judge Piper, on a charge of intoxication From first to last this climatic series of incidents occupied less than 30 minutes.

Kelly's story reads like a chapter from the Arabian Nights. He came to town last night, he says, with money and a thirst. He relieved himself of both, he declares, along Niagara street. As the sun was shedding its earliest beams this morning, he admits that he felt wearied and sought a place of rest. The cool, green lawn along the cliff about 100 feet north of the American end of the upper steel arch bridge appealed to the wanderer and so, selecting a quiet nook, Kelly snuggled down with his arm for a pillow and lapsed into a slumber, deep but not quiet.

The next paragraph of the story is told by Ticket Taker John Hurst, on duty at the bridge. About 9 o'clock he stood at the bridge rail looking down the river. Just as he turned back to his work a human form plunged off the bank in plain view and hurtled, head downward, to the rocks below. Hurst was too astonished to shout. As he looked, dumb with astonishment, the falling figure landed, but not on the rocky talus of the river, but on the branches of a tree Bounding from the leafy branches the inert man dropped a few feet to the rock and lay still.

Hurst, waking from the tragic thrall that bound him, rushed into the office and told his awful story. A man, dead, and horribly mangled, lay on the rocks after a fatal fall. Division Superintendent Garrett of the International Railway Company, ran to look As he gazed the dead body flopped an arm across its face.

"He ain't dead; come on, boys," yelled Garrett, and led the men up the hill and behind the gas plant. There a long rope was secured, a knot tied in the end, and Hurst and Garrett went down to the rescue of the man below. When they arrived Kelly was awake and thoroughly angry. He protested that the courtesy of the city was poor, that he couldn't even sleep in peace, and that this trip to the falls was to be his last.

His rescuers listened patiently for a minute and then acted. Despite protests they tied the rope around Kelly and gave the signal to haul away. Up he went, wriggling and shouting.

The surprise of the men at the top was so great when they discovered whom they were pulling up, that they almost dropped their burden. Kelly was untied and his rescuers pulled up by the rope route and then the party started for the nearest police station. The police surgeon repaired Kelly, who was scratched and bruised, but none of whose bones appeared to be broken, and prepared to turn him loose. Kelly's gratitude was not so delicately expressed as it might have been and he was arrested.

Taken before Judge Piper, Kelly was charged with having partaken at too great length and was gned $2 and costs and warned not to sleep so close to the edge of the bed gain.

CURRENT COMMENT

LAURIER AND LOOT!

LAURIER AND LARGER MARKETS FOR YANKEES.

Vote for Borden candidates and Canada for Canadians.

Those Grain Growers' Associations in the western provinces have been growing more politics than grain.

Already we see trouble ahead for keeping Sir Wilfrid's plume white. —Guelph Herald.

The Ottawa Citizen and the Kingston Standard, which at first supported reciprocity, have changed their opinions on the subject. The former characterizes it as "a leap in the dark," although President Taft did not think so, his opinion being that it would be a great boon to U. S. farmers and manufacturers.

DON'T LET LAURIER FINISH HIS WORK.—FINISH LAURIER.

The value and extent of our fisheries is not confined to the sea or its tributaries, but extends to our inland waters, as is evidenced by the fact that, said an item in the Mail and Emipre, another fishing club of wealthy Americans from Pennsylvania, left Toronto last night, this one being bound for the wilds in the region of North Bay, whither they went to the number of 40, in a special Grand Trunk train, composed of two Pullmans and a baggage car. This is the third of these fishing clubs to go north within a week, and two or three more are expected next week. This shows the importance of protecting our fisheries.

DON'T MORTGAGE THE OLD HOMESTEAD.

Canadians scarcely know what the extent and value of their country is. Every year is bringing to light its vast extent and its unrivalled importance to the Empire. The last discovery is, says an Ottawa despatch, of August 3rd, a new river some three hundred miles long. It is styled the Black Crow River, a tributary of the Porcupine, and was thought to be only thirty miles long. Surveyors delineating the international boundary have succeeded in going 300 miles up it in a gasoline launch. The "find" is considered important in that it will shorten the work of the surveyors by a year, and will also materially shorten the Canadian water route to the Arctic Ocean. The Porcupine is a tributary of the Yukon River.

The cheek of the Yankees in hoisting in Canada the Stars and Stripes is the result of the reciprocity agitation in the United States. They begin to think already that Ontario is one of the states of the Union. The chairman of the Decoration Committee of the London Old Boys' Association did his duty the other day in ordering down all the American flags which had been included in the street decorations. Poles along the main street had been draped with bunting, and on top of each were four Canadian and four American flags. There was much feeling on the subject, says a local paper, and to avoid further trouble, all Yankee flags were taken down. No one should pay disrespect to the neighboring flag, nor should those who revere the Union Jack permit the Stars and Stripes to be planted defiantly in their faces upon every public occasion.

BANK DEPOSITORS WANT INSPECTION

LINDSAY, Aug 6.—A meeting of the depositors of the defunct Farmers' Bank residing at Lindsay and in surrounding country points, like Dunsford, Kinmount, Nestleton, Janetville Bethany, and Pontypool, was held at the Town Halle here yesterday.

Mr. J. G. Ashmore, of Emily Township, a large depositor, occupied the chair, and addresses were made by him, Messrs. I. E. Weldon, of Lindsay Robt. J. Mitchell, of Verulam; and F E. Gordon, of Emily.

It was felt by the meeting that the defunct institution should never have been permitted by the department to commence business, and a committee was appointed, consisting of two members from each place where the bank had formerly carried on business, to interview the Government and the leader of the Opposition in the Dominion Parliament, to see if some measure of relief could not be undertaken by the Government whereby the depositors would be protected. Mr. I. E. Weldon was appointed secretary of the committee, and asked to communicate with depositors in the Farmers' Bank in other localities throughout the country. A resolution was unanimously passed asking the Government to introduce Government inspection of banks, and also asking the Government to guarantee all deposits or make the banks deposit with them an amount equal to a certain percentage of their capital to cover losses of all bank depositors, and that this fund should be available to meet the losses sustained by the depositors of the Farmers' Bank.

INN NAMES IN GERMANY

Scattered throughout England are some curious inn names, but Germany probably keeps the record for out-of-the-way signs and fantastic names. The most absurd results are usually obtained by the name of some animal with a more or less unsuitable object. The Comfortable Chicken and the Cold Frog, both of them in Berlin, are certainly left in the shade by the Angry Ant (Ort, in Westphalia) and the Stiff Dog (Berlin). The Lame Louse is an inn in a suburb of Berlin, and not far from it is the Thirsty Pelican. The Dirty Parlor, the Bloody Bones, the Musical Cats, the Four-hundredweight Man, and the Boxers' Den are all in Berlin or the neighborhood, and the Old Straw Bag in Leipsic. The Open Bunghole is in Stadtohen, in the Palatinate, and the Shoulder-blade in Jericho. The Last Tear is a landlord's notion for the name of his inn, situated near a graveyard, visited by returning mourners, and is of frequent occurrence throughout the Fatherland.

HOLIDAY FOR THE EYES

Everybody should give his eyes a day's holiday at least once a month. An experienced house-surgeon of a well-known London eye-hospital gave this advice in a lecture. "In the present age," he said, "we experience far more eye-strain, owing to increased reading habits and multitudes of glaring lights, than our forefathers did, and we suffer more from headaches. Therefore, give your eyes a holiday as frequently as possible. Give them a day's absolute rest and the relief the next day will be most refreshing. When taking an eye-holiday a room with green wall-paper is a good place to rest in if one cannot get to the country amid Nature's green fields and trees. Green rests the eyes more than any other color."

"And my brother will be the hero of the hour," put in Ethel, rising and leaving the room.

"I am at a loss to grasp Alex's position," said Mrs. Grant in a half-meditative tone. "His disposition is so gentle that the aggravation must have been unusual or he would never have given way to his temper. But if the lady is a person of good repute and her purity of character was assailed, then I should be very sorry had he withheld his protection. Alex is a true gentleman, and no gentleman will allow an unprotected lady to be insulted. Ethan Allen one whipped a man for insulting a young lady, and then compelled him to go upon his knees before her and beg forgiveness. She afterwards married Ethan's brother, and became my grandmother holding me in her aged arms when I was baptized. Alex has the true Allen spirit, for which I am very thankful."

"The Allen spirt and Grant science are an enviable combination," said the attorney-general humorously. "If old Ethan Allen could have been a witness to that California contest his heart would have swelled with pride for the sprightly descendant."

"Let us hope the scene will not be repeated," said Mrs. Grant gently.

The uncle decided to await developments, and a few moments later was again in the cab, heading towards his place of business.

Hardly had he passed from sight when Ethel bounded into the library her face aglow with happiness, and holding a letter in her hand. It was from Alex, giving a full account of his meeting with the fair Southerner their arrival in San Francisco, and their many pleasant associations during the acquaintance of four weeks.

"I knew she must be beautiful and good," exclaimed the sister, handing the letter to her mother.

"But there is nothing mentioned regarding the disturbance," said Mrs Grant, when she had read it through

"It was written before that happened, Mother. He will tell us all about that in his next. For the present we will be content to know that she is one worthy of his protection."

"But if the charge against her character was made since the writing of this letter, which is evidently the case, we have yet to learn the results If they are at large together, and the report said they took a train for the Southwest, it may be more serious than we anticipate.' I hope the dear boy has not found himself in a trap If she is an adventuress, it is hard to tell where the infatuation will end.'

"It will end with his being brought home, if I have to go for him myself," replied Ethel in a determined voice.

CHAPTER VII.

THE FRIENDSHIP DEEPENS.

"Mr. Grant, I congratulate you upon your excellent judgment in the selection of a hotel," said Miss Whiting in a voice of pleasure, as they met upon the piazza shortly after the dinner hour. "I had fully decided to be chronically homesick among al' these strangers, but now that you are here I am sure there will be no cause for such an unenviable experience Remember, I am still under your protection," and she smiled confidently into his face as they took possession of adjoining chairs.

"Your pathetic reference to a 'stranger in a strange country,' was the influence that prompted the selection of a stopping-place," was his frank reply. "The more I considered registering elsewhere, the greater was my condemnation when I thought of the promise to guard your interests until you should have become acquainted with your temporary associates. You may consider me at your service during my two weeks of rest, when I shall leave for the northern wilds."

"I thank you so much, Mr. Grant," she said cordially. "Your company has been such a pleasure, that I feel I should be quite lost without it, particularly under the existing conditions. You remember, old though the adage may be, yet how true, that "a friend in need is a friend indeed'; and the present need is unusually stringent."

"Providing the friend does not become tiresome."

"But, truly, Mr. Grant, is it necessary to take so many risks, and undergo so many privations? Surely some other method of search could be devised. And do you really think your cousin would seek so dense a hiding-place because of a mere difference with his parent?"

"John is determined that nothing but a prolonged hunt shall ever discover his whereabouts. Like his father, he has a powerful will. But I am equally determined to find him."

Yet despite the young Easterner's resolve that nothing should interfere with his mission in behalf of his lost cousin, he felt also that a duty devolved upon him in regard to the fair Southerner, for whom he entertained the highest regard. The fact that she was among strangers, and unfamiliar with the ways of a western city, made it imperative that a reasonable amount of attention be shown her. He was in need of rest after the eight months of vigorous work, and the two weeks which he had set aside for a respite would give her ample time to become acquainted, when she would no longer require his services.

However he would keep a sharp look-out, leisurely canvass the city and if nothing developed to aid him in the search, he would leave for the North. His desire was that the endless journeying from place to place should be concluded as soon as possible and with this purpose in view, coupled with an anxiety to be with the dear ones at home, he continually planned

STEAL AWAY.

(Cy Warman in August Canadian Monthly.)

Let's steal a month of love out of the years,
While the red mothers are crooning;
Let's steal a month, love, out of the years,
Leaving behind all our sorrows and tears,
Hie us away honeymooning.

Let's steal away, love, out of the moors,
While the wild birdies are waiting,
Let's steal a day, love, out of the moons,
Hark to the weird lonely call of the loons!
I am weary of waiting.

Let's steal an hour, love, out of the days,
Hark to the summer winds sighing!
Let's steal an hour, love, out of the days,
Gliding away from the world and its ways,
Soon will the summer be dying.

It is going to be a great cotton season, and cottons are going to be tolerated where formerly they have been prohibited.

To be really fashionable this season one must be slender. En silhouette is the rule of the day, a rule modish women are trying religiously to follow.

Trouble For G.T.R.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—The machinists in the employ of the Grand Trunk have demanded a new agreement with the road, the old one having expired some time ago. Failing to get a new agreement voluntarily, the men will adopt means to compel the company to grant them one.

They opened negotiations with the road some time ago, but at first got little satisfaction. They then went to the department of labor and made application for a board of arbitration. Later, however, negotiations with the road were renewed, and are now in progress, with fair prospects of terminating successfully. Meanwhile the matter of appointing a board of arbitration will be held in abeyance.

That Flag Episode.

London, Ont., Aug. 7.—James Weldon, secretary of the Old Boys' Reunion, received telegrams Saturday from both the Chicago and Detroit London Old Boys' Associations expressing great indignation at the removal of the stars and stripes from the street decorations.

Since the removal of the flags by the committee it is noticeable that private citizens are taking pains to use the American flag in their decorations.

Pressmen In Calgary.

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 6.—The Buckeye Press Association of Ohio, numbering 175, were in Calgary Saturday. They are the guests of the city to a luncheon and are being taken about town by the Calgary Auto Club. It is expected their trip will result in much advertising for Western Canada.

More Trouble Ahead In Hayti.

WATERWORKS FOR FARM.

An increasing number of enquiries are received asking for methods of supplying water to country homes. It has been one of the drawbacks of life on the farm compared with the city that while water might be in abundant supply it has not been convenient for all purposes of the household. In response to the demand for better appliances many improvements have of late years been made in pumping and piping outfits. Water in the house for free use is coming to be recognized as one of the first requirements in sanitary living. Further than this it is a labor saving arrangment that is in keeping with the modern machinery and appliances used elsewhere on the farm.

More Widows than Widowers.

The proportion of remarriages shows an almost continuous decrease, says the registrar-general in his report on the births, deaths and marriages in England and Wales during 1909.

The number of widows, he states, is always much greater than that of widowers, because in the first place men marry later in life than women; secondly, because the duration of male life is shorter than that of female life, and thirdly, because the proportion of widows who remarry is much lower than the proportion of widowers who remarry.

Marriages of persons described as divorced have steadily increased and in the year 1909 were the highest on record.

The Bay District

In the riding of West Hastings, Mr. Porter, who received the unanimous nomination, will repeat his previous triumph, regardless of the personality of his opponent. Mr. Porter was never more popular than he is now, and reciprocity has found no favor in Belleville or in the townships, many prominent Liberals being opposed to it, while the consistently Liberal Trenton Courier has come out strongly against the pact.

The Conservatives of East Hastings will not nominate their candidate until Friday next, when, no doubt, Mr. W. B. Northrup will again be chosen as the standard-bearer of the party. Mr. Northrup has won a high reputation in Parliament as an orator and his election is a foregone conclusion. The only question will be as to the extent of his majority.

Lennox and Addington are both safe for the Conservative nominees.

Prince Edward is fairly debatable ground. Neither party has as yet selected its candidate, but it is probable that the choice of the Liberals will fall on Dr. Morley Currie, the former representative. Dr. Currie has had a certain amount of personal popularity, but he has proven himself so bitter a partizan that no Conservative or independent thinker will cast a vote for him. It is probable that the Conservatives will choose either Mr. B. R. Hepburn or Mr. J. Hepburn as their nominee, in which case the good old Peninsular county can, with active work in behalf of Mr. Borden and honest government, be restored to the Conservative column.

A Historic Parallel

"History often repeats itself" is an old and trite saying. Canada should have a repetition of the events of 1878. Laurier has selected an opportune time to verify the adage..

It has been observed that the date selected for the general election, September 21, is within four days of being the anniversary of the great Conservative victory of 1878. The coincidences are striking throughout. It was a battle of protection of the building up of the home market, against the policy which decried the home market and looked to closer relations with the United States. It was held just prior to the advent of a member of the Royal Family to Rideau Hall. Even Sir Wilfrid Laurier's confidence finds its forerunner. Mr. Mackenzie expected to be embarrassed by the largeness of his majority.

If Canadians are true to themselves and their country, they will repeat the events of 1878.

Frustrating Investigation

Those who paid any attention to the proceedings of the House of Commons, during its last session, know that a huge case of grafting in connection with the sale of an Indian Reserve near Winnipeg was exposed, and an investigation demanded. Like all such demands it was burked by the Laurier combination. So flagrant was this case that the Manitoba Government took it in hand, and tried to get at the root of the transaction. But, says a Winnipeg despatch of the 3rd inst., "the efforts of the Provincial Commission to investigate the circumstances surrounding the methods by which the St. Peter's Reserve Lands of great value were secured by speculators at the time the Indians surrendered their titles to the Government was suddenly blocked to-day by the refusal of J. O. Lewis, who represented the Indian Department of the Dominion Government in the deal, to testify. The commission adjourned until the courts can order Lewis to testify. In the meanwhile Lewis was committed for trial for contempt of court. His refusal to testify was based upon his counsel's contention that the Provincial Commission had no authority to invetigate the sale, which was a Dominion tract. Mr. Andrews raised this point previously, but the commissioners sustained their own validity as enquirers."

Our readers must not be surprised if the Dominion Government justify and defend Lewis, its official, as his course is but a repetition of the policy adopted by the Public Accounts Committee whenever an attempt is made to unearth some scaly transaction of the Government.

MARLBOROUGHS SEEK PEACE

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Peace negotiations have been opened between the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, according to a high social authority.

Lady Lillian Grenfell, the duke's sister, it is said, pleaded her brother's cause so well that the duchess yielded before she went with her sons to Deauville.

All the overtures were made by the Duke, who extended the olive branch to the Duchess in the form of a state coach on coronation day. On the advice of Lady Lillian he went to the coronation himself in an ordinary motor.

Through Lady Lillian the Duchess thanked her husband, and the Duke is now at Blenheim waiting for an intimation that a complete reconciliation would be welcome. It is understood that the Duchess will consult with her father, who is on the continent. Undoubtedly their blighted position at court has been instrumental in bringing the Marlboroughs together.

HEADLESS BODY IS FOUND IN SEWER

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—The headless body of an unindentified woman, well-dressed, was found in Cincinnati late last night by two boys who had lost a ball and had gone to the mouth of the Bloody Run sewer to find it.

The police of Cincinnati say the woman had been dead for four or five weeks and that throughout this time she had either laid in that part of the sewer where she was found or else had floated down from an upper part of it.

That she was murdered is their belief. A small portion of the head remained, but the police say that a knife was used to cut this away and to prevent identification.

The woman was stout, weighing about 170 pounds and was about six feet tall and between 30 and 35 years old. The case is a deep mystery to the police.

The only mark on the body is a deep bruise on the chest, which might possibly have resulted from driftwood hitting it, while floating down the river.

SENSITIVE FINGERS CAUSE UNDOING

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Postoffice inspectors say over 1,000 letters containing small sums of money, have been taken from the mails by Franklin B. Scott, negro, a night distributor at the postoffice. Scott had six unopened letters in his pockets when arrested yesterday morning, the officials say.

Scott was able to pick out letters containing currency with astonishing accuracy. His finger tips were abnormally sensitive and he had trimmed his nails so that the nerves were nearly exposed.

It was his slender, tapering fingers that led inspectors to suspect him.

Letters began to disappear several months ago. Wednesday night two inspectors, Assistant Postmaster Schutt and Superintendent of Mails Hart secretly watched Schutt. They noted that his thumb and forefinger seemed to pause momentarily on certain letters.

Scott pleaded guilty before United States Commissioner Falther and was held on $2,500 bond.

Scott is 30 years old and has been in the postal service four years. He has a wife and eight-year-old son.

SAYS HE KILLED HIS FATHER

Son's Awful Confessionn—Pined a Blackhand Note on the Body

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Joseph Vacek jr., 17 years of age, son of Joseph Vacek, a wealthy contractor, last night confessed that he shot and killed his father yesterday at their home. The shooting is believed to have followed a demand of the boy for money.

Young Vacek also confessed that he sought to blacken the memory of the dead man by means of a 'Black Hand' note pinned to the clothing of the corpse. He is said to have slain the father after he had been reprimanded by him for not working.

The father's body was found in his room. On the clothing was pinned a note saying that the elder Vacek had hired the writer to kill Mrs. Vacek and only got what he deserved. The murder was committed when Mrs. Vacek and her two daughters were out for a few minutes. The young man who since his recent graduation from a manual training school, has refused to go to work, was suspected, and finally, under pressure, confessed.

BROTHER HELD FOR THEFT OF JEWELRY WORTH $1,000

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 5.—William Watson, president of the American Ice Company, put the police to work yesterday to locate thieves who had entered his apartments at 1828 Atlantis Avenue and stolen jewelry valued at more than $1,000.

He was much surprised when detectives apprehended a younger brother, Harry Watson, as one of the culprits, along with John Waddington, a friend. Both entered a plea of not guilty before Magistrate Jagmetty and were held under bail for the grand jury.

The loot was recovered at pawnshrops where, the police say, the pair pledged it for several hundred dollars. Both men are known in the best circles of the city, and their arrest has created a sensation.

WANTED TO VOMIT

A CONDITION INVOLVING BOTH LIVER AND STOMACH THAT WAS QUICKLY CURED BY DR HAMILTON'S PILLS.

"The doctors told me my sickness was caused by constipation of the stomach and liver," writes Mrs. E. P Fourraine, will known in Williamsport The least little error in eating would cause nausea, and after a time actual vomiting was easily excited. I grew very thin, pale, with dark lines under the eyes; my strength failed that even light housework exhausted me. Of course with a large family I could not afford a doctor all the time, and when in deepest despair, I tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills. From the very first they acted wonderfully, and I experienced a desire for food and at my meals with a relish. After a while my system became quite regular, and that horrid sick feeling only came now and again This made me persevere, and it was a good thing I did so, because the continuation of Dr. Hamilton's Pills was the means of giving me my health again, and I am now the happiest woman I know."

AN AFTER SUPPER THUNDER "STORM."

Here's some homemade, individually applied thunder that will outthunder old Vulcan himself. You can produce it on nights when there isn't a cloud in the sky—right in the house, and only one person at a time will hear it.

Place a piece of string around the other fellow's head, taking care that his hands cover his ears. Then cause the string to vibrate by drawing the moistened finger and thumb along the string.

The effect will be that of a rolling peal of thunder, audible only to the person operated upon.

"TIME TO MARRY IS RIGHT NOW"

DENVER, Col., Aug. 5.—"The time for a young man to take a bride," said Rev. D. Kendrick Roberts, pastor of the Welsh Presbyterian church here, in a sermon to his parishioners at a prayer meeting last night, "the time for every unmarried man to take a bride is right now, and to show you my willingness to practice what I preach, I shall do so." With that the pastor stepped down from the pulpit and met Miss Emma Evans, the church orgnista, who arose from her place at the organ. They were joined by a fellow clergyman of Mr. Roberts the only outsider let into the secret and were married before the astounded congregation was aware of what was taking place.

Men Badly Needed

A conference was held in Winnipeg recently between Deputy Ministers of Agriculture for the Provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the Dominion Government Commissioner of Immigration dealing with the question of harvest laborers needed this year and the most conservative estimates place the number from 40,000 to 45,000. Government reports show that winter wheat in Alberta and earlier districts in South Saskatchewan and Manitoba will commence cutting before the 10th of August, and harvesting will be in full sway by August 15th to 20th. The railway companies are taking action to cooperate with a view to obtaining the necessary labor, and in this connection the general agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific advises that that company take care of 4,000 or 5,000 along their line by August 8th and 9th, and commencing August 15th as fast as they can be obtained. dit wlt

FROZEN WHEAT THAT SOLD AT $1.28 1-2 A BUSHEL.

"Ever had any frosted grain which went a begging for a buyer at 35 cents a bushel?" asks Rex Croasdell in his article on "Money Mad Farming," which leads Canada Monthly, formerly Canada-West for August. "Yes? Then listen to this: 'Naught seven was a poor year for ripening grain on the Government farm at Lacombe, Alta. The wheat that year was only worth 35 cents a bushel on the market. Did the well-informed and canny superintendent sell his wheat at 35 cents per? You betcherlife he didn't. The farm purchased a car of feeder steers and set them to work raising the price of wheat. The frozen wheat was ground and fed to the steers, to-gether with such coarse and bulky fodders as were necessary. The steers were marketed in 109 days. Now then. After paying all expenses for hay, salt, etc.—deducting everything that wasn't straight profit—what d'you think that frozen wheat brought on the market? You'd never guess in 50 seasons. Why, $1.28 1-2 per bushel! ! Jot that down on the tablets of your memory. 1.28 1-2 per bushel for frozen wheat. Now do you believe it pays to sell wheat on the hoof? If you don't believe it write Superintendent Hutton about it; and ask him at the same time about his ideas on continual grain cropping as against mixed farming.

AN INVASION OF DUKES

The Duke of Sutherland, accompanied by the Duchess of Somerset, of Bedford and of Westminster, are booked to sail from England to New York on the new Cunard liner, Olympia, on August 9, and on reaching New York will embark on the Duke of Sutherland's steam yacht, now in American waters, under charter to Col. Robert M. Thompson, for Halifax. From there the biggest consignment of British dukes that has ever reached Canadian shores at one time will proceed up the river St. Lawrence, and through the great Lakes as far as Fort William; from whence the journey will be continued by rail and special train to Brooks, in the Province of Alberta, where the Duke of Sutherland has acquired very large holdings, with the object of settling farmers of his own there, from his Scottish estates. The Dukes of Westminster and Bedford, both of whom are colossally rich are expected to follow the Duke of Sutherland's example, and to invest largely in land in Alberta for farming purposes.

Afterwards the party will visit the Duke of Sutherland's holdings at Clyde, in Alberta, in Saskatchewan, and at Fort George, in British Columbia, near the Fraser river. The party will go west as far as Vancouver, and on returning to Fort William, will re-embark there on board the steam yacht Catania for Montreal, whence train will be taken for New York the return being made to Liverpool on board the Olympia at the end of October or the beginning of November.

There is no one more enthusiastic than the Duke of Sutherland about the future of the western provinces of Canada, and apparently he is communicating his enthusiasm to his fellow Dukes who, held up by obloquy in England by the present Government as "selfish landlords," are likely to find a warm welcome in Canada, where Socialism has not yet secured so strong a footing as in the Old Country.

Of course to Canada, the advantage of having new land settled by skilful thrifty, and picked agriculturists, as tenant farmers of great English nobles who have vast wealth at their command to give financial backing and moral support to their tenantry, ought to be of undeniable advantage to the Dominion; at any rate for a considerable time to come.

In addition to the gentlemen named above Canada is to have His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General.

RECOVERS GOLD BAG BY DIVE IN WATER

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Miss Olga Hempstone, eighteen years old, of Washington, fully clad, leaped from a canoe at the foot of Twenty-second avenue, Bensonhurst, to recover a gold mesh bag, valued at $400, which had fallen into the water. Although she recovered the bag she was almost drowned in the attempt.

Miss Hempstone, accompanied by Miss Theresa Scofield, who lives in Waco, Tex., and who is in New York as the guest of Miss Hempstone, went to Bensonhurst and rented a canoe While changing her gold mesh bag from one arm to the other, Miss Hempstone allowed it to slip from her grasp and it fell into the water.

Despite the fact that she was dressed in a white linen suit, white shoes and stockings and a big white hat and crimson plume Miss Hempstone leaped into the water after it without hesitating an instant.

The young woman remained under water until she had recovered the bag in her grasp.

RECIPROCITY WILL GIVE CANADIAN MARKET TO AMERICAN PORK

The census carefully taken and properly tabulated will set forth a remarkable increase in the quantity of hogs reared and fattened in each province of the Dominion during the past decade. Few, indeed, are the farmers who are not directly interested in the value of hogs.

At the close of July, taking Toronto market as the leading one of the Dominion in comparison with Chicago, the leading one of the United States, the ascertained prices were at Toronto markets, $7.85, the bulk of carloads at $7.75, fed and watered on the market. At Chicago the top price prices just quoted are 50c. to 75c. higher than the early part of July at Chicago.

Every Canadian farmer can at once understand that the difference in value is $1.00 for 100 lbs. in his favor. The comparison can be carried still further. In Ontario many carloads of hogs are sold free on board cars at country points. Our wide-awake live stock reporter quotes $7.35 as the general figure; probably most of the farmers received $7.25, delivered at the station. Most of the hogs reaching the Chicago market are many hours in the cars; they are much heavier. The average weight last week was 237 lbs. Consequently, the shrinkage is much in evidence.

Every shipper has to pay tribute to the transit railway that alone has an entrance to the Union Stock Yards. Within a radius of a hundred miles of Chicago, the farmers might receive $6.00 per 100 lbs.; those farther away would receive less; besides a clip in the weights that a Canadian farmer would not quietly submit to.

Surely, farmers, this should make you bristle up! Have you become so wealthy you can afford a "lop off" of $1.00 per hundred lbs. on every hog that you are finishing?

A most serious problem in regard to hogs in the United States has not been brought to your consideration; that is, the alarming prevalence of tuberculosis in hogs all over the United States, excepting Wisconsin. The World does not quote the figures as they are not official.

The World makes the statement that it would be difficult to refute, that in one respect the Canadian live stock are pre-eminent over all other countries, the freedom from disease. The attainment of this eminent position has entailed years of struggle. Think of it, Mr. Farmer!

There are a few, mean, miserable beings who live on the land—they are not farmers—who would sell anything more or less diseased. The Canadian farmer desires to raise and dispose of only healthy hogs; he has a tender regard for his own household and the consuming public.

By all means keep out the American hog!—Toronto World.

A STRONGER FLEET IN MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON, Aug. 5.—In view of the considerable increase in the strength of the Italian and Austrian fleets, the British naval forces in the Mediterranean are to be largely augmented in the Spring of next year, when the completion of a new Dreadnought will enable this to be done without weakening our forces in home waters.

Eight battleships of the Dreadnought type are now in full commission, and these constitute the first division of the Home Fleet. There are as yet no Dreadnoughts in the second division which consists for the time being of the two 16,500 ton Lord Nelsons and sixteen 16,350-ton ships of the King Edward class.

Two of the King Edwards—the Africa and Commonwealth—are already in reserve and the King Edward VII and the New Zealand will follow them in the next few weeks when the Hercules and the Colossus are commissioned to take their places in the second division.

At present there are only six battleships in the Mediterranean. They are all of small types, four of them being of the 14,000 ton Duncan class armed with four twelve-inch, and 12 six-inch guns, while the others two are the 11,800-ton Triumph and Swiftsure, originally built for Chile, and armed with four ten-inch and fourteen 7.5-inch. The total present displacement is thus 79,600 tons and the number of guns exactly 100, and these will be increased to 130,800 tons and 144 guns respectively.

When this change has been carried out, there will be in reserve in home waters two 15,000 ton ships of the Formidable class, five 14,000 ton ships of the Duncan class; six 12,950 ton Albions and nine 14,900 ton Majestics —a total of twenty-one battleships

WIFE KILLS HUSBAND TO PROTECT BABES

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Mary Sandro, aged thirty-two years, shot and killed her husband, Joseph Sandro, thirty-eight, as he burst in the door of their home. Her two children —Frank five, and Daniel, eleven, saw her fire the shots which ended the tragedy of her life with Sandro. She surrendered to the police and is held on the murder charge.

Mrs. Sandro and her husband have been separated for nine months. Yesterday she swore out a warrant for his arrest, charging that he threatened to kill her and her two children on two visits to their home Sunday.

He evaded the police and stormed the wife's home last night. As he burst in the door, armed with a razor, and a revolver, Mrs. Sandro fired twice. Both bullets penetrated Sandro's breast and he fell dead before his children and their protector. The police found him with his weapons clutched in his hands.

The woman went to the Central police station and there surrendered, explaining her action. "This is the gun that killed him," she said, presenting a revolver. "He would have killed me had I delayed shooting, and the children, too. I could not help it."

REMARKABLE EVOLUTION OF MODERN BREAD MANUFACTURING

The Introduction of Up-to-date Plants Results in Lower Cost of Manufacturing, Higher Grade of Product and More Systematic Plan of Distribution. Canada Bread Company, Limited, with Output of 1,000,000 Loaves per Week, Will be in a Unique Position

The visitor to the ancient city of Pompeii, as he wanders round the deserted streets, comes at last to an opening in the ruins where are to be seen several contrivances in stone, the significance to him of which is a mystery. Looking up his guide-book, however he finds that they were used by the ancients for grinding their corn. Nearby are the old ovens, partly repaired. While examining them it all at once dawns upon him that the business of baking bread is carried on to day—or has been carried on until recent times—in almost the same way as it was carried on by the ancients Only in the grinding of the flour can the casual and uninformed observer see any considerable improvement in the process of producing bread. The ovens are much the same as might be any of those today after they had become partly ruined. Within the lifetime of thousands of those who visit Pompeii have they seen bread baked in just such ovens.

The business of baking bread is now however, being modernised and systematized much as has been the grinding of flour and the carrying on of thousands of other industrial processes with which we are in daily touch The days of guesswork are drawing to a close in the matter of baking as in the matter of everything else. In all the principal cities of Canada and the United States, as well as of Europe, are now carried on technical institutes of various kinds, both night and day, at which the fundamental principles of cooking are taught—domestic science, as it is called—and the importance of this latest science cannot well be over-estimated. Students are taught to act in a scientific manner; guesswork must be eliminated The materials are weighed and measured out; the heat at which the baking shall be carried on, and the length of the duration of the process, are all accurately determined, and the student is expected to turn out batches of cakes or bread of an almost uniform character. For the student to make a failure is evidence that he or she did not fully understand what was being done.

SUCCESS OF MODERN METHODS

Domestic science, however, would never have reached the stage of being taught in the colleges had it not been that its importance was recognized in the business field. Visit an up-to-date bake-shop to-day and you will find all the processes being carried out in a scientific manner. Nothing is done haphazard. The process naturally begins with the purchase of flour. In this are many points of importance outside the question of price, although that, as is almost needless to say, is essential in the successful operation of business. In addition to this, however, the buyer must be thoroughly acquainted with the general character of the flour which he requires and which is manufactured by the mill from which he is making his purchases After the flour enters the establishment the progressive bake-shop has its own laboratory. This varies in size and completeness of equipment according to the size of the establishment and its financial strength; but it does not vary in importance. The successful baker will never attempt to produce good loaves from poor flour. The proportion of gluten, he well knows, is an important factor, and one of the first requirements of the laboratory is to insure that no flour is accepted which does not contain the proper percentage of gluten and other chemical constituents.

The haphazard bake-shop, therefore goes wrong at the very first stage of the game. It contains no laboratory and consequently there is little or no means of ascertaining whether the material of which the loaf is to be compounded has the qualities for producing the type of bread which would be a credit to the establishment.

In the modern establishment, after it has been ascertained that the quality of flour is up to the grade, the flour is emptied into a receptacle from which it is conveyed to a system of screens and sifters. These extract any foreign matter, such as strings and fluff from the bags.

Have you ever, when eating a slice of bread or toast, bitten into a piece of string? Now, it might possibly be that a piece of string could get into the dough in a modern scientifice bake-shop; but there is a strong probability that you have been eating the product of a bake-shop wihch bears a striking resemblance to the ancient institution referred to above.

UNIFORM RESULTS FROM MACHINE.

After the flour has been thoroughly sifted and brushed. it is weighed out automatically and dumped into the mixers. Along with it is dumped the requisite weight of water, which was previously brought to the proper temperature. The yeast also enters the mixer at this point and the process of mixing the dough is begun.

It is hardly necessary to make any attempt to describe the mechanism of this mixer. Suffice it to say that it is kept in a state of scrupulous cleanliness. No dirty, sweaty hands are employed in kneading this dough. Nothing is employed save the clean iron and wood. When the dough reaches the proper consistency it is put into troughs and wheeled into what is known as the "dough room." This is kept at an even temperature, preferably from 75 to 80 degrees. In the course of a short time the dough passes through certain chemical changes and is emptied into a machine known as the "divider." This machine divides the dough into loaves of the requisite size. It is under the constant control of the operator, who every now and again tests the weight of the dough with a pair of scales. The weights show almost no variation, and of such a fine gauge is the machine that no hand process could possibly equal it in accuracy. The dough next enters the moulding machine, where it is rolled into shapes and passed along on carriers for a certain length of time, being aerated during the process. Next it is placed in pans, and the pans are placed in galvanized iron racks which are wheeled along to the "proving room." This is the last process through which the bread passes previously to being placed in the oven

MODERN OVENS GIVE GREAT RESULTS.

The modern oven is vastly dissimilar to the ovens heretofore employed. The type of oven now employed is partitioned hermetically from the fire so that it is absolutely impossible for any smoke, cinders, ashes, or gases of any nature to enter the bread from the fire. Formerly the fire was built in the oven in which the bread was afterwards baked. These fires had to be withdrawn before the bread could be placed in the oven, so that not only was the baker put to an inconvenience of heating his oven up before each batch of bread, but the oven itself was of necessity left in a condition which was not conducive to the best results. In the modern oven one batch may follow another without any intermission.

From start to finish the process is carried out in a cleanly and sanitary manner. No hands, either clean or dirty, come into contact with the dough. An attempt is made to maintain the various ingredients and the dough, as well as the atmosphere, at an even temperature. The windows are screened so as to exclude flies The baker is no longer employed as fireman, but carries on only the process of baking. The work is specialized throughout, each man having his particular task to perform. Every care is taken to isolate the product from anything of an insanitary character and also to insure its evenness in the matter of quality. For this purpose have been instituted systems by which is preserved a record of conditions under which each batch of bread passes, from the unfinished to the finished stage, in much the same manner as experiments are carried out in a chemical laboratory. Thus in the case of unevenness in the quality of the product, can be ascertained the conditions to which this is due. Only by following a scientific method such as this can mistakes be eliminated.

MUCH CAPITAL REQUIRED.

Modern processes such as this cannot be instituted without the expenditure of money. The Canada Bread Company will, from the start, be in a position to install machinery of the very latest type, and to erect bake-shops of a sanitary character. In taking over its constituent companies, it came into possession of several modern establishments as well as some which it will be its first effort to supplement with modern processes. It is the intention of the company to erect buildings especially planned for the installation of the very latest type of machinery, and to open these to the inspection of the public. The street windows of the buildings will be fitted up with plate glass in order that the public may watch as much of the processes of kneading, dividing, molding, etc., as possible and thus assure themselves of the sanitary condition of the bake-shops. By visiting any of the smaller bakeries the public will then be able to make comparison for themselves.

Not only will modern methods be adopted in connection with the actual manufacturing of the bread, but the present wasteful system will be entirely abolished. As matters now stand the present rival bakeries of the different cities constantly duplicate the service of delivery. Waggons from each of a score of bake-shops will be seen delivering bread along the same street. Thus the work is multiplied many times over. The public naturally, has to pay for this extravagance. The Canada Bread Company will begin by mapping out the work of the delivery waggons in such a manner that each waggon will have its own particular route. It may be interesting to know that the average number of loaves of bread delivered by each waggon in the employ of one of the most systematic bake-shops in Canada, is 4,000. The officers of the Canada Bread Commpany expect to deliver 4,500. This compares with 1,800 to 2,000 loaves per waggon, per week, delivered by an unsystematic establishment. The expense of delivering is one of the principal items in the cost of bread, and it is safe to say that under a systematic management such as will be adopted by the Canada Bread Company, the expense of delivering can be reduced to 40 or 50 per cent. of the cost of the average small bake-shop.

NEW COMPANY IN STRONG POSITION.

The larger the entire population the greater, naturally, the advantages to be derived by the modern bread manufacturer. The Canada Bread Company, Limited, will in this respect be in an exceptional position, its plants being placed in the three largest cities, Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg. It is also the intention to erect new plants and to forthwith increase the output of 1,000,000 loaves Its financial position is being made especially strong by the $1,000,000 of cash being placed in its treasury. This, in addition to permitting of the erection of proposed plants, will give the company ample working capital.

Included in the new company are Mr. Cawthra Mulock, of Toronto, and through him, a strong group of Toronto financial interests, while the heads of four of the different companies included in the Canada Bread Company will be on the first Board of Directors of the new company. These are Mr. Mark Bredin, head of the Bredin Bread Company, of Toronto, who will be general manager; Mr. George Weston, of Geo. Weston, Limited, Toronto, known as the "Model Bakery"; Mr. H. C. Tomlin, of the Toronto Bakery Company, and Mr. W. J Boyd, of Boyd's Bakery, Winnipeg.

Overseas Dominions Have Share in Arbitration Treaty.

Text of Compact Between France, Britain and United States Is Published and First Article Makes Special Condition on Behalf of Great Britain That She May Confer With the Self-Governing Dominions.

Washington, Aug. 7.—The Senate on Saturday adopted the rather unusual but not unprecedented course of making public the text of four treaties which have not yet received action at its hands. These were the Anglo-American and the Franco-American general arbitration treaties and the treaties providing for the adjustment of the finances and customs of Honduras and Nicaragua.

Publicity was given to these important conventions at the request of the administration, which desires that the subject matter shall receive the fullest consideration by the press and the people, in order to enlighten the Senate as to the real sentiment of the country as a basis of its own action.

Some justification for this procedure developed Saturday, when in the course of a short executive session two Senators of opposite parties, Borah of Idaho and Bacon of Georgia, voiced their dissent from the conclusion of arbitration treaties in the form submitted. Their criticism was aimed at article 3 (identical in the two treaties), which, in their opinion, provides for compulsory arbitration, and thus tends to deprive the United States Senate of its constitutional prerogatives.

The treaty advocates, however, felt that there had been a misunderstanding of the scope of the treaty by the two Senators named, and that a clause in article 1 of the treaties, which provides that there shall be no arbitration except under the terms of a special agreement, effectively guards the rights of the Senate, as such special agreement must receive the Senate's sanction in order to become operative.

The British and French treaties are substantially the same with the exception of the preambles, some small differences in dates of existing treaties referred to therein, and some of the differences between the treaty-making methods of the two Governments. One important provision in the British treaty requires the British Government to obtain the concurrence of any of its self-governing dominions affected by the proposed arbitration.

In view of their importance it is intimated that a motion may be made to ratify them in open Senate, an almost unprecedented procedure.

The preamble, after reciting the fact that all outstandnig differences between Great Britain and the United States have been settled by arbitration since the treaty of Ghent, goes on to state that it has been found desirable to extend the scope of the arbitration treaty of 1908. The treaty, which is practically the same in both cases, reads:

Article 1.—All differences hereafter arising between the high contracting parties, which it has not been possible to adjust by diplomacy, relating to international matters in which the high contracting parties are concerned by virtue of a claim of right made by one against the other, under treaty or otherwise, and which are justifiable in their nature by reason of being susceptible of decision by the application of the principles of law or equity, shall be submitted to the permanent court of arbitration established at The Hague by the convention of Oct. 18, 1907, or to some other tribunal as may be decided in each case by special agreement, which special agreement; shall provide for the organization of such tribunal if necessary, define the scope of the powers of the arbitrators, the question or questions at issue, and settle the terms of reference and the procedure thereunder.

The provisions of articles 37 to 90, inclusive of the convention for the pacific settlement of international disputes concluded at the second peace conference at The Hague, on Oct. 18, 1907, so far as applicable, and unless they are inconsistent with or modified by the provisions of the special agreement, to be concluded in each case and excepting articles 53 and 54 of such convention, shall govern the arbitration proceedings to be taken under this treaty.

The special agreement in each case shall be made on the part of the United States by the President of the United States, and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, his Majesty's Government reserving the right before concluding a special agreement in any manner affecting the interests of a self-governing dominion of the British Empire, to obtain the concurrence therein of the Government of that dominion.

Woman Takes Acid.

Toronto, Aug. 7.—"I am going to die; I am sorry to ask God to forgive me."

This was written on an old piece of paper found lying beside an empty carbolic acid bottle close to the body of Mrs. Price, in her room at 272 Sumach street early Saturday morning. Mrs. Price was discharged from the asylum three months ago. Why the woman took the acid is not known. The body was taken to the morgue.

Official Welcome for Togo.

KING FEARS A DELUGE

Labor Minister Says West Will Swamp the East.

One of His Arguments In Mass Meeting at Berlin Is That Unless Reciprocity Is Passed and an Outlet Found For Western Produce, Eastern Canada Will Suffer — Wider Market Is His Chief Cry.

Berlin, Aug. 7.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, delivered the opening Ministerial address of the reciprocity campaign before a large audience in King's Hall in this town on Saturday night.

The speaker's arguments on the trade compact, which were followed with close attention, chiefly of the "wide market" variety and he argued that the scheme would help the railways. He expressed full confidence in the result of the election and based his belief in reciprocity largely on the argument that the output of the west would deluge the east, if no outlet were found for it.

The Minister of Labor recalled that he was asking for their suffrage for the third time in three years, and, judging by the manner in which the audience received this declaration, his appeal for a return to Parliament will be responded to by the hearty endorsation of the majority of his constituents.

Some of the Labor Ministers outstanding sentences were:

"You can pass by this opportunity to secure a wider market and it may never come again.

"The United States gives us a market of 90,000,000 people and a protected market. It gives that chance solely to Canada.

"The arrangement will increase transportation, business and commerce, and help every man in this community.

"Never before did a Government go out with so great a sense of victory as at the present time.

"If they do not get a chance to export to the United States, the great wheat and cattle-growing areas of the west will have to export somewhere. The first thing we shall know their products will come down to Ontario, congest our markets., and depress trade. We must look to the future and take the chance now when the opportunity comes.

"As one who believes in bringing down the cost of living to the masses, I am prepared to support that agreement.

"I am ready with you to fight anything that comes along."

Mr. Arthur Pequegnat occupied the chair, and prominent among the supporters of Mr. King present were: Mr. E. J. Stuebing, president of the Laurier Club; Mr. H. J. Sims, vice-president of the North Waterloo Reform Association; Mr. C. M. Bezzo, vice-president of the Laurier Club; Mr. John Moffat and Mr. H. J. Bowman Monk at Three Rivers.

Three Rivers, Que., Aug. 7.—Before an audience of 10,000 people Mr Monk, M.P. for Jacques Cartier, opened the Federal campaign here yesterday. Mr. Monk had on the platform with him the Nationalist leader, Henri Bourassa, and his lieutenant, Armand Lavergne, both of whom made speeches. It was one of those unique occasions in Quebec when the people go to mass in the forenoon and remain for political discourses in the afternoon, then go home, having done their full duty to their religion and political ideals. It was the opportune time to hold the meeting, as thousands of farmers from the country side are able to be present only on such a day.

Mayor Normand, who will be the candidate for Three Rivers, opened the fire on the Laurier Government. Mr. Blondin, M.P. for Champlain, followed on the naval question, and then came F. D. Monk, M.P., who delivered the main speech of the day. Henri Bourassa was given a good reception. He said among other things that Laurier and Borden seemed to have agreed that reciprocity should be the one theme of the coming election.

Premier Laurier had brought on the reciprocity agreement to cover up the naval bill, but Mr. Bourassa said he would not be cribbed in that way as there were too many important questions before the public.

Cochrane Fire Unavoidable.

Toronto, Aug. 7.—J. Bauldry, agent at Cochrane, in his report to Chairman J. L. Englehart of the T. & N.O. Commission, expresses the opinion that the fire of July 11 could not have been prevented. The extraordinary velocity of the wind, he contends would have spread the fire even if the bush on the railway holdings had been previously cleared. In one part of his report he says: "The velocity of the wind was so great that it carried the fire from away past our boundary and spread it completely over the whole width of the town at the same time."

Jaw Broken In Quarrel.

St. Catharines, Aug. 7.—As a result of a murderous fight on Friday night between Robert Hallett and James Laskey, two neighbors residing on Lake street, the former is now in Hamilton hospital with his jaw broken in four places and the latter is in jail here charged with assault with intent to do bodily harm.

Socialist Party Active.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—The Socialist party of Ottawa has issued a manifesto and will take an active part in the coming Dominion elections. It is possible a candidate may be put in the field here, but if not the party will make itself heard on political issues.

Battle In Colombia.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Aug. 7.—According to advices received here on Saturday a battle was fought between Columbian and Peruvian troops in Caqueta, a large unorganized territory in Colombia, and the Colombians were defeated with great loss.

NO DOUBT OF POSITION

Sir James Whitney Expresses Himself on Reciprocity.

In Reply to Challenges of Globe and and Star, Premier of Ontaro Defines the Provncal Government's Attitude Toward Continentalism—No More Pressure Applied Than to Liberals Who Oppose Agreement—Mr. Borden Unable to Be Present.

Toronto, Aug. 7.—While an attendance of 3,000 testified to the interest felt in the Osler-Macdonell rally on Saturday in spite of the sultry weather and the absence of R. L. Borden, who had expected to be present, the importance of the demonstration consisted quite as much or more in what was said as in the attendance.

Sir James Whitney placed himself on record in reply to the twin "exponents of high political morality, The Globe and The Star, who had taunted him with being unable to make up his mind to take sides on the reciprocity issue until great pressure was brought to bear upon him. Sir James was characteristically indignant at the insinuation and repelled it with fervor. He indignantly repudiated The Globe's doubt as to where the Ontario Government and the weight of its organization would be.

"I wonder what pressure was applied to Sir Edmund Walker, and to Mr. Lash, and on Mr. Jack Eaton, and all the other prominent Liberal gentlemen who have come forward on that side and repudiated this policy. I presume it was the pressure that every man feels as a patriot when the call comes to take a stand for the sake of the country and the Empire.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY.

"It would be a waste of time," concluded the Premier, "for me to tell you what to do. I know what you are going to do. In reverential dependence on the providence which has guided us so far, we will go on, as far as we may, to lay the foundations of British institutions deep and strong in British America. Why? Because wherever those foundations are laid, humanity has been for ever the gainer. We will cling to our British traditions and to our British connection over the seas. And, please God, 'What we have we'll hold'." (Loud cheers.)

Sir James Whitney's speech was the important utterance of the gathering, but much interest attached also to the addresses of W. F. Maclean, whose reception was particularly hearty and prolonged; George E. Foster, whose voice showed strain, but whose incisive periods won many plaudits, and E. B. Osler, who was equally well received.

Ex-Ald. Whytock took the chair and was admirable in the post, merely calling on the speakers. Besides all the late M.P.'s and the members of the Legislature, there were W. R. Smyth, Algoma; A. C. Boyce, Uriah Wilson, Dr. Godfrey, George Clare, Controller Hocken, ex-Ald. McGhie, Col. Belcher, Southampton; James Arthurs, Parry Sound; Ald. McCausland, John Laxton, George Pattinson, M.P.P., ex-Controller Hubbard, Mayor Geary, Ald. McBrien, and a host of local politicians. Major Currie arrived late and spoke at the close.

Major Currie called for cheers for the chairman, for the Toronto Conservative candidates, for Sir James Whitney, for R. L. Borden, and for the King. The proceedings terminated at 5.30 with the Maple Leaf and the National Anthem from the band.

Gordon Wilson Will Run.

Hamilton, Aug. 7.—Gordon Wilson, M.P.P. for North Wentworth, will contest Wentworth County seat in the Federal Parliament, with W. N. Sealey, the present Liberal member. The Conservative nomination was offered to Mr. Wilson last week, but he was not then in a position either to accept or decline the offer.

On Saturday, however, he had an interview with Sir James Whitney in regard to resigning his seat in the Provincial Assembly, and yesterday stated that he had decided to make the race against Mr. Sealey.

Total loss, including property and merchandise, $166,600; total fire insurance, $87,100; net loss $79,000.

The number of merchants who suffered loss was twenty-five.

To Investigate Charges.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Special allowances and preferential rates alleged to be given by interstate carriers, in official classification territory, to short lines of railroads serving iron and steel industries, particularly in Ohio, will be investigated by the Interstate Commerce Commission. No date was fixed for the beginning of the enquiry.

ROOSEVELT ON STAND.

New York, Aug. 7.—Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States told Saturday his own story of the part he played in approving the Tennessee Coal & Iron Railroad Co.'s sale to the steel trust in the panic days of 1907.

As a voluntary witness before the Congressional investigating committee in the City Hall, he first read a statement, and then answered questions. He said the entire responsibility for favoring the sale had been his, although the Attorney-General acquiesced afterward. The peril of the financial situation, he declared, has made prompt action necessary. He had taken that action. He was ready to stand by it.

With characteristic emphasis, he said that he would have been a derelict public officer if he had done otherwise.

It was the first time Col. Roosevelt had given his story directly to the public. Since 1907 there had been many versions and explanations from his friends and foes, and criticism and defence had been prolific. The committee's chairman announced at the beginning of the session that no subpoena had been needed to summon the witness.

London Faces Famine.

London, Aug. 7.—The strike of the dock laborers is marking time to-day pending the arbitration of the dispute by Sir Albert Kaye Rollit, who is identified with large commercial and steamship interests. The award in the dispute, which is between the organizations of transport laborers and the shipowners, will probably be made to-day. A general strike of the men will be declared if the award does not suit them.

Many steamships sailed from here Saturday with thousands of tons less than the usual amount of freight. Over two hundred trainloads of freight are standing on the wharves ready to be placed on board the vessels. The latest steamships which have arrived here bring the total of undischarged cargoes up to a high point. It is estimated that 500,000 carcasses of mutton, 100,000 quarters of beef and huge quantities of eggs and butter are still on board the vessels.

London is threatened with a scarcity of food stuffs, and beef threatens to become a luxury. Prices have advanced four cents per pound in the retail market.

Wagner, The Enterprise, Yorkton; secretary, G. H. Shaults, Winnipeg; treasurer, John S. Lovell, Winnipeg.

Divorce Defendant Killed.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—A tragic touch was given to a case which came up before Recorder DesJardins in the Hull courts Friday.

Some time ago Mrs. George Papillion of 69 Catherine street, took action against her husband for a separation and the date was fixed for the hearing of the case.

When the recorder took the bench and the case was called, Charles Papillion, son of the defendant, entered the courtroom and advised the recorder that the case would have to be dropped as his father had been run over and killed. The dramatic end to the case caused somewhat of a sensation in the courtroom.

RUSSIAN GRAIN KING.

Was Queer Character, But His Business Integrity Was High.

Of a peculiar stamp was the man of millions, Nicholas Boukhroff, the Russian grain king, who recently died. In his externals he was a mujik merchant. He wore the top boots, the trader's kaftan—coat and overcoat in one, fitting close up to the neck and reaching to the knees—and the embroidered cotton shirt without starched collar, which are the historic garb of the Volga traders, men who carry as much as 50,000 rubles in notes stuck in the leg of a boot and who distrust the documentary machinery of credit. Boukhroff's great fortune compelled him to handle investments and bank paper, but he was in sympathy with the old simple ways. He was in fact an Old Believer and a devout churchgoer who lived his religion.

In his housekeeping he lived on much the same scale as an ordinary hand worker in comfortable employment. He gave away millions of rubles in charity, but was close fisted in personal outlays. The porters at Nijni-Novgorod and elsewhere avoided him when they saw him step from a train. He would never pay them more than 10 cents for carrying his baggage. When he met great personages he "thoued" them, as he did everybody else, keeping to the Old Believer, Quakerlike form of address. His integrity in business was of the highest.

He would lecture men in his employment if they spent five kopeks needlessly. His patriarchial ways had sometimes a welcome side. He exacted unquestioning obedience to his instructions; but every now and then a man who served him well for some years would receive a draft for 25,000 or 50,000 rubles with no further remark than:

"Thou shalt now be a Man, too. I know that thou wilt make good use of the money."

GRAND TRUNKS DEFEATED T. A. S. IN AN UNINTERESTING BALL GAME

It was an uninteresting game of baseball that was played on Saturday afternoon at the Driving Park between the G.T.R. and T.A.S. teams. The latter were by no means a match for the fast railroaders, who appeared to be able to score runs as they pleased by pounding the ball all over the lot. The T.A.S. used two pitchers, namely Goyer and Staples, while Ashton did the twirling for the G.T.R. The score was 16 to 5 in favor of the G.T.R. team. The attendance of spectators was by no means large. The result of the game, as detailed, is as follows:

1st Innings.

T.A.S.—Doran struck out; Hogan made a safe hit, but was caught at 2nd; Asselstine out at 1st.—No runs.

2nd Innings.

JUDGMENTS GIVEN IN DAMAGE CASES

In the trial court at Toronto on Saturday, Judge Teetzel gave judgment in the following cases, of local interest:

Cain (Margaret) v. The Pearce Co. Limited—An action for alleged wrongful flooding of lands, tried in July 1910, and now brought on for assessment of damages. Judgment: The plaintiffs are entitled to have the damages assessed under the trial judgment since December 21, 1902, being six years before action, and until July 7, 1911, the date of the hearing at Marmora. Having personally viewed the premises and heard the witnesses as to damages and making allowances for damage done by flooding prior to the first mentioned date in respect to which plaintiff's claim is barred by statute and for damage occasioned by flooding within the prescriptive rights of the defendants and by flooding defendants and others in exercise of their rights under R. S. O., chap. 142, in respect to which plaintiffs are entitled to damages, I find that they are entitled to recover from the defendants the sum of $600 in full of plaintiff's damages up to and including July 7, 1911 for which sum and their costs throughout judgment will be entered in their favor.

Cain (Thomas) v. The Pearce Co. Limited.—An action for alleged wrongful flooding of lands tried in July 1910 and now brought on for assessment of damages. Judgment: For similar reasons to those set out in Margaret Cain's case, I find that the plaintiff is entitled to recover from the defendants the sum of $250 in full of his damages up to and including July 7, 1911, for which sum and his costs throughout on the High Court scale judgment will be entered in his favor.

Bonter v. Pearce Co., Limited—An action for alleged wrongful flooding of plaintiff's lands, tried in July, 1910 and now brought up for assesment of damages. Judgment: While I find plaintiff has suffered some damages on account of defendants wrongfully flooding his land, his claim for the same is grossly exaggerated, and but for the fact that the defendants throughout have been claiming the right by prescription to flood his land and have set up that claim in their defence on account of which the title to land is involved, the action should have been brought in a lower court. For reasons given in the Cain cases I find plaintiff is entitled to recover from the defendants the sum of $65 in full of his damages up to and including July 7, 1911, for which sum and his costs throughout on the High Court scale judgment will be entered in his favor.

McGrath v. Pearce Co., Limited.—An action for alleged wrongful flooding of plaintiff's lands, formerly tried and on an appeal from the judgment a new trial ordered. Judgment: In my opinion plaintiff is precluded from now claiming in respect of lots 9 and 10, but if I am wrong in this view, I am still of opinion that the plaintiff cannot recover as to lots 9 and 10 for the reasons given in my former judgment. To avoid however the necessity for a further reference to ascertain damages in case it should be held that the plaintiff is entitled to recover in respect of lots 9 and 10, I have, subject to defendant's objections, fixed the damages which in that event the plaintiff would be entitled to recover. For reasons given in Cain judgments I find that plaintiff is entitled to recover from the defendants in respect of lot 8, the sum of $110 in full of his damages in respect of that lot up to and including July 7, 1911, for which sum and his costs throughout on the High Court scale, including the costs of the appeal, less such sum as the costs have been increased by reason of his claim in respect of lots 9 and 10 judgment will be entered in his favor. I also find that if it be held that the plaintiff is entitled to recover in respect of lots 9 and 10, he will be entitled after making the allowances above mentioned in respect of lot 8 to the sum of $150 for damages in respect of that portion of lot 9, which immediately adjoins Crow Lake, and the further sum of $225 in respect of that portion of lots 9 and 10 adjoining and directly flooded by the waters of Crow River. As to costs in respect of the claim for damages to lots 9 and 10, I adjudge and direct that there will be no costs unless the plaintiff appeals from this judgment in respect of the said two lots, in which last mentioned event the plaintiff will pay to the defendants their costs which have been occasioned by reason of the plaintiff having claimed damages in respect of those lots.

McMillan v. The Pearce Co., Limited.—An action for damages for alleged wrongful flooding of plaintiff's land. Judgment: (v. v.) The plaintiff has established a right of action against defendants for unlawfully flooding of plaintiff's land, and I find he is entitled to recover $60 as damages, and gives him judgment for that sum, together with costs on the Hight Court scale. Thirty days' stay.

HIS CHEST CRUSHED IN

Charles Smith the Victim of a Very Serious, Perhaps Fatal, Accident

On Saturday a serious and what may prove to be a fatal accident befel Mr. Charles Smith, a foreman of the construction gang at the Belleville cement plant. The latter plant is being repaired and the victim of the accident was, with others, working about a heavy crane, when a pole designated as the "gin pole" fell in such a manner as to strike Smith a slanting blow across the chest.

The injuries sustained were most painful and serious. Two ribs were broken and the chest was also partially crushed in.

As soon as possible the unfortunate man was taken to the hospital, where physicians attended him. At first it was feared that death would ensue within a short time, but at the present time he is living, and there is just a possibility that he may recover.

The victim is a married man about 35 years of age, and has two children. He formerly resided in Trenton, but has lately been living at Point Ann.

WHY THE RUSH FOR RECIPROCITY? IT IS NOTHING BUT A GREAT GAMBLE

The following is copied from the Ottawa Citizen, which favored reciprocity when it was first proposed, but has since, on mature consideration of the facts and the speeches of President Taft and other U. S. politicians, reversed its judgment as to the tariff bargain negotiated, and upon which the electors of Canada will pronounce their verdict on the 21st of September:

The official explanation, given in the manifesto, issued by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for the extremely sudden dissolution of parliament, is an overwhelming desire on the part of the Liberals to secure the benefits of reciprocity for the farmers for this year's crop. In other words the reciprocity proposition is a get-rich-quick scheme. There is another year and another century that hasn't been touched yet but in the opinion of the Laurier government reciprocity is such a dead sure thing that there is absolutely no need of caution in taking the matter up. There are two classes of people who get hooked by get-rich-quick schemes. One is the gambler, and the other is the rapacious innocent. The trouble with both is that neither pauses to look carefully into a proposition. The gambler goes it blind and depends on his luck; the rapacious innocent is hypnotized by the glitter of the bait and makes a jump at it for fear somebody else will get it before him. In this case the Laurier government represents the gambler, and it is obsessed with the idea that the farmers of Canada are a lot of rapacious rubes. When the Laurier government came into power it swallowed all its principles as laid down in the famous platform of '93. Since that it has been gambling with the destinies of Canada and has been running in fairly good luck, thanks to the natural progress and prosperity of this buoyant young country, the foundations of which were laid by the Laurier government's political predecessors.

Like the gambler on the race track or in the bucket shop, reciprocity "looks good" to the Laurier government, and without further investigation it determines to take a gamble on it. As it is gambling with other people's money, it is necessary to enthuse the people also. Therefore it rushes to the country with no better argument than a hurrah and an hysterical exhortation to come in quick on this good thing, even before the next crop is marketed. It is a case of "Come in, boys, the water's fine." And they expect the farmers to come in.

When a staid, reputable individual who has made money in his business decides to invest it, he does not rush into a bucket-shop and blindly stake his pile on what "looks good to him." He goes carefully into a proposition, studies out possibilities and probabilities of a reputable investment medium. And after he has compared the figures and investment returns, the earning power and security, he cautiously sifts out the data to his own satisfaction before he decides what he will go in for. And when he does go in he knows the reason why and understands the chances that he is taking as far as that is humanly possible.

Compare that method of doing business with the actions of the Laurier government. It receives an offer of reciprocity from the United States; it sends down two commissioners to Washington; after a most superficial examination of the offer they recommend it acceptance; a bill is at once brought in. Then the government and its supporters sit down in the house and simply enunciate the bald proposition that the agreement must be ratified. Anybody who objects to the measure or would like more information on the subject is an obstructionist. No cogent reasons are put forward, no critical analysis is indulged in—the government and its supporters sit pat and declare that the government has committed itself, therefore the deal has got to go through. The opposition attempt to reason the matter out, but the only answer is a chorus of parrot cries, "Obstructionists." The opposition, numerically weak, knowing the brute force majority is ready to blindly vote the measure through at a moment's notice if they get the opportunity, demand an appeal to the people. Again the parrot cry, "Obstructionists." At length the government, irritated by this frustration, blusers that it will go to the country at once. The opposition mildly suggests that there is no hurry, and that it would be only fair to have a redistribution first so as to give the increased population shown by the census a fair show in the matter. Neither will this do. It is another case of "Cox can't wait." And as the same government plunged into the construction of the Transcontinental with the vague allegation that it would cost the country $50,000, and subsequently finds that it will cost over $300,000, so they attempt to rush blindly into reciprocity.

But the difference in this case is, thanks to the opposition, that Sir Wilfrid is forced to let the hard headed electorate of Canada pass on the measure.

THOUSAND DEAD FROM GREAT HEAT

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—Over one thousand deaths have occurred here from sunstroke during the ten days of Germany's heat wave, as well as many more from heart faliure during bathing, and some 500 from gastritis and typhus, caused by lack of water.

An epidemic has broken out in the Moselle Valley, caused, according to the medical reports, by decaying fish, which were netted in shoals. The fish were suffering from a kind of scrofula, owing to the overheated water.

In the south German states almost all the Governments have suspended work in the public departments, except for a few hours in the early morning, as sickness, resulting from the heat has decimated the staffs.

G. T. P. a Big Factor

The exceptional demand for Farm Laborers in the Canadian Northwest to harvest the crop of 1911 is being actively taken hold of by the various Railway lines. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is comparatively a new factor in the field, and is putting forth every effort to relieve the situation, and are prepared to place as many as can be obtained in the territory contiguous to their lines in the West.

With this in view efforts are being made through their European organization to obtain help, and in addition they are operating excursions from points in Ontario and Quebec, tickets for which are available on August 3rd, 15th, 16th, 23rd and 25th.

Full particulars may be obtained on application to any Grand Trunk Agent.

Special arrangements have been made for the distribution to points where men are needed from Winnipeg by the Government for those not engaged before starting for the West. dati wlt

O'TOOLE A JOKE FOR MINNEAPOLIS BATTERS.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 5.—Martin O'Toole, the St. Paul pitcher for whom the Pittsburg National League club recently paid $22,500, was knocked out of the box yesterday by Minneapolis batters, who made 7 hits off him in five innings.

In contrast, Leverett, of Minneapolis, leading team of the American Association pennant, allowed only one hit in 9 innings and that was a fluke. O'Toole gave three bases on balls and struck out 4 in five innings, while Leverett issued 5 passes and struck out 7 in nine innings. O'Toole went to bat only once and struck out. He made one assist.

New Publication on British Columbia

A new publication has just been issued by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in connection with a territory that is practically unknown. This publication deals with the Plateau and valley lands in Cental British Columbia, and which will be reached by the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway west of Fort George and east to Hadelon, British Columbia.

The descriptive matter was secured with much difficulty by an exploration party sent out last year who discovered the possibilities of the marvellously rich and climate favored land referred to, and the statements made are based directly on these researches. Facts have also been secured and incorporated in his publication from Government Agents' reports and equally reliable sources, and every care has been taken in the compilation of the text which will be found correct in all statements.

The publication deals with the markets, mineral production climate, settlement, soil and class of land, temperature, altitude, pre-emption, timber lands, homesteads, etc., and also gives all particulars as to how to secure Government lands, taxation, education, social conditions and advice to emigrants

A new and very interesting map accompanies the book which is profusely illustrated in every particular. The illustrations are made from direct photographs taken by the specially equipped party sent out by the Grand Trunk system last year.

Any one desiring a copy of this publication may obtain the same without cost by applying to Mr. C. E. Horning, D. P. & T. A., G. T. Ry. system, north-west corner King and Yonge, streets, Toronto, Ont. d4t wit

VISITED THE BASUTOS

Natives Assured Lord Gladstone of Their Loyalty to the King

Lord Gladstone, the Governor-General of the Union of South Africa, paid a visit to Basutoland. His Excellency was accorded a very enthusiastic reception by a great concourse of Basutos who had assembled to welcome him. The chiefs and their followers from all parts of Basutoland, flocked into Maseru to greet His Excellency, and 22,000 men were encamped there. Multitudes lined the railway, and a great concourse of mounted Basutos awaited Lord Gladstone's arrival at the station. Lord Gladstone met the National Council in the afternoon in the Parliament House, Letsie and all the chiefs attending. The Paramount Chief, in an address of welcome, expressed the hope that Lord Gladstone would lead the Basutos as children to civilization. He welcomed the High Commissioner as the son of Mr. Gladstone, who, the chief said, knew and loved the Sovereign's black subjects in South Africa. In conclusion, the chief asked Lord Gladstone to assure His Majesty of his continued loyalty.

In reply, Lord Gladstone said he hoped that the councillors would always work for the peace and welfare of the country. King Edward's interest in the welfare of the Basutos was also felt by King George, to whom they could confidently look for justice and protection. Lord Gladstone finally thanked the tribesmen heartily for their loyal and friendly reception.

NEW LICENSE COMMISSIONER

The death of our worthy townsman Mr. John W. London, rendered vacant a position on the Board of License Commissioners for West Hastings, and John Wesley Johnson, M P.P. for this riding, has with his usual care and judgment, when selecting men to fill positions, recommended Alderman Robert W. Adams for the position. The selection is a good one Mr. Adams is one of those men who fearlessly perform any duty imposed upon them. Such are the men the Ontario Government and the people require in official positions.

THIS MORNING'S STORM

At an early hour this morning the city and vicinity was visited with a severe electrical storm. The lightning was vivid, the thunder heavy and for a time rain descended in considerable quantities. The latter was especially appreciated, as we have had no rain here for several days. No particular damage was done about the city.

LITTLE BOY'S ARM BROKEN

While Jack Marshall, a seven year old son of Dr. Marshall, was playing about the slide at the children's playground, he fell and broke his wrist. Medical aid was summoned, and Dr. Yeomans, who was promptly in attendance, drove the little one home, where the fracture was successfully set The parents are satisfied that a similar accident might have happened to the child had he been playing about his home.

TO BE TRIED BY JUDGE

Mervin Mackie, who was committed for trial on a charge of theft from the person and escaping from the officer when under arrest, was this morning brought before Judge Deroche for election. He elected to be tried by His Honor and the trial was fixed for the 23rd inst. In the meantime the accused is out on bail.

GAS BUOY FOR MINNIE BLAKELY SHOAL

Owing to the efforts of Mr. E. E. Horsey, the general manager of the Lake Ontario and Bay of Quinte steamboat company, the government has wisely decided to place a new gas bouy on the Minnie Blakely shoal at Point Ann in the ay of Quinte.

SOREL AND MR ADELARD LANCTOT

Making all allowances for the temporary bubbling over of party enthusiasm, there still remains considerable significance in the refusal of the Sorel meeting to listen to Mr. Adelard Lanctot, the former member for the constituency, who achieved some little notoriety during the recent session by reason of an investigation of his habit of having work on his personal properties performed by employes of the government. The meeting it appears was for the purpose of considering the choice of a Liberal standard bearer in the present campaign. Mr. Lanctot was ready and willing to labor on as the representative Liberal and the local leader of the constituency, but several hundred of his fellow-Liberals were not. In fact, when Mr. Lanctot rose to recall himself and his deeds to the memory of his townsmen, he was hissed and hooted quite as vigorously as if he had been a political opponent. There are evidently limits beyond which the people of Sorel irrespective of party, believe that public men should not go in profiting by the opportunities official position puts in their way—and Sorel is known to be extremely broad and liberal in its views. When Mr. Lanctot had his house painted with paint taken from the government stores and by painters paid by the government, even if he did sometime later send a cheque for services rendered, he affronted the people of Canada in spite of the fact that a Parliamentary committee supplied whitewash so lavishly as to, in itself, arouse suspicion. As against the action of the Committee we can now set the demonstration by Mr. Lanctot's own constituents. The Committee does not benefit by the contrast.—Montreal Star.

SCHOOL BOARD WAS NOT RESTRAINED

Since writing the item which appears in another column, commenting upon the letter written to the Board of Education by Messrs. Porter & Carnew under instructions from Mr. Thomas Manley, intimating that an injunction would be sued out to prevent the signing of any contract for the building of the proposed new schools, the Board has had a meeting, filed the lawyer's leter, signed the contract and ordered the contractor Mr. Geo. A. Bennett to proceed with the work. This is what we anticipated would be done.

CHATTY LETTER FROM AN ESTEEMED FRIEND

Kingston, Aug 7, 1911.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Is not this a strength-sapping season? As I sat here sweltering, and watching myself going into a shadow, I wondered how you were faring in the little Bay City—very much the same as we, I imagine. Old Sol is certainly burning a lot of coal, whatever his object, and melting men are saying a lot of things not in the prayer book. With the temperature at 105 in the shade it is time we went on our knees, for we are surely nearing the pit. Kingston with her customary breeze from the lake, and thriving 'midst countless green isles, is accounted one of the coolest cities in Canada, yet I assure you the continued fire from above has been all that one could stand in garb most primitive, and remaining as far as possible in a wise and masterly inactivity. However, as to bear is to conquer fate, we must not let our sereneness be shaken beyond measure remembering that in a little while the shoe will be on the other foot. Politics, too, are far from frosty just now yet I am sure our Canada has enough fair-minded men—men of the old stock, dominated by principle, not pelf—to guide her destinies to triumphant issues, presided over as they soon will be by that Prince Patrick of Connaught, than whom glorious England could send no worthier representative.

And now, Mr. Editor, you remember this saying that when good Americans die, they go to Paris. By way of paraphrase I might be tempted to remark that when a good parish loses its pastor, he comes to Kingston! But in coming to Kingston, the one who has been the idol of the people among whom he labored does not say good-bye for ever: he will go back to them in the plenitude of his sacerdotal power and contiue in a higher sphere, his loving care and ministrations. Your loss will be our gain, but we will let His Grace go and see you occasionally if you will stay good!

Yours as in the past,

PAUL DENYS.

Tobacco-growing in Connecticut is doing wonders for the complexion of visiting New York belles. The beauties let the sun's rays and the aroma of green tobacco leaves fall on their faces with surprising results. You can get it from experts that dry tobacco in the burning will not do as much for lace curtains.

HEAVY WAGGON RAN AWAY WITH HORSES

Usual Order Reversed—Vehicle Dragged Horses Over High Bank Into River

For a few minutes last evening about six o'clock considerable excitement ensued near the west end of the footbridge owing to the fact that a team of horses attached to a wagon had involutarily been precipitated into the river.

It appears that a Mr. Howie had been drawing some material for the new house being erected for Dr Platt on the western side of the river near the approach to the footbridge The wagon was backed too close to the embankment with the result that it went over, taking the team with it At first it was feared that the animals had been injured, but such, fortunately, proved not to be the case. A number of willing hands were soon upon the scene and the horses and wagon were taken out af the river apparently none the worse for the adventure. The water just now is exceptionally low, or the animals might have been drowned.

If every man loved his neighbor as he loves himself his Satanic majesty would soon have to hunt another job.

ENGINEER VICTIM OF PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Mr. Richard McCrudden, engineer at the pump house, was at an early hour this morning the victim of an accident which will incapacitate him from work for some days. He was engaged in operating a large wrench used in connection with the pump, when it slipped and struck him upon the side in such a manner as to crack two of his ribs. This is the second time an accident has occured at the pump house recently and as a result both engineers are laid up. Other competent engineers however have been engaged to operate the plant.

POACHERS DYNAMITING FISH IN THE BAY

A few evenings ago some parties from the city were fishing in the vicinity of Telegraph Island down the bay when they were startled to see a volume of water shoot up in the air for a distance of 40 or 50 feet. It was evident that a dynamite charged caused the water to fly up and the supposition is that parties were dynamiting for fish. Immediately after the explosion a boat was seen to leave the shore near by and proceed towards the spot where the explosion occured. If this is a fact the offence is a serious one and the perpetrators are liable to a heavy penalty.

LAURIER AND LOOT!

LAURIER AND LARGER MARKETS FOR YANKEES.

Vote for Borden candidates and Canada for Canadians.

Sir Allen Aylesworth's resignation is in as Minister of Justice. And now Tommy will try and Rob-in-net North York.

That "weather relief" which was experienced this morning was much more enjoyed than the Globe's "tariff relief," if it ever materialized, possibly could be.

Hon. Mr. Oliver declares that he has nothing to fear from a parliamentary enquiry. He certainly hasn't from the present Government.—Ottawa Journal.

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE AT OTTAWA.

On order of the Ontario government a moving picture in Toronto that was exhibiting too Yankee a version of the War of Independence was made to cut out the offending film. Sir Wilfrid Laurier after he has dried those tears will probably gives Sir James a piece of his mind.—Spectator.

War talk has been revived in Peru by a report that Chili is planning a further occupation of territory which Peru claims. A new generation has arisen since Peru and Chili fought but the bitterness between the two countries appears more intense than ever.

The largest storage warehouse docks on inland waters in the world are said to be about to be constructed at Port Arthur, Ontario, byt the Canadian Storage Corporation, Ltd. The docks will be 300 ft. long, and the warehouses and concrete buildings will be seven stories high, and be built in two units costing $150,000. The first warehouse is to be started at once.

"We are the most independent country in the world; we absolutely control every department of our public administration. Once we put ourselves in a state of dependence upon American markets and American tariffs our freedom is gone. With it goes the main spring of our national life." —The above is the opinion of Hon Cliffodr Sifton, formerly of the Laurier Government.

BORDEN AND THE BROADER PATRIOTISM.

For the first five months of the current year, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland led the world in exports. The United States came next, but its total was $72,690,000 short of Britain's while Germany's was $151,650,000 under the British. The United Kingdom, of course, leads as an importer, with Germany second France third and the United States fourth.

The fact is, the reciprocity issue is a red herring across the trail; and the frantic cuttle-fish efforts of the Liberal Government to make it the one issue is a deliberate and coolly designed plan to draw attention from the sins and iniquities, the errors of commission and omission which have marked the administration of government which has prevailed in recent years.—Kingston Standard.

Reciprocity means a loss on the average of over a dollar a hundredweight on every hog arised in Ontario; and it means that Buffalo will take away all our dead meat trade, and that the term 'Canadian bacon' will disappear from the British market. The World, when it says that, is not quotinng "guff," but the views of men in the business, farmers, drovers, packers and bankers.—Toronto World.

The Liberal Government had at dissolution a majority of 43. The Opposition will admit that it can gain nothing in the West. It will probably lost there. Where are the thiry seats it must gain to give it a working majority of seven?—Peterborough Examiner.

The Examiner's arithmatic is as bad as its politics. A gain of 30 seats would give the Conservatives a majority of 17, not 7, as our contemporary alleges.

A telegram from Ottawa to the Montreal Star of the 7th inst., says:—The resignation of Sir Allan Aylesworth as Minister of Justice, is in the hands of the Primo Minister. Is not this a nice little piece of political business? Sir Allan will run, or we mistake, as he is pledged to do so Still, Grit pledges are only made to be broken. Witness the pledge given to Parliament by the Government throught its chief whip, that the Oliver investigation committee would continue its sittings. Yet Parliament was dissolved three days before the date set for the resumption of the enquiry.

THE SONG OF THE JOY RIDER

This fly campaign is all, all right,
The fly a big nuisance is,
But there's another nuisance, too,
On earth which has no biz.
Our life would just be peace and joy
If this one we could can;
So let us take a motto, too,
"Swat the pedestrian."

He's always getting in our way,
He cuts our joy rides short,
He growls if we bump into him,
He's no kind of a sport.
It's risky, too, for a car to jolt
At high speed over a man,
Why, it's enough to upset any car!
So swat the pedestrian.

He makes a fuss if we scare him well
He fusses if he's knocked down,
He fusses if we kill his dogs,
And it excites the town.
If we happen to kill the man himself
They worry us all they can
With laws and fines and trials dire—
Swat the Pedestrian!

SHOT A PRISON INSPECTOR

After Firing Five Shots in a Theatre a Girl Escaped

Details have been received of the shooting of M. Efimoff, prison inspector at Vologda, Russia, where political prisoners were severely flogged. The curtain of the local theatre was being lowered when a girl in the stalls fired five revolver shots at M. Efimoff, an officer and a lady sitting in front were also wounded. Profiting by the panic, the girl, who was dressed in black, escaped into the street by an emergency exit, explaining her flight by crying "The theatre is on fire!" She has not yet been arrested, though the theatre was full of police and detectives were guarding M. Efimoff. She had gone to Vologda from St. Petersburg.

VISITED THE BASUTOS

Lord Gladstone, the Governor-General of the Union of South Africa, paid a visit to Basutoland. His Excellency was accorded a very enthusiastic reception by a great concourse of Basutos who had assembled to welcome him. The chiefs and their followers from all parts of Basutoland, flocked into Maseru to greet His Excellency, and 22,000 men were encamped there. Multitudes lined the railway, and a great concourse of mounted Basutos awaited Lord Gladstone's arrival at the station. Lord Gladstone met the National Council in the afternoon in the Parliament House, Letsie and all the chiefs attending. The Paramount Chief, in an address of welcome, expressed the hope that Lord Gladstone would lead the Basutos as children to civilization. He welcomed the High Commissioner as the son of Mr. Gladstone, who, the chief said, knew and loved the Sovereign's black subjects in South Africa. In conclusion, the chief asked Lord Gladstone to assure His Majesty of his continued loyalty.

In reply, Lord Gladstone said he hoped that the councillors would always work for the peace and welfare of the country. King Edward's interest in the welfare of the Basutos was also felt by King George, to whom they could confidently look for justice and protection. Lord Gladstone finally thanked the tribesmen heartily for their loyal and friendly reception.

LETITIA

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

Copyright 1908 by the C. M. Clark Pub. Co., Boston, Mass. Used by Permission

But even though her friends increased, Miss Whiting had no thought of dispensing with his company. As the days passed, her demands, evens her dependence, upon him increased, until his presence in strolls, carriage drives into the suburbs and country, appeared to have become an actual necessity. Every provision had been made by her father for a pleasant sojourn in the coast city, including a span and coachman, and a liberal deposit in the bank. Nothing had been omitted that would add to her pleasure, and, evidently with the utmost confidence in her discretion, the loving parent had charged Landlord Mansfield that his daughter's slightest wish should be gratified.

And she had as generously resolved that the congenial young train companion who had so befriended her, should share her luxuries with her. His presence added much to her pleasure, so he was her attendant wherever she went, until it became the most natural thing in the world for them to consult with each other before an intended outing.

The days went pleasantly on; each content in the other's company. Occasionally they would attend the thetre and were regular worshippers at church services. They discussed the latest literature, sang together, and were adjudged an admirably mated couple. Her beauty so harmonised with his manly bearing that they became the central attraction wherever they appeared.

"I really cannot think of allowing you to go away until my father and brother return from Seattle," she said to him one morning two weeks following their coming to the city, as they left the hotel for a drive through the suburbs. "You have added more than half to my pleasure. What should I have done alone among strangers? Then, Father will wish to thank you personally for the many kindnesses and I am sure my brother will be the best of friends. There is no need for haste in again seeking your cousin; two or three weeks will make no difference, and you need the rest so much I have planned so many outings and other pleasures for the coming weeks in which your presence will be indispensible, that should you leave now it would be a deliberate sin, and cast a gloom over the balance of my sojourn in San Francisco as well."

"But you have made so many friends among these people, Miss Whiting," he demurred.

One earnest look into his face and he was her captive.

For who could withstand so magnetic an appeal? What man with a particle of emotion could resist the pleading glance of those glorious brown eyes? Her soft voice finally won the victory, and he promised to remain until she was safely in her father's care. From that hour Alex was her devoted attendant, with no thought but for her pleasure, and no reward but her deepest friendship.

Thus far their sojourn had been without special incident other than a continuous series of sight-seeing in and about the city. But when the third week had passed, Miss Whiting one evening suggested a visit to one of the opium dens in the Chinatown portion of the city, with the management of which they were both unfamiliar.

"I have so long wondered how such places were carried on, and we shall never have a better opportunity to inspect them," said the young lady.

"I fancy it is a doubtful undertaking, Miss Whiting, as those fellows have no principle whatever. But if you are prepared to take the risk of a possibly disagreeable experience, I will not forsake you," and Grant linked his arm within hers as they drew near the largest and most portentious point in the vicinity of which they were walking.

"I am not afraid when you are with me," she replied, looking confidingly into his face.

"Then in we go," he laughed, and a moment later they had disappered through the door.

The scenes that met their eyes were deplorable. Women, richly attired reclined in private stalls smoking opium or sleeping off the effects of the drug. Men, once handsome and robust, but now human wrecks, lay upon the more common benches apparently lifeless while the almond-eyed celestials plied their nefarious schemes at will.

Miss Whiting clung tightly to her companion's arm as they went from section to section, led by a wicked-looking fellow who appeared to be in control. In many cases the sights were revolting. A few moments satisfied their curiosity, and as they turned towards the entrance, Alex offered the attendant a silver dollar.

"Chinaman no takee dollah. Melican man give five dollah," he demanded.

"But I think one dollar is sufficient."

"Melican man give five dollah—Chinaman hit," and he edged between the visitors and the street exit, at the same time making threatening gestures with a wooden weapon in his hand.

Grant felt trouble was brewing, and backed close to a side wall, for he had reason to believe that more than one Chinaman was ready to spring at him.

"You will take one dollar or nothing," he said in a firm voice.

"Melican man big pig. Chinaman kill um," and he raised the weapon.

A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

WITH NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

While there are no thrills in the narration of Mrs. P. T. Nichols, 623 Braid St., Beloit, Wis., her story is nevertheless one of amazing interest. "Stricken with neuralgia and erysipelas, I lost all my hair. My doctor recommended Newbro's Herpicide. I used six or eight bottles and now have a fine head of slightly curly light brown hair. Not a gray hair in my head. This is the more remarkable as I am middle-aged."

While the results which follow the use of Newbro's Herpicide are always more or less astonishing, they are always natural. Herpicide destroys the dandruff germ, stimulates the flow of blood to the hair follicles and keeps the scalp perfectly healthy. It makes possible a natural and luxuriant growth of hair, except in cases of chronic baldness.

While remedies said to be "every bit as good" as Newbro's Herpicide are frequently offered, one should insist on having the original germ destroyer, Herpicide. That is genuine. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

For sale at all drug stores. One dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. Send 10c. in postage for sample to The Herpicide Co. Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. J. S. McKeown, special agent.

Waterways of Canada.

Canada has 6,000 miles of waterways from the St. Lawrence to the Mackenzie, with only 150 miles of a hard break. The Mackenzie is with its tributaries, 2,500 miles long, equal to distance from Liverpool to Halifax, draining a region three times as large as France. The Saskatchewan is 1,600 miles long; the Columbia 1,100; the Churchill 1,000; the Fraser and the Red River each 650 miles. The Saskatchewan basin is as large as that of the St. Lawrence.

Facts About the Fisheries.

British Columbia comes first in fishing industry, $10,314,775; Nova Scotia second, $8,081,111; New Brunswick, third, $4,676,315; Ontario fourth, $2,177,813; Quebec fifth, $1,808,436; P. E. I. sixth, $1,197,556.

Canada's fishery equipment is worth $17,357,932.

Total value of fisheries in Canada, 1870 to 1909, 732 millions.

WHERE THE "DOME" DID ITS PART.

Old Baseball Players Give Their Experiences.

"Bonehead Barry!" That's what they usually say of a player when he accidentally or otherwise permits himself to be hit on the "dome" by a batted or pitched ball. While some of these plays have been anything but pleasant to the man hit, there's no question but most of them prove humorous to the fans, says the St Louis Post-Dispatch.

I have seen many players hit on the head with batted or thrown balls," said Roger Bresnahan, manager of the Cardinals, "but the funniest play of this kind happened when I was with the Giants. "Jack" Dunn was playing third base at the time and a foul fly was sent up near third base.

"I was catching and started after the ball until he shouted 'I've got it.' He seemed to be camped under it all right until the sun got in his eyes and he lost the ball. It came and hit him on the top of the head. The ball knocked 'Jacks' cap off, and, as he was as bald as a doorknob and very sensitive about his slick dome he made a wild scramble to recover the top-piece."

"A play which seems almost an impossibility, but one that is an actual fact, was performed by Ben Koehler and Emil Frisk, two former St. Louis outfielders," said Secretary Lloyd H. Rickart, of the Browns.

"In a game several years ago a ball was hit midway between center and right. Koehler and Frisk started for it. Koehler, the usually reliable called that he had the ball. But he began dancing around and finally lost in the sun. He 'ducked' to avoid being struck, but the ball came down hit him on the head, bounded up and Frisk, the uncertain, caught it for the out."

MUSCULAR CHRISTIANITY.

Teaches Bible Sunday Boxes Monday

Although he parts his name in the middle, the men who would "kid" A. J. Drexel-Biddle upon the fact are few and far between.

Biddle is as complex a character as you will find in "Who's Who." He preaches, encourages and teaches boxing and instructs the largest and one of the most successful bible classes in Philadelphia.

"Anthony J." to the members of the fashionable set, he is "Tony" to a host of young athletes who have found in him a friend, time and again His private gymnasium has permitted many young boxers to train who otherwise would not have been able to do so.

Biddle is an unique character in the religious world and the success which has attended his work proves that his theories are sound, even if a radical departure from accepted idea.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Exchange Closed, Chicago Wheat Futures Close Higher—Live Stock—Quotations.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Flurried by worse and worse reports about black rust in Manitoba, the wheat market to-day made a violent upward jump. Closing prices were at nearly the top figures reached, 1⅛c to 1¼c to 1⅜c higher than 48 hours before.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Aug. 5 were 2525 cattle, 2400 sheep and lambs, 1900 hogs and 715 calves. The supply on the market this morning for sale consisted of 1300 cattle, 1300 sheep and lambs, 750 hogs and 275 calves.

A feature of the trade was the continued weakness in the market for cattle and prices since this day week show a decline of ¼c to ½c per pound, on account of the increased supplies coming forward and the very warm weather prevailing.

The gathering of buyers was fairly large, but the demand was somewhat limited, as even at the above reduction in values noted, butchers were not disposed to operate freely and carry large stocks of beef with no prospects of cooler weather in the near future, consequently trade was rather slow on the whole. Choice steers sold at 5½c to 5¾c.; good at 5c to 5¼c; fairly good, at 4½c to 4¾c; fair, at 4c to 4¼c, and common, at 3½c to 4c per pound.

Altho the supply of hogs was much smaller than a week ago, yet the feeling in the market was weaker and prices ruled 50c per cwt. lower than a week ago. At this reduction the demand from packers was fairly good and trade was more active with sales of selected lots at $7 to $7.25 per cwt., weighed off the cars, but there were a number of lots which were contracted for at the latter end of last week delivered at $7.50.

The market for sheep and lambs was weaker and prices declined, owing to the increased offerings. The demand was good at the reduction and sales of lambs were made at 6c and sheep at 3½c to 4c per pound. Calves were steady at prices ranging from $2 to $6 each, as to size and quality.

New York Live Stock.

Calves—Receipts 4100 head. Veals firm; grassers and buttermilks steady to strong. Veals, $6.50 to $9.50; grassers and buttermilks, $3 to $4.50; few feeders at $5; westerns, $4.75 to $7.25.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts 14,100 head. Sheep steady to strong; lambs, 25c to 40c higher. Sheep, $2 to $4; culls, $1.50 to $1.75; lambs, $4.75; culls, $3.50 to $4.50.

Hogs—Receipts 9763 head; market strong at $7.40 to $7.75.

INSECTS TOOLS.

There is a little fly called a sawfly, because it has a saw to work with. The fly uses it to make places where the eggs will be safe. What is more strange it has a sort of home-made glue which fastens them where they are laid.

Some insects have cutting instruments that work just as scissors do. The poppy-bee is one of them, whose work is wonderful. This bee has a boring-tool, too. Its nest is usually made in old wood. This borer cleans out the nest for use. When all is ready, the insect cuts out pieces of leaves to line the nest and to make the cells. These linings are cut in the shape of the cells. You would be surprised to see the care taken to have every piece just the right size.

FUN FOR FRIVOLOUS FROLICS.

Seated in a circle you begin to count, passing rapidly from one to the next but instead of saying "seven" the player says "Buz" which must be repeated at 14, 21 and each multiple of seven; also instead of five or any multiple of five, take 10, 15, etc., the player must say "Bang." A forfeit must be paid each time one fails to "Buz" or "Bang" at the right time.

If a net blouse is to be laundered it should be ironed on the wrong side while it is quite damp with a clean and moderately hot iron. This causes the new fabric to stiffen. Lace may be treated in the same way.

That Threatened Injunction

On Saturday, the 3rd inst., a letter appeared in The Intelligencer over the signature of Messrs. Porter & Carnew, solicitors for Mr. Thomas Manley, informing the Board of Education that they had been instructed by their client to take proceedings against the Board of Education to prevent that body from entering into any contract for the building of the proposed new school houses "owing to irregularity in connection with the tenders and acceptance thereof."

That those readers who know the gentlemen who comprise that Board, and those who formed the committee entrusted with dealing with this subject, with a gentleman of the reputation of William P. Hudson as its chairman, should be surprised at such a charge, is not at all surprising.

Had those tenders been asked for by ministers or officials of the present Dominion Government, no surprise would have been expressed at any amount of bungling or irregularities in connection therewith, but to attribute such conduct to our guardians of the educational interests of the city must be based upon the presumption that no body of men is honest in dealing with public interests. While this subject is sub judice it would be improper to discuss its merits pro or con, but we venture the opinion, from what we know of the men who compose the Board of Education and its officials in this city, that when an investigation takes place, if it ever does, Mr. Manley will find he is in error in charging the Board with irregularities.

Grit Candidates Cropping up

Grit candidates for Parliamentary honors in Hastings (no, not Parliamentary honors, but Parliamentary patronage for self and friends) are budding in profusion.

No names are as yet on the list for West Hastings, yet the man who enters the list against the late member, Mr. E. Guss Porter, knows what his fate will be, and therefore should hesitate before entering the race unless his pockets are well filled from the "reptile fund" with a sufficient sum to pay expenses and leave a little to cover lost time. Who is to be the victim?

In East Hastings a number of names are mentioned of men who are represented as being desirous of entering the contest: for what purpose other than expectation or promise of reward, after defeat, if the Laurierites should, unfortunately for the country, be retained in power; for of success, not one of them has the slightest hope. Rumor says that Mr. Clark, Reeve of Limerick, has been approached with what success is not yet known. Next we have Mr. E. J. Butler, lawyer, of this city, spoken of, or perhaps it would be better to say that he has intimated not only his willingness, but desire, to sacrifice himself for the sake of party, with a County Court Judgeship probably in expectancy. Why not, E. J? You are as much entitled to consideration as are others who have "gone before," but don't forget "there is often a slip between the cup and the lip."

Next, but by no means least, we learn, upon what is considered good authority, that our old and esteemed friend, the Reeve of Thurlow, Nathaniel Vermilyea, Esq., is again on the war path soliciting votes from the electors of East Hastings. Mr. Vermilyea is what may fairly be set down as an uncompromising party man, ready to condone any wrong acts of his party, and forgive any amount of personal snubbing and broken pledges, and fall humbly down at the feet of those who have deceived him, all for the sake of party. His better judgment and sober thoughts should suggest a more enlightened and patriotic course. Nathaniel, put not your trust in princes. that is of the Canadian Grit tribe; they have used you and deceived you in the past, and will do so in the future. With some 1,300 majority polled against your party in East Hastings at the last election, what do you expect other than a good respectable defeat, which is as sure as the rising of the sun on the morning of the 21st of September next?

We wait for an enunciation by either of these gentlemen of the principles upon which they seek the votes of the people, if they have any other than party.

The People's Judgment

The object of the Laurier Government in dissolving Parliament in such a hurry as to break faith with the representatives of the people in the House of Commons was evidently done to prevent the probing of further scandalous acts of their supporters, in order to confine, as closely as possible, the issue to be submitted to the judgment of the electors, to the proposed tariff arrangement negotiated with the United States.

But that expectation has not been realized, as is evidenced by the following despatch which was published on Monday:—

Montreal, Aug. 6.—The strength of the anti-Laurier feeling in Quebec was strikingly shown at Sorel last night. Mr. Lanctot, the late Liberal member for Richelieu, who was whitewashed by the House on serious charges, endeavored to hold a public meeting at Sorel, which is a Liberal stronghold, but he was hooted off the square, the people refusing to listen to him.

The significance of the above narrated facts will be fully understood when it is stated that at Sorel are located the Government shipyard and machine shops, where the great dredges which are employed by the Public Works Department, and other vessels as well, are constructed and their machinery manufactured. The charges against Mr. Adelard Lanctot, former member for the constituency, were sworn to before the Parliamentary committee which investigated them, but, in defiance of the evidence adduced, the member for Richelieu was whitewashed by the Grit majority in Parliament. The people have now the opportunity of pronouncing upon that and other ejually malodorous jobs, and the nature of their verdict has been indicated by the electors of Sorel.

Laurierism and looting are doomed.

The flies that are now in your kitchen and dining room were probably feasting on some indescribable nastiness less than an hour ago, and as a single fly often carries many thousands of disease germs attached to its hairy body, it is the duty of every housekeeper to assist in exterminating this worst enemy of the human race.

COLD IN THE HEAD

WHAT'S THE SENSE IN SNEEZING AND SNIFFLING, DOSING WITH PURGATIVES, OR BOTHERING WITH ATOMIZERS?

CATARRHOZONE

Sensible people long ago abandoned the idea of "working off" a cold by means of laxatives and purgatives for the simple reason that the cure is as bad as the disease itself.

To cure a cold in about ten minutes use Catarrhozone. It is aromatic, delightful to inhale, clean and very simple to use.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, and perfectly safe and harmless Even children and infants can use it. The vapor is inhaled at the mouth and after passing through the respiratory organs is exhaled slowly through the nostrils.

Catarrhozone never disappoints, it stops sneezing, coughing and running at the eyes, by a few inhalations. Inflammation, congestion and all irritation disappear under the influence of Catarrhozone more quickly than can be told.

C. B. College, of Clarence street London, says: "I had a continuous cold in the head for years, and never used anything with such quick results as I derived from five minutes' use of Catarrhozone. I am delighted to find a remedy that cures colds in a few minutes. Catarrhozone cures every time."

To carry a Catarrhozone inhaler in the pocket means you won't have colds catarrh or any lung or throat trouble. It keeps these diseases away and is warranted to protect you against all the ills of winter. Complete outfit with Hard Rubber Inhaler costs $1.00 Small size, 50c. At all druggists.

Flowers of colored straw are popular as trimming. Black and red flowers have yellow centers and there are various striking color combinations. They represent edelweiss, dahlias, roses and poppies in natural tints and shapes.

Sleeves are short in all save the strictly tailored garments, and by short is meant a termination of the sleeve just at or an inch or more above the elbow.

Sashes are worn a great deal with afternoon toilets.

New Publication on British Columbia

A new publication has just been issued by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in connection with a territory that is practically unknown. This publication deals with the Plateau and valley lands in Cental British Columbia, and which will be reached by the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway west of Fort George and east to Hadelton, British Columbia.

The descriptive matter was secured with much difficulty by an exploration party sent out last year who discovered the possibilities of the marvellously rich and climate favored land referred to, and the statements made are based directly on these researches. Facts have also been secured and incorporated it this publication from Government Agents' reports and equally reliable sources, and every care has been taken in the compilation of the text which will be found correct in all statements.

The publication deals with the markets, mineral production climate, settlement, soil and class of land, temperature, altitude, pre-emption, timber lands, homesteads, etc., and also gives full particulars as to how to secure Government lands, taxation, education, social conditions and advice to emigrants.

A new and very interesting map accompanies the book which is profusely illustrated in every particular. The illustrations are made from direct photographs taken by the specially equipped party sent out by the Grand Trunk system last year.

Any one desiring a sopy of this publication may obtain the same without cost by applying to Mr. C. E. Horning, C. P. & T. A., G. T. Ry. system, north-west corner King and Yonge, streets, Toronto, Ont. d4t w1t

PASTOR RUSSELL'S SERMON

BROOKLYN, Aug. 6.—Notwithstanding the summer season Brooklyn Tabernacle was crowded to-day. Pastor Russell took for his text the words of the Prophet David, "Whither shall I flee from Thy presence? If I ascend into heaven Thou art there; if I make my bed in hell, behold, Thou art there." Ps. cxxxix:7-8. We quote:

The evolution theory and higher criticism of the bible have to-day fostered unbelief to such an extent that everything intangible is doubted. Beginning with the college professor and the majority of the educated ministers this skepticism has embraced the wealthy, who are satiated with the blessings of prosperity. To these heaven and heavenly things seem vagaries as compared with present enjoyments and hopes, and their present attitude is one of doubt respecting everything connected with the Bible. They well know that outside the Bible there is nothing but guess work, and they prefer their own guesses to those of other people. Very many speak candidly and tell that they are agnostics, that they are uncertain and would like to be informed respecting the future. A very similar condition growingly prevails amongst the poorer classes and the uneducated.

The effect of all this loss of faith in an Almighty God is seen on every hand and is felt by many. One of the consequences is that the religious element of man's nature is becoming numb and the masses, rich and poor, are seeking a substitute in pleasure; as the apostle's words foretold, they are 'lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God.' Additionally many of the wealthy carry on a kind of brigandage along commercial lines. Desirous of imitating them, but unable so to do, others are filling the world with violence to an extent that is alarming to everybody. Were it not for our elaborate and costly police protection life and property would be far less secure in civilized lands than amongst the heathen. With all the protection affored by telephone, telegraph, police, etc., our officials tell us that they are often bewildered in their attempts to preserve law and order.

Many learned men believe that there is no other God than nature, and many of the unlearned are following their lead. They reason that nature served thme as both father and mother—that nature is pitiless, unsympathetic, and cruel. It is time we see the truth of the statement: "The fool hath said in his heart, 'There is no God.'"

The creeds handed down to us from the dark past declare that God is everywhere present—omnipresent This is as unthinkable as it is foolish and unscriptural. Taking advantage of this error of 'orthodoxy' the adversary has turned many away from a belief in a personal God. The result is the absurd view which has taken hold on some otherwise intelligent people, to the effect that good and God are synonymous. Hence a log of wood that is good for something is said to have good in it, and, hence, to have God in it—ditto, a piece of iron a bed, a chair. This faith in a god of nature and chance takes the place of faith in the God of the Bible, who dwells in heaven, and whose intelligence and power extend throughout the universe, in thousands of ways of which we are only learning—through electricity, radio-activity, etc besides angelic messengers that can come and go like the wind. Hebrews i:7, 14.

But the undermining of faith in the God of the Bible has been accomplished largely by the misrepresentation by many clergymen and religious leaders of the Bible's teaching. Our text, for instance, is supposed to teach that God is in heaven with the saintly rejoicing with them and that He also is in hell with the unsaintly, looking upon their sufferings and tortures and planning with devils for their everlasting continuance. Thinking minds are rejecting such nonsense, but, alas, they are rejecting the Bible too, having no foundation for a better, truer faith.

The word 'orthodox' signifies correct in doctrine. I admit that my presentation is not the ordinary one—but I claim that it is correct—it is the true doctrine of the Word of God Then it is orthodox in the highest sense of that term; and everything to the contrary, being opposed to God's Word, must be unorthodox.

What Christendom needs to-day is a return to the Bible, an investigation of its teachings and a rejection of all human creeds, which are admittedly more or less defective. Let us accept the Bible as the only standard Let us study it and understand it to the extent of our ability. Let us fellowship as Christians all who acknowledge its divine authenticity, and who in harmony with its presentation, are trusting in Jesus as their Redeemer; and who, in acceptance of His invitation, have forsaken all to be His footstep followers. The masses known as Christendom are unchristian in every sense of the word. They are civilized heathen.

More than this—shall we say it?—the majority of professed church members, so far as we can understand their sentiments as privately expressed and privately declared by ministers of their choice, are no more Christians than are Jews. They neither believe the Bible to be the divine revelation nor do they accept the Lord Jesus Christ as the world's Redeemer from sin and death. If, therefore, they do not concentrate their lives to sacrificially follow One in whose redemptive work they do not believe. The fault lies largely with many of the clergy who are not leading the people to the faith 'once delivered to the saints,' but away from it. It is time that all who really believe in the Bible, who believe that Jesus left the glory of the Father and gave His life, thus providing the redemptive price for all men should proclaim these facts, clearly and positively. They should declare as do the scriptures, the Second Coming of the Redeemer, and the establishment of His Kingdom in divine power for the putting down of sin and the lifting up of mankind to glorious privileges of restitution, with a just penalty against evry form of sin, and the Second Death, as the penalty for wilful, persistent disobedience.

MARKET FOR MEAT.

Argentina Finds a New Market for its Meat.

A new market for Argentine meat has been secured in northern Italy. The mayors of Rome and 58 other cities in the northern part of Italy have combined to promote the importation of frozen meat from Argentina. Negotiations in southern Italy have similar arrangements in view for that section. Efforts are being made by the Argentine authorities to have the Swiss regulations modified so as to permit the entry of meat into that country. At present every carcass imported into Switzerland must be accompanied by the tongue, heart, liver, spleen and kidneys. It is thought that a Swiss inspector may be stationed at Buenos Ayres to pass upon carcasses intended for his country and so relieve the trade of this prohibitive order.

ONTARIO FRUIT OUTLOOK.

Ontario's orchards were not in blossom on the 8th May, when correspondents made their return to the Department of Agriculture. The season is said to be later than usual. Fruit buds, however, promise to be plentiful, and after the lean orchard yield of 1910 a liberal yield is expected. War upon scale, codling moth, and other pests is being conducted with more vigor than ever, and several correspondents point to the improved appearance of fruit trees as the result of work done in the last year or two in the way of spraying, pruning, and the better general culture of orchards. A few reports of damage to trees from mice come from some of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa countries.

Seven Hurt In Auto Smash.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Aug. 3.—Dr. George Rombeaud, the director of the Pasteur Institute in New York, is at the point of death in the Vassar Hospital here as the result of an automobile accident yesterday. His wife, who is Mme. Gerville-Reache, who was a prima donna of the Manhattan Opera Company, is badly injured. In addition to these, five other members of the auto party, all relatives of Dr. Rombeaud or his wife, were injured, and some of them seriously. The car was going around a sharp curve at high speed when it left the roadway and the occupants were pitched out.

Victims of the Gale.

The schooner Emily Anderson, Maitland, N.S., for Philadelphia, anchored off Chatham, lost her foresail and part of the deck load of lumber. Both vessels were probably victims of Friday's gale.

Dont Want our Cheese.

The American market, for home consumption, demands a soft variety of cheese, that is not made in Canada. From 100 pounds of milk the cheesemaker in the States makes about 11 pounds of cheese, whereas in Canada only 9 pounds of cheese are produced from 100 pounds of milk. In other words, the American cheese contains about 42 per cent. of water, while there is only 36 per cent. in the Canadian harder product.

NOVA SCOTIA RICH IN WOOD

The Province by the Sea Has a Splendid Heritage in its Forest Land.

The total land area of Nova Scotia is 14,483,000 acres, and of this 5,000,000 acres, or 7,812 square miles, is forest area. Less than this quantity is actually forested land, though more is suitable for forest production. Fifty-six per cent of the farms in Nova Scotia are composed of woodland.

The counties of Queen's and Lunenburg have yearly produced 50,000,000 feet of lumber for export, foreign and local, and the consumption of that district would likely take as much more for the last forty years, so that the forest has contributed very largely to the prosperity of the people. The shipbuilding industry has also consumed a very large amount of timber. The wood pulp industry has consumed 20,000 to 25,000 cords of wood yearly.

At a very early date in the settlement of the eastern part of the mainland of Nova Scotia large quantities of birch, spruce and pine timber were shipped from the port of Pictou. This lumber was all shipped at first in the form of hewn timber. Shipbuilding began first as an adjunct to this timber trade—ships very roughly built and loaded with timbr cargoes being sent to the old country, where both ship and cargo would find a ready market. Gradually the pine became exhausted and the timber shipped during the palmy days of wooden shipbuilding was largely birch, with a proportion of spruce battens cut in the old "up and down" sawmills.

When Dr. Patterson wrote his history of Pictou county, thirty years ago he stated that a little birch was left in the remote portions of Pictou, but that the spruce was all exhausted. Since that day, with the advent of portable steam mills, there has been probably three times as much spruce cut even in Pictou county as in the century preceding

The same would apply to both Cumberland and Colchester counties. Less than a score of years ago it was stated that the end of the lumber trade of Cumberland county was in sight, owing to the reckless and injudicious cutting of the lumbermen. However true this statement may have been of the character of their operations in the past, neither the recuperative powers of the forest nor the reserves of standing timber were estimated at their real value. Timber lands have several times since been changed owners, and always at values above their original cost.

The forest products of Nova Scotia—the figures of the census of 1901 are given—were valued at $3,409,582. In 1907 their values were placed at $3,750,000. In square and flat timber, $109,102, consisting chiefly of birch $47,783, pine $12,923, maple $4,124 and oak $4,164: Logs for lumber, $1,938,236, of which spruce was the largest in value, 1,272,653; then hemlock, $237,814; pine, $144,907; nk, $15,207; bark for tanning, $12,[illegible]03; firewood, $1,094,257; wood for pulp, 48,320, and other miscellaneous products of considerable value make up the total above given.

Canada's Crop Production.

Canada's crop production, 1910 30,906,100 bushels, viz., fall wheat 16,610,000; spring wheat, 133,379,600 (total of 149,989,600); oats, 323,449,000; barley, 45,147,600; rye, 1,543,500; peas, 6,538,100; buckwheat, 7,243,900; mixed grain, 9,433,500; flax, 3,802,000; beans, 1,177,800; corn for husking, 18,726,000; potatoes, 74,084,000; turnips and other rots, 95,207,000.

CARELESSNESS IN MILK MIXING.

Holstein Herds Also Proved to be Low in Butter Fat.

The recent finding of a number of dairymen in New Jersey state has caused some interesting investigations as to the reasons of the milk being below the required standards.

Upon looking in the matter closely, and after sampling and testing a number of milkings from the herds which were found to be below standard and observing the methods used in handling the milk, it has been found that the cause of the low test in 90 per cent of the cases looked into was due undoubtedly to neglect on the part of the dairymen to mix properly the entire milk from the whole herd before delivering to the creamery or bottling for shipment. In every instance where the duplicate sample taken by the State Board of Health was tested it was found to be below standard requirement thus showing that it is not a question of error in testing.

There are a number of causes which are apt to make the per cent of butterfat in normal milk low and especially is this noticeable in Holstein herds where there is not at any time a great margin between the standard requirements and the herd average.

The following are some of the causes which were most frequently met with in studying conditions outlined above:

1. Holstein heifers having just freshened with their first calf. In two instances the normal milk tested only 2.1 per cent of butterfat.

2. Heavy producing Holstein cows from the second to the tenth week of lactation whose previous average test for the entire lactation period was rather low showed in some instances a normal test of 2.4 per cent low test of butterfat, and a total solid of 11.6.

3. In a number of cases where cows were suckling their calves, it was found that the practice was to draw about half of the milk from all the teats for market purposes previous to letting the calves suck. This would undoubtedly tend to produce a low test of milk sold, as the last milk drawn is always richer than that taken at any other time during the milking.

4. Carelessness in mixing the milk has undoubtedly caused some of the low tests.

Experiments Prove That Silage Has Great Advantage Over Roots as Economical Feed.

The Dominion Experimental Farm is showing its worth to farmers by its practical experiments and even more so than its recent trials in stock food.

In a series of experiments conducted for two years under the direction of J. H. Grisdale, director of the Dominion Experimental Farm, it has been found that silage has a great advantage over roots as an economical sheep feed. Duplicating the experiment of the preceding year, twenty-seven lambs of uniform weight were divided into three groups of nine each and fed different rations, from which to form a basis of the experiment. No. 1 group was fed on clover hay, meal and turnips; lot No. 2 on clover hay, meal and silage, the latter replacing the turnips, and No. 3 group was fed on clover hay, meal, turnips and ensilage mixed.

More Widows than Widowers.

The proportion of remarriages shows an almost continuous decrease, says the registrar-general in his report on the births, deaths and marriages in England and Wales during 1909.

The number of of widows, he states, is always much greater than that of widowers, because in the first place men marry later in life than women; secondly, because the duration of male life is shorter than that of female life, and thirdly, because the proportion of widows who remarry is much lower than the proportion of widowers who remarry.

Marriages of persons described as divorced have steadily increased and in the year 1909 were the highest on record.

All He Was Fit For.

A forlorn Irishman, reduced to the last stage of poverty and destitution, as the last resource made inquiry at a marine store as follows:

"D'ye buy rags and bones here?"

"Yes," was the reply.

WASH GLOVES IN SUMMER.

The question of gloves is a distressing one during the summer. They soil after they have been worn a few hours, and each cleaning adds to the expense. Kid gloves are extravagant in hot weather, for the moisture gives them an ungainly look and makes them split, but in these days of wash mois and other fabrics kid need not be considered.

Wash gloves are not as cool as silk ones, and the latter can be afforded the better because the present ones have hardy tips and they clean easily and well.

There are wash gloves for elbow sleeves as well as short ones, and none of these require more than five minutes at night to keep them fresh. They may be washed on the hands with warm water and a little soap, the fingers blown out after the glove is removed from the hand, and then pinned to a towel and left to dry over night.

Silk gloves come in most available colors this summer. Mouse gray is a good tone, as it sinks into the color of many gowns and gives a smart looking finish to the hand. Gray is a favored color for accessories, and one sees it in gloves, stockings, belts, cravats and parasols.

The deep tan glove is also serviceable, as it does not show soil easily, and also harmonizes with most gowns. Short silk gloves are considered in good taste with long sleeves during hot weather for many occasions, but the elbow silk ones have never been accepted by the smartly dressed woman, although the girls may like them.

CARMEN SYLVA'S SERVANTS.

Prominent among the 'friends' of whom she writes in her book, 'From Memory's Shrine,' Carmen Sylva, the Queen of Roumania, places a number of her old nurses and governesses, and various other retainers of her family. Some women who are constantly fretting over their servants and saying how the whole class of employes is ungrateful and untrustworthy should reads what this queen finds to say of those who worked for her and her ancestors. She opens one chapter, headed, "Two Old Retainers," with,—

'Faithful servants are no less important in a household that the members of the family itself. Are we not every moment beholden to them for our ease and comfort, so much in the routine of our daily lives that we can never be grateful enough for the pains they are at to make its machinery run well and smoothly. In our family this was certainly the case, very many of the old servants in my childhood being regarded by us as true and valued friends. Talking of this one day to one of my cousins, he exclaimed: "Ah indeed! What would have become of us poor children had it not been for the dear, good old servants?"'

She tells many an anecdote, pathetic or amusing, to show the devotion of the servants, some of whom had been in the family since her grandparents time, and some, in fact, descendants of servitors of a couple of centuries before. Masset, her father's valet was a dear old fellow, with a round, smiling face like a full moon, as good-natured as a big playful dog, always ready with some amusing story or harmless piece of fun, who when Elisabeth's brother had been locked up in his room for three weeks on a diet of dry bread and water for some offence, carried to the child slices so unnaturally thick that inside of each he could conceal butter and meat.

TEACH GIRLS TO WORK.

How many mothers make drudges of themselves that their daughtrs may enjoy life and have a good time, who persistently indulge their daughters in attitude toward work of any kind.

The deepest mother love prompts such training—or, rather, lack of training—but it is pregnant of harm and unhappiness for the daughter. The love that would spare her everything is deliberately handicapping her. She is allowed to grow up helpless and untrained; she is in no way fitted to cope with life and gain from the world her wage when she stands face to face with necessity.

From such homes as these, from such love as this, spring girls who become unemployable women, if the day arrives when they must go out into the world and seek work. The parent love is no longer there to shield and protect them, and they are forced to rely upon their own resources for self-support.

There are helpless and inefficient women going about the world drifting from one thing to another and utterly unfitted for any. They have all their faculties and they ought to be able to take rank as honest workers at some useful trade or profession, yet they remain unemployed because of the deplorable lack of training in their youth and a false standard of what a lady can afford to do.

A feeling for the dignity of work early instilled into girls would save many women from drifting into this condition. It behooves all who have to do with the training of girls, no matter how fortunately they are placed in life, to instil into their minds a sense of the dignity of work, and to impress them with the fact that any service is uplifting if performed with the proper spirit.

Train them early to fulfil certain appointed tasks, and if possible fit them thoroughly for some trade or profession. No one can tell but that they may have need of it.

AN AFTER SUPPER THUNDER "STORM."

Here's some homemade, individually applied thunder that will outthunder old Vulcan himself. You can produce it on nights when there isn't a cloud in the sky—right in the house, and only one person at a time will hear it.

Place a piece of string around the other fellow's head, taking care that his hands cover his ears. Then cause the string to vibrate by drawing the moistened finger and thumb along the string.

The effect will be that of a rolling peal of thunder, audible only to the person operated upon.

BELGIAN CHILDREN.

Parents share their Pleasures with Offspring.

This delight in the family life is characteristic of all Belgians. One sees in Brussels and Antwerp monsieur promenading in the boulevard or the bois with a cigar in his mouth, madame leaning on his arm and the children, hand in hand, walking sedately under the proud eye of their parents.

One finds children in the restaurants and children in the music halls. The pleasures of father and mother are shared always with the nursery. To go junketing without the children could appear to the Belgian not only selfish but dull. His happiness is the happiness of his children. He sees the circus half with his own eyes and half with theirs. The toyshops and bookshops in Brussels tell of the paramount part played by the child. The happiness of this people is the pleasure of domesticity.

FIREMEN AT BRAMPTON

The Provincial Volunteers Hold Twelfth Annual Convention.

Big Attendance Marks Gathering—Opens With Reception to the Delegates—President Skinner In Report For the Past Year Recommends an Increase In Salaries for Paid Officers.

Brampton, Aug. 8.—The Provincial Volunteer Firemen's Association opened their 12th annual convention in the Town Hall here yesterday afternoon. There was an unusually large number of delegates present from all over the province.

The convention was opened by prayer by Rev. A. Ward, pastor of the Brampton Baptist Church.

He was followed by Mayor Thauburn, who welcomed the guests on behalf of the corporation of Brampton. In his address he referred to the many outstanding features of the town, placing special emphasis upon the sanitary system and Hydro-Electric system, owned and operated by the town. Rev. Mr. Ward also welcomed the delegates on behalf of the local churches.

Chief Harmsworth of the local fire company followed, and in a few well-chosen remarks, welcomed the visiting firemen on behalf of the Excelsior Hose Company, and also the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company of Brampton, under whose auspices the convention is being held.

President Skinner of Niagara Falls presented his report for the year 1910-11. The report recommended that an effort should be made by the association to have an act passed at the next session of the Legislature confirming their incorporation as an association. The president made a strong appeal to the association to raise the salaries of the paid officers, if at all possible, showing that the salaries now paid were quite insufficient, and that some officers not now on the pay-roll should be included in the list of those now receiving remuneration for their services. The address also drew attention to the annual fee paid by life members and suggested that the fee should be lessened by one-half.

Quebec, Aug. 8.—A regrettable drowning accident occurred on the Jacques Cartier River Sunday at Val Cartier, by which a young man named Richard Aikens, 27 years old, lost his life. In company with his wife he went out for a row on the river, and later deciding to take a swim, left his wife in the boat.

He was not long in the water when he sank. The accident was noticed by his wife, who screamed for help, but when it arrived the unfortunate man was lost to view. The body has not been recovered.

Tragic Hunting Accident.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 8—Dr. Bertrand Muscott, 42 years of age, a physician and sportsman of Anacortes, was shot and killed by John Rogstead, a logger, who mistook him for a cougar.

The doctor and his wife were camping in the wilderness of the Olympic Mountains. Rogstead, who was working near the camp, heard a noise in the bushes, and suspecting, it was made by a mountain lion, fired.

Sorel, Que., Aug. 8.—Following the hostile reception given A. Lanctot at the Liberal convention on Saturday, local Liberals reassembled yesterday morning, and after further discussion a vote was taken which resulted in Mr. Cardin, his rival for the Liberal nomination, secured 41 votes to Mr. Lanctot's 34.

SAVED IN MID-OCEAN.

Ten Sailors From French Schooner Escape Death.

New York, Aug. 8.—Ten men rescued from the mid-ocean shipwreck of the French schooner Charles Henry were brought safely into port yesterday by the Wilson Line steamer Francisco. They were taken off the schooner by the Francisco on July 30 while the steamer was on her way from Hull, England, in latitude 48.10, longitude 24.50.

The Charles Henry, a three-masted topsail schooner, was bound from St. Pierre, Miquelon, for Havre, with a cargo of fish when she ran into a storm on July 26, and sprang a leak. For four days and nights the seven members of the crew and three fishermen aboard as passengers, worked the pumps, but the water gained as their strength lessened, and they were about exhausted when the Francisco sighted them on the evening of the 10th. A heavy northwest gale was blowing, but learning the schooner's plight Captain Clarke lowered the starboard life-boat, in charge of Second Officer Law, and after two perilous trips all those aboard the water-logged schooner were transferred.

Before the last man left the Charles Henry attempts were made to set her on fire so that if she floated she might not be a menace to navigation, but owing to the high seas these efforts were unsuccessful. Captain Pen and his men saved nothing but their clothing.

AYLESWORTH TO QUIT

Minister of Justice Will Not Run in North York.

Other Changes In the Cabinet Will Be Held Over Till Later—Macdonald of Pictou and Sir Frederick Borden Will Both Run, Although Latter Does Not Expect to Sit In House Again.

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—Whatever other Cabinet changes Sir Wilfrid Laurier may decide upon before the elections in addition to the replacing of Hon. L. P. Brodeur by Dr. Beland, the appointment of a Nova Scotia successor or Sir Frederick Borden is not among the immediate probabilities. Both Sir Frederick and E. M. Macdonald, who is to be the new Minister of Militia, are to be candidates, the former in King's and the latter in Pictou, N.S.

Sir Alan Aylesworth is not to run in North York. He has offered his resignation, which has not yet been accepted, but is to be.

The official explanation is that Sir Alan, in addition to his aural trouble, is suffering from neuralgia and wants a rest and treatment. He will probably leave the Government at once, T. C. Robinette to go after the North York seat. Who will succeed the Minister of Justice is not yet clear.

Hugh Guthrie of South Wellington has been training hard for succession, but A. H. Clarke of Windsor is also looming up as a possibility. Mr. Clarke has been threatening to retire and has been restrained so far with difficulty.

It is understood that Lord Strathcona has reserved the submission of his formal resignation as High Commissioner until he comes to Canada, which may be in two or three weeks. At all events it is his intention to be here to participate in the welcome to H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General.

After elections, should Sir Wilfrid Laurier be returned to power, his intention is, as has been known for some time, to appoint Sir Frederick Borden to succeed Lord Strathcona in London. The Duke of Connaught will arrive early in October and is expected to open the next Parliament.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier returned Saturday evening from Montreal, when he spent a busy day conferring with prominent Liberals in regard to the conduct of the Quebec campaign.

C. J. Doherty Nominated.

Montreal, Aug. 88.—C. J. Doherty was unanimously chosen as Conservative candidate for St. Ann's division at the party convention held in Freeman's Hall last night. Mr. Doherty in accepting the nomination made a fighting speech criticizing the Laurier administration and prophesying a Conservative victory.

T. Chase Casgrain was present at the meeting and confirmed the rumor that he would again enter Federal politics, although he did not say in what division he was likely to accept the Conservative nomination.

One Way of "Getting Even."

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State, has granted the 700 employes of the printing bureau here an increase of wages averaging $2 per week, and two weeks' holidays with pay per year.

Half a dozen men in minor positions at the bureau have been discharged, it is alleged, for participation in politics in Russell County. It is charged that they were supporting Geo. McLaurin, who is to oppose Mr. Murphy for the Liberal nomination on Aug. 15.

Portland, Me., Aug. 8.—A dozen of the officials of the Grand Trunk Railway, including Albert W. Smithers of London, chairman of the board of directors, and President Charles M. This tour is to be an annual event hereafter, as Chairman Smithers is to come to this country each year for the purpose.

Committed For Trial.

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 8.—Charles Hearst was sent up for trial yesterday morning on a charge of wilful murder laid by Chief Holmes. CENSURE VOTE FAILS

Unionists Try In Vain to Heckle the Government.

Members of British Opposition Charge Premier Asquith With Taking Advantage of King George's Inexperience In Asking Creation of New Peers—Galleries of the House Are Crowded.

London, Aug. 8.—The last phase of the fight over the veto bill designed to restrict the powers of the House of Lords over legislation originating in the lower chamber, was entered upon in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, when A. J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, moved a vote of censure on the Government.

The bill was rejected by the House of Commons last night by a majority of 119. The motion was introduced by Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, and its defeat is considered to have failed to improve the Unionist cause.

The gravamen of the Opposition's charges against the Government was that Premier Asquith had taken advantage of the King's inexperience to bring about an abuse of the royal prerogative by securing the guarantees before the last general election. Mr. Asquith easily disposed of this charge by showing that the Ministers had pursued an entirely proper constitutional course. The result was that after the Premier's speech the debate on the Unionist side virtually collapsed.

Frederick E. Smith and others of the "diehards" made brave attempts to fan the flames against the Government, but were compelled to fall back on the well-worn argument that the members of the Government were being driven by their taskmaster, John Redmond, and that their whole object was to secure the easy passage of Irish home rule.

Walter Hume Long, ex-chief Secretary for Ireland, challenged Mr. Asquith to reveal his conversations with King George, but Winston Spencer Churchill, the Home Secretary, who wound up the debate, declined to consider for a moment such an unusual request.

The chamber was filled to its capacity. Peers and distinguished strangers were present in large numbers.

The diplomatic and ladies' galleries were filled, the occupants showing by their presence a continued interest in the proceedings which promise to be historic.

Mr. Balfour's motion, of which he gave notice on Aug. 2, was as follows: "That the advice given His Majesty by His Majesty's Ministers, whereby they obtained from His Majesty a pledge that a sufficient number of peers would be created to pass the Parliament bill in the shape in which it left this House, is a gross violation of constitutional liberty by which among other ill consequences the people will be precluded from again pronouncing upon the policy of home rule."

The rival leaders were loudly cheered as they entered the room and Mr. Balfour received an ovation as he rose to present his motion rebuking the Government. The former Unionist Premier emphasized that he was conscious of the gravity of the situation and the seriousness of the step which he asked the House to take. He thought that it would be admitted that never in all its history had there been a more serious case or one which more urgently deserved or indeed required the consideration of Parliament and the emphatic condemnation of the Ministers.

"The Ministers," said Mr. Balfour, "have grossly abused their rights of advising the crown, and by abusing those rights put themselves above the constitution. They have acted wholly without precedent."

Not as Mr. Balfour conceived, in order to meet any great question of state, but "in order to further a party arrangement between different sections who support them, and in order to prevent the people of the country from pronouncing their opinion on home rule."

The Unionist leader asserted that the Ministry had placed the sovereign, who had just come to the throne, in a cruel position. The King was a fount of honor, but the Government, by their advice, had poisoned and corrupted the stream at its source. He dubbed the proposed new peers, "supers in this sordid drama."

Justifiable Homicide.

Montreal, Aug. 8.—A verdict of "excusable homicide" was returned yesterday morning by the coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Freda Adelman, the wife of a second-hand dealer of 141 West Craig street, who met death Saturday afternoon by a bullet from a revolver in the hands of her husband. The revolver was the property of Jos. Charles, a customer. Both Charles and Joseph Adelman, the dead woman's husband, were placed under arrest immediately after the shooting, but were released yesterday as the jury's verdict freed them from any blame.

Tied Up In the Fog.

Boston, Aug. 8.—About 3,000 men, women and children were landed from fog-bound crafts yesterday, and anxious friends and relatives, who thronged steamboat piers and yachting club floats, were delighted.

When the fog closed in about the Massachusetts shore late on Sunday pleasure boats, from excursion steamers to power boats, had to anchor.

Montreal Swelters.

Montreal, Aug. 8.—The heat yesterday was very oppressive, the thermometer standing at 90, and two deaths have been reported.

Jos. Larochelle, aged 60, succumbed to the heat in a boarding-house on Sanguinet street, and a man, as yet unidentified, was picked up unconscious on Cadieux street, and shortly after died at the hospital.

LONDON WILL SUFFER.

Transportation Tie-Up In Metropolis In Prospect.

London, Aug. 8.—The arbitrator chosen last week to effect a settlement between the employers and the striking dock laborers has given an award in favor of the men, but the dockers have decided not to resume work until the grievances of the coal porters and lightermen are satisfied. These differences are expected to be compromised within a few days.

Unless a settlement of the strike is speedily effected a serious situation will result. A strike was called Saturday of 30,000 carmen, coal porters and others, and thus the entire stoppage of London's transport trade is threatened. This would indirectly affect thousands of other workers and lead to a general cutting off of food supplies.

Big Tit-Up.

New York, Aug. 8.—Fifty British tramp steamers which are now in port here may be tied up indefinitely by reason of a strike ordered by the Sailors' and Firemen's Union of Great Britain. While the sailors on the vessels of the transatlantic companies sign for the round trip, the sailors on most of the tramp vessels sign separately for the journey each way. The union has issued a new wage scale embodying an advance all around and the seamen are instructed to refuse to sign except under the new scale.

Members of the American union are not allowed by their officials to take the places of the strikers.

Five Thousand Paraded.

London, Aug. 8.—Under ideal weather conditions, the biggest feature of the great London Old Boys' celebration, the parade, took place yesterday. Toronto, Hamilton, Detroit, Chicago, Winnipeg, had banner turnouts. The Toronto men, headed by the Foresters' band, made a fine appearance. Detroit also made an especially good showing, that section being headed by a huge Stars and Stripes and Union Jack carried side by side.

The "flag incident" of a few days ago, due to the removal of the American emblem from the street decorations did not cause any unpleasantness. The Stars and Stripes were in evidence on all sides, and at many points on the parade. British colors came in for the loudest applause, but the American flag was given a hearty reception.

Boy Scouts, Highland pipers and fraternal societies in uniform were some of the features of the parade. It is estimated that there are 15,000 visitors in the city, 5,000 of whom took part in the parade.

Fireman Is Rescued.

Toronto, Aug. 8.—Fire broke out in the factory of the Anchor Bed Co., Wellington and Niagara street, at 12.30 this morning, completely destroyed stock and building, and two firemen were injured in the fight to put out the flames.

Owing to the disorganization by the storm of the fire alarm system, the firemen found the flames far advanced in their destruction of the two-storey frame building.

Fireman Agnew Cluff and another entered the burning structure from the alley with a line of hose and Agnew, who was in front, had got but 15 feet inside when the roof above collapsed, falling through the floor above and pinning Agnew and Cluff, who was close at his heels, tightly to the ground under the still burning timbers. By heroic efforts he was rescued.

Big Total of Exemptions.

New York, Aug. 8.—Property in New York to the value of $1,596,208,879 is exempt from taxation and yields no revenue to the city treasury, according to a report made public yesterday. The exempt property is that owned by the city itself, the U.S. Government, churches, hospitals, charitable institutions and cemeteries.

Approximately one-third of the sum is represented, the report states, by the property of religious societies and institutions.

Terrible Record of Black Hand.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—A summary of the crimes committed by members of the so-called "Black Hand" in this city during the year 1911, made public yesterday gives a total of 18 murders, scores of stabbings and more than 100 bomb explosions, $500,000 collected in blackmail and the terrorizing of thousands by threats. With only one or two exceptions, none of the perpetrators of these numerous crimes have been convicted.

Charged With Forgery.

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—Lionel St. Louis, aged 20, a Hull boy, was drowned at Gatineau Point, opposite Rockliffe Park. He was playing around a boat with some other children when he slipped into the water unnoticed. The body was recovered.

Black Rust In Brandon District.

Winnipeg, Aug. 8.—Some black rust has made its appearance in the district around Brandon since Thursday. It is bright and hot to-day, which ought to relieve the situation. There is no damage, but the situation is critical.

The engineers in charge of the construction work of the Calgary branch of the G.T.P. were yesterday notified by the attorneys of the road that construction may be resumed. The injunction against the G.T.P. restraining them from crossing the irrigation lands of the C.P.R. will be dissolved and the crossings made.

Cocaine Fiend Gets Maximum.

Montreal, Aug. 88.—Bernard Foley, alias Howard, was arrested yesterday on a charge of having cocaine in his possession and offering it for sale. He was found in his room in St. Antoine street in an unconscious condition, and a box containing more than two hundred packages of the drug was found on a table.

Foley had just finished a six months' term in the Montreal jail for selling cocaine in the streets.

He was later arraingned in the recorder's court before Acting Recorder Leet and pleaded guilty to the charge. Judge Leet imposed the maximum penalty, a fine of $200 and three months.

Chatham, Ont., Aug. 8.—Henry A. Dawson, the Wheatley farmer who met with an accident while cutting grain, died at the hospital Sunday evening. Dawson, who was a bachelor, fell off his binder in the afternoon, becoming unconscious.

No one missed him, so that he remained lying in the field over night. When he was found he was still unconscious. He was removed to the hospital here. He never regained consciousness.

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 8.—Two men were scalded to death and two were seriously injured when a passenger train on the Seaboard Air Line plunged through an open switch and struck a freight train on a siding near here yesterday. MR. MANLEY'S NOTICE IGNORED BY THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Contract for the Erection of New Schools Signed by the Chairman —Peas System of Heating to be Installed in the New Buildings —Other Business of Importance Transacted

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening at which considerable business was transacted, including the authorization of the Chairman of the Board to sign the contract for the building of the two new schools by the successful tenderer Mr. Geo. A. Bennett. It was also decided, after some discussion, to instal the Peas system of heating The buildings are to be completed by the first of August, 1912.

The members present were Messrs. W. P. Hudson, chairman; J. H. Anderson, W. C. Reid, W. S. Smith J. F. Wills, C. M. Reid, E. J. Butler, T. E. Ketcheson, S. S. Moore, P. Harrison, A. J. McCrodan, B. Mallory, F. S. Deacon and W. N. Ponton.

NEW CHAIRMEN.

Mr. Mallory wes elected chairman of the Sites, Buildings ,and Repairs Committee in place of Mr. G. A. Bennett, resigned.

The resignation of Mr. Mallory as chairman of the Printing and Supplies Committee was accepted, and Mr F. S. Deacon was elected chairman.

NOTICE OF ACTION.

The notice of action against the Board by Mr. Thomas Manley against the erection of the schools was read and laid upon the table.

On motion the Board went into Committee of the Whole on communications, Col. Ponton in the chair.

Mr. Mallory moved that a number of plus and minus seats be procured.

After some discussion the matter of obtaining the requisite number of seats was referred to the Printing and Supplies Committee with power to act.

The notice against the Board by Mr. Manley through Messrs. Porter & Carnew, solicitors, for Mr. Manley was taken up and discussed.

Mr. Wills asked if the chairman of the Board had received any other communication in regard to this matter other than the notice read.

Mr. Hudson said he had not.

Mr. Wills moved that the notice be filed. Mr. S. S. Moore seconded the motion.

Mr. Hudson asked if it would be wise to consult a solicitor in this matter. Mr. Manley claims there are irregularities in the matter of Mr. Bennett's tender. Mr. Manley told the speaker he could save the Board $10,000 on the contract.

Mr. Wills—All tenders were right in every particular. An injunction could have been served, but it has not been done. He (the speaker felt perfectly free in going on with this matter of acting on the tenders for the building of the schools.

Mr. Hudson said that Mr. Manley had made statements which he, (Mr Manley) said he could prove. If this was true should not something be done to clear the matter up by a statement from Mr. Bennett

Mr. Moore was of the opinion that everything regular had been done in this matter.

Mr. Ponton stated that he had been informed that Mr. Bennett's tender was received on the evening of the 27th of July.

Mr. Diamond, the Secretary, said the tender of Mr. Bennett was filed with him in proper time, namely, the evening of July 27th.

In answer to an enquiry from Mr Butler, it was stated that Mr. Bennett's resignation as a member of the Board was accepted before the Board dealt with and accepted any tender.

Mr. C. M. Reid—Has a member of the Board a right to tender? Is there anything in law to prevent him from tendering?

Mr. Diamond—A member can tender, but he must resign before his tender is accepted. Mr. Bennett had done so.

Mr. W. C. Reid—Is there any possibility of further trouble in this matter.

Several members—No.

Mr. Ponton gave a general invitation to any person present to speak in Mr. Manley's behalf if they so desired. The invitation was not accepted.

The motion of Mr. Wills was then put and carried unanimously.

It was decided that the iron staircase and concrete flooring be changed and thereby secure a reduction of $3,750 in the tender.

HEATING SYSTEM.

Mr. R. Dawson, representing the Webster heating system, addressed the Board. He said the heating system by the firm he represented could change the air in the room 7 times per hour. The system can give 30 cubic feet of air per minute for each pupil, which is the required amount for a healthy condition. The speaker gave a list of the buildings where the Webster system of heating was in use.

Mr. W. Miller, representing the Peas system, addressed the Board, in reference to the heating system. He claimed that with the Peas system the school rooms could be heated properly at a lower cost than with other systems. The air can be changed when the fans are used 5 or 6 times per hour. The system was purely a system for schools.

Mr. Wills said the Peas system was less expensive and appears to have given general satisfaction. In his opinion it would be well for the chairman of the Sites, Buildings and Repairs Committee to investigate this matter carefully and report to the Board.

Mr. Deacon was of the opinion that the Peas system of heating should be adopted as it was a good system and had proved most satisfactory where used. It was a guaranteed system and also a cheaper system. He would like the question decided to-night.

Mr. Moore concurred with the former speaker.

Mr. Smith considered that the Webster system was altogether too expensive.

Mr. Wills moved, seconded by Mr C. M. Reid, that the contract with Mr. Bennett be signed upon his tender with the Peas system, but upon the condition that the Sites, Buildings and Repairs Committee have power to investigate the Peas system and the Webster system within two weeks and report to the Board, and the Board may deal with the same and change said contract to the Webster system if considered advisable.

Mr. Deacon moved, seconded by Mr. Anderson, in amendment, that we adopt the Peas system.

Mr. Hudson spoke in support of Mr. Wills' motion.

Upon a vote being taken the amendment of Mr. Deacon prevailed and the contract with Mr. Bennett to be signed on this agreement.

INSPECTOR OF BUILDING.

Mr. Smith spoke in reference to a local inspector being appointed during the erection of the buildings.

Mr. Wills considered it would be a waste of money to appoint a local inspector

Mr. Bennet stated that the architect would be here once or twice a week whilst the buildings are being constructed.

It was decided not to employ a local inspector, but the chairman and members of the Sites, Buildings and Repairs Committee would also supervise the work.

After Inspector Clarke had spoken it was decided that the public schools open on Tuesday September 5th instead of Friday, September 1st.

The question of when the two new schools should be completed was considered and a motion prevailed that they be completed by August 1st, 1912 and a penalty of $10 a day to be imposed if the contractor fails to have the schools erected by the time specified.

The Committee rose and reported The report was received and adopted

The Board adjourned until the 3rd Friday in September.

CLAIMS TO BE THE SMALLEST WOMAN

COLUMBIA, La., Aug. 7.—Caldwell parish claims to have the smallest woman in the world. She is Miss Jessie Franklin, 28 years of age, of 39 pounds weight and 30 inches high, well proportioned and bright. Her father, Ben Franklin, a farmer, traces his descent from Benjamin Franklin.

MISSING GIRL WAS FOUND IN A TREE

BETHEL, Me., Aug. 7.—Friends of Elsie M. Davis, the pretty Methodist Church organist, who was found last night in the woods where she had been wandering for five days, said today that her disappearance from her home was due to mental aberration caused by religious exaltation.

Miss Davis was found in the topmost branches of a pine tree delirious from hunger and thirst. Her long brown hair was hanging down her back and her clothing partly torn off. When her father spoke to her after she was taken down she showed no sign of recognition but inclined her head on his shoulder, making no other response.

Today, after a good night's rest and a small quantity of food, she appeared to have recovered her mental balance, but physicians refused to allow her to be alone.

G. T. P. a Big Factor

The exceptional demand for Farm Laborers in the Canadian Northwest to harvest the crop of 1911 is being actively taken hold of by the various Railway lines. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is comparatively a new factor in the field, and is putting forth every effort to relieve the situation, and are prepared to place as many as can be obtained in the territory contiguous to their lines in the West.

With this in view efforts are being made through their European organization to obtain help, and in addition they are operating excursions from points in Ontario and Quebec, tickets for which are available on August 3rd, 12th, 16th, 23rd and 25th.

Full particulars may be obtained on application to any Grand Trunk Agent.

Special arrangements have been made for the distribution to points where men are needed from Winnipeg by the Government for those not engaged before starting for the West. dtf wlt

PROVIDING AGAINST MOB VIOLENCE

Military are to Guard the Court House During Beattie Trial

RICHMOND, W. Va., Aug.—A company of militia, deputy sheriffs and the detectives who have worked on the great Beattie automobile murder mystery will be camped on the green at the Chesterfield court house during the progress of the trial of Henry Clay Beattie, jr., who is charged with wife murder.

The deputy sheriffs and detectives will sleep in tents so as to be on hand night or day during the progress of the trial, and the militiamen will be present to prevent any hostile attack upon the prisoner.

An indictment drawn with all the legal phraseology of the commonwealth has been drawn up, charging the killing of Mrs. Louise Owen Beattie, jr., to her husband. It is ready for the jurors to affix their names when they take up the Beattie case on Aug. 14.

Throughout the ordeal the aged father of Beattie and the aged father and mother of the murdered woman have retained their friendly feelings, the result of years acquaintance. Mr. Owen, the father of the slain woman, says he only wants justice done. Mr. Beattie, the father of the accused boy, declares his belief in his son's innocence and the two aged men are doing everything for the welfare of the motherless infant, which is now being cared for by the aged grandmother, Mrs. Owen.

On small hats, particularly aigrettes are triumphant among the trimmings of the moment.

BELLEVILLE BATSMEN BEAT BARACAS IN A WELL PLAYED GAME OF BALL

Toronto's Baracas Played Fast and Snappy Game—They Were First to Score and Held Lead to Seventh—Then they Had a Bad Innings and Lost the Game—Ashton's Pitching was too Much for the Visitors—A Large and Enthusiastic Crowd of Rooters

A large crowd of spectators gathered at the Driving Park yesterday afternoon to witness a game of baseball between the Baracas team of Toronto and a team representing the G.T.R of this city. The visitors were heralded as champions of the league in which they are playing in the Queen City, and they can certainly play ball, nothwithstanding the fact that they were defeated here by a score of 5 to 1. It was a good game throughout. The visitors secured their only run in the first innings, and the local team made 5 runs in their half of the seventh innings after two men were out. At least two of the runs were made as the result of wild throwing Ashton of the G.T.R. pitched an excellent game, having nine strikes out to his credit. Adams, for the visitors had fairly good control of the ball and with the exception of the seventh innings had good support in the field The G. T. R. had but four left on bases during the game while seven of the visitors were left on bases. Mr Patrick Logue was umpire and 'Pat' was certainly the right man in the right place. The play by innings was as follows:

FOUGHT THE EDITOR

He Came Back, However, and the Assailants Were Repulsed

A scene recalling some of the vicissitudes of journalistic life in the wild West was enacted in the editorial office of a Socialist journal in Paris. On the occasion of a recent visit to Rouen by President Fallieres, the editor, M. Ernest Morel, wrote a scathing reply to a manifesto issued by the Camelots du Roi. Four followers of this society called at the office and demanded the name of the writer. The editor made no secret that he was the author of the article, at which confession they fell on him with walking-sticks and beat him severely. A fierce fight ensued when some editorial assistants flung themselves into the fray, and finally expelled the intruders with the loss of two hats and two walking-sticks. In the struggle the office was wrecked, furniture broken, and desks turned topsy-turvy. After the battle was over it was found that M. Morel had a black eye and a swollen nose, and other injuries about the head. Two assistants were also injured.

Men Badly Needed

A conference was held in Winnipeg recently between Deputy Ministers of Agriculture for the Provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the Dominion Government Commissioner of Immigration dealing with the question of harvest laborers needed this year and the most conservative estimates place the number from 40,000 to 45,000. Government reports show that winter wheat in Alberta and earlier districts in South Saskatchewan and Manitoba will commence cutting before the 10th of August, and harvesting will be in full away by August 15th to 20th. The railway companies are taking action to cooperate with a view to obtaining the necessary labor, and in this connection the general agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific advises that that company take care of 4,000 or 5,000 along their line by August 8th and 9th, and commencing August 15th as fast as they can be obtained. d4t w1t

HOW DELAYED JUSTICE GOT AD DALRYMPLE.

"Abner Dalrymple," says Clark Griffith, "was a smooth old soul. He'd always pull in a lot of stuff for an outfielder and get by with it in a fashion that would cause a riot nowadays. Outfielders, you know, aren't counted on to do much in the deviltries and smooth tricks of inside baseball, especially on the defensive side but fellows like Tommy McCarthy and this Dalrymple person used to get into the game clear up to their necks and wholly independently of mere batting and fielding records too.

"Back in the early eighties when Anson was winning one of his first pennants—about 1881—old Abner turned a trick that pretty nearly won the flag for Chicago, as it saved a game which surely would have started the Colts upon the slide if they had been counted out of it. By all rights, too, they lost that game, and the pitcher who worked on the slab against them that day, if he is still living, is entitled to put it in his record book as won instead of lost and more he has the right to claim a changed percentage in the guidebooks.

"In the ninth inning of that afternoon, it had grown intensely dark, and you could hardly see the fielders, while a bank of fog was sweeping in from the lake. Two were down, the bases were full and Chicago one run to good. Boff! Bang!—The batsman fell hard upon the ball and it went whizzing in the mists that already overhung left field. Dalrymple leaped high, came down with his hands closely shut and ran off the field. The morning papers said it was the greatest catch of the season, but the ball may be going yet. It passed over Dalrymple's bean 20 feet high and over Dalrymple's head 20 feet high and had thought fast, acted fast and got away with it.

"Now listen to the tale how delayed retribution overtook Abner Dalrymple. It made the Milwaukee club the goat, into the bargain, but now that it has been over for more than 20 years I can laugh instead of being sore. I was with the Milwaukee club and so was Dalrymplle. We swung into the final week three games and a half behind Kansas City and Kansas City people were so sure that it was all over that they ordered a flagpole. Then some protested games were thrown out and we went to Kansas City to play and only half a game between the clubs. The flagpole had arrived and lay in the outfield on trestles—a piece of wood 150 feet long, a regular corker. We won the first of the series and the second would decide the argument. Thornston pitched for us and did good work; the innings flew by, and we came into the ninth 2 runs ahead with the pennant in our grip.

"Right here Kansas City made a dying rally. First thing we knew they had two on the bases but with two out and a rather feeble hitter at the pan. He swung, rapped the ball and started an easy curving fly to to left field. Old Abner backed up to the cinch and the infernal ball came down straight upon the extended fagpole, sruck it squarely and bounded at least 200 feet away. Before it could be recovered, the batter had scored, driving two men in ahead of him, and Kansas City had the flag. And thus, after many years, delayed justice came to foxy Abner Dalrymple."

THE TURF

SHERIFF SWOOPED UPON DETROIT RING.

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—After two heats of the M. & M. had been trotted yesterday at the State Fair's Grand Circuit meeting, a colony of deputy sheriffs invaded the betting ring and stopped all speculation on the races. About 20 warrants were served on bookmakers and pool sellers as well as on several speculators. The incident threw the ring into a pandemonium, and several heavy betters disappeared behind the bar in the rear of the great betting ring and sneaked to the remotest corner of the grand stand and quietly watched the sport for the remainder of the afternoon.

It was the first attempt to stop betting on the horse races in the state of Michigan, and just what it means is more or less a mystery, as the order did not come from Gov. Osborn nor from the District Attorney's office. Constable Fred. L. Woods of Highland Park township served the warrants, which were signed by Judge Randolph.

President Fred. Postal of the racing association, and Secretary Albert Moore accompanied the persons under arrest to the nearest Justice, half a mile from the course, and went bail for their appearance and disposition to-day. The State laws of Michigan are much the same as those of New York and if there is anyone to push the charges against Andy Welch and Jimmy Powers who have the betting privileges of the meeting the matter is a serious one. Well-informed men claim, however, that it is simply a case of jealousy and will "blow over" without further trouble.

On Monday the management of the Blue Ribbon meeting caused 26 "objectionable characters" to be taken into custody. These people are commonly known as "touts" and "yeggmen." They were given a hearing before a justice Tuesday morning, and some of them fined $5 or $15 and all taken to the city limits and "shooed" out of the city. It is thought the raid of yesterday was caused by complaint from some of the "touts" who had strayed into the city again and made complaint to the judge in the guise of reformers.

CARE OF PEACH TREES.

Selection Determined by Locality.

The varieties of peach trees selected must be largely determined by the locality in which they are to be grown, as some varieties thrive better in some localities than others. If convenient to market in many cases the earlier varieties are the most profitable, provided, of course, they are of good quality, but with peaches, as with almost every variety of fruit, if an extra fine quality is grown there is no difficulty in selling at a good price.

When grown more especially for home consumption select varieties that will give a supply through the longest season. Peaches are particularly a fresh fruit, and are best in season, and little or no effort is usually made to keep them any longer.

Peaches need a reasonably loose soil and will not thrive if grown in sod for any considerable length of time. The soil should be prepared in good time by ploughing and barrowing.

Peaches are so often injured by severe cold, freezing weather, that in a majority of cases spring planting is preferable to fall, but it is an item to make all the preparation possible in advance so that at the first favorable opportunity in the spring planting can be done.

PROGRESS OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES.

Ontario Makes Splendid Showing.

It is a maxim of trade that competition stimulates business. Apparently the principle holds true in regard to agricultural colleges, which have increased so greatly in numbers and in student attendance. Until about ten years ago there was no great gain made by the Ontario college at Guelph. Since that time the classes have grown larger every year, so that the present enrolment is nearly 1,000 with an additional 400 at the Macdonald Institute. This is a remarkable showing when it is considered that three other agricultural colleges opened in the meantime have narrowed its constituency somewhat.

THOUGHT IT WAS CANCER

Cured By "Fruit-a-tives"

SYDNEY MINES, N.S., Jan. 25th, 1910.

"For many years, I suffered torture from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited food constantly and I lost 25 pounds in weight. I was afraid the disease was Cancer, but medicine gave only temporary relief.

I read about "Fruit-a-tives" and the cures this wonderful fruit medicine was making, and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say "Fruit-a-tives" has cured me when every other treatment failed and I reverently say "Thank God for 'Fruit-a-tives'." FARMERS DOING WELL.

The Farmers of the Eastern Townships Getting Good Prices for Their Stock.

Here are some intersting figures from a report recently made to the United States Senate. They seem to show that our farmers understand their business and know how o make bargain better than some of our Yankee friends.

It appears that for the year 1910, the average value per head of horses was, in the States of Vermont and New Hampshire, $106.00. In Quebec the average value was $132.00.

The average value of dairy cows in Vermont was $34.20, in New Hampshire, $36.20, in Quebec, $31.00.

The average value of other cattle in Vermont was $14.40, in New Hampshire, $20.30, in Quebec, $31.00.

The average value of sheep in Vermont was $4.00, in New Hampshire, $4.70. In Quebec it was $6.00.

The average value of swine in Vermont was $10.00, in New Hampshire, $11.50. In Quebec it was $13.00.

Well done, old Quebec! First, pretty nearly every time!

FOREST WEALTH OF CANADA.

The central line of the forest belt of the Dominion may be described as starting from the vicinity of the Straits of Belle Isle and following a west-southwesterly course till it passes to the south of James Bay; then turning northwest it follows this course all the way to the border of Alaska, opposite the mouth of the Mackenzie River, the total distance being 3,700 miles.

The average breadth of this belt, on the basis of measurements at ten almost equal intervals, is 700 miles, giving an approximate ara of the northern forests, in which the black and white spruces are the prevailing trees, of 2,500,000 square miles. Bearing in mind that the great bulk of the paper consumed in the world is made from spruce wood, Canada has in the area mentioned the raw material to enable her to become the centre of the world's supply of paper. This subject will be reverted to later. For the moment some figures relative to the present values of Canada's forest crop are worthy of notice.

AN ERA OF PROGRESS

A Few Facts of Which We Are Entitled to Feel Proud.

Canada's trade in 1868 was $116,000,000; in 1910, $649,000,000, an increase in forty-two years of 459 per cent.

The exports then were $49,000,000. Last year they were $279,000,000, an increase of 470 per cent.

The imports then were $67,000,000. Last year they wre $370,000,000, an increase of 450 per cent.

It might be interesting to make a comparison between some of our exports then and now.

Take, for instance, animals and their products. In 1868 we exported to the value of $7,000,000; in 1910, $54,000,000.

Our agricultural exports in 1868 were $13,000,000. Last year they were $90,000,000.

The value of the total field crops of Canada last year was $533,000,000.

In 1868 we had $33,000,000 in our banks. Last year we had $925,000,000.

In 1868 the area of Canada was 327,524 square miles. Now it is 3,315,649 square miles.

We have only to consider these things for a moment to realize how far from the truth was the belief of Americans generally and the statements of some of their public men in 1866 to the effect that Canada could not prosper without the markets of the United States.

Golden Anklets for Bathers.

A curio shop at Atlantic City is offering for sale as a novelty anklets made of various materials, from gold to hard rubber. Some time ago, a well known lady was reported to have introduced the anklet style by wearing one of solid gold with bangles and the question "will the anklet become popular" was a subject for much discussion in sea side society. The Atlantic City dealer seems to have solved the question, for his circular reads in part: "The anklet will be the correct thing with all well dressed bathers this season. Call and see those of filagree silver, with or without extra ornamentation and made to fit any person."

Though Mr. Rockefeller regards his great wealth as a burden he bears up wonderfully.

CORONATION TATOO-WORK

Several People are Adorned With Patriotic Designs

Several people in London have been tattooed with Coronation designs, the favorite decoration being a likeness of the King and Queen, adorned on each side with flags. Among other patriotic and appropriate designs are the crown and cushion and the royal likeness, accompanied by the words, "God Save the King." Some of them pay as much as a hundred dollars for elaborate body decorations. "Many people bring in their own decorative schemes," the professor said, "and insist upon their being carried out to the letter. This, however, is sometimes exceedingly difficult when the design has been sketched by an unskilled hand. There is not the slightest danger of blood poisoning if the machine is treated with antiseptic fluid, and the operation is rarely painful unless carried out on a delicate part of the anatomy, like the base of the throat."

FREE FISH SUPPERS

ARE THE MEN THE WEAKER SEX?

Women Gaining Muscular Supremacy.

A college professor expresses the conviction that women are gaining the muscular supremacy over men. He attributes this to their taking a more active interest in outdoor sports, while the men are becoming indolent in that respect, and prefer being spectators to participants in athletic exercises. With their admitted superiority in all the arts and graces, including fluency of expression, and to add to this physical predominance, there seems to be little left for mere man but to plod unostentatiously along in the ranks of the producers, and continue to pass up his gross earnings to his mental and physical superior every Saturday.

TERRORS OF THE BLACK HAND

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—A summary of the crimes committed by members of the socalled Black Hand in this city during the year 1911, made public yesterday, gives a total of 18 murders, scores of stabbings and more than 160 bomb explosions, $500,000 collected in blackmail, and the terrorizing of thousands by threats. With only one or two exceptions, none of the perpetrators of these numerous crimes have been convicted.

During the month of March of the present year, four murders were committed near one street corner in what is known as "Little Sicily," alone. That month also was more than ordinarily proflic of bomb explosions, in all of which considerable damage of property was done.

During the trial of an Italian named John Algoni on a charge of sending a threatening letter through the mails, Judge Landis received a letter in which this threat was made:

"Discharge John Alongi or we will kill you as we killed the others."

Following one of the worst periods of Black Hand outbreaks, an organization of law-abiding Italians, known as the White Hand, was formed, the members thinking their familiarity with Italian conditions would aid the police in combatting the assassins. However, this organization proved to be of little assistance.

MAN AGED 77 SWAM 33 MILES

Capt. Jack Williams, a Montrealer, Suprises the People of St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 8.—Capt Jack Williams, of Montreal, 77 years old, and still an athlete, swam from Albany, Ill., to the East bridge in St Louis, just to prove that aquatics are positively the only sports that give health and strength to the body and prolong life.

"I swam a good 33 miles, and I feel fine," said Williams. "It's great sport to play in the water and swim great distances. It's the only way to keep young, and I feel like duplicating the trip again, and before I leave St Louis I think I'll do it."

Williams plunged into the water from the Alton wharf at 1 p. m.. He reached the Eads bridge at 9 p. m He waited there for several hours until an excursion boat carrying his clothes arrived. Upon the arrival of his clothes he joined Bill Clark and they celebrated. Williams has been on the seas from infancy. He was born in Portugal and has been in the United States since 1868. In 1882 at Montreal he defeated the expert swimmers of the world in a mile race. He covered the distance in 25 minutes and 9 seconds.

"I defeated Webb in that race. He always was a great favorite of mine and we chummed together. Recently some alleged experts have said that it is an impossibility to swim the English channel. Webb was a truthful man, and he did swim the English channel. It was to show a man of 77 years can out-do the would-be great swimmers of to-day that I swam from Alton. I think it's proof that Capt Webb swam the channel."

Williams said that when he was in Dover he thought of swimming the channel, but decided not to attempt it The tide changes make it an almost impossible swim, he said, and that is why he never attempted it. Williams says he has saved 36 persons from death in the water.

Following the winning of the championship in Montreal in 1882, Williams came to St. Louis and gave an exhibition at Creve Coeur Lake. He says a man named Cavanagh fell into the water there and he rescued him.

Williams, who has a remarkable physique for a man of his age, says that he owes it to swimming and rowing. He also exercises 10 minutes daily.

"I eat everything, drink a little and smoke a little, but none to excess." he said. "I want you to remember that a school education will not save your life if you are thrown into the water. Neither will all the praying you can do. It's a case of strike out and save yourself."

DEATH LIST

MRS. STEWART WILSON.

Word has been received here that Mrs. Stewart C. Wilson died unexpectedly at Winnipeg. Deceased whose maiden name was Gertie Moran was well known to many in the city She was a granddaughter of Mr. N S. Demill, residing on Grier Street Mr. Wilson has been seriously ill in the hospital at Toronto, but was able to leave yesterday for the western metropolis.

NEW UNION STATION IN WINNIPEG

A conspicuous architectural feature of the city of Winnipeg is the recently opened Union or Fort Garry station on Main Street at the foot of Broadway.

This building took several years in construction, and it was found necessary to enlarge on the original plans so rapid has been the city's development.

It is the first metropolitan terminal of the GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY, and serves also for a worthy home for the Canadian Northern to replace the old Fort Garry station nearby, which was destroyed by fire.

The contractors for the building were Messrs. Peter Lyall & Sons, Limited.

CURRENT COMMENT

LAUIRIER AND LOOT!

LAURIER AND LARGER MARKETS FOR YANKEES.

Vote for Borden candidates and Canada for Canadians.

The Grit cry, "Let the Farmer have his turn," is simply a blind to cover Grit graft.

What should be done with the offensive person who says: "Well, how does it feel after your vacation?"

Many leading Liberals who are substantial business and professional men in Belleville and Trenton are dead against reciprocity. They say "country before party."—Right.

Women residing in or travelling through New Jersey are forbidden to decorate their hats with any portions of birds, but they may use the milliners' bills if they so choose.

The Liberals claim all for the 'poor farmer. What about the working man in the city and the town? Will reciprocity with Yankeeland help him? Certainly not; or the Canadian farmer either.

The opposition to Lanctot, of house painting fame, within his own party was no joke. He was Laurier's favorite, but was beaten for the party nomination in his home town. The storm clouds are already threatening in Quebec.

The Grits of Frontenac who were prepared to nominate Mr. H. A. Calvin, formerly M. P. for that County and a Conservative, but who is said to favor reciprocity, have been gravely disappointed. Mr. Calvin has refused to be a candidate, and their last hope of defeating Dr. Edwards, the present member, has been blighted.

The Liberals of Sorel county are entitled to credit for swatting the unclean Lanctot, the Globe's protege who, that journal declared, was "insulted" when a disgusted electorate refused to listen to him when he impudently attempted to excuse himself before a public meeting at Sorel where is situated his (Government painted) home.

Sir George W. Ross, Senator, and formerly Liberal Premier of Ontario expressed the following opinion on reciprocity in a speech which he made in Toronto in November last. We quote from the Globe's report:—"The argument that reciprocity would offer an unlimited market to Canadians presented a fascinating picture but there was another side to it and he pointed to the losses that would inevitably be incurred on account of the surfeit of the home market by American goods. Especially he emphasized the effects a reciprocity treaty would have upon Canada's relations with the mother country."

In to-day's issue will be found a full report copied from the official report of the debate which was delivered in the House of Commons on the subject of reciprocity. Mr. Porter hit the Grit party hard, and adduced statistics which prove the prosperity of Ontario and the decay of adjoining states of the neighboring country. These facts and figures are worthy careful perusal and mature consideration, especially by those who have not yet come to a conclusion on the subject. Ontario's prosperity, be it noticed, has been in face of a very large migration of farmers to our western provinces. Mr Porter is to be congratulated on the thorough presentation of his case.

In England Mr. Gretton, M. P. for Rutland, entered an action for libel against Mr. J. Emery, Liberal candidate at the last election, and Mr Walker, printer, for issuing an election leaflet, alleging that Mr. Gretton had voted against the removal of the pauper disqualifications on the Old Age Pensions Bill. The defence was that but for the amendment being carried, against which the plaintiff voted the pauper disqualification would have remained, which was proved to be inferentially untrue, and a verdict was rendered for £125 damages. What would the damages be if some of the untrue charges made in Canada were put before an English jury?

The Globe's tariff theories all go by the board when an election campaign is afoot. The leading free trade argument of the Globe is that the consumer pays the duty. When arguing for a Nova Scotia fisherman The Globe is of a different opinion. For the year ending June 30, 1910, the Globe informed its readers on its front page yesterday, the Nova Scotia fishermen exported 73,244,372 pounds of fish, valued at $4,800,472. "But to do this they had to contribute approximately over $60,000 in duty to the United States." Will the Globe be good enough to say which of the arguments it wishes to stick to? It surely can't be greedy enough to want both, and allege that both buyer and seller may pay the duty.—Toronto World.

Bishop Fallows, of the Reformed Episcopal church, in New York, in the course of an opinion on reciprocity, disposes neatly and accurately of the annexation bogey. He says "there is no annexation element hidden in the proposed agreement," that "no portion of the British Empire is more loyal to it than Canada is," and that "to talk annexation is to touch the very apple of the eye of Canadians."—Globe.

And yet, despite Bishop Fallows' declaration, Champ Clark, President Taft (in thanking the Hearst paper for their annexation propaganda), the New York Times, the Minneapolis newspapers and a host of other witnesses in the States declare that there is an "annexation element in the proposed agreement." Bishop Fallows who is not unknown here, is not in the confidence of the U. S. negotiators who befooled the representatives of Canada into such a one-sided agreement. "Ne sutor ultra crepidam" would be an excellent motto for Bishop Fallows and other political clergymen to act upon.

Miss Skeeter's Death

When the summer sky is azure blue
When your heart is light and your love is true;
When you sole idea of a joyous lark
Is a slender waist in a spot quite dark;
When you have the place and the girl and that,
And you're sitting there for a quiet chat;
When you scratch and thrash, and slap and swear,
And you claw and slash, and he's not there.
If you want relief invest a quarter—
And SKEETER SKOOT will complete the slaughter.

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

THE WARNING OF MR. GEO. C FOX IS ONE THAT SHOULD BE HEEDED BY ALL.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal service rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained that there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon a speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the boweds and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my expreience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach and keep the system in perfect condition."

LETITIA

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

Copyright 1908 by the C. M. Clark Pub. Co. Boston, Mass. Used by Permission

The trembling girl sank still closer to his side. Slipping the coin into his pocket he braced himself for action. His intention was to knock the assailant down and rush for the door but he decided to move cautiously. Putting an arm about his companion's waist, they stood still with backs almost touching the wall and met the almond-eyes as they glared at them.

Suddenly, with a quick motion the Chinaman raised the weapon and advanced. At the same moment Grant's right fist shot out, hitting his opponent a terrible blow on the jaw and sending him to the floor. Then the three waiting fellows sprang forward simultaneously, but as many lightning blows felled them, when the Easterner sprang for the door, carrying the terrified, almost fainting girl with him. Then a fifth bounded from behind a screen and leaped toward them, a long knife in his uplifted hand.

By this time the Vermonter's fighting blood was boiling. With all his force he sent his right to the yellow jaw, and the victim landed, back downward, across a settee, fully ten feet away. It was a terrible blow Grant caring little whether he killed him or not, so determined was he to separate himself and companion from such surroundings. When they reached the door it was locked, but a couple of vigorous kicks broke the bolt and a moment later they were in the open air.

It was naturally expected that the incident would be heard from ere many hours had passed, but the joint proprietors, evidently fearing exposure made no complaint, and the affair so far as the young adventurers knew never came to light.

The Chinatown experience was but the first of a series of thrilling entanglements which were to make Grant famous in San Francisco and his home city,—experiences which, but for his ability to take care of himself, would have caused him unlimited trouble and perhaps his life.

A week later when on his way to the First National Bank, Grant was approached by a fashionably dressed man of about twenty-eight, with the accent of a Frenchman, who politely asked for a few moments' interview. The request was granted.

He desired to know if Grant was familiar with the history of the young woman in whose company he was so frequently seen.

The Easterner eyed him sharply.

"She is my wife," said the stranger.

"Indeed?" drawled Grant.

"And Meester Grant must deescontinue to engage de lady's time."

"Yes?"

"And leave de ceety witout delay."

"Yes—or?——"

"Unless he did so he would be most forcibly, humilatingly, and indefinitely detained in de police station.

Mr. Grant thereupon replied tha his birthright as an American citize included the freedom of every city i the nation, so long as he kept the letter of the law, and met his financia engagements. No authority had th privilege of dictating otherwise.

"But de law will not allow of d monopolizing of odder men's wives and he would give Meester Gran twenty-four hours to vacte de affections of his wife."

Alex decided that it was a case o blackmail, and determined to act i accordance with his belief. To th last remark he replied that he would consider and render a decision.

"When and where?" insisted th stranger.

"At ten o'clock next morning in th St. Nicholas reception room."

"Witout a scene?"

"Witout a scene." The business t be transacted as privately and quietl as circumstances permitted. At th same time Grant tactfully suggeste that if a monetary consideratio would bridge the matter he would b prepared to make satisfactory arrangements.

The Frenchman, however, would consider no offer in the way of a bribe he simply demanded that his wife b returned to him without delay. Bu the keen-eyed Vermonter detected a avaricious gleam in the stranger' eyes, as the hour of meeting wa agreed to, and when they parted i was with the understanding tha neither party would fail to be o hand.

The more Alex thought of the demand, the more he believed a reaso to be lurking in the background. Th Frenchman had not been trailing hi without a cause. He concluded ther was one or more behind the part who had approached him, and determined to sift the matter. For himsel he cared little, but that a lad should suffer at the hands of suc scoundrels,—and he did not for moment doubt Miss Whiting's purity —he would not for an instant stand He would appear to desire a compromise, draw the pretended husband out and then bring him face to face wit her against whom he had made s grave a charge. He felt sure that th fair Southerner would disprove al relationship, and should the claiman persist, it might be the part of wisdom to chastise him then and ther if only to demonstrate his confidenc in Miss Whiting.

It was a risky undertaking, but h felt sure of counteracting the charges as he had not been favorably impressed with the Frenchman's appearances, and he resolved to clear th young lady at all hazards.

requirements of the country and to enable the government to carry out these improvements in transportation and other facilities that tend so greatly to increase the trade of the country. All this is a decided change from the condition of the Canadian people at that time. Instead of a population of 2,000,000 odd people, we have now, it is estimated, about 8,000,000 people. All these things combine to place Canada in a position where instead of the United States, as in 1854, being the market by necessity of the Canadian people, Canada has, by the progress she has made along the lines I have indicated, converted the world to her markets and it may be truly said to-day that the wide world is the market and the natural market for Canada rather than the market of the United States alone. A very good illustration of the effects of reciprocity is contained in a statement issued by the Provincial Treasurer of Ontario for the year 1910. At page 8 of his financial statement he makes reference to the effect of reciprocity upon Canada when it was in force, and says:

"Now, what was the result of the reciprocity treaty of 1854? What happened then is likely to happen again because the conditions are similar. Quebec at that time lost most disastrously. Montreal lost heavily, the bulk of Toronto's traffic came in through New York, and so, in the same way our Northwest traffic will go by Minneapolis and Chicago, and I am doubtful about the result.

"Here are the figures as to the effect of that treaty at that time. The treaty was formed in 1854 and adopted in Canada towards the end of 1854, after navigation closed. The exports from Quebec in 1854 were $10,047,068; in 1855, $6,234,808; the decrease in exports being $3,812,260. The imports in 1854 at Quebec were $7,017,316, and in 1855, $2,930,224, a decrease of $4,089,092 in the first year of reciprocity. Quebec suffered most disastrously by that treaty, for Toronto and the west brought in their goods through New York instead of through Quebec.

"The shipping outwards at Quebec in 1854 was 1,558 vessels, carrying 693,588 tons; in 1855, 877 vessels carrying 408,994 tons; a decrease in one year of 681 vessels and 284.594 tons.

"At Montreal the exports in 1854—these are entirely different from those of Quebec—were $2,290,058; and in 1855, $1,914,412; a decrease of exports of $375,645. The imports at Montreal in 1854 were $15,264,328; in 1855 they were $12,256,245; a decrease of $3,008,083. The exports in 1866, that is the last year of the treaty ending 30th June, 1866, were $6,831,635, that is from Montreal. In 1867, the year after the treaty expired, the exports were $8,104,622, an increase of $1,272,987. Imports in 1866 at Montreal were $24,241,217. After the treaty expired in 1867, the imports were $28,139,283, an increase at Montreal after the treaty expired of $3,898,066. At Quebec in 1867 the exports were $167,000 less than in 1866, and the imports $186,586 larger.

"At Quebec in 1867 our total foreign trade was $2,750,000 less than in 1854, and although the foreign trade of Canada in 1867 was only $60,- more than in 1866, the trade via Montreal was $5,000,000 more in 1867 than in 1866, so rapidly was the direction changed, both on the coming into force of the reciprocity treaty and again on its termination, the decrease of exports and imports at Quevec in 1855 being nearly eight millions out of a total of seventeen millions, and of shipping from 1,588 vessels in 1854 to 877 in 1855."

If, under the conditions existing when the former reciprocity treaty was in effect, such results were produced, what may we expect under the conditions existing in Canada today? If the effect upon our shipping and transportation was so detrimental then when our trade was small, what may we not expect it to be when the trade of Canada has grown to its present enormous proportions. It has also been urged by members of the government that the adoption of this trade agreement will have the effect of largely increasing the exportation of Canadian products into the United States, and that the Canadian farmer will thus get a higher price for his products in the United States than he could get in the home or any other market. On that point, Mr. M. O. Hammond, writing in the Toronto Globe, puts the situation more clearly and concisely than I could hope to do. He appears to have given the subject a very great deal of consideration, and the fact of the article being written from the American standpoint commends it all the more strongly to the consideration of the Canadian people, as it intentionally exposes what will be the result in Canada if this pact goes into force. Mr. Hammond writes:

"The situation comes down to this therefore, under the free list bill, i it becomes law; the imports on many things to this country will not materially increase, but these will be what Mr. Underwood calls honest competition, and the producers of this huge amount of every-day necessities of life will be compelled to take a slice off their price. The New York World estimates that the saving to the consumers of the country by reason of this would run up to no less than $300,000,000 per year. That is worth saving."

If the American people are going to make a saving of $300,000,000 per year because of the importation to their country of the products of the Canadian farmers, and it is going to have the effect prophesized by Mr Taft of reducing the cost of living in the United States, I would like to know how it can be figured out that the Canadian farmer is going to obtain higher prices for his products in the United States than he could obtain in Canada. Now in Ontario the industry of horse-raising has of recent years grown in importance until it is now admitted to be one of our leading agricultural industries. And the Live Stock Journal, a non-political paper, in its issue of the 2nd of March, 1911, publishes the following:

"Mr. C. A. Burns, of the firm of Burns & Sheppard, and the writer, figured out that not less than ten million dollars worth of horses are handled in eastern Canada every year.

"So brisk has been the demand for horses all through Canada during the past few years that prices for blocky and heavy horses and good express horses are higher in Canada to-day than they have been in the past forty years, and so keen has the market been in the west that it has not been unusual for a single horse to sell for $350 and teams for $650 and $700. One buyer paying the sum of one thousand dollars the other day for three heavy horses in Toronto, while ordinary horses run $200 and $250 a piece.

"Buffalo is the best horse market in the United States at the present time, but even in the Buffalo horse market neither the quality nor the price is at all equal to the Toronto horse market.

"In the Chicago horse market the class of horses is inferior and the prices are not at all to be compared with the Canadian prices.

"In St. Louis the principal run of horses is the range raised horses, bronchos and mules, and the prices are more than 25 per cent. lower than in Toronto.

"The reciprocity agreement would injure the horse business in Canada in two ways; first, it would reduce the price; second, it would lower the quality.

"If the duty was taken off horses coming into Canada, the west would soon be flooded with inferior range horses from Chicago and St. Louis markets and the western farmers, while getting horses cheaper, would be supplied with horses far inferior in quality to the Ontario horses.

"To allow cheap, mongrel-bred and inferior horses from the United States to be shipped into Canada free of duty would be nothing short of ruin to the horse breeding industry and ruin to the horse handling business of both east and west."

Now, I will submit to the House a few illustrations of the benefits that the boasted big market of ninety millions of people offers to the Canadian producer. It must be apparent to any one that if the ninety-million market of the United States is to be such a boon to the Canadian people as to afford them an opportunity of all becoming rich, then by parity of reasoning it ought to be just as apparent that the people of the United States, who have had every advantage of that market during many years, ought at the present time to be rich enough themselves, or at least to be in as good or a more favorable condition than the people of Canada. They are nearer to the market, it costs them much less for transportation, and before a single Canadian can get into the American market with the products of his farm, or at the same time, 90 of the United States producers will be coming into the Canadian market to destroy the home market that he has here. Let me make a comparison of the production and the profit per acre of different classes of grains of the American farmer as against the Canadian farmer. I do that for this reason. It is almost impossible to find for any State in the Union as near the exact number of acres of the different classes of grain under crop that I can find to be under crop in Canada, and I have therefore been obliged to take the production per acre in the respective countries for this purpose. Let me compare the production of one acre in the banner State of New York with the production of one acre in the banner Province of Ontario. In wheat, in Ontario the average production was 24.1 bushels per acre and the average price per bushel 88.2c., so that the value of an acre of wheat to the Ontario farmer was $21.15. In New York State the average production of wheat was 21 bushels per acre and the average price 94.3 cents per bushel, yielding to the New York farmer $19.74 per acre, or a difference in favor of the Ontario farmer of $1.41 per acre. In oats the average production of the Ontario farmer was 23.5 bushels per acre and the average price 37 cents per bushel, realizing to the Ontario farmer $12.21 per acre. In New York State the average production per acre was 28.2 bushels and the average price 41 cents per bushel, giving a total of $11.48 per acre, a difference in favor of the Ontario farmer of 73 cents. In barley, the average production per acre in Ontario was 27 bushels and the average price 4 cents per bushel, making the value per acre $14.58. In New York State the average production per acre was 24.8 bushels and the average price 60 cents per bushel, making a total value per acre of $14.40, again in favor of the Ontario farmer to the extent of 18 cents per acre. Take potatoes: in Ontario the average production per acre was 149 bushels and the average price 45 cents per bushel, or a total value per acre of $68.54. In New York State the average production per acre was 102 bushels and the average price 48 cents per bushel, or a total value per acre of $48.96, showing a balance in favor of the Ontario farmer of $19.58 per acre. According to the latest statistics that I have been able to have access to, I find that New York State produced of wheat and corn in the last 8 years for which statistics are given, from 1900 to 1908, 1,224,000 bushels at a value of $26.510.000. Ontario produced during the same time 1,028,240 bushels valued at $27,769,000. So that it will be seen that although in wheat and corn Ontario produced 96,000 bushels less than was produced in New York State, yet the Ontario farmer received for his product $1,259,000 more than the New York farmer. Let me offer another comparison, one between the State of Michigan and the Province of Ontario, in regard to farms themselves, the value of and the encumbrances upon the farms and the value and encumbranches on the live stock of the farms. In 1898 there were in the Province of Ontario 177,000 farms valued at $556,246,569, exclusive of buildings; and in 1908 there were 183,000 farms, an increase of 6,000, valued at $67[illegible],431,018, an increase in value in ten years of $115,285,449.

Let us look at the records of the State of Michigan, which is the nearest approach to the Province of Ontario in the number and value of its farms. I find that in Michigan in 1898 there were 175,000 farms, and 177,000 in Ontario. Ten years later, in 1908, the number of farms in the State of Michigan had increased from 175,000 to 178,000, whereas in Ontario in the same period, the number had increased from 177,000 farms to 183,000. In other words there was an increase of 6,000 in Ontario as compared with an increase of 3,000 in the State of Michigan, and both are

Bourassa on Laurier and His Ministers

Corruption, Perjury, etc., Charged

The election campaign in the Province of Quebec was opened on the 6th inst. in the city of Three Rivers, at which Mr. Monk and Mr. Bourassa were the principal speakers. Mr. Monk, as is his wont, was mild in his statements, but firm and clear in his opposition to the Laurier administration of affairs and future policy. Mr. Bourassa, on the contrary, was fiery and indulged in language, in condemnation of Laurier and his political administration of the affairs of Canada, not to be misunderstood.

The Intelligencer has not, as is well known to its readers, any sympathy in much that Bourassa advocates, but in his opinions as expressed, of Laurier and those by whom he is surrounded and whom he cherishes and keeps alive, it is in full accord.

It may be remembered that Mr. Bourassa was the intimate personal and political friend and ally of Sir Wilfrid, and that he followed his chief faithfully until driven from the fold for daring to have opinions and expressing them in condemnation of dishonesty and political maladministration of public affairs and the grafting and plundering of public resources that was unblushingly practiced and defended by his chief.

He then cut his connection with Laurier, and at Three Rivers gave his reasons therefor. A few of them we clip from his speech and commend them to all Liberals, who, if honest, will profit by them. Among other things he said what the country wanted at present, above all things, was an administration honest and clean, and that lay in the hands of the people, who now had their chance. In so doing, they should think of principles only, and not of party, and, if they did not follow out that rule, they did not merit a vote, but deserved to be treated as slaves. What had been done in 1896 to the Conservatives they now had the right to do to the Liberals—ask the Liberal voters to aid them in the fight against robbery.

On the Oliver affair he remarked that Oliver had drawn money to distribute to his friends to run the elections. Laurier at the time of the Caron affair had demanded justice, but now in the Oliver affair he and his friends had not the same ideas of justice and had perjured their oaths of office. The only justice was to furnish a political malefactor rouge or bleu, and in 1911 the reds ought to be punished as the blues were in 1896.

He then advised the electors to banish Laurier from power, whom he accused of shirking the Oliver enquiry and dissolving the House. He attacked him for his hypocritical attitude towards the French and English and advised the electors who had the chance to punish him now.

He concluded by denying that he had ever preached race strife, and ended by a strong appeal for patriotism, the preservation of conscience and the abolition of party.

The conclusion of his speech, says the report, was greeted with a storm of cheers, which lasted several minutes.

The applause which followed the condemnatory utterance by Mr. Bourassa of Laurierism gives some hope of a change in the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Monk, in his speech, was not quite so severe, but equally condemnatory of the Government. He said:

"The Government had adopted a system of indifference to the public good." Mr. Monk brought up the reciprocity pact, saying: "In order to skilfully divert public attention and assuage general discontent, the Cabinet has just concluded, under the most hasty and improvident conditions, a tariff convention with the President of the United States, and it hopes that this convention will insure the burial of all the questions which it has been incapable of solving, by concentrating the attention of the electorate upon this convention to the exclusion of the grave problems which must come up at once for the consideration of Parliament.

"With unseemly haste, our ministers precipitate the conclusion of a tariff arrangement, without consulting Parliament or the interests concerned, without awaiting the tariff revision promised to the Americans by the trimphant Democratic party. They forgot that this revision was destined to give up all the required advantages without any compensation on our part. They forgot, also, in tumbling over each other in the rush to Washington, that fourteen other nations would claim the same advantages as the Americans and give us nothing in return."

Liberals, weigh all these utterances well.

Is it Possible

W. Andrews Collins, president of His Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans, of Toronto, in a letter to the Mail and Empire on the 7th inst., says:

> When I, as president of H. M. Army and Navy Veterans, asked Sir Frederick Borden to help us to pay for our monument, which we have erected to the comrades who fell in 1812 to 1815, he replied saying he could not give anything, as it would offend our American brothers.

Is it possible that British Canadians have become such sycophants as to object to honoring our brave dead, who died in defence of their country, for fear of offending "our American brothers?"

Corruption Still Rampant

New Brunswick papers say Mr. Pugsley has written to Dr. McAllister, of Kings-Albert, to say that the Minister of Railways and he have decided to pledge themselves that the federal Government will introduce legislation to take over the Salisbury and Harvey road in Albert County, at $120,000, or lease it, and in this way secure the operation of the road over its entire length.

This road is a bankrupt concern, and though built principally with public money in the form of bonus, has never earned enough to keep it running. Now, on the eve of an election, the Riding is to be bought by the Government. Pugsley is a past master in—well, call it what you like.

Able and Convincing Speech by the Member for West Hastings in the House of Commons—The Grits Squirmed When their Past Record was Raked Over—Telling Comparison Between Canada and Adjoining States—Facts and Figures Which are Worthy of Study

Following is the official report of the speech which was delivered in the House of Commons by Mr. E. G. Porter, M.P., on the subject of reciprocity:

Mr. E. GUSS PORTER (West Hastings).—At this late stage of the debate upon this very important question the members of the cabinet seem to be exhibiting their insatiable desire for information and their undying interest in their country, by, with the exception of three of them out of fourteen, being absent from the House; these three ministers being supported by the presence of fourteen Liberal members out of a total of 135. That is not a very inspiring thing for the member who is addressing the House, and I am sure that if the people of the country knew of the interest the government is exhibiting in this important question they would not be very well satisfied with such a condition. Why this government should with such undue haste endeavor to force this measure through parliament at this unseasonable time of the year, and, to use a crude expression, cram it down the throats of the people of this country, one is at a loss to understand. It suggests, to put it in the mildest form, that there must be some sinister motive behind the whole thing; something more than an interest in the welfare of the country that is actuating the government to press this measure with such undue haste now.

The opposition have taken occasion as it was offered to criticise, as appeared to them to be just and warranted, this measure when it has come before the Chair; and because they have had the boldness to express their condemnation of it, hon. members of the government and the press supporting the goverment have seen fit to apply to us the name of obstructionists. Well, Sir, if the fair discussion of this measure, and the offering to the people of this country of the honest conviction of the opposition in this House, and pointing out in their judgment the disastrous effects which the passing of this measure through parliament will inflict on this country, entitles the opposition to the appellation of obstructionists, then, Sir, I for one am perfectly willing to be called an obstructionist. I think, Sir, it is preferable to be called an obstructionist under these circumstances than to be called by a name that would fittingly characterize the conduct of any government that would try, as this government is now trying, to force such a measure through parliament and upon the people of this country, against their wish, and without affording them an opportunity of expressing their opinion upon it. I have had the privilege of occupying a seat in this House for a period of upwards of ten years, representing during that time a constituency containing a population of upwards of 40,000 people. I have always believed it to be the privilege of those 40,000 people, in common with the other loyal citizens of Canada, to express through their representatives in parliament their opinion upon any legislation that might be introduced here. I do not mean simply that the voice of the representatives of the people should be heard, but that it should be effectively heard, according as the arguments adduced by that hon. member, the reasons given by him for his opinion, might meet with favor from hon. members of this House and the country as a whole. I have always understood that to be one of the first principles, the main spring as it were, of representative and responsible government. But, Sir, when this trade agreement was introduced in this parliament, in the manner in which it was, the opinion which I had held for so many years received a very rude shock, and I was almost inclined to ask myself, are we living today in the dark ages, when responsible and representative government was unknown, or are we living in the twentieth century, which has been said to belong to Canada? If one would yield to the feeling imposed upon him by the action of this government in relation to this matter, I venture to say that he would feel that we were living in the dark ages. It has been the proud boast of the Canadian people to-day, that we have the freest form of responsible government; and, Sir, when without warning and in a single instance almost, there is forced upon this parliament and upon the country a bargain, an agreement, a pact, or whatever it may be called, made by two hon. members of the government, without a mandate from the people, without a warrant from this parliament, then I say that our proud boast of responsible government has just about diminished to the vanishing point. A great deal of time has been taken up by hon. members of the government, and particularly by the hon. Minister of Agriculture, in the speech which he addressed to this House some time ago, in an attempt to convince parliament and the country that the opposition members of this House were opposed to any negotiations being carried on with the United States with a view to improving the trade relations between Canada and that country. I have listened during the course of this debate to a great many of the speeches that have been made by hon. members on this side of the House, and I have read a great many more, and I say without hesitation that I have never heard nor have I read in any of those speeches any expression of opinion or idea to justify that statement. On the contrary, it is not the desire of the opposition as I understand it, speaking for myself at any rate, that negotiations with the United States should not be carried on for the purpose of bettering trade relations between these two countries. That is not what the opposition object to; but what we do object to is the making of a hard and fast agreement with the American people, and that without warrant from parliament, and then bringing that agreement before parliament without affording an opportunity for amendment or for the alteration of a single line, a word, or even a letter; telling the hon. members of this House that that agreement must be given effect to, in every word, every line, and every letter, just as these two hon. gentlemen have seen fit in their wisdom to make it with the United States. It is, however, in view of these circumstances, somewhat refreshing to know that all hon. members on the government side have not felt themselves bound to such an extent by party allegiance as to sacrifice what they believe to be in the interests of this country for the sake of advancing the interests of the political party to which they belong.

Those hon. members on the government side who had the courage to stand up in this House, and denounce this pact deserve credit, and the thanks of the people of this country.

Nearly every hon. member who has spoken on this question has referred to the language used by the President of the United States in discussing this matter before his people as regards its relation to Canada. The President, Mr. Taft, said that Canada stood now at the parting of the ways. In view of the history of the last forty-six years, it seems to me that Mr. Taft chose very unhappy language in which to express his ideas. And when he compared himself to a second Rip Van Winkle, I think he was not far from the truth because apparently he has been asleep for a very long time if he imagines that Canada is now only at the parting of the ways. Why, Canada was at the parting of the ways some forty-five years ago when the old reciprocity treaty between this country and the United States was abrogated. Then was the time when the Canadian people had to make a choice between adopting a policy which would lead them into a stronger, and a firmer alliance with the mother land—a stronger federation with Great Britain—or whether they would choose the opposite course which would lead them into freer trade relations and ultimately into political annexation with the United States. Then was the time when Canada was at the parting of the ways. She then made her choice, and subsequent events during the past forty-five years have fully demonstrated that the choice then made by the Canadian people was a wise and patriotic one. It is true that when that choice was made, it did not promise very much for the Canadian people; and perhaps if they had been actuated by the sole desire to benefit from trade relations they might have made a different choice, but there was something more in the Canadian mind, and heart, than mere commercial advantage, and a simple desire for pecuniary benefit. Canada, therefore, chose to stand by the mother country. True, for a long time the course which Canada then adopted was not an easy one. True, it was beset by many obstructions—not only natural obstructions, but artificial ones placed there by the American people in the endeavor if possible to wreck the Canadian confederation, and destroy the connection between Canada and Great Britain. During

THE ENERGY FOOD

The Vim and Vitality One Gets From Oats

There is something in oats which creates spirit and energy. No other grain can bring results like them. Everyone knows what oats do for horses. They have the same effect on man.

An extract of oats is employed as a tonic. A diet of oats multiplies one's vitality. That's why energetic men—men of vim and spirit—are said to "feel their oats."

In Quaker Oats the finest oats—Canadian grown—are subjected to 62 siftings. Just the rich, plump grains are used. There is only ten pounds of Quaker Oats in a bushel.

These grains have the maximum of richness and energy. They are also the most delicious. To eat Quaker Oats once a day for a month will show to the limit what tonic effects, what bubbling vitality one can get from oatmeal. One never knows how good oat food is, or what it can do, until he tries Quaker Oats.

AMERICANS DUMPING SHEEP INTO CANADA

And still the Yankee sheep are coming into the Toronto stock yards More are coming. They will soon be here in thousands and thousands First of all read this:

Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post: The census bureau has issued its report on sheep. This shows that the total number of sheep and lambs in the United States has not increased in the last decade, and the number of wool-producing sheep has slightly decreased. In the north Atlantic division of states the decrease is a million head, or forty per cent. In the south there has been a decrease. In the north central division the number has remained stationary. In the far west there has been an increase of a million head, three-quarters of which occurred in Montana. Many American farmers are going out of sheep.

Why? One reason is because if schedule K (the United States duty on wools and woollens) is reduced—and the two houses have already passed a bill to that effect, but which the President has yet to sign—there will be no encouragement to the wool-grower and he will go out of sheep, is now going out of sheep, and it is these sheep that are now coming into Toronto paying a dollar a head duty. Yes they will come in by millions under the free entry terms of reciprocity! Millions of sheep will now be got rid of by the American farmers. Reciprocity will make Canada the dumping ground! It means at least a drop of $1 to $2 for every sheep the Ontario farmer has to sell. There is no "wider market" in the States for your sheep! Ask the men who deal in sheep.—Toronto World.

"WHOA, CABBAGE," BAFFLES COPS

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Peddlers, who a couple of weeks ago went on 'strike,' and created great disorder because of the passing of an ordinance prohibiting them from crying their wares have found a loophole.

By changing the name of his horse each day to conform to the shifting in trade, each of the 4,000 peddlers is managing to approximate the working conditions of other days without breaking the law.

"Whoa, Cabbages." "Whoa, Cabbages," yelled a huckster as he led his horse down a ghetta street yesterday He was continuing with the monologue, driving bargains with the housewives between times, when a policeman hove in sight.

"You're breaking the law," suggested the officer.

"I ain't breakin' nothin'. It's my horse's name. I'm saying Cabbages."

that forty years Canada has passed many mile-posts, not ordinary mile-posts, but monuments of progress that are bound to last forever to the glory of this Dominion. During all these years we received no encouragement, not a bit of assistance, from the American people who are now so anxious to bring us into a closer alliance with themselves. Throughout all these years, the Americans, instead of holding out the hand of friendship to us in return for the hand of friendship we offered them, steadily opposed Canadian interests, and endeavored to force Canada into such a position that we would be obliged sooner or later to join our fortunes with those of the republic. It is certainly something which Canadians may well be proud of that they were able, in spite of all these obstacles, and obstructions placed in their way by the United States, in spite of all these coercive efforts, to steer clear of these obstructions, and go ahead on a firm and solid foundation with full steam upon the engine of prosperity, and with that engine headed towards the motherland, in the endeavor to bind still closer the ties that have always existed between us and Great Britain. Canada, at the time of the abrogation of the old reciprocity treaty in 1866, was not in the position she occupies today. Conditions then were very different from what they are now. At that time we were not a united Dominion as we are to-day, and had not then the vast extent of productions from the farm which we now have. We had not then the means of transportation we now enjoy nor had we the population or the wealth. In fact our position was such that the total revenues of this country were insufficient to meet its wants.

When the reciprocity treaty first came into force there were special reasons why the United States desired a closer trade relationship with Canada. The fast approaching civil war in that country made it most desirable that it should have a friend close at hand, and a source of supply. Canada then offered the greatest inducements in this respect. At that time also was effected the change of policy in Great Britain, under which the corn laws were repealed, and free trade inaugurated. All the advantages that previously existed in favor of the British colonies were practically wiped away, and Canada was not in a position to compete with other countries in the markets of the world through her lack of transportation facilities. The conditions then were such that reciprocity with the United States was about the only thing that could help Canada.

Although the conditions were such as I have described, yet it took eight years of constant negotiations between these two countries to bring about the treaty of reciprocity that went into effect at that time. A great deal has been said in this debate of the advantages that Canada derived from that reciprocity treaty. There were special reasons for that. Prices during a part of that period were inflated. Prices in the United States were better than could be obtained in Canada, but that was owing to the civil war in the United States. The effect of that struggle was to take from the fields of agriculture and production a very large portion of the workers and to put them into the field of battle with the result that production in the United States fell off so that the wants of the people could not be supplied and the products of the Canadian people were at a premium in the United States. But it was not a continuous period of prosperity by any means. During the time that that reciprocity treaty was in force, the first bank failure in Canada, that of the old bank of Upper Canada occurred. That was not due to the prosperity brought to Canada by the United States, it was owing to the circumstances in which Canada found herself at that time. But the moment it appeared to be necessary to the Canadian people and they undertook to exercise their undoubted right of putting on a duty and raising a revenue, just that moment, when it ceased to be to the interest of the United States to have that treaty continued with Canada, they repealed it. It did not take eight years to repeal it as it did to introduce it; notice was given just as soon as their interest in reciprocity and in Canada ceased. Sir, history is about to repeat itself, in my judgment. If this treaty comes into force it will be taken advantage of by the American people, just as they took advantage of the old reciprocity treaty only so long as it is to the advantage of the American people alone. The moment it is perceived that the American people cannot derive from it the benefit that they anticipated, we may rest assured that the Americans will serve notice that this agreement shall no longer be continued in force between these two countries.

It appears to me, after giving this question considerable consideration, that the government of the day in introducing this agreement is reversing not only its well known and adopted policy of protection, but is also reversing its often declared policy upon this very question of reciprocity. It will be remembered that only a few years ago the Liberal party in presenting this policy of reciprocity began by introducing it at the big end, under the title of unrestricted reciprocity. In 1887 the gentlemen composing this government were advocating as strongly as they possibly could and asking the people to approve of a policy then known not as unrestricted reciprocity, but as commercial union, another attempt to introduce the same principle by the big end. The dangers to Canadian nationality, the danger of destroying British connection, the danger of injury to the trade of Canada was then made too apparent to the people for them to be induced by the arguments of the Liberal party of that time to adopt either of these principles, in 1887, when the policy of commercial union was urged upon the people, or in 1891 when it was urged under the title of unrestricted reciprocity. It is to be noticed that in the endeavor of the Liberal party to force those policies upon the country that party was not in a position to have such a policy forced upon the people, by reason of the fact that they were in opposition, and they were obliged, owing to these conditions, to submit the matter to the will and opinion of the people. At that time the expression of opinion was not at all uncertain, the sentiment of the Canadian people was clearly and without hesitation or doubt expressed and both times the Liberal party, forced to appeal to the people of Canada, were defeated. I venture to think that the right hon. gentleman who leads the government (Sir Wilfrid Laurier) has profited by the experience of those two efforts.

He must be convinced that any policy which has a tendency to lead to annexation with the United States, or to weaken the bonds existing between Canada and Great Britain, is not a safe policy in the hands of the Canadian people. I am persuaded, too, that with the right hon. leader of the government, taking advantage of the position which he holds to-day, and recognizing how futile it would be to submit such a policy as this to the electorate of Canada, is now trying to force this resolution through parliament and denying to the people the right to pronounce their opinion upon it. At the time when those two policies of commercial union and unrestricted reciprocity were being advocated by the Liberal party in this country, some very interesting literature was circulated by them amongst the electors. I have in my hand one of the pamphlets issued at that time entitled "facts and figures for farmers" and I propose to read from that campaign literature a few extracts to show the feeling of the Liberal party at that time upon this question. At page 12 of "Facts and Figures For Farmers," they say:

"The growth of manufactures in the States as the result of protection makes it absolutely necessary that goods must be sent outside instead of money in exchange for natural products."

That expression shows, I think, the drift of this agreement as respects the interests of the American people. Get the natural products of Canada into the United States for manufacturing purposes and for the employment of American laborers, and send into Canada their manufactured goods in exchange, instead of money, to the ruin of the manufacturing industries of Canada. It proceeds:

"These goods cannot be sent freely so long as the tariff wall shuts them out. The growth of the agricultural areas in the United States would also oppose the introduction of free agricultural products unless the manufactures were admitted free into Canada also, for in the creation of these latter a home market is maintained for the American farmer."

The Americans are always anxious to preserve the home markets for the American people, but just as anxious to destroy the Canadian market for the Canadian people.

"The stimulus to manufactures as the result of protection in the United States has resulted in the creation of many lines of cheap goods, cheaper than elsewhere can be had in the world."

Then, discussing the question of annexation, this pamphlet proceeds to say:

"But supposing that a better relation with the United States did contribute towards a growth in the annexation sentiment, suppose that England, denying the right of Canada to trade with whom she chose, hesitated to grant the privileges sought and thus gave a check to the relations that exist between them. Suppose if, on the one hand, she consented to a commercial union between her children on this side of the ocean and the result was an enlarged emigration from the United States and a changed political condition in parliament by which an annexation resolution should pass—what is there to be horrified at in that prospect? . . . If in the future the people of Canada desire to join the great constellation of commonwealths that so illustrate the greatness of this continent, what possible objection could there be? Annexation is a bugbear which a weak sentimentality has clothed with features that are repulsive, but which, upon examination, might be found to be the most attractive and most winning of events."

An hon MEMBER—What is that?

Mr PORTER—This is the campaign literature of the Liberal party at that time.

"This we certainly can do by breaking down the commercial barrier between the two countries, learn to understand each other better, and if the winning forces of commerce and their attractive institutions make the great continent of North America one nation, then God will bless the union. . . To achieve a commercial relation with the American people is an object, therefore, of the highest duty, worthy of the noblest efforts of the best men of the country."

Note this particularly:

"The great Liberal party which today represents a majority of the voters of the Dominion in parliament but which is in opposition to the existing government, has adopted as the main plank in its platform this question of unrestricted reciprocity and it will go to the polls within 18 months with that cause inscribed upon its banner."

Now I do not think it would be possible to find anywhere a better expression of the policy advocated by the Liberal party at that time than can be found in the extracts I have read from the campaign literature they used. In endeavoring to discover the true object and scope of this proposed agreement, one must remember, in addition to the language contained in the agreement itself, the surrounding conditions and the surrounding circumstances. One must take into account the conditions of the United States in regard to her raw materials, her manufacturing interests, her natural products, her facilities for transportation, her population, and also her aspirations; and one must also consider the same elements from the Canadian point of view if he would arrive at what I conceive to be the real scope of the agreement now under discussion. It is only upon a proper comparison of the conditions existing in the two countries and the surrounding circumstances, that you can arrive at a fair conclusion as to whether this trade agreement will be in the interests of Canada or not. These considerations cannot be dealt with alone, but one must also consider the national or patriotic view of the question. There are two points of view: one the material or commercial view, the other the sentimental or national view. I do not believe it possible, under the adoption of this trade agreement, for the Canadian people to preserve either their commercial interests or their national status.

I do believe that by following the policy and the principles that have been followed during the last number of years in this country it would be possible at the same time to preserve and strengthen our nationality and our empire connections and to increase and stimulate the trade of Canada. I have already made reference to the conditions existing in Canada at the time when the old reciprocity treaty came into force and I have also stated that the conditions to-day are very different from what they were at that time. I think that difference will be apparent to any hon. member of this House, or to any Canadian citizen, who will give a moment's reflection to the question. Instead of Canada occupying the position of a few scattered provinces, as it did then, Canada presents to the world to-day a bold and united front extending from ocean to ocean. Canada exhibits to the world to-day a production per head of population that is unexcelled by any other country in the world. Canada offers to the world to-day a position in regard to her transportation facilities, both by land and by water, that is a marvel to the world when the population of Canada is taken into consideration. Instead of the ocean ports of Canada, as they were in 1854, being unequipped and unable to handle the trade going out from Canada or the trade from any part of the world coming into Canada, we find these seaports fully equipped and able to handle the trade that may be offered by or to Canada. We find here transportation facilities overland by railway to be equal to the increased production of Canada from year to year, and rapid progress and extension being made along these lines as the prosperity and production of Canada increase. We have to-day a revenue more than sufficient to meet all the

GRAIN MEN OPTIMISTIC

Rust Reports Are Not Worrying Ontario Dealers.

Toronto Merchants Who Have Confidential Reports From the West Are Inclined to Estimate Wheat Yield at Two Hundred Million Bushels or Almost Double That of Last Year's Crop.

Toronto, Aug. 9.—Reports from the Canadian West up to last week were of the most encouraging nature, and it is only during the last few days that anything like a crop scare has been in effect. Now there is talk of black rust in the wheat, and particularly so in Southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan Provinces, in the vicinity of the international border line. The Chicago grain exchange has gone through the throes of a scare of this nature, and reports from the so-called crop experts sent out by the grain houses of Wall street, have been the factors on which the damage has been based.

The time has passed when the action of the grain exchanges could be taken as an absolute criterion of crop prospects, however, and local grain men and bankers are not disposed to view the movement of prices as of anything more than passing importance, relying altogether on the statement of their own men in the field, and on the opinion of the farming community at large.

Some rust damage has been conceded in Southern Manitoba, but despite this fact no apprehension is felt by local authorities on the crop situation. It is pointed out that the wheat has advanced to a stage where there is not likely to be any material damage occasioned by the pest, and that, with fair weather from now on to harvest, a new record for production should be established.

The consensus of opinion is that the crop will even surpass the big estimates made by such authorities as Sir William Whyte of the C.P.R., who stated that the yield should approximate nearly 200,000,000 bushels. Estimates far and above this were the rule rather than the exception among the grain men, and an average struck from some round dozen estimates ran into 217,000,000 bushels.

When it is remembered that the wheat in the Canadian West was only 117,000,000 bushels last year, the significance of this will be readily apparent.

NIOBE CADETS COMPLAINT.

Naval Department Says They Are on Leave of Absence.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—Speaking with reference to the story of one of the Toronto cadets on the Niobe, that the boys were sent home at the expense of their own bank accounts, made up of half a dollar a week deducted from their pay, it was stated at the Naval Department yesterday, that the lads sent home from the Niobe were really enjoying their regular leave of absence.

As a matter of fact the Department was figuring out how the lads could be grouped for leave of absence, so as not to have too many at one time, when the accident to the Niobe occurred, making it necessary to send them all ashore. In this was found a solution of the problem, and the whole contingent was given leave of absence.

In the case of leave of absence the cadet pays his own traveling expenses up to a limit of $9, the Government paying the balance, if this figure is exceeded. This was done in the case of the Niobe cadets, it was affirmed by the naval official.

To Auction a Railroad.

Marion, Ohio, Aug. 9.—Judge Daniel Pabst yesterday entered a decree in the Court of Common Pleas that an order be given the sheriff of Marion County commanding him to have appraised and sell at public auction, the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railroad Co. to satisfy a mortgage of $1,000,000 given the Western Reserve Trust Co. of Cleveland, two mortgages of $300,000 each held by the Standard Trust Co. of New York and a mortgage of $2,500,000 held by the Mercantile Trust Co. of New York, the last named covering the other three and being ordered held a prior.

Commission of $100,000.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—Suit has been entered in the Superior Court here by the House of Browne, Limited, real estate agents, against the Lyall Realties, Limited, in which Mr. Peter Lyall is chiefly interested for the recovery of the sum of $100,000.

The plaintiff declares that certain properties in Long Pointe Parish were purchased and were under contract to be divided into lots, etc., and sold. He alleges that a different disposition was made of said lands and claims ten per cent. commission on the sale price of $1,000,000.

Rowdyism at Sandpoint.

Sandpoint, Ont., Aug. 9.—Harvesters passing through here Friday to the west were guilty of wanton rowdyism. An excursion train was brought to a stop near the place by having the cars disabled, and stores were broken into and robbed. Stones were thrown at sectionmen at work and women in the town were made the targets for insulting language.

For fifteen minutes the town was in the power of the toughs. One woman drove them out of her place with a revolver, but in most cases the citizens were terrorized.

Toronto Men Fined.

London, Ont., Aug. 9.—A man named McFadden, of Toronto, attending the Old Boys' reunion, was fined by Police Magistrate Judd $25 for brutal treatment of a horse he was driving Monday night. His companion, Henderson, also of Toronto, was fined $10 for not attempting to stop McFadden's thrashing of the horse. Incidentally the magistrate gave the pair a terrific verbal scorching.

Mr. Smithers will inspect the new Union Station at Winnipeg, which was officially opened yesterday morning.

In reply to a question as to the probability of the Canadian Northern Railway uniting with the Grand Trunk for a union terminal in Montreal, Mr. Smithers replied: "I think you had better ask the Canadian Northern Railway. I know nothing of it and have heard nothing of it."

Twenty-Six Sailors Shot.

Madrid, Aug. 9.—A court-martial at Cadiz yesterday condemned to death twenty-six men who took part in the mutiny on board the Spanish battleship Numancia, while the vessel was lying in the roadstead at Tangier on Saturday. The men received communion at nine o'clock in the morning, and it is understood that their execution followed immediately.

At the time of the mutiny the official explanation was that the incident was not political in character, but a demonstration against the alleged hardship of the daily duties. The mutineers were overcome and put in irons, while the battleship started at full speed for Cadiz.

GRAHAM VS. WEBSTER

Minister of Railways Has Hard Fight on His Hands.

John Webster, Who Cut Down the Government Majority to 144 at Last Election Is Unanimously Chosen to Carry the Standard In Brockville—Liberal Meeting a Fizzle—Lemieux Is Absent.

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 9.—Brockville was in the throes of political excitement yesterday, with two conventions on at the same hour in different portions of the town. The result of the deliberations of these bodies, both numerously attended, was that Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, will again lead the Liberal forces, and John Webster, commission merchant, will oppose him on behalf of the Conservative party.

Mr. Webster led Mr. Graham a merry chase in the elections of 1898, cutting down a high Liberal majority to 144. In the present fight he is expected to do infinitely better, indeed it is predicted that he will force the Minister of Railways to the dust.

To-day Mr. Webster was made the unanimous choice, and on his behalf Andrew Broder, M.P., Morrisburg, A. E. Donovan, M.P.P., and H. A. Stewart, K.C., delivered addresses.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux failed to put in an appearance at the Graham meeting, as advertised. It was said he had important business at home in his own riding, where things are not running too smooth.

Last night the Ministers spoke at Athens, fifteen miles distant, carrying their own audience and band from Brockville by special train.

Donald Sutherland Chosen.

Woodstock, Ont., Aug. 9.—Donald Sutherland, director of colonization for the Ontario Government, will represent the Conservatives of South Oxford in the coming Dominion elections. Mr. Sutherland was the unanimous choice of the convention, which was held at Mount Elgin yesterday.

Carrick For Rainy River.

London, Aug. 9.—J. J. Carrick, the Ontario M.P.P., says he has been considering since Thursday whether to accept the nomination for the Thunder Bay and Rainy River district. Yesterday, after the receipt of cablegrams from R. L. Borden and Hon. Mr. Cochrane, he decided to accept. He sails on the Royal George to-day.

Assumes Reins of Office.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—Dr. Beland was sworn in at Murray Bay yesterday as Postmaster-General by Earl Grey, according to a private despatch which was received by a prominent Liberal. No confirmation has been received. Mr. Lemieux, who was in the city yesterday morning for a short time, on Government business, returned to Ottawa yesterday afternoon.

Borden Opens Aug. 15.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—R. L. Borden will open his campaign in London on the 15th, the day selected for the Laurier meeting at Simcoe. The Ontario itinerary arranged for Mr. Borden and sanctioned by him yesterday, is as follows: London, Aug. 15; Chatham, 16th; Simcoe, 17th; Woodstock, 18th; Palmerston, 19th; Berlin, 21st; Owen Sound 22nd; Toronto, 23rd; Peterboro, 24th, Campbellford, 25th, Napanee, 26th, Brockville, 28th.

Challenges Bourassa.

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Aug. 9.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux will be the chief speaker at the St. Hyacinthe meeting next Sunday, and as H. M. Beauparlant, ex-M.P. for the county, has issued a challenge to Mr. Bourassa, who is the local member for the same constituency, to be present and discuss the political issues of the day, the situation becomes interesting. For weeks past the Nationalist chieftain has openly charged, in The Devoir, that the Postmaster-General has evaded him.

Liberal Convention at Montcalm.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—The Liberals of Montcalm will hold their convention at St. Julienne next Thursday, Aug. 15.

Sees No Reason For Rust.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 9.—In discussing the black rust rumors, Supt. McKillican of the experimental farm, expressed the opinion that the great bulk of the wheat in this territory was too far advanced to be very seriously injured by any rust that may appear now. He said that he thought it would be safe to take a middle course between opinions of those who are attempting to create a black rust scare, and those who claim there is nothing whatever the matter with the crop.

The experimental farm is situated low, and is particularly well suited for producing rust in such a year as this. Considerable wheat was cut there on Monday, and McKillican says there was no appearance of rust on it. There is rust on some of the late rvarieties, but nothing that is calculated to do much harm.

Miss Mary Rowan Suicides.

New York, Aug. 9.—In the bathroom of a handsomely-appointed house in a select neighborhood of Riverside drive, the police cut down yesterday afternoon, the body of Miss Mary E. Rowan, sister of Mrs. Samuel Booth, the wealthy widow of the former president of the Ward Line of steamship. Miss Rowan had been dead a week.

No explanation for the suicide is given other than a note which read as folows: "Only family troubles made me do this. I am not crazy; only heart-broken. Please ask my cousin, Mrs. J. B. Fartonte, to take charge of my remains."

Coal Merchants Want Rebate.

Winnipeg, Aug. 9.—Local coal dealers left last night for Ottawa to ask that the removal of the duty on coal from the south be made retroactive. Numerous dealers brought in many thousands of tons just previous to the removal of the duty and they are now seeking to have this money refunded.

ATTACK OF GOUT.

Pope Pius Is Suffering Severely From Ailment.

Rome, Aug. 9.—Pope Pius is suffering from a severe and painful attack of the gout, and upon the orders of his physicians is keeping closely to his chamber.

Dr. Petacci, private physician to his holiness, and Dr. Marchiafava, consulting physician at the vatican, who are in attendance, say that if there should be any change to cooler weather, they hope for the speedy recovery of the distinguished patient.

The doctors declared last night that the case would not be considered of the slightest importance were the Pope not an elderly man—he is 77 years old—or if his constitution recently had not been weakened by an attack of laryngitis, which also affected the trachea, and the excessive heat. The attack bears all the classical characteristics of gout.

Yesterday when Drs. Petacci and Marchiafava visited his holiness they found his condition somewhat better and the patient taking nourishment; but with the approach of night the paroxyms of pain became acute. Pope Pius complained that in the right knee he experienced a burning sensation and severe throbbing and pricking pains. The inflammation of the affected part is so intense that Pope Pius dreads to have the leg moved or jarred. Even the weight of the bedclothes on it or the slightest shaking of the bed causes him much pain.

CHARGES CRUELTY.

Ten-Year-Old Montreal Girl Says Parents Branded Her.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—Branding with a red-hot iron was the method of punishment Marie Rose Rousseau claims her parents used when she did not do as they desired.

Louis Rousseau and his wife were brought before Judge Leet yesterday morning, in the recorder's court, charged with cruelty to their daughter, Marie Rose. They pleaded not guilty and were remanded until Aug. 10, pending an investigation of the case by H. Skroeder, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Women and Children.

Marie Rose, who is only ten years of age, told the court that when she did not sweep the house and wash the dishes as she was told, she was struck and beaten by both her father and mother.

Frequently, said Marie Rose, when her parents did not think kicks and cuffs sufficient chastisement for her offences, they would roll up her sleeve and while the step-father held her, her mother would brand her on the arm several times with a red-hot iron, while she screamed with pain and was helpless to resist.

Row at Olcott Beach.

Rochester, N.Y., Aug. 9.—A special from Lockport, N.Y., says:

A riot broke out among 700 Canadian excursionists on the docks at Olcott Beach Monday night when they learned that it was impossible for the steamer Olcott to convey them back to Toronto in one trip and as a result men, women and children participated in a serious row, in which scores were bruised.

The captain tried to explain matters, but the crowd would not listen, and started to pull pickets off fences and threatened to batter one another. It was a pulling, hauling, toe-trampling and rib-racking fight.

Finally the boat captain ordered his crew to turn the hose on the crowd. The turning on of the water was the signal for the hurling of rocks and other missles at the boat. This was kept up until a dozen women fainted and had to be given medical attention.

The steamer finally got under way with her first load, and returned at one o'clock yesterday morning for those who were left behind.

That Interview With Fisher.

London, Aug. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—W. T. Stead, referring to the Fisher interview, says he sent a proof of the interview to Fisher with a letter. Fisher, however, had apparently left London, and when two or three days later no reply was received, Stead assumed that silence gave consent to publish it. "It was because Fisher had been saying exactly this kind of thing ever since he came to England that I went to see him," added Stead.

Knights Templar at Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 9.—As representatives from the Preceptories from coast to coast, over 600 Knights Templar are assembling here as delegates to the convention of the Grand Priory of Canada. Every boat and train has been met by the Citizens' Band, which escorted the guests to their hotels. The city has been gaily decorated with bunting, and presents a pretty spectacle.

Steel Enquiry Held Up.

Washington, Aug. 9.—George W. Perkins, director of U. S. Steel Corporation, and the House Committee of Enquiry into the United Steel Corporation were deadlocked yesterday over the persistence of Chairman Stanley, of the committee, that the witness should answer questions relating to his participation in campaign contributions.

Is This a Union Bomb?

Chicago, Aug. 9.—A bomb partly destroyed the plant of the Victor Jensen Electrical Supply Co. on the south side yesterday. Windows within a block of the building were shattered by the force of the explosion. The firm employs non-union workmen, and the police believe that the labor unions are responsible for the explosion.

Conventions at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 9.—The annual conventions of the Patriarchs Militant and Daughters of Rebeccah opened here yesterday. The delegates were officially welcomed by Industrial Commissioner Tuttle. Last night several degrees were exemplified. To-day the Grand Lodge of Ontario will hold its session.

YOU NEEDN'T DESPAIR

HERE'S AN OFFER THAT SHOULD INTEREST SUFFERERS OF SKIN IRRITATION.

First of all we want to explain that the remedy we are about to tell you of carries our promise of money back for the mere asking to anyone not thoroughly pleased with its use. That should unquestionably establish the sincere faith we have in it.

Parasites, or germs cause eczema, and eczema is probably the most prevalent of all skin ailments. To overcome them the remedy must of necessity destroy or remove the parasite or germ before relief can be obtained.

Possessing remarkable, antiseptic germicidal, cleansing, soothing and healing power, the curative value of Rexall Eczema Ointment is very pronounced in the treatment of eczema and allied skin diseases, whether of the dry scaly sort, the weeping type where there is a flow of ill-smelling excretion, or the intermediary kind such as pimples, blotches, discolorations, ringworm or acne. It is very useful for treating hives, insect bites and wounds. It is ideal for the skin ailments peculiar to children.

Rexall Eczema Ointment is grayish-white in color, has a pleasant odor and is very cleanly for use. If you are a sufferer of skin irritations or eruptions in any form whatever we urge you to try a box at our risk. At the mere hint of dissatisfaction you may have your money back. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00. Remember, it is only sold at our store—The Rexall Store—J. S. McKeown.

Strikers Number 70,000.

London, Aug. 9.—The carmen joined the other strikers on the London docks yesterday and union officials claim that 70,000 men are now affected. Work on the south side of the Thames River is at a standstill. Ships have arrived in large numbers during the last few days, with full cargoes largely consignments of food for London houses, but there is no one to unload the vessels.

The cargoes of meat in refrigerating chambers are still unspoiled, but the supplies of coal to operate the freezing plants are rapidly disappearing and the strikers will not permit the replenishing of the fuel supply.

The strikers are peaceful, but ugly threats regarding the fate of non-unionists, who attempt to work are made. Both sides are hopeful that the Board of Trade will compose the differences between the employers and employes.

Big Industrial Plant Closes.

Halifax, Aug. 9.—Instructions have been received from Montreal to close down the mines of the Canada Iron Corporation at Torbrook. As the pumps are being taken up, it is probable that work will not be resumed again this season.

The reason given for closing the mine is that the industrial depression in the United States, where half the blast furnaces are idle, is reacting upon the country.

OLD ONTARIO GANG BEHIND LAURIER

Representatives of Elements Discredited in 1905 Now Support Him

The adhesion to the cause of the Laurier Government of the representatives of those elements which brought discredit and ignominious defeat to the Ross Government is a striking feature of the present campaign in Ontario. To the band of survivors of that fall, now in the House of Commons, a new candidate seeks admission. This is none other than Donald McNish the Liberal candidate in West Elgin. Mr. McNish has a history. He it was that contested West Elgin in 1898, and subsequently when proceedings to unseat him were commenced, signed a statement admitting that many strangers had been imported into the riding, had been guilty of improper and illegal practices, and had, in some instances, acted under assumed names as deputy returning officers. He it was who was saved from a continuance of the trial and from the possibility of further revelations by the burning of the ballots at the Ontario Parliament Buildings.

Mr. Stratton a Surprise.

To the surprise of many people, Hon. J. R. Stratton, against whom as a member of the Ross Cabinet, Mr. Gamey's charges were directed, is again a candidate in West Peterboro. Mr. Stratton was openly stated to be an opponent of the Government's reciprocity policy, although he refrained from making any statement of his position.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, who for a short time filled a chair in the Executive Council chamber in Ontario, is again running in Brockville. Regarding the Minister of Railways and Canals a curious fact was brought out during the recent debate on the Newmarket Canal fiasco—"the antiquated dust heap" which Mr. Aylsworth declared had been approved "at two elections." During that debate Capt. Tom Wallace read a report by M. E. J. Walsh, former chief engineer on he Trent Canal, that in reference to any appointments on the canal he had been instructed to apply to Mr. Graham. Mr. Graham, who was then in the Legislature of Ontario, in turn referred him to Mr. Byron E. Lott, who was later charged with complicity in the bogus ballot box outrage in West Hastings, and fled the country.

Mr. James Conmee, M. P., is another of the staunchest of adherents of the former Ontario Liberal Goverment, and will again be a Federal Liberal candidate in Rainy River and Thunder Bay, and Hon. A. G. Mackay, leader of the opposition in the Ontario Parliament, after whose election in North Grey some years ago the now famous "little crosses" were found on Conservative ballots, is now touring the province on behalf of his friends at Ottawa.

YOUNG GIRL TAKES JEWELS OF HOSTESS

PITTSBURG, Aug. 8.—As she stepped off the train at the Union Station last night, Miss Edith Hall, a pretty young woman of Uniontown Pa., was informed by Detective Robert Patten that she was under arrest following a description sent from East Liverpool by Mrs. Bertha Groo, who charged that her guest had taken a diamond locket, gold bracelet, a wedding ring and a diamond ring.

Stepping up to the girl, Detective Paten placed his hand upon a locket she wore suspended from a chain around her neck. The locket bore the initials 'M. S.,' as he expectde Asking the girl her name he received the reply 'Stybr."

Later she confessed her identity and surrendered the rings. The affair has caused great surprise. The girl had no need to steal and the police theory of "kleptomaniac" may have sufficient influence on Mrs. Groo to halt the prosecution.

IS THERE A SPY IN UNITED STATES ARMY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—For the first time in eight years the War Department is perturbed over a report that there is a spy enlisted in the United States army.

Captain James Watson, recruiting officer at Indianapolis, has forwarded to the department affidavits charging Private George Petr, of the Coast Artillery, at Fort Totten, N. Y., with being an Austrian secret agent.

One of the affidavits is by Miss Clara A. Dyer, who had previously enquired about obtaining Petr's release from the army. She says the man's real name is Count Windisch-Graetz, that his home is in Prague, Bohemia, and that his object is to learn the composition of a remarkable high explosive, "dunnite," used in shells. Miss Dyer became engaged to the young Austrian and he confided to her his mission.

Fort Totten, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The fort was besieged throughout the day by a number of reporters desiring to interview. Private Petr, but Colonel Strong, who is in command at the fort, denied admission to any. Colonel Strong said that he believed Petr had not been advised of the charges which Miss Dyer had made, and it was not proposed to call the matter to his attention officially until some action was ordered by the War Department. Not the slightest information has been received officially at the fort to-night concerning the case. Colonel Strong admitted that on the strength of the neyspaper repotrs Strong was being kept under surveillance, but the Colonel felt certain, he said, that Petr was innocent of any purpose to spy in the interest of the Austrian Government. Colonel Strong pointed out that the young man had served for four and one-half years in all in the American army, and no suspicion had been directed toward him.

BANDIT SHOOTS UP WHOLE COACH LOAD

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 8—James Mays, 36 years old, is under arrest here, charged with being the bandit who held up a coach load of passengers on the Salt Air railroad last night. The holdup occurred as the train was nearing Salt Lake City and three persons were shot and slightly wounded. Mays was identified by four or five of the passengers.

As the train slackened speed at the city limits a man sprang upon the runnig board of an open car and began shooting. One bullet graed the ear of Mrs. Thomas Hodder, who sat with her husband. The revolver was then thrust against Hodder's breast "Here you, get on this board and gather in the shekels before I blow your head off." commended the bandit.

Hodder climbed from his seat and became an unwilling accomplice of the robber. He began the search of Cleveland Porter, a railway mail clerk Porter made a jump for the bandit and grabbed his pistol. Porter was shot through the right hand and both he and the bandit fell from the train The robber succeeded in breaking away and escaped.

CONSERVATIVES REGISTER

To all Conservative Electors of Belleville:—

Gentlemen,—I wish respectfully to call your attention to the position in which we are placed in regard to voting at the approaching General Election to be held on the 21st Sept. next.

The Voters' Lists for the City which will be used in this election, were prepared in 1909, over two years ago, and any person whose name does not appear upon that list will not be allowed to vote unless he takes advantage of the sittings of the Registration Board, which will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, to have his name entered upon the list.

It must be apparent that many changes have taken place in the two years that have elapsed since these lists were prepared, both by removals, changes of residence, and the coming into the city of new residents, all which will be prevented from voting unless they take the precaution to register.

This I consider to be a turning point in the history of Canada and a time when every true Canadian and British subject in Canada who values his freedom under our Constitution should see that he has the opportunity to vote, and on Election Day exercise his franchise to maintain and strengthen our British connection rather than cast in our lot with the United States by an entangling commercial alliance such as is proposed by the Laurier Government with its reciprocity agreement.

I am particularly anxious that all Conservative young men of the city who are qualified should have the franchise placed in their hands and thus have a voice in determining the future of their great country at the next election.

The only qualification required is to be a British subject, 21 years of age, and 3 months resident in Belleville.

The fact that you were registered before for an election will not help you any. You must be entered on the list for this election, and at the sittings of the Board this week.

The Board will sit during the above days at the City Hall, the Court House and No. 2 Fire Hall, at which my agents will be present to render any assistance.

Let me again urge you to register. You may consult a Voters' List at my offices, Front Street, or at either of the above places for the sittings of the Board to see whether you are on the list or not.

Please do your country the justice, yourself the honor, and the Conservative party and myself the favor of having your name put on the list.

This is the first, last and only opportunity you will have of doing so for this election, and don't let it be said that you neglected the opportunity.

Your obedient servant,

slavery which they would have us occupy. And so they have set about making a bargain with Canada, and I am afraid that they have succeeded pretty well in introducing what has been called the thin edge of the wedge. This is not the first dose we have had. We all remember very well when only two years ago the right hon. gentleman who leads this House was appealing to the people of Canada for a renewal of their confidence by asking them to give him an opportunity to finish his work. Well, it appears to me that the greatest unfinished work of the right hon. gentleman is now about to be finished, if this pact goes into force, for by it he will hand over this country into the lap of the United States, and then his work will be accomplished. We have evidence of that all along the line from the expression that has been used by the right hon. gentleman in discussing this question.

We have evidence of it in the selection of the man to form this pact—the most influential man of this Dominion who had the tendency to destroy confederation as he has, a very fitting tool, if I may use the expression not offensively, with which to finish the work which is the sole desire of his heart; that is to see Canadian independence brought about or to see Canada drop into the lap of the United States just as the ripe fruit would drop from the parent tree.

In conclusion let me say that I am unalterably opposed to the passage of this trade agreement through parliament. I am unalterably opposed to it because I do not believe it can, in any substantial manner, work out in the interest of the people of this country. I am satisfied that it will not work out to the advantage of the people of this country, but that there is a positive danger in passing this agreement in so far as the people of Canada are concerned. There is the danger that it will hand over to the United States the natural resources of Canada to supply the American factories with material and the American workmen with labor. There is the danger that it will destroy the usefulness of the great transportation lines built east and west throughout Canada at such an enormous cost to this country. There is the positive danger that it will frighten away from Canada the money of foreign countries that is so lavishly being poured into this country at the present time, and upon which so much depends for the future development of Canada. There is the positive danger that so soon as we hand over the natural resources of Canada and tie ourselves up in an alliance with the United States the inducements for that class of immigration, which means the building up of this country, will be removed and the capital which now finds safe investment here will be frightened away or turned into other channels. Those and other dangers threaten the Canadian people as a result of the adoption of this agreement and for these, as for other reasons I could give, I again express my unalterable opposition to this agreement, and further express the opinion that if this government will only afford the Canadian people an opportunity of declaring their views with regard to it, they will do so with no uncertain sound, and the government will have an opportunity of regretting that they ever adopted such a high-handed and tyrannical course as that which they have adopted in introducing and supporting this agreement.

LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

about the same area. In 1898, the value of the Michigan farms was $623,911,200, and in 1908, their value was only $621,297,000, showing an actual decrease in the value of farms in Michigan in these ten years of $2,614,000. While there was an increase in the Province of Ontario during the same period of $115,285,000. In 1898 the value in Ontario was $556,246,569, and in 1908 it was $671,531,018.

If that market of 90,000,000 people is going to make the farmers rich, why has it not increased the number of farms in the State of Michigan and their value?

Lest that one test be not considered conclusive, let me call attention to another comparison—a comparison in respect of the live stock. In Ontario the live stock in 1898 was valued at $193,744,223 ;and in 1908, ten years later, that value had increased to $185,014,756. Thus in the ten years there was an increase in Ontario in the value of live stock alone of $82,270,433.

Now let us look at the mortgage debt upon that live stock in the Province of Ontario. In 1898 the mortgage debt upon the live stock of Ontario was $3,110,543, and in 1908, it was only $2,730,119. In other words there was a decrease in the mortgage debt upon the live stock in the Province of Ontario of $280,424.

Let us make a similar investigation into the figures of the live stock in the State of Michigan. The live stock in that state in 1898 was valued at $97,042,380, and in 1908 at $123,265,031, so that in ten years the increase in value was only $26,022,651, as compared with an increase in Ontario of $82,270,803.

Then take up the mortgage debt on this live stock. The mortgage debt in the State of Michigan in 1898 was $4,526,211, and in 1908 it was $6,522,210. In other words, while there was during the same period a decrease in the mortgage debt in Ontario, of $280,424, there was an increase in the State of Michigan upon the same stock of $2,295,999. Yet during all this time the farmers of Michigan had been enjoying the benefit of the market of 90,000,000 people.

Let me make a still further comparison with regard to the debt upon the land itself. I find that the Ontario farmers in 1900 had a mortgage debt upon their farms equal to about 29 per cent. of their value, or in round numbers $166,800,000. In ten years that mortgage debt had decreased from 29 per cent. in 1900 to 17 per cent. in 1910. Or the total mortgage debt on the farm lands of Ontario was only $102,000,000 in 1910 ,as compared with $166,000,000 in 1900, showing a decrease in ten years of $65,000,000.

Contrast that with the condition in the State of Michigan. The mortgage debt in that state in 1900 on the farms was $193,812,241, or an equivalent of 31 per cent. on the total value. In 1910, the total debt was $216,209,750. So that while in ten years in the Province of Ontario the mortgage debt on the farms had decreased by $65,000,000, in the State of Michigan it had increased by $77,602,491.

I shall not weary the House with further comparisons although I have them under my hand. But I wish to repeat what has been so well said by my hon. friend from Lennox (Mr. Wilson) to-night, regarding the articles of cheese and butter. In these articles the very same results figure out, if one will take the trouble to ascertain the amount of money received by the Canadian farmer as compared with that received by the American farmer.

There is still another test which I would apply. I have taken the trouble to look into the statistics of bank deposits, and life insurance. Either one of these is a very fair illustration of the progress which the people are making; and I find, comparing the Province of Ontario with the State of New York or Michigan or Minnesota, that the life insurance which has gone into force upon the Canadian people within the last ten years is nearly twenty times greater than what has been effected upon the American people in any one of those states. I find also that the number of lapsed policies—and hon. members will understand that policies taken out upon life are not allowed to lapse unless the insured are not able to pay the premiem—I find that in Ontario the number of lapsed policies is very much less than that in either New York or Michigan,

I find also that the same results with regard to bank deposits, and both bank deposits, and life policies are things which indicate pretty clearly the progress and prosperity of a people. And if, with this boasted market of 90,000,000 people, the American farmer has not been able to pay off the mortgage debts upon his chattel property and land, if he has not been able to increase the value of his lands or the number of his farms, and if he has not been able to meet his life insurance premiums or make his bank deposits, while at the same time, under the policy pursued in this country the last twenty years our Canadian farmers have been able to not only to pay off their mortgage debt, but increase the value and number of their farms and live stock and pay the premiums on their life insurance, and deposit besides a handsome sum in the bank, it must be evident that we have nothing to gain by this reciprocity pact.

That being so, is it not the height of absurdity to urge upon the Canadian people that they should barter away such a privilege as they now enjoy, the advantages they have been reaping during all these years and cast in their lot with the American farmer who has not been able to show anything like as great progress as the Canadian farmer?

Coming to the question of our trade relations with Great Britain, it seems to be the reverse of one of the first principles of business policy to adopt this agreement. Great Britain is today the best customer the Canadian people have, and it is admitted by every business man that he will give the greatest advantages to the man who is his best customer. As in dealings with individuals so it should be in dealings between nations and where Canada finds Great Britain her very best customer, I think that it is up to Canada to show some favor to Great Britain, to increase, if possible, our present favors to Great Britain and enlarge the British market for Canadian products. If we are to pursue the policy laid down by this agreement, if we are to enter into this pact, we will not only be violating that first principle of business, but will be offering to the United States a premium to send their goods into Canada and shut out the goods of our best customer.

During the course of this argument the constant theme of supporters of the government has been the great advantage this agreement is going to bring to the Canadian farmer. When did this government become so solicitous for the interest of the Canadian farmer? It certainly has not been their history in past years that they were looking after the interest the farmer rather than of any other class bu they pofess to be doing so now What is the reason for this sudden manifestation of interest in the farmer? Is it because the farmer is considered by this government to be so mercenary that with the argument that he will make a cent a pound more on cheese or a few cents a bushel on grain he is going to be carried away altogether from his sentimental feeling towards his own country and the mother land. It must either be that or the government must think that the farmers of Canada are the only class of people in this country who can be deceived by such a policy as that. I believe there is a sentiment in the Canadian people far and away above any mercenary interest There is a sentiment in the breasts of the Canadian people that would actuate them to support a stronger and more binding relationship between Canada and the mother country even if it were at the loss of a few dollars in trade between this country and the United States. It cannot be possible that the Canadian farmer will in a moment and without sufficient reason forget the action of the two political parties in Canada in regard to the great agricultural interest. I can remember very well speeches by members of the government when the want of greater prosperity on the part of the Canadian farmer was attributed to his slovenly methods of farming and his want of intelligent direction; in fact I recall an expression used by the Minister of Trade and Commerce when he was appealed to upon the question of prosperity of the Canadian farmer, that if the Canadian farmer wished to be more prosperous than he is to-day, he must work harder and eat less. The Liberal party was not then exercising the same feeling of interest towards the Canadian farmer that they profess to be exercising to-day and surely the Canadian farmer will not forget which political party it was in the past that has been responsible for the greater part of the prosperity with which they have been blessed. Under which party were the experimental farms and the dairy schools of Canada established for the benefit of the farmers? Under which government was it that the millions of acres of the great west were opened up for cultivation and for settlement by Canadian farm boys? It was not the Liberal party by any means. It is true the Liberal party have adopted the Conservative party's policy of protection, and I think I might truthfully say that it is the only policy pursued by this government that has brought any advantage to the Canadian farmer. But as against that they have not directed all their interests in that way. I remember an organization known as the Grangers. This government was successful in reducing that society, established for the benefit and advantage of the farmers into a political machine. Then, phoenix-like, there arose from its ashes the Patrons of Industry, and the government succeeded in reducing that organization almost to a political machine.

To-day we have the Grain Growers' Association which this government is endeavoring in every possible way, and with no little degree of success, to convert into a political machine, too. I have given a brief comparison of what the Conservative government and party have done for the Canadian farmer, and also a brief illustration of what the Liberal government and party have not done for the Canadian farmer. It seems to me that the Canadian farmer, in view of these facts which he certainly will not forget, will ponder carefully before accepting this policy, the tendency of which is closer trade relations and closer political relations with the United States, with a weakening of the bonds uniting Canada to the motherland. He will hesitate long before adopting the policy that is now being advocated by the Liberal party, in view of the history of that party, and the way the farmers have been treated by that party. Now, if it is true, and it is true beyond question, that the policy of protection has been the chief element in the success of the American people while it has been in existence in that country, and if it is true that the same policy has to a still greater degree, during the time it has been in operation, brought prosperity to Canada, if it is true that the adoption and carrying out of that policy has brought prosperity to both countries, why should Canada, in this twentieth century which is said to be hers, hand over to the United States to exploit her natural resources, her national products, to feed the American factories, and furnish labor to American workmen, to the loss and detriment of Canada?

During the course of this debate hon. members on the government side have told us that we need not be alarmed that the ultimate result of this policy will be to lead to annexation, or the absorption of, this country by the United States. They ask what evidence there is that such a result can be brought about. I think it will be admitted that the more dependent one country is made upon another in regard to its trade relations, the more difficult it will be for that nation to maintain a separate existence, or to resist political absorption. In our case this tendency will be accompanied by a weakening of the sentiments of union with the empire, in consequence of a diversion of our commercial interests. It is the well known desire of the American people, as has been expressed over and over again, both before this pact was proposed and since it has been made, to coerce Canada into annexation. They have failed in their efforts, and just as they made a reciprocity treaty in 1854, when the pinch of necessity drove them to it, so in 1911 they have turned their attention to a country to whom they have hitherto refused to extend the hand of friendship. They have turned to Canada at this time because Canada is the only country that offers the United States any opportunity for exploitation. Sir, can any one be so deceived as to believe that the sentiment in favor of the absorption of Canada, which has hitherto pervaded the people of the United States during the last forty years, does not still exist? Does any one suppose that it has faded away in a single night? I believe that feeling is just as strong in the United States to-day as it ever was. This reciprocity agreement is only a disguised method of accomplishing their desire, and I am sorry to say that it appears as if this government was willing to lend assistance to the American people in achieving their object. It seems to me there never was for the Canadian people such an opportunity of exhibiting their independence, of showing their nationality, of protecting their country, of protecting their homes, as is offered them on this occasion. The time had arrived when, of necessity, the American people were bound to lower their tariff wall between Canada and the United States; the time had arrived when they were bound to take down the barriers they themselves had erected; the time had arrived when they became convinced they could not coerce Canada into annexation, or at least into what I was almost going to call a position of

CHILDREN DROWNED WHILE PADDLING

Boy and Girl Walked Beyond Depth in Beaumaris Waters

BEAUMARIS, Muskoka, Aug 9.—While paddling in the water immediately in front of their father's summer cottage here this afternoon, Samuel and Elizabeth Willock, aged seven and five years respectively, walked beyond their depth and were drowned. The children were missed at four o'clock and a search was at once instituted. The bodies were recovered at eight o'clock after their shoes and stockings were found on the beach. The lake near shore was dragged, with the result that both bodies were recovered lying close together. They were carried to the shore, and for more than an hour efforts were made to resuscitate them, but without avail.

The children were the only son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Willock, of Defiance, Ohio, who for several years have spent the summer at Beaumaris. Mr. Willock is a very wealthy manufacturer, and is head of the Willock Barrel Company.

The bodies were recovered by Harper Walker and James Sutherland.

3 O'CLOCK DESPATCHES

STRIKE CAUSES TROUBLE

(Intelligencer Special.)

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 10.—Twenty-five thousand carters, teamsters, etc. joined the strikers to-day and mobs are engaged in continuous clashes with the police throughout the day. King George, in an auto, was delayed by a big jam of deserted vehicles. He alighted and entered a closed carriage and procured provisions in a nearby hotel.

SOLDIERS AND STRIKES

(Intelligencer Special.)

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Aug. 10.— The striking freight handlers to-day fought the police with clubs and stones, and after severe street fighting the police were forced to retire. The Mayor stated that he was ready to read the Riot Act and turn the situation over to the troops. Four hundred soldiers have arrived form Lichfield and more are on the way.

POPE RATHER BETTER

(Intelligencer Special.)

ROME, Italy, Aug. 10.—The Pope's temperature is somewhat lower today, and his condition is reported as better, but his illness is admitted to be serious.

MURDER AT ORILLIA

(Intelligencer Special.)

ORILLIA, Ont., Aug. 10.—Meeting near the house where both had been invited to a party, Arthur Sheridan last midnight stabbed Ross Ford in the throat, causing the latter's death in a few minutes. The young men were companions, but had quarreled recently. Sheridan, after asking that a doctor be sent for, disappeared. The woods are being searched for the murderer.

BANDITS MAUL COUPLE AND FLEE WITH $484

REVERE, Mass., Aug. 8.—With faces and bodies terribly beaten, their clothes almost wholly torn off and $484 stolen from them by masked robbers, who held them up on the State boulevard early to-day, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Lampert were taken to a Boston hospital in a serious condition.

Lampert and his wife are owners of several small "peddler" stores in Lynn and are well-to-do. They left Lynn about midnight and were returning in a wagon to East Boston, when three men leaped upon them and began beating Lampert. The wife screamed and one of the thieves turned on her and knocked her to the ground. Her skirt was torn and both shoes and stockings ripped off. The robbers seeming to know that in her stocking she had $454. Lampert was knocked unconscious and the robbers tore off his shoes and stockings, from one of which they got $30.

The unconscious couple were placed in the bed of the wagon, the horses whipped up and set going in the direction of Lynn. When Lampert revived he drove to Beachmont depot, but fainted after recounting his story. A posse has started in pursuit.

HON. MR. ROGERS WAS ANGRY

Hon. Robert Rogers, provincial secretary of Manitoba, was very indignant last night in the Windsor Hotel with regard to the course taken by the Dominion Government with regard to the voters' lists in Manitoba.

"The position taken by the Dominion Government in this matter," said Hon. Mr. Rogers, "is absolutely illegal. It is no wonder that a Minister of Justice who would be guilty of recommending such an illegal and dishonorable course as that propesd by Hon. A. B. Aylesworth would be so sick at the stomach that he had to resign."

As to the result in the West, Hon Mr. Rogers said that conditions would be met day by day as they arose.

"But," said he, "you can rest assured that we shall carry Winnipeg and Brandon regardless of any crookedness that may be attempted by the Government. The position is simply that we had our lists ready in plenty of time, and the Government had no right to step in and try to enforce Dominion lists. But we have our men in the field and expect to win, no matter what efforts may be made to defeat us.—Gazette.

ATE FIFTY-SEVEN EARS OF CORN

NEW YORK, Aug 9.—The Tammany corn-eating contest is an annual event of the greatest importance on the New York east side. This year's contest held on the porch of a Broome street saloon last night, was won by James Dugan a cab driver, who ate fifty-seven separate and distinct ears, carrying off the 1911 championship and a purse of gold coins.

Dugan's nearest competitor was eleven ears behind his record.

WERE NOT RATTLED BY THE RATTLER

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 9—The first rattlesnake seen within the Niagara Falls International Park in twenty years is on exhibition here today, a tribute to the nerve and prowess of four school teachers from Springfield, Ill., who are spending their vacation at Niagara Falls. The four Miss Clark, Miss Rice, Miss Bradley, and Mis Moffatt, were standing near the edge of the cliff late yesterday when the reptile crawled across the path over which they had just walked. There was no panic, and no retreat; the young women bombarded the snake with sticks and stones until it was dead. Then they counted the rattles—ten of them.

DBUNK CAME BACK AND PAID PENALTY

Aldermen McGie and Marshall today were the presiding magistrates at the police court.

Drunk.

Wm. Cuthberson, who was yesterday fined $1 and costs, was arrested again last evening for the same offence. He was fined $3 and costs, or, in default, 30 days in jail.

Trespassers.

Harry Connor and Patrick Riley, two young men, were arrested at 12.30 this morning at the G. T. R station. They had ridden on the express from Cobourg to this city without purchasing a ticket, and the charge preferred against them was that of trespass. They were given 6 hours to make themselves scarce in the city.

ARRESTED WOMAN FOR WITCHCRAFT

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 8.—Because his children fell ill George Kipp caused the arrest of Mrs. Emma Immerman, of New York, for witchcraft. She had been practicing as a "naturepath" with Dr. John F. Kloss in Kipp's house.

Mrs. Immerman, a dressmaker, came here several weeks ago and hired a room from Kipp. Dr. Kloss became a frequent visitor and together the pair practiced nature treatment. One of their favorite practices was to sit on the grass while it was wet with dew. They explained that perpetual health may be attained by wlking and sitting on wet grass.

The couple in a short time had quite a class of disciples, both men and women. Mrs. Immerman instructed the women while Dr. Kloss taught the men.

CURRENT COMMENT

LAURIER AND LOOT!

LAURIER AND LARGER MARKETS FOR YANKEES.

Vote for Borden candidates and Canada for Canadians.

This city has no use for Continentalism and mongrel patriotism.

The Globe is wrestling with the "basic delusions" of "economic thought" and the results have been to say the least, highly amusing.

Mr. Bourassa has accepted Mr. Lemieux's challenge to meet him on the platform at St. Hyacinthe on Sunday next. A lively time may be expected.

Mr. Geddes W. Rutherford, of Columbia, Missouri, U. S., writes to the Mail and Empire on the 3rd inst.— "Canada is a rich prize. We will welcome closer relations with her. We trust the Liberal party will win, for it will mean cheaper foodstuffs. But for Canada's sake the reciprocity bill ought to be defeated."

By the Buffalo Times it is mentioned that the Buffalo merchants now have their market in the territory south and east of them. "They have," says the Times, "but the half of a circle to operate in, when they are entitled to a whole circle. Nature and geography gave them the north and west. The tariff wall between ourselves and Canada cuts off the Buffalo merchant from a field which is as much a natural outlet for his enterprise as are the ten counties he will traverse on his trade excursion. Boost reciprocity. Give us free trade with Canada. Then see what Buffalo will do."

The Kingston Standard has the following: "The temper and spirit of last night's Conservative meeting in this city were unmistakable. The Kingston Conservatives to-day are alert, aggressive, confident. They not only want a fight, but they are ready for it. They feel, as do most thinking men, that the hour has struck for the Laurier Government; they feel that the next administration at Ottawa will be a Conservative one; and they feel now, above all other times, should the Kingston Conservatives be true to themselves and by united, aggressive, persistent work swing the Limestone City back into the Conservative ranks for the Dominion, there to stay for a long time. It was a happy beginning, this first meeting; and it augurs well for the future."

The rowdyism that prevented Mr. Adelard Lanctot from addressing a large meeting of electors at Sorel will not do the cause of anti-reciprocity and Nationalism any good. Mr. Lanctot was returned for Richelieu in 1900 by a majority of 1,104 and at the general election of 1903 by a majority of 1,020. This majority should be doubled as a reply to such an insult to a respectable audience of two thousand people.—Globe.

As a prophet the Globe is not a success. Mr. Lanctot, whose offence was so rank as to arouse public condemnation, even that of his party in his constituency, where the facts were best known, was defeated in the nominating convention, and consequently will not receive, as our contemporary recommends, "double" his former majority. He has been tried and found wanting. So has the Globe's prophet

Miss Skeeter's Death

When the summer sky is azure blue
When your heart is light and your love is true;
When you sole idea of a joyous lark
Is a slender waist in a spot quite dark;
When you have the place and the girl and that,
And you're sitting there for a quiet chat;
When you scratch and thrash, and slap and swear,
And you claw and slash, and he's not there.
If you want relief invest a quarter—
And SKEETER SKOOT will complete

SLIPPED ON A GLACIER

A sixteen-year-old boy, named Walter Allant, living in London, had a narrow escape from death while descending the Gorner glacier from Gornergrat, accompanied by his father. He slipped on the snow, fell 250 feet into a crevasse, and was only rescued after great difficulty. A party of guides carried him to Zermatt, where it was found that his only injuries consisted of cuts on the head.

A SPEAKING DOG

"Don" Pronounces Words and Attaches a Meaning to Them

German scientific circles are being immensely puzzled by a celebrity in the animal kingdom, a prodigy partaking, it would seem, of the nature of both man and animals, the "speaking" dog Don.

At the age of six months, very much earlier than a human baby, he for the first time, showed his extraordianry gift by pronouncing the first articulate word. He was standing near the table, looking with begging eyes at his master, and when the latter happened to ask him—"would you like to have something?" he clearly replied, "Haben" ("have"). After this startling performance, he obviously became the object of unusual interest. It may be remarked, in passing, that the word "haben" is one of the first acquired by German infants, thanks to the instinct of imitation innate in man. All the dog-wonder learned in afterlife he did under the same impulse of the same instinct, training being only resorted to from time to time. This is why the dog produces that wonderful impression of a strong individuality, doing everything out of his own free will, and, it seems, without any outside compulsion.

His ways and manners, by-the-bye, have always been remarkably independent. In his master's house at Theerhutte, in the midst of the royal hunting grounds, he would lead a life of nearly absolute liberty, apart from his professional duties as setter-hound. Every day he would set out for a solitary morning walk, strolling through the heath and woods, and paying an occasional call to one or other of his master's friends. After opening the door himself, drawing back the latch in strictly human fashion, he would walk in, lie down comfortably at the fire-side, and, if in good spirits, would have a little talk with the inmates of the house.

School children met on the road he would accost, requesting a share in their breakfast by the words "hunger" or "kuchen haben" ("have cake"). It is told of him that on once meeting an old woman from the neighboring village on her way to the market, he nietly stepped towards her, distinctly pronouncing the words—"Don hunger, kuchen haben." The poor woman was so frightened that she took to a speedy flight, leaving her basket behind her, in the firm belief that the dog was possessed of the evil one.

The most wonderful thing about him is his talking with strangers quite as freely as with his own master. When, therefore, Dr. Pfungst, the well-known expert in the psychology of animals, and Dr. Vosseler, Director of the Hamburg Zoological Gardens, wished to submit Don to scientific tests, they had no difficulty whatever in making him pronounce every word of his repertoire. The phonographic records made on this occasion prove beyond doubt the identity of Don's speech with that of human beings. There are, it is true, some slight differences in pronunciation due to differences in the structure of the larynx, but these in no way detract from the distinctness of the words. A strange impression is produced by comparison between phonographic records of human and canine speech; as, in fact, the dog speaks so very much louder than man, the two voices seem to have exchanged their respective roles.

Don is an absolute prodigy, and the first case on record of a dog not only pronouncing some words, but even attaching a meaning to them and making a frequent use of his powers in satisfying his daily wants and showing his attachment to persons of his surroundings. He is more or less talkative according to circumstances. If in low spirits, as after a punishment, he absolutely refuses to speak, and the same effect is produced by bodily indisposition. In bad weather he is less inclined to speak than in good weather. Moreover, it is readily seen that speaking involves a considerable fatigue to the dog, who after some repeated exercises always is tired to some extent. Though the formation of vowels and consonants does not always occur according to the same principles as in the human organ of speech, his pronunciation is quite clear, and frequently of an absolutely human distinctness.

Don is a beautiful brown hound of strong build, and remarkably intelligent eyes. In fact, there is something almost human in his expression.—Glasgow Herald.

QUEEN OF SWEDEN

Victoria has Bought a Villa on the Island of Capri

Queen Victoria of Sweden, who is obliged to spend the winter and the greater part of each spring abroad for the sake of her health, has just bought a villa on the island of Capri, twenty miles south of Naples, her favorite resort. The situation of Valla Caprila is a retired one on a steep cliff, from which there is a magnificent view of the famed Bay of Naples. The only means of approach is by a mule track. The Queen is well known to the people of Capri, and is very popular on account of her friendly ways and many charitable actions.

ART ON MATCHBOXES

Art is hereafter to be connected with matchboxes. The Ministry of Finance, having to renew the supply, decided some time ago that as not every workingman has leisure to study the pictures at the Louvre, the opportunity should be given him of admiring them on his matchboxes. Some of these have hitherto been ornamented with the heads of the famous generals of the Revolution. The generals will now have to retire, and make way for the Rembrandts, the Van Dycks and the Watteaus of the Louvre. The price is to remain the same.

Sudden Death in Skipping Rope

It was announced the other day to the troops at Aldershot that a skipping-rope had been found hanging on one of the high-tension power lines and a piece of wire over a telephone line. Attention was directed to the danger of instant death if contact had been established between the power line and a person's body.

LETITIA

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

Copyright 1908 by the C. M. Clark Pub. Co., Boston, Mass. Used by Permission

Upon returning to the hotel he found Miss Whiting awaiting him with a letter in her hand, announcing the return, on the following week, of her father and brother from the North. She spoke happily of the deep friendship that was to exist between them, as her father would remember the excellent care Mr. Grant had bestowed on her, she knew. Then she told him of her home in Alabama and expressed the wish that she might see him there in the near future. She had so enjoyed his companionship in the western city,—it would be doubly appreciated in her southern home. Father and brother would join her in extending an invitation.

Grant said nothing to her of the interview and appointment with the Frenchman. With each moment his confidence in her increased, until her character to him was as pure as an angel's. Had she not told him of her home in the sunny South and invited him cordially to visit her there? Was she not anxious for him to meet her father and brother? Who could discredit such honesty of purpose. Who could question her professed interest in his humble self? The very thought of the villainous plot against her caused his blood to boil. She a party to deception? She living a double life? Never. He would teach the scoundrel a severe lesson that he needed. Never again would the villain dare connect his name with this angelic girl. He would fight for her, he would die for her, if need be. Oh that he might now lay hands on the slanderer's throat!

Outwardly Grant was calm and attentive to her conversation, expressing his regret at their prospective parting and promising that the time of his visit to her home would be a a date immediately following the finding of his cousin.

A little later, when the landlord informed them that a box at the theatre was at their disposal, Miss Whiting decided at once that it should be occupied—the decision being made with such alacrity that Grant rightly surmised whose money had provided for the evening's luxury.

CHAPTER VIII.

For A Woman's Honor.

During the interval Grant employed an official trailer, a Scotchman named Greer, with whom he was on friendly terms, to obtain all possible information regarding the accuser of Miss Whiting's character, that he might the more intelligently manage the coming interview. Greer's report was to the effect that the party in question was a boxing instructor and trainer at the Olympia, a prominent sporting club of the city. His name was DeLaurie, and he claimed to be a native of Paris. He had been in San Francisco about three months and while considered well qualified in an athletic sense, was also becoming famous for moral degeneracy. Already he had drawn heavily on numerous well-filled pockets on threat of exposure, and was being watched by a private detective. Greer learned that he had been shadowing Grant and Miss Whiting for a week past with the undoubted intention of evolving a scandal. His plan of operation however, was unique, and did credit to his ability as a professional blackmailer. He would play the part of an injured husband, and as Miss Whiting was far from home, hoped to have her at his mercy. He had discovered that she was possessed of unlimited means and believed that his scheme, carefully handled, would result in a liberal silencer for the protection of her character. He resolved to first appeal to the young Easterner, who was ever in her company, and secure an interview when he would unfold his threats of scandal, to be withheld from publicity only upon the immediate receipt of a specified sum.

The initial move was most favorable to the success of the plot, as the young gentleman appeared disposed to shield his fair friend from unpleasant notoriety, and he looked forward to the appointed interview in high anticipation

But he little realized the resourcefulness of the man with whom he had to deal,—that a trap was being prepared for him, which, when sprung would not only check his scheme, but publicly expose his character in the most humiliating sense.

On the following morning Grant sought the landlord, acquainted him with the scheme and Greer's findings. Mr. Mansfield was astonished, perplexed, angered. He declared it an attempt to extort money, and stood for the southern lady's good name, as he had personally made arrangements with Mr. Whiting for his daughter's entertainment. He was about to summon an officer to arrest the swindler when the Vermonter requested the privilege of handling DeLaurie in his own way. The plan of action was accepted without amendment. The enterprising host did not even object to a pugilistic encounter in his richly appointed reception room.

At precisely ten the Frenchman arrived and took a seat in a corner, not ten feet from where Greer was in hiding. His face bore a satisfied expression, and he appeared confident that the interview would prove satisfactory to him. He was unquestionably a handsome man, but with deep traces of dissipation about him. He was slightly heavier than Grant. His step was light, and every movement of the body indicated a suppleness characteristic of the trained athlete.

THE CROWN PRINCE ALFONSO OF SPAIN

Much excitement has been caused by the hysterical grief displayed by the little Crown Prince over the loss of his mother, who is accompanying King Alfonso on his visit to England for the race week at Cowes. The little Prince is irreconcilable and has cried himself into a state of physical illness that has called for the attendance of the Court physician. It was thought that the Queen would have to be recalled in order to avert a severe attack of nervousness, but the hurried arrival of an old nurse saved the day and made secure the long-looked-for vacation for the Queen among her countrywomen.

Multiplication of the Unfit

Mr. Rider Haggard, the novelist, speaking at Flixton, said that next to drink the great cause of destitution was the continual increasing production of the unfit. Every year thousands and thousands of such persons were born without the remotest chance of their growing up to earn a livelihood, or of being anything but a burden to the community.

Caught Runaway Pair.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Detective McLaughlin arrested a man and woman on Windsor street Tuesday night on suspicion of being a runaway pair, and his suppositions proved correct, as the man, when arraigned yesterday, admitted he was Edouard Fanning of Albany, N.Y., and pleaded guilty to entering Canada and bringing another man's wife with him.

The woman is the wife of James Maloney, a well-to-do merchant of Albany, and the daughter of a hotel-keeper of the same city. Fanning is a waiter at her father's hotel, and while Maloney, the husband, was out of town, the couple eloped.

Pope's Condition Unsatisfactory.

Rome, Aug. 10.—The afternoon report of the Pope's condition was less reassuring than those of the early morning. His temperature, while not increased, remains about 100, and the heat of the day, which reached 95 degrees, exhausts the patient's strength. The most disquieting symptom is the progress of the gout attack, the pains from which have extended from the knee midway to the thigh.

The Testimony of Taft

The most conclusive evidence, from the Canadian point of view, which has been given against the Taft-Laurier tariff pact, has been furnished by its most ardent and persistent advocate, President Taft.

This evidence is herewith given without remark, as it carries its own comment with it:

President Taft wants the natural resources of Canada, commercial union with Canada, and the commercial disunion of the Empire. Sending the agreement to Congress he wrote:—

"Ought we not, then, to arrange a commercial agreement with Canada if we can, by which we shall have direct access to her great supply of natural products? They are coming to the parting of the ways. Should we not now, therefore, before their policy has become too crystallized and fixed for change, * * greatly increase the natural resources available to our people? * * * By giving our people access to Canadian forests, we shall reduce the consumption of our own, which, in the hands of comparatively few owners, now have a value that requires the enlargement of our available timber resources.

"The reduction in the duties imposed by Canada will give us even a larger share of her market than we now enjoy, great as that is."

Shortly afterwards the President spoke at Columbus, Ohio, and said:

"The greatest reason for adopting this agreement is the fact that it is going to unite two countries with kindred people, and lying together across a wide continent in a commercial and social union."

Next Mr. Taft went to Atlanta, and further developed his idea of commercial union:—

"When we entered upon the negotiations I asked the Secretary of State and his Commissioners to offer free trade in everything, but this Canada could not grant us, because she has a protected system and she was afraid of the competition of our better organized industries. Canada is at the parting of the ways. If we now neglect this opportunity to bring about closer business and trade relations, and insist upon the continuance of an artificial wall between the two countries, which differ no more in conditions of labor and production than do Kentucky and Tennessee or Georgia and Alabama, we shall throw away an opportunity for mutual benefit not likely to recur."

Next, President Taft, at New York, at the end of April, urged the editors of the United States to support the agreement, and used these words as the crowning reason why they should do it:—

"I have said that this was a critical time in the solution of the question of reciprocity. It is critical, because, unless it is now decided favorably to reciprocity, it is exceedingly probable that no such opportunity will ever again come to the United States. The forces which are at work in England and in Canada to separate her by a Chinese wall from the United States, and to make her part of an Imperial commercial band reaching from England around the world to England again, by a system of preferential tariffs, will derive an impetus from the rejection of this treaty, and if we would have reciprocity, with all the advantages that I have described and that I earnestly and sincerely believe will follow its adoption, we must take it now or give it up forever."

Mr. Taft's next speech on the subject was at Chicago, where he spoke of his bargain with Mr. Fielding as "a treaty," and continued:—

"One of the great reasons for its making and submission to Congress was the conservation of our natural resources. It is perfectly evident from the statistics that our general lumber supply and our supply of spruce wood for paper making are being rapidly exhausted. We ought, when we can, to enlarge the sources from which our people may secure it at reasonable prices. . . It seems fairly reasonable to suppose, too, that the pulpwood, which only grows north of the forty-fifth degree of latitude, will be exhausted in the United States, or remain in the control of a few persons, because of the drain of the American mills. It is of the highest importance, therefore, not only to the consumers, but to the manufacturers of print paper, in order that they may obtain their raw material at a reasonable price, to secure a letting down of the bars in Canada for this exportation of pulpwood."

After showing that the agreement puts pressure upon the Canadian Provinces to remove their restrictions upon pulp wood exports, by admitting free pulp made from wood cut on private property and imposing a heavy duty on pulp made from wood cut on crown lands, the President pointed out that there is very little real opposition from the American farmers to the trade bargain with Canada, and that for the very good reason that they stand to benefit by it. Under this head the President said:—

"Canada is so far north that her agricultural products are limited to wheat, rye, barley, oats, potatoes, live cattle, horses and dairy products. She cannot and does not raise more than one-sixth of one per cent. of the corn crop of the United States. She raises no cotton; she raises few vegetables; she raises few hogs because she has not the corn to feed them with. She is at present a great importer of all fruits, citrous and otherwise, from the United States; she imports a large amount of cotton-seed oil, which, by the Canadian reciprocity treaty, is now made free; she cannot fatten cattle as they are fattened in the United States, and therefore it has become profitable for farmers to import young cattle from Canada, even with the duty on them, and to fatten them for the Chicago market. The United States exports into Canada a great many more horses than she imports from the Canadians. She sends to Canada a much larger amount of potatoes than she receives from her. The United States exports to Canada about fifteen times as much of meat and dairy products as Canada exports to the United States. The only real importation of agricultural products that we may expect from Canada of any considerable amount will consist of wheat, barley, rye and oats. The world price of these four cereals is fixed abroad, where the surplus from the producing countries is disposed of and is little affected by the place fom which the supply is derived. . . . If, now, the duty is taken off wheat and the Canadian wheat can come to the millers of Minneapolis and other places, it can and will be made into flour, because the capacity of the American mills is thirty-three per cent. greater than is needed to mill the wheat of the country. Canadian wheat can be imported and ground into flour without materially reducing the demand for or price of American wheat, and the surplus will be sent abroad as flour. . . A material benefit to all the farmers of the country, especially the stock and cattle raisers and the dairy farmers, will be the by-products of brain and shorts from the flour mills likely to follow the free export of wheat from Canada to those mills."

Mr. Taft admitted that he was not as much interested in advancing the interests of Canada as he was in promoting those of the United States. He had not, he said, reached that altruistic point. He reflected that under existing conditions the Dominion buys $225,000,000 worth of products from the Republic, while the Americans take only $100,000,000 worth from us each year.

Finally, in a speech which he made at Indianapolis on the 4th of July, President Taft declared it to be his firm belief that under reciprocity the United States farmer will dispose of more foodstuffs in Canada than the Canadian farmer will be able to place in the United States.

ELDORADO.

On Thursday evening of last week Mrs. Rev. G. E. Ross of Eldorado was surprised and presented with a beautiful silver pudding dish by the members of the Orange Lodge of this village. The presentation was an acknowledgement of the able services in training a male choir and preparing special music for the annual sermon preached to the members of the order by Rev. Mr. Ross on Sunday, July 9 at which more than 100 Orangemen attended. The following is the address:—

Eldorado, Aug. 3rd, 1911.
Mrs. (Rev.) G. E. Ross,
Eldorado, Ont.

Dear Mrs. Ross.—We, the undersigned brethren on behalf of L.O.L. No 517 wish to express, in some small degree at least, our appreciation for the kindly interest shown by you for our welfare, as you patiently gave us the necessary instruction and training so that our "Male Choir" might contribute favorably to the success of the "Orange Sermon" on July 9th, last.

We ask you to accept from our hands as a slight indication of our gratitude for your services so cheerfully rendered this pudding dish, and we hope that as the years roll by you may ever look upon this token, not for its monetary value, but as a monument to the esteem in which you are held by the brethren of L.O.L. No. 517

Signed on behalf of the Lodge,
G. W. Williams, W. M.,
Chas. H. Wiley,
J. A. Beckwith,
A. E. Empey.

Mr. Ross made an apt and suitable reply.

AN EX-CANADIAN ON THE PACT

To the Editor of the Mail and Empire

Sir,—As an ex-Canadian and a resident and grower of grain in Dakota for over 20 years, may I offer some advice to the Canadian voter on this reciprocity question for a final decision? Our Congress has been bullied by Mr. Taft and the Great Northern Railway, backed by the Hill interests in New York, to pass the pact. Now we farmers in the States will lose, and you farmers in Canada will lose. This seems illogical, but it is a fact nevertheless. We will be all on an export basis, so will be paid for our wheat, oats, barley and flax just what the Liverpool price is. Heretofore, we have enjoyed a premium of about 10c per bushel on wheat; 25c. on barley and more on flaxseed. Now, our millers in Minneapolis have been at a disadvantage in the world's flour market, but with free wheat and protected flour it will be vice-versa. Our millers don't want more wheat, but cheaper wheat. So your Manitoba farmer will get precisely the same price for his wheat as heretofore, i.e. Liverpool price, and your miller will have to buy cheaper wheat to compete with the millers' combine on this side. Then, take your horse market that your Canadian farmer has enjoyed in the Canadian North-West. That will be gone. We will grab that, for we are nearer the wheat fields than even Winnipeg with Jim Hill's lines all pointing toward Saskatchewan. Even now North Dakota bankers are figuring on shipping to that market by wholesale.

Then there is your apple market in Canada West. Washington and Oregon will grab that. Notice the vote of both Washington State senators and one of Oregon's.

The deal is an absolute fake. It will only benefit the Minnesota and other border cities, and the big mills and railroads on this side, and will injure most everyone elese on both sides of the line. It may bring in a lot of bonanza soil robbers to rob your fertile prairies of their virgin richness and when worn-out, like a great deal of our North-West, they will be able to sell to your farmers' sons at the boom prices that Yankee real estate men know how to work up. Your people will get the empty bag. If you are wise you will listen to the true friends of Canada, and stick to the policy of that grand old man of Canada, Sir John Macdonald, and retire Sir Wilfrid on a pension.

Yours, etc.,
JOHN T. EVANS.

GRAIN MEN CLAIM TO BE LOSING ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS A DAY

Port of Montreal and Elevators So Congested that Boats Canno Unload Cargoes—Catching Disease by Telephone—Another Search for Lost Tribe of Israel

(From our own Correspondent.)

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—"With the trade that is offering and waiting to be handled at the Great Lake ports, but which we cannot get at because our steamers, lying loaded, are unable to discharge their cargoes on account of the congested conditions in the grain elevators, it is no exaggeration to say that we are, as well as other local grain shipping compnies, losing at least a thousand dollars a day," declared a prominent official of a local grain shipping of grain in this port, "there seems the state of affairs which with but one or two breaks, has existed since the present season of navigation commenced.

"What is worse," continued the official, who is anauthority on the shipping of grain inthis port, "here seems to be no relief in sight until until the Harbor Commissioners' new elevator is completed next May, and yet even by then you will find that the facilities of the port for the storing and handling of grain will not be sufficent to take care of the crops we expect.

"We know the Harbor Commissioners are doing their best to provide accommodation for the grain coming into the port, but that does not help us. But private firms should be encouraged to build elevators along the water front. With the one building there will be four or five. Still there is plenty of room for more.

"There is this to be borne in mind also. If conditions continue here as they have been ever since navigation opened this season, and if something is not done in a very short time to remedy the congestion, the grain shippers will find our Canadian grain shipped from Buffalo instead of Montreal."

Disease Spreading Telephones

According to Dr. Labarge, civic health officer, diseases of the most virulent and contagious nature lurk in the harmless looking transmitters of the public service telephones and in the interest of public health, the doctor has made a report on the subject to the board of control with a view to the provision of some legislation looking towards the sanitation of these instruments.

People suffering from tubercolosis and kindred other dreadful diseases of the most virulent type often said Dr. Laberge, were just as ready and as likely to use these telephones as anyone, consequently it was high time something was done to remedy conditions.

The thorough washing and daily cleaning of all telephones was one of the principal measures in this respect suggested by Dr. Laberge.

Israel's Lost Tribes.

Believing that the lost Mongolese tribes may be found in the farthest north of Canada, Mr. Christian Leden, the celebrated Polar explorer, and Mr. Harold Thaulaw, of Christiania, are in the city en route to the wildest and most uncivilized portion of the Dominion. The trip will not be limited only to investigating the habits and antecedents of really uncivilized redmen of the north. It is believed to be within the range of possibilites that a new passage through the Arctic sea may be discovered, a discovery which would lead to new ways and means of intercourse with Asiatic nations.

The object of their trip is to hunt Indians, not with powder and shot, but with cameras, cinemetograph machines and phonographs in much the same way as Ernest Thompson-Seton shadowed the wild animals he has known. The King and Queen of Norway approve of the expedition and have lent their royal patronage. The University of Christiania and the Ethnographic Museum of Berlin are also in sympathy with this Polar idea and have commissioned Mr. Leden, who is the general of the campaign, to find out things for them.

It is Mr. Leden's theory that there is a racial connection between the Indians who are above and beyond the great lakes and the Esquimo. "It is not the civilized Indians we want to study," said Mr. Thaulow, "but the uncivilized ones. Not the Indian who lives on the wide borders of civilization, who has a taste for cigarettes and appreciates silk socks, but the ones which no one knows anything about we'll investigate. And we hope to find out." From Montreal they will travel straight to Edmonton, from there on and on up the Arthabaska river and "sea," as Mr. Thaulow called the lake, up across the Great Slave river and lake into the northeast end of the country.

POLITICAL PROSPECTS IN THE PROVINCES

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux will have to measure swords with Henri Bourassa at St. Hyacinthe next Sunday. Mr. Lemieux has been doing considerable challenging of late while Mr. Bourassa said nothing till the Postmaster-General announced a meeting in St. Hyacinthe which the Nationalist leader represents at Quebec. He has now decided to call the bluff and will be there on Sunday with his followers. Some doubt has been expressed whether Lemieux would appear, but he said this morning that he would attend as advertised. Considering the dgeree of feeling among these people, the meeting should be memorable and should form an instructive illustration of the outlook in Quebec.

MANY OF CLERGY AGAINST LAURIER.

Talking of Quebec and Bourassa, it's an open secret that the Government is shaking in its shoes. The reports from that Province as to the pro-Bourassa feeling are alarming. Le Devoir, the Nationalist organ, has practically a free circulation all over the province. Many of the clergy are behind it and against Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It is stated that at no time since the days of Mercier has the situation been so marked in its enthusiastic support of a leader. It is admitted that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has lost ground and that the people upon whom with strikingly successful effect he has played for years, have got tired of his ascendancy. Another idol has now arisen. It is freely asserted that he will take at least 30 seats now held by the Liberals.

The Prime Minister is being urged to cut short his tour elsewhere in order to give more time to the province of Quebec in an effort to stem the pro-Bourassa sentiment. Even if he does there is only the minimum of a chance of its proving in any degree successful.

GAINS IN OTHER PROVINCES.

While the Government hold on Quebec is thus broken the most encouraging news comes to Conservative headquarters here from the other provinces. A gain of 10 or 15 seats is foreshadowed in Ontario, six in New Brunswick and four in Nova Scotia while Manitoba and British Columbia are expected to go solidly for Mr Borden. In Saskatchewan the outlook is better than had ever been imagined The Government members are wearing a decidedly worried look but if there is one thing more than another contributing to it, it is the propaganda which is bound to mark the doom of Laurier in Quebec. Outside of that province he is always in a minority.

LIVED FOR MONTHS ON RAW SEA FOOD

VALDEZ, Alaska, Aug. 9.—Attracted by signals of distress from Bardwell Island, a barren rock near the entrance to Resurrection Bay, the steamship Bertha, on August 2, manned a small boat and took off two ragged starving men, Charles Alexander and Alvin Anderson. The men have been on the island for two months, and would have perished but for the coming of the Bertha. News of the rescue reached here to-day. The men sailed from Kodiack May 11 in a dory on a prospecting voyage. About June 1 a storm upset their craft off Bardwell Island, and their provisions and outfit were lost in the sea. They managed to get ashore, but with practically nothing but their clothing.

The men, who had a few matches lived for a month on mussels, clams young gulls, seaweed and wild herbs which they cooked. After their matches gave out, about July 1, they ate their food raw. Two vessels passed without noticing their signals of distress.

NEW YORK SOCIETY GIRL SUICIDED

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—In the bath room of a handsomely appointed house in a select neighborhood of Riverside Drive the police cut down this afternoon the body of Miss Mary E. Rowan, sister of Mrs. Samuel Booth, the wealthy widow of the former president of the Ward line steamships. Miss Rowan had been dead a week. No explanation for the suicide is given other than a note wihch read as follows:

"Only family troubles made me do this. I am not crazy; only heartbroken. Please ask my cousin, Mrs. J. B Fartonte, to take charge of my remains."

There was also a letter addressed to Mrs. Fartonte, who lives at Newark N. J., and missives addressed to Mrs Booth and Mrs. Walter Lawrence, another sister, the widow of a well known New York hotel manager. The body was found by Mrs. Booth after Miss Rowan had been missing for a week from the three sisters' summer home at Great Neck, L. I. During their stay at Great Neck the sisters had left the Riverside Drive residence in charge of a caretaker.

An old bachelor says that distance lends enchantment to the view of women.

GET CONFIDENCE OF BOYS

Too Many Rules Make Bad Boys

I asked a teacher of boys known as "incorrigibles," in a home for bad boys, how she managed them, her methods having proved so satisfactory and altogether successful.

"I never say "don't" to my boys until they do something that requires a "don't," and I never say "do this or do that" until I find that they are falling in just this one particular thing," she said.

Her method would appear to mean, few rules and regulations, and those individual and arranged to suit the case in hand.

Children can't stand rules and regulations. Such things confuse them and many rules and regulations, too many "thou shalts and thou shalt nots," so muddle the young minds that they are entirely at sea, and apt, mistakenly and unintentionally to mix the rules of conduct, forgetting which is a "shalt" and which a "shalt not."

In any event, this teacher of boys catalogued as "bad," finds that rules and regulations, set and unelastic, will not work; therefore, definite iron clad rules and regulations laid down for the average home boy who isn't bad, must be qually undesirable.

ORIGINALITY IN BUSINESS

New Ideas Means Success.

Have you, as a business man, ever put yourself for a moment in the place of your possible customer and looked at business from his point of view? He can purchase his goods from any one of a hundred or more houses and he has to decide which will have his money.

Think how you yoursif would be guided in such a case. In a hundred firms of any one class, you will probably find ninety-nine doing business in precisely the same way; seeking it in the same way by advertising in the same way, selling in the same way, and distributing in the same way. The hundredth scorns to follow on the old traditional lines and strikes out in an original way. People can't remember the ninety-nine and can't forget the one. So the one gets the lion's share of the business.

'Chickens Come Home to Roost.'

A young man in a certain Montreal office put up a joke on the bookkeeper, who was a quiet, steady, serious chap. Everyone was to tell the victim that he looked very, very bad indeed. It was wonderful what effect this would have.

It was a hot August day when the joke began. The office boy started it. 'Ain't ye well, Mr. Quill?' he said.

'Yes, of course. Why?' Quill asked.

'Why, ye look so pale,' said the boy

'I feel all right,' returned Quill, calmly, and he put on his office coat and set to work.

But when the shipping clerk told him he looked ill, Quill frowned and said he had had a bad night — that was all.

When the cashier asked him what made him have such a queer color, he said his heart felt strange.

For an hour or so Quill was tormented with anxious inquiries full of gloomy forebodings about his health. Finally, with an impatient, worried gesture, he threw down his pen and hastened to the office of the chief. He was gone about five minutes. When he returned, the chief was with him.

'Men,' said the chief, raising his hand to command the attention of all 'as Mr. Quill is sick, I have granted him a ten days' leave of absence. Please arrange to divide his work equally among you while he is gone.'

10,000,000 More French-Speakers

A decision which will eventually increase by ten million the number of people who speak French has just been taken by the Governor of French West Africa. Hitherto, Arabic has been exclusively used as the official language of France in her immense African empire.

As, however, Arabic was as much of a foreign tongue to most of the natives outside Algeria as French itself, interpreters have had to be used by both parties, and the only result has been to give an impetus to Islam, which is intimately bound up with the Arabic language.

Now, however, French will be the official language of the administration and the schools, and it is expected that this will result in a considerable spread of Western culture.

Cold Storage in Europe.

Many of the European cities are following the example of America as regards cold storage plants. Paris is one of the centres where such questions are now being promoted, and the Refrigeration Society is endeavouring to bring such question before engineers and manufacturers. Not long since there has been built a large cold storage plant in the suburbs of Paris and lying on the North Railroad. It is designed to store home products which are to be exported as well as foreign products brought in by rail to be consumed in the city. There are now eleven cold storage chambers in operation. A convenient system is the use of an automobile waggon with freezing compartments which plies between the city and the storage house. It carries the products to the sellers in town, and also takes back the unsold products for storage.

The Laird's Pictures.

Some years ago a Scotch laird found on succeeding to his estates that the house contained two portraits of a distinguished member of the family who had flourished during the reign of George III, one by Reynolds and the other by Raeburn. He know no more of pictures than a Newfoundland dog, and he decided that two portraits of the same individual need not be kept. The Reynolds was retained, while the Raeburn was presented to a public gallery. The worthy man was struck with consternation some time afterward when he found that his gift had been valued at 5,000 guineas, and probably the picture would now fetch double that sum.

Strength An Unknown Quantity.

Strength, whether of body, mind, or will, is an unknown quantity. It can never be measured except by putting it forth. We do not know our powers simply because no definite bounds of them exist until proved by hearty, resolute, patient exertion. To sit still then in the absurd notion that we cannot move, to abstain from any effort because we fancy we cannot make enough, is like insisting on the shallowness of the ocean that has never been fathomd, or the shortness of the distance that has never been travelled.

Handel's Sharp Tongue.

Handel, though undoubtedly possessing a kind and generous heart, had a sharp tongue which he did not hesitate to use on occasions, generally with excellent effect. He heard that an enthusiast had offered to make himself responsible for all the boxes the next time the then-despised oratorio "Messiah" was to be given. "He is a fool," said he; "the Jew will not come to it as he would to Judas Maccaboeus, because it is a Christian story; and the ladies will not come, because it is a virtuous one."

LIBERAL LEADER WHO DENOUNCES THE PACT

Letter from Hugh Blain, Liberal candidate recently in Toronto, read at a Board of Trade meeting:

"There will unquestionably be a great upsetting of business, and while there may be little doubt that there will be some who will benefit, there will be still less doubt that many, and especially the unfortunate, will suffer by the change.

"The present time appears to be most inopportune, when conditions of every class, when prosperity had been distributed with reasonable fairness among all our people, for a leap like this in the dark.

"It is impossible to speak definitely of the future. It is, however, reasonable to believe that under present conditions, our own Canadian cities would continue to direct Canadian trade over Canadian channels, while under such a sweeping measure of reciprocity, I believe the dominating influences may be New York and Chicago, yith all the adverse consequences which will necessarily follow to our, at present, sturdy growing nationality.

"Our troubles now are few and far between, and, in my opinion, we should 'rather bear the ills we have than fly to others we know not of.' "

SOMETHING FOR EVERY ONTARIO FARMER

His Best Market for His Live Stock is the Home Market—Americans Under Reciprocity Will Take His Home Market or Force Down His Present Prices—We Present the Facts, Not Cheap Gush and Platitude Above Wider Market

Toronto World: Here is a signed statement as to Canadian live stock and reciprocity from H. G. Whaley of Rice & Whaley, commission dealers in cattle, hogs and sheep on the Toronto live stock market. They have been here for years, have an immense trade and are known to every drover and cattle dealer in Ontario. They also do business in Buffalo. We want every farmer to read this statement:

It shows that the claim made on behalf of reciprocity, that it will give the farmer "a wider market," and therefore, a higher price for his live stock is not true, that is, it is absolutely contrary to the facts, in so far as Ontario is concerned. The Ontario farmer is being appealed to to-day to vote for "reciprocity and the wider market."

But something else is undeniably true: that the only "wider market" that the Ontario farmer will get from reciprocity is a "wider market of COMPETITION." If the duty is taken off of all live stock from the States entering Ontario, and reduced on dead meat, lard, etc., as reciprocity will do, the American farmer will be able to invade the Canadian market with his sheep, hogs, meat, hams, bacon, etc., and undersell the Canadian farmer in his home market!

This is true, or it is not true. We say it is true, and we speak from the facts. Mr. Whaley says it is true Mr. John Harris says it is true. So does Mr. William Harris. So does nearly every drover and commission man doing business on the Toronto market!

We call upon the Globe, therefore to withdraw its pretension of a better market in the States, o rto give facts that prove it, and the names of witnesses. If it can't it is guilty of directm isrepresentation!

WHAT H. G. WHALEY SAYS.

Receipts of Canadian live stock at the port of Buffalo, for the year 1910 were as follows: Sheep and lambs 2445 head; cattle 35 head; hogs, 2106 head; horses, 127 head.

AS TO SHEEP.

The receipts of sheep and lambs have gradually fallen off since the year 1899, when there were 197,086 head sold on the Buffalo market. Up and until about that time Canadian lambs sold on the Buffalo market. Up and stock. Breeders of American, sheep however, found out just what the trade demanded, and they started in to produce a class of sheep and lambs that are wanted by the American trade. The result is that there is practically no demand for Canadian sheep and lambs on the American markets.

The class of lambs that sell on the American markets are a grade weighing from 70 to 85 lbs., and sheep weighing from 90 to 110 lbs. Any sheep or lambs weighing over these weights are culled out, and sold at lower values, or else exported to the English market.

The American farmers have produced a lamb that will sell for $1.00 more per cwt. on the American markets than the Canadian lambs. The same is also true of sheep. Heavy Canadian sheep are almost unsaleable on the Americn market. On the contrary American sheep are worth about $1.00 per cwt. more on the Toronto market than Canadian sheep. Canadian sheep and lambs are selling on the Toronto market at from $1.00 to $1.50 per cwt. more thn they would bring on the Buffalo market.

Under the present conditions I do not see how reciprocity could possibly help the Canadian sheep and lamb trade. Their best outlet is the home market, with the English market for any surplus they may have for extreme heavyweight sheep or lambs.

AS TO CATTLE.

I have sold great numbers of Canadian stocker and feeding cattle on the Buffalo market at 3 1-2 to 4 1-2 cents for the best, with the common and medium stock steers heifers and bulls at 2 1-2 to 3 cents.

The same grade are selling on this market fully as high, if not higher than they are in Buffalo. There are not enough good stocker and feeding cattle coming to market to supply the home demand. Export cattle are worth as much in Toronto as the same class would bring in Buffalo.

It costs very little more, if any, to get them to the seaboard from the Toronto market. All classes of fair to good butcher cattle are higher on the Canadian markets than they are on the American side.

We have two classes of cattle on the American side that sell much higher than Canadian cattle are quoted. One class is called "Baby Beef." This class of cattle are killed when they are yearlings. They are given the best of care and are continually on high-priced feed from the time they are born until they are sent to the market to be slaughtered. It costs time and money to produce this kind of beef.

The other class are strictly good heavyweight cattle, that have been corn-fed for eight months to one year or possibly longer.

It is the custom for the Canadian farmers to sell their cattle during the summer or fall without any expense for feed or time wasted in feeding as all they give them is the grass God provides for them. Would it pay them to change this custom in order to compete for the American trade?

AS TO HOGS AND HORSES.

As a general rule, Canadian hogs and horses sell from 15c. to 25c. per cwt. lower on the American markets than our own hogs bring.

Our firm does not handle horses, so I am not posted on the horse market I have had enquiries lately, however from one or two large firms here (Toronto), wanting to buy horses on the Buffalo market.

I have been handling Canadian live stock for the last twenty-five years on both sides of the line. The above are facts just as they exist at the present time.

Yours truly,
H. G. WHALEY.

BRONCHITIS CURED

FOR FIFTEEN YEARS MR. JOHN PEARSON OF MELVERN SQUARE, SUFFERED FROM BRONCHITIS AND THROAT IRRITATION. DOCTORS FAILED TO RELIEVE, BUT CATARRHOZONE CURED QUICKLY.

The remarkable recovery of Mr Pearson, who for years was principal of Melvern Square High School, is convincing evidence of the exceptional curative powers possessed by Catarrhozone.

"For fifteen years," writes Mr Pearson, "I constantly suffered from Bronchitis and Throat Irritation. Until quite recently I was able to keep up my teaching, but my bronchial trouble became so annoying that I was forced to resign.

"For months I doctored with different physicians and was not benefitted My trouble grew more severe and extended to the lungs, and I feared I would end in decline.

"Providentially I was advised to use Catarrhozone, and I believe it really saved my life. Its immediate effect was to relieve the throat trouble sufficiently to give me perfect ease in speaking. Within one short week all symptoms of Bronchitis had disappeared. I can fervently recommend Catarrhozone. I know it has no equal as a sure and speedy cure for throat trouble and bronchitis."

Every air cell and air passage, all parts of the breathing organs are reached and breathed by the antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone. It soothes and heals the inflamed mucous surfaces, stops the cough, clears the nose and throat, and drives every symptom of bronchitis right out of the system.

To purify the blood of all poisons and to build up the system, Ferrozone Tablets, which are included in every Catarrhozone outfit, are very highly recommended. This local and constitutional treatment in Bronchitis Catarrh and Consumption cannot be equalled.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by physicians and ministers and thousands it has cured. Two months' treatment costs $1. Small size 50 cents. At all druggists.

PAGAN INDIANS IN ONTARIO

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. Aug. 8—It is not known to many yet as actual truth, according to the Rev. Wm. Kendall, a Methodist missionary, who labors among them, that right in the centre of the province of Ontario, on the Six Nations reserve, live about 900 Indians in paganism. These Indians, says Mr. Kendall, believe in a religion which is founded partly on the Christian religion. It is not the primitive religion of the American Indian who believed in spirits and devils, but resembles the Christian religion in that they believe in one God. They believe that heaven is only for Indians and that no white people will get there. After they are dead they think the spirit comes to the crossroads leading to heaven and hell, the spiritual representatives of the respective places fight for the possession of the soul.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

TOM WALLACE CHOSEN

He Gets a Unanimous Call From Centre York.

Hon. A. K. McLean, Attorney-General For Nova Scotia, Is Nominated to Oppose R. L. Borden In Halifax—Sir William Mackenzie Says Reciprocity Is a Doubtful Issue—H. B. Ames Is Named.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—There was only one man in it at the Centre York Conservative convention yesterday, and that man Captain "Tom" Wallace. The gathering was held at the Labor Temple, and was largely attended.

Returning thanks for his renomination, the candidate said he had always tried to keep his pledge as an independent. Once or twice he had differed from Mr. Borden, but as a rule he had found it very easy to vote on his side. He believed in protection, not only for the manufacturers, but also for the farmers and the workers of the country. Under reciprocity the Canadian farmers, instead of getting another large market, would be handing over their own market to the United States.

Hon. A. B. Morine appealed for continued support of the National Policy which, he said, had built up Canada's home markets. Reciprocity would destroy them. Capt. Wallace had made a splendid representative of the farmers' interests.

"All the signs show that the country is ready for a change. I firmly believe that the vote for Sir James Whitney is to be the vote for the Conservative party in Ontario, and we shall be able to boast that Ontario turned the Laurier Government out of power. Let this be the cry of the election; the Whitney vote for Borden."

Hon. I. B. Lucas read several extracts from a speech made by Hon. G. W. Ross six years ago, in which the present reciprocity pact was prophesied and the country warned against it.

Will Oppose Borde.n

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 10.—The Liberal convention for Halifax City and County last night nominated Hon. A. K. McLean, Attorney-General for Nova Scotia, and D. D. Blackadar, editorial writer of The Acadian Recorder, as candidates for the House of Commons to oppose R. L. Borden and A. B. Crosby, who will be nominated by the Conservatives to-night.

Mr. McLean stated in accepting that he had contemplated in retiring from politics some time in the future, but that this intention was now abandoned. He said the statement that he had been offered the solicitorship of the Canadian Northern Railway was erroneous, for no such offer had been made. Mr. McLean will in a few days resign the Attorney-Generalship and his position in the Provincial Government.

The Conservatives of Pictou, in a convention held at Westville yesterday, nominated A. C. Bell of New Glasgow, who will have as his opponent the present member for Pictou, E. M. Macdonald.

Canadian Reciprocity.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 10.—Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railroad, in an interview here yesterday stated that he thought Canadian reciprocity was a doubtful issue.

"Reciprocity is being fought to a finish in Canada," he said. "The outcome is problematical. The idea of annexation has become so strongly attached to the treaty proposal that its defeat is highly probable."

Sir William was in Chicago with a party which will tour the west. In the party were Sir Edward Ward, London; Baron Bryon von Pessant, Berlin, and Sir Donald Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway.

Ottawa Liberal Convention.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—The Liberal convention last night selected H. B. McGiverin, the old member, and Ald. J. A. Pinard as their standard-bearers at the general elections. Mr. McGiverin was selected by acclamation and Ald. Pinard on the first vote.

New Brunswick Nominations.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 10.—The Kings-Albert Liberal convention yesterday at Sussex nominated Dr. D. H. McAllister as their standard-bearer in the coming elections.

The Westmoreland Conservatives' convention nominated M. Z. Siddall of Port Elgin as their candidate in the federal contest.

Wilson For Laval.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Charles Wilson, late M.P. for Laval, again received the Liberal nomination at the convention of the Liberal electors of that division last night.

McCarthy For North Simcoe.

Stayner, Aug. 10.—The Town Hall was filled when Dr. McFaul, president of the North Simcoe Liberal Association called the nominating convention to order yesterday afternoon. Leighton McCarthy was nominated by Dr. D. Niddrie, Creemore, seconded by Geo. Campbell, Oro; John Bernie, Collingwood by W. H. B. Patton and E. C. Drury, and E. C. Drury by J. W. Brown, Dalston.

Mr. Drury later withdrew in favor of Mr. McCarthy.

Unanimous For Ames.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—H. B. Ames, who has represented Saint Antoine division in the Federal House for the past seven years, was once again the unanimous choice of a Conservative convention when the party forces met to choose their candidate last night.

Manitoba Voters' List.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—The provincial registration for Brandon and Winnipeg, proclaimed before the dissolution of Parliament, was yesterday declared off. Attorney-General Campbell in making the announcement that the Dominion registration would be accepted said the Federal Government had usurped provincial rights and had given so short notice that thousands will be disfranchised for which Ottawa must take the responsibility.

YOUTH'S STRANGE TALE

Toronto Clerk Awoke to Find Himself Badly Beaten.

Charles Thom Lies In a Serious Condition as a Result of a Midnight Attack While He Was In His Sleep—No Money Touched — Neighbors Saw Man Escaping Down the Street—Blood All Over the Room.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Lying in bed with head and hands swathed in bandages, Charles Thom, 19 years, a clerk who sleeps over Sanderson's drug store at 297 Roncesvalles avenue, told a curious story of how he came by the terrible beating and the shot wound in his hand, which are confining him to bed. The condition of the room over the drug store where Thom was attacked is that of a shambles. There is blood everywhere and on everything. Parts of the strange story told by Thom are confirmed by those who live in the neighborhood of the drug store.

He says that he was awakened from sleep at 1.20 yesterday morning to find himself lying upon the floor beside his bed with a chair on top of him. He neither saw nor heard anyone in the room and believed that he must have had a nightmare and fallen out of bed. His face and head were wet but he thought he had been perspiring.

He got into bed again where he lay for a few moments, when he again noticed the moisture of head and hands. When he put his finger in his mouth, he tasted blood and arose quickly, wondering how it had come there, as he could think of no way in which he could have received his injuries. He lighted a light and was alarmed to see that the room showed every sign of a terrific struggle though he had neither seen nor heard anyone enter or leave it and remembered nothing of an attack or struggle.

He went downstairs to see if burglars had entered the store below. He found no trace of any. The cash register was as he had left it. Over $100 in bills which had been concealed beneath his mattress, was untouched. He says that he took his revolver and fired two shots out of his window to frighten away any burglars who might be about.

The bullet holes were found in the screen in the window in the morning, but Tom's left hand is pierced as though by a bullet. Also a bullet was found imbeddel in his dressing table, while he says that he fired but the two shots. A window at the rear of the store was found open, and there were footprints outside.

B. W. Kitely, who lives next door, was awakened by groans in Thom's apartment. Then he heard shots. After this Kitely says a man left the store by the rear window, and while in a lane near Geoffrey street, he heard a woman call out, "There they go." This followed by a shot which struck the pavement and glanced on through the arm of a chair on the verandah of 120 Geoffrey street, and broke a large window. The woman who lives in this house says she heard six or seven shots and saw a man running along Geoffrey street toward Sorauren avenue.

The young man's condition is serious, more from shock than from his wounds. The police are following the slight evidence in their hands.

Steamers Collide; 93 Drown.

Gibraltar, Aug. 10.—The French steamer Emir foundered yesterday five miles east of Tarifa, Spain, in the Strait of Gibraltar. Ninety-three persons were drowned.

The ship sailed from here at three o'clock yesterday morning for a Moroccan port.

An hour later, in a dense fog, the Emir collided with the British steamer Silverton, bound from Newport, England, for Taranto, Italy.

The crew of the Silverton rescued 27 of the Emir's crew and passengers. The Silverton later put in here with her starboard bow stove in and her forepeak full of water.

The Emir floated only a few minutes after the collision. Sixty-nine passengers and twenty-four of the crew went down with the ship.

Twelve of the crew and fifteen passengers were saved. All the passengers were French.

The Emir was a vessel of 1,291 tons and was owned at Marseilles by the Compagnie de Navigation Mixte.

Mansell, Toronto; grand registrar, George Parsons, Sarnia.

The convention has been a great success comprehending some 400 knights represent the order from coast to coast.

Tip From Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—Dirty faces and hands are likely to be numerous in Chicago. An ordinance prohibiting the use of roller towels in public places will become effective, and unless provision is made in the meantime to provide individual towels in public washrooms, patrons of these places will have to go with unwiped faces and hands or use their handkerchiefs.

Boy Drowned In the Gatineau.

Ottawa, Aug 10.—Peter Kehoe, the seven-year-old son of a Postoffice Department employe, was drowned near Farrelton, on the Gatineau River, yesterday while bathing.

Mackenzie at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—Sir William Mackenzie will consult with the city on Friday regarding the proposed sale of the Winnipeg Electric Railway holdings in the city.

U. S. CROP SUFFERS.

Washington Bulletin Shows Worst State of Affairs In a Long Time.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 10.—A tremendous decline in the condition of crops, general throughout the country and traceable to drought and intense heat, occurred during the last month, as indicated by official figures and estimates made yesterday, in the monthly crop report of the Department of Agriculture. The report yesterday was worse, as to general crop conditions, that the Department has issued for any single month since 1901.

The area most seriously affected extends from New York and Pennsylvania westward to the Rocky Mountains, embracing all of the great corn, wheat and hay producing states in the country. In the southern States, with the exception of Virginia and North Carolina, ample rains served to maintain generally favorable conditions throughout the past month. These conditions thus far continue to be favorable.

Conditions in the Pacific northwestern states are regarded as excellent, although during July that territory suffered from a brief, but excessively hot period.

Western Crops' Reports.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—Lack of warmth and real steady sunshine is responsible for many late reports to the effect that it will be another two weeks before harvesting is general throughout the west. Cutting has commenced wih a vengeance in many districts, but speculation still varies as to the probable average yield, even where cutting is under way.

In several districts, it is claimed by crop specialists, that cutting will not commence for three weeks or possibly a month, but the concensus of opinion is to the effect that the harvest will be in full swing within a fortnight. Rumors and denials of damage to crops continue to flood the city, but all are equally lacking in authenticity. Another big instalment of eastern harvesters is expected within the next two days.

Weather Very Unfavorable.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—The weather map attracted a good deal of attention on the floor yesterday. The general opinion was that it was about as bad as it could be. Rain has been general over the entire west and the temperatures were still low. About 66 was the average high point of the day, and the mean in several cases in Saskatchewan and Manitoba and on the Calgary-Edmonton line was no more than 36 or 37.

At these temperatures an attack of frost is imminent, and during the day, the weather favors the rust. Yesterday, however, the prophet says temperatures will be higher.

Medals Unfairly Given.?

Montreal, Aug. 10.—A man, who has crossed the continent and is now in hot pursuit of the Governor-General, arrived in Montreal yesterday, in the person of J. N. Muir of Vancouver, B.C. Mr. Muir claims to represent the school children of the Pacific province, and is determined to do all in his power to have an alleged grievance rectified.

Mr. Muir occupied the position of principal of Victoria High School for some years, but has now retired.

His contention is that in the years 1906 and 1907, medals that were to go to the best students at the high school entrance examinations of British Columbia, were not given to the best students, but were wrongly distributed, and deserving boys and girls were deprived of their rights.

The Governors-General of the Dominion have, since Lord Dufferin's time, granted each year bronze medals to the Province of British Columbia to be awarded to the children of the public schools on the results of the high school entrance examinations. Mr. Muir claims that during the past six years, thirty-seven have been given unfairly. He will have Earl Grey see to this at once.

Had Lucky Escape.

Brantford, Aug. 10.—Roy McKellar, a friend of Pop Williams, owner of the Berlin ball club, while driving the latter's auto out of the ball grounds here yesterday afternoon, had a miraculous escape on the Gilkinson street crossing of the Grand Trunk.

Some freight cars were being shunted along the street and struck the auto, McKellar barely jumping in time to escape. The automobile was a total wreck and had there been a number of occupants in it, a bad fatality would have occurred.

The sum of $10,000 was received by President Wedlake of the Y.M.C.A. here yesterday from Lord Strathcona for Brantford's new building. The donation was conditional, Brantford having to raise ninety thousand, and the condition was more than fulfilled.

Fire In Carlton Hotel.

London, Aug. 10.—Fire broke out through the roof the Carlton Hotel, at the corner of the Haymarket and Pall Mall last evening. Many fire engines were quickly summoned. Intense excitement prevailed in the district, which witnessed many thrilling escapes.

The fire was confined to the two upper storeys, and so far as known no one was hurt. The fire started in the top of the rear part near his Majesty's Theatre, and where the kitchens are situated. All the occupants of the portion of the hotel involved escaped.

Explosion Kills Two.

Rotterdam, Aug. 10.—A boiler on the Rhine steamer Guttenberg exploded yesterday with fatal results. Two sailors were killed, the captain and several passengers were seriously injured and three other persons are missing, and it is supposed that they were blown overboard. The funnel and portions of the boiler were hurled through the walls of a building on shore.

Engineer Had Close Call.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Hugh Alexander had a narrow escape from death and a 13-ton road roller lies in eight feet of water in Rickey's Creek, a tributary of the Rideau, on the Nepean side, near Manotick, as the result of the collapse of a bridge.

GREAT LONDON STRIKE.

London Dockmen Will Call Out Every Worker In Port.

London, Aug. 10.—At a meeting of strikers at Tower Hill yesterday afternoon, Benjamin Tillett, secretary of the Dock, Wharf, Riverside, and General Workers' Union of Great Britain, announced that orders had been issued for calling out every man of the port of London.

Referring to Home Secretary Churchill's statement in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the calling out of troops to suppress rioting, Tillett declared that if the Government used soldiers the dockmen would kill the Government as effectually as they intended to paralyze the trade of the port of London. The new order will increase the total strikers to 100,000.

Tons of California pears, Tasmanian apples, and French fruits are rotting in their crates, and Covent Garden is almost without fruit. Practically no business was done on the corn exchange, as the sellers were unable to guarantee delivery.

The fish porters have joined the strike movement, and there was no one to unload the fish trawlers that arrived in the Thames yesterday morning. The wholesale prices of chilled beef have advanced by seven to ten cents a pound since last Friday. The manager of one of the largest houses importing beef says that unless the strike is settled by to-night there will be the greatest beef famine that this country has ever known.

Bread Famine Feared.

London, Aug. 10.—Last night the combined Millers' Association of London telegraphed the Home Secretary asking for military protection against the striking dock hands.

A bread famine within the next three days is certain if present conditions prevail.

The mangled remains of John McInnes, a sailor, of the Glasgow liner Ben Cairn, was found yesterday morning on the wharf at Montreal, having been run over during the night by the harbor commisioner's engine.

Big Strike Impending.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—During the past few weeks through the efforts of International Organizer S. L. Landers of Hamilton, Ont., the men and women employed in the ready-made clothing industry have joined the union of the United Garment Workers of America, with headquarters in New York City. Two small independent unions, one coat pressers, one pant makers, have also affiliated with the parent body. The main object of the new organization is to "level up" conditions in the clothing industry in this province by agreement and conciliation if possible and by strike if necessary, says the organizer.

Mr. Landers says there are ten thousand men and women employed in the industry in Montreal whose working condition are very much inferior to their fellow workers in the same trade in other provinces. Forty nine hours per week is the prevailing time limit in Toronto, while in Montreal it is from 54 to 60 and over. Piece work, sub-contract and other conditions prevail here which do not prevail in the west.

A general organizer will arrive from New York the early part of next week to confer with Mr. Landers on the advisability of a general strike in Montreal in the tailoring industry.

Persian Financial Crisis.

London, Aug. 10.—The Times' Teheran correspondent thinks that in the face of the British protest the treasury gendarmerie scheme is likely to be dropped. He says Mr. Shuster, the Treasurer-General, takes an extremely despondent view as to the possibility of a reorganization of Persian financial affairs.

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 10.—The United States Government has declined the Australian proposal for a reciprocal two-cent postage arrangement.

VOTE WILL BE CLOSE

Veto Bill May Be Thrown Out of Lords After All.

Estimate of Various Factions In the House of Lords Shows That There Is Still a Possibility of Great Parliament Bill Being Sent Back to the Upper Chamber With a Cohort of New Nobles to Force It Through.

London, Aug. 10.—A counting of heads of the different factions in the Lords, the "Die Hards," the "Surrenderers," and the Ministerialists, has shown the possibility of a vote so surprisingly close that the prophets hesitate to say whether the Government will be defeated.

Should the bill be thrown out its next coming to the Upper Chamber will be in the company of a battalion of new barons strong enough to swamp any combination of Unionists.

The House was crowded.

It was the biggest muster of peers since the rejection of the Home Rule bill in 1893, and Lord Morley was supported by the largest force of radical peers gathered in the memory of the oldest members. A throng of eager members of the House of Commons crowded the steps around the throne. Peeresses in lightest summer costumes vigorously fanned themselves in a vain attempt to dissipate the overpowering heat.

Moving the consideration of the amendments of the House of Commons and the reasons for disagreeing with the Lords' amendments, Morley said that the Lansdowne amendment providing for the submission to a referendum of any grave issue before it received royal assent, had raised an inseparable barricade to an agreement between the Government and the Unionist majority in the Upper House.

Lord Salisbury asked Viscount Morley if the King gave assurances to the Government that he would create as many peers as they desired, without reference to the number required to pass the veto bill. Lord Morley declined to answer "such a very rash juvenile question." Lord Salisbury then said that the creating of new peers was a game both sides could play, and declared he was prepared to vote against the bill, whatever the consequences.

Viscount St. Aldwyn said he and his followers had been asked by the Earl of Halsbury to give such a vote as practically would compel the sovereign to create any number of peers. He declared he would never give a vote which would place the King in such a cruel position. He also denied he had tried to form a faction of Unionist peers to vote for the bill.

Lord Willoughby de Broke, the Duke of Bedford and the Duke of Marlborough supported the "no surrender policy." Lord de Broke declared that his friends never would throw up the sponge, no matter how many times the bill was sent to the country.

The debate was then adjourned until to-day.

In the lobbies of Parliament last night, the utmost uncertainty prevailed as to the result of the division in the House of Lords to-day on the veto bill. Mr. Balfour will start for Bad Gastein to take the waters, and this is held as a favorable sign that the bill will be passed, but there are so many peers who have not yet declared how they will vote that it is impossible to form an opinion as to the outcome, except that the division will be very

HE FELL TO HIS DEATH

Capt. Morrison, of Str. Acadian Walked Into an Open Hatch—Death Was Instantaneous

At the dock at Kingston last evening a distressing and fatal accident took place. The steamer Acadian, of the Merchants' Mutual Line, was at the port, laden, preparatory to leaving on her westbound trip. Captain Morrison went on board the vessel, and, not noticing that the hatchway was open, fell headlong into the hold, a distance of 25 or 30 feet. He sustained injuries which caused his death in a few minutes.

Capt. Delaney, of the steamer Beaverton, which was in port at Point Ann, was commissioned to proceed to Kingston to take charge of the Acadian and bring her up the bay.

The victim of the unfortunate accident was a man who was well known among the mariners and was highly esteemed. He was a comparatively young man, but leaves a wife and two small children. The remains, after being prepared for burial, were shipped to Sarnia, his late home, for interment.

NEWPORT SOCIETY IS BADLY SHOCKED

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 9.—Society circles were stunned to-day as the result of the elopement of Miss Julia Estelle French, favorite niece of Mrs Elsie French Vanderbilt, who divorced Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt with "Jack" Geraghty, her father's chauffeur. The couple were married in Central Village, Conn., at 2 o'clock this morning, after having been chased across the state by the father of the bride.

When the couple, after a record breaking trip through the night reached Central Village, they hurriedly secured a license, and the ceremony was peformed by Rev. Perry of Hudson, N. H., who was a guest at the Central Village Hotel.

After the marriage the couple continued their flight toward New York It was some hours later that Amos Tuck French, father of the bride, arrived. He said he would never become reconciled to the wedding, and would consult his lawyers to see if he could not have the marriage annulled.

Geraghty is a Newport product who has been a chauffeur for the "smart set" for some time. He is known to the society women as "Handsome Jack."

WOMAN SLEUTH BEATS THE MEN

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 9.—The prosecution in the trial of the McNamaras, the alleged dynamiters, will summon, it is said, about 150 witnesses, and the defence fully as many. Detectives are to be sent to all parts of the country to summon persons wanted as witnesses.

The dectectives employed by the District Attorney's office are not having the success in locating those who are wanted, as are the women detectives. One young woman alone served 52 subpoenas in San Francisco and vicinity, where, it is said, the men could find none of the persons wanted.

COLEMAN FLATS WON A POORLY PLAYED GAME FROM THE S. C. C.

Game was Close in First Stage but, there Was a Bad Inning for the Boys in Blue—Many Errors by Both Teams

To the tune of 10 to 7 the Coleman Flats baseball team yesterday afternoon defeated the Steel Company of Canada team in a City League match. There was a rather small attendance of spectators at the game, although the half holiday was in vogue. In their half of the first innings the S.C.C. team secured two runs, and in the third innings the Coleman Flats went one better and secured three runs. The latter team secured a decided lead in the game at the sixth innings when five players crossed the plate. At times fairly good ball was played by both teams. Mr Wm. Cochrane was umpire, performing that duty in an impartial and satisfactory manner. The play by innings was as follows:

WOMAN SENTENCED TO CHAIN GANG

IOLA, Kan., Aug 9.—Iola city officials, with the exception of Municipal Judge Smeltzer, are up in arms because a woman has been sentenced to don a pair of bloomers and join the street gang from the city jail. Judge Smeltzer yesterday sentenced Mrs. Ella Reese to the street gang and ordered that city officials provide her with the bloomers.

Street Commissioner Glynn refused to have a woman in the chain gang.

Mrs. Reese did not go to work breaking rock or sweeping the streets to-day because the bloomers had not been provided, and the officials say they will not allow the woman to carry out the sentence imposed upon her.

FARMERS' WIVES AND THE PACT

In apportioning the credit for making Canada the smiling land of plenty and the progressive country it is today, full justice is always done to the farmer, but how seldom is it rendered to the farmer's wife? How backward would rural Ontario be if woman's part in the economic making of it had not been contributed. The men cleared the land, and the men till it, but their wives and daughters and sisters have helped greatly to swell the proceeds and to make the farm districts of the country attractive. It is to woman's thrift that the enormous returns for butter and eggs are principally to be set down. The fine homes, the substantial barns and the improvements constantly going on in the comforts and elegancies of farm life are in a large measure attributable to woman's activity in the farm economy. Is a home market in which the women of Canada have sold hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of produce to be turned over to competitors in the United States? It will be very largely if the Knox-Fielding pact is established. Offers of eggs are made to Toronto dealers at prices several cents below those current here. Creamery butter is offered at Chicago at three cents a pound less than the price paid here. No farmers in the world have a better home market than the farmers of Ontario. If the reciprocity pact is established, that market will be swamped with supplies from across the line and the prices will be brought down. This country has not as yet developed the enormous cold storage plants that have grown in the provision centres of the United States, and this country will have little chance to develop them once it throws open its market to supplies from that quarter. The women of Canada's agricultural districts should use their influence to ensure the defeat of the pact, and thus preserve the market for the products they contribute to trade.—Mail and Empire.

SICK WIFE'S BED WAS SET ON FIRE

Farmer Was Anxious to See She Really Was Ill

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—Charles Dubois a farmer from St. Pierre de Wakefield was brought to the Hull jail by Bailiff de Coell, of Hull, on a warrant charging him with assault on his wife and members of his family. He will come up before Magistrate Desjardines in the Hull police court to-morrow. He is alleged to have set fire to the bed on which his wife lay sick, just to ascertain if she were really ill or not. When the unfortunate woman jumped from the bed to escape being burned, it is claimed he swore she was shamming sickness and made her work around the house.

On another occasion, it is alleged he chased the whole family into the woods with two sticks of dynamite.

Four years ago he stabbed a neighbor in the course of a quarrel and bit off the top of the man's thumb.

THE BABY SHOW.

Last year the Baby Show at the Canadian National Exhibition had 380 entries and the fat little youngsters, whose mothers thought they were the best on earth, brought them from from all over the province. This year they are coming in even greater numbers, and in order to give all a chance, the different classes will be put on at different hours on Labor Day. Any sour old bachelors who do not like babies had better keep away from the Women's Rest Rooms on that date.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

BASE BALL

What was thought to be a world's record in baseball was established at Saginaw recently by Right Fielder Gilhooley of Adrian in a double-header with Saginaw. Gilhooley was legally at bat nine times and made nine hits two of them doubles. He also drew a base on balls, had one sacrifice hit, five stolen bases, stealing third twice and five runs. He has been sold to the St. Louis Browns.

WHEN "BUGS" MET "RUBE"

When "Bugs" Raymond, whose stunts with the Giants this year may explain the derivation of his first name, was a real but eccentric star in the National League, Rube Waddell was shining in a similar way in the American. Rube was at the height of his career then, and by reason of his wanderings from conventional paths was filling several columns of press-agent stuff in the newspapers every day.

Raymond's team happened to be in the same city where Rube was billed to perform and as it was an off day for Raymond he concluded to stroll over to the opposition camp and watch Rube in action.

When he reached the pass gate Raymond attempted to walk his way in.

"Thought I'd drop in and look this freak over," he said to the gateman.

"Got a pass?" the official demanded.

"Oh, no," said Bugs, easily. "Professional courtesy, you know old man. I'm a big leaguer. Merely wanted to see Rube pitch. They tell me he's so nutty the squirrels follow him. Funny how a bat like that can pitch about .999, isn't it?"

The gateman was silent.

"Been reading about him playing in alleys with the kids—marbles too—when the managers were searching the city for him to take his turn in the box," Raymond continued hopefully. "By George, he's sure a nuts, if all this stuff is true. Must be worth looking at, like to see him."

"You have got to show me something better than a vocabulary to get in here today," said the gateman.

"Why man you ought to pass me. I am Raymond of the National. Merely want to size up that freak you have caged there."

"Oh, you're Raymond, are you?"

"Yep."

"The one that they call Bugs?"

"Yep."

"Well, you wait a minute," said the gateman. "I'll bring Rube out to see YOU."

BOXING

LANG DEFEATED SQUIRES

BRISBANE, Australia, Aug. 9.—Bill Lang defeated Bill Squires in the fifth round to-day. The fight was for the heavyweight championship of Australia. Lang weighed in at 190 and Squires at 176 pounds. The odds were 4 to 1 on Lang, who had the best of it throughout. Four thousand people saw the bout.

PORKY FLYNN WON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Porky Flynn of Boston, outpointed and outboxed Jim Barry of Chicago, in a ten-round bout at the Twentieth Century Athletic Club here to-night. Flynn had the advantage in every round but the first and showed some clever work attributed by the fight followers to his recent association with Sam Langford as a sparring partner. Barry, who seemed to have little, but rather a wild swing, took a good beating through repeated rights and lefts on the wind and over the heart, and right smashes over the kidneys which Flynn landed.

BREEZY LITTLE SQUIBS.

They're making preparations for a rip-snorter of a crowd at the Wolgast-McFarland fuss at Milwaukee, Sept. 18. It will be the biggest that ever saw a fight in that neck of the woods. Mal[illegible] who is going to stage the mill, is figuring on a $40,000 house.

The signing of Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, for an Australian tour under the direction of Hugh D. McIntosh, means another opponent for Jack Johnson when the big negro champion visits the antipodes. Flynn has been considering the matter for sometime but in Chicago he attached his name to a contract arranged by T. S. Andrews, representing Mr. McIntosh. According to the contract, Flynn will sail for Australia on Oct. 1, and will take his brother with him, but first of all he wants to meet the white hope, Carl Morris, and then he will be ready to depart for the land of the kangaroo.

Owen Moran, the Birmingham lightweight, in an interview which appeared in the London Sporting Life on his return to England after his defeat by Wolgast, expressed the opinion that neither "Matt" Wells nor Fred Welsh would have any chance with the latter in a match for the championship, for the simple reason that Wolgast, who recently beat Moran, was far too rough. "The fact is I am more than ever convinced," continued Moran, "that referees in England are too strict. Until they cease to discourage in-fighting there is no prospect of England winning any of the championships."

Despite small gate receipts at Montreal this season, President Sam Lichtenstein will finish a winner. He has turned down an offer of $7,500 for Dubuc and is asking fancy prices from the major league magnates for three other players. Samuel has fixed price tags as follows: Ward Miller, centre fielder, purchased from Cincinnati, $8,000; Billy Burke, the Seton Hall College southpaw, $7,000; John Dubuc, the righthanded gunner from Notre Dame College, South Bend, Ind. via Cincinnati and Buffalo, $10,000; Charley Hanford, the former Jersey City right fielder $5,000.

Baseball on the far coast yields its promoters encouraging profits. "This year Sacramento," says a Pacific coast baseball man, "will be the only club to fall under the $15,000 profit mark. The others are making high above that figure."

Ex-Pirate Ward Miller, of Montreal, is leading the Eastern in stolen bases with 42. Dolan, of the Jersey Citys, is pressing him closely with 39.

The story of a ball sticking in a knot hole in the fence and giving the batter a home run, told as an extraordinary incident, was duplicated in a recent game in the Washington State League, when at Raymond, Triplet hit one against the fence that "stuck" and made the circle before the ball could be dug out.

According to a late batch of records the Pirates lead the National League in double plays, having made 83 thus far this season. Second to Pittsburg is Brooklyn with 69 two-ply killings. Cleveland heads the American League with 77 double killings and Boston is next on the list with 63.

All that is left of the fortune made in the prize ring by Ketchel, once middleweight champion, came to $103.20 when his estate was settled in the Probate Court at San Francisco yesterday.

SAM LANGFORD WON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Sam Langford, the Canadian negro, won from Jim Smith in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round bout at the Fairmount A. C. to-night, the referee stopping the bout after Smith had gone to the floor for the count of nine. Smith was practically out when the bout was stopped. Smith was on his feet at the finish, but was staggering and to all appearances without ability to further protect himself.

WINNER MEETS WOLGAST.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—George Macdonald, manager of Matt. Wells, the English lightweight champion, announced to-day that he had matched Wells to meet Knockout Brown, the New York lightweight, on August 30 in this city. Macdonald said the men had agreed to meet at 133 pounds weighing in at 4 p. m., and that Charley White had been selected as referee It is expected, Macdonald said, that Wolgast will make a match with the winner of the bout.

THE TURF

CANADIAN PACER WON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Hal Direct, the black stallion owned by Brooks & Woodruff, of Oshawa, Ont., and driven by Van Woodruff, won the 2.11 pace in straight heats at the Brooklyn Driving Club races to-day. His time was 2.13 3-4, 2.13 1-4 and 2.10 1-2. Hal Direct was pitted against a strong field, but held his position safely at all times.

UHLAN IN TWO MINUTES.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 8.—Uhlan, the champion trotting gelding, owned by C. K. G. Billings of New York, equalled the world's trotting record to wagon at the North Randall track here today, stepping the mile in two minutes flat.

Conditions that were not exactly favorable prevented his breaking the record established by Lou Dillon at Memphis, Tenn., on Oct. 28, 1903, when she did the mile in similar time. The track was not as fast as usual. A fitful breeze also hampered him.

Mr. Billings drove the gelding. When he steered his champion past the three quarters pole in 1.30 the immense crowd present felt sure the record would be broken, for Uhlan has always been noted for his finishing strength. However, he faltered slightly on the stretch, and when the judges, after a comparison of watches, finally announced the time, it was found that he had failed to lower the record.

The quarter was timed at .29 1-4, the half at .59 3-4, and the three-quarters at 1.30.

LOW GRADE ORE MAKES GOOD GRADE OF TOOL STEEL

New Method of Treatment in Electric Furnace Has Excellent Results—The Inventor is a Belleville Man

Titaniferous iron ore, which has been regarded as of little or no value up to the present, can now be utilized and made directly into steel by a new electric process. Quebec and Ontario abound in Titaniferous ore and an invention which makes the use of this ore commercially practicable should prove of the utmost value to the provinces concerned, and also to the whole of Canada, to say the least.

At some interesting experiments witnessed in the workshops of the Mining School at McGill University on Saturday, conducted by Mr. J. W. Evans, of Belleville, Ont., it was successfully demonstrated that tool-steel, superior in quality to ordinary tool-steel and almost equal in hardness and effectiveness to high speed tool-steel, could be produced in an electric furnace, direct from titaniferous ore at a small cost.

Attemps to use titaniferous iron ore in an ordinary blast furnace having proved futile, it occurred to Mr. Evans that the ore might be made a marketable commodity if electricity could be applied to its treatment, and seven years ago he started experimenting in a small way. Early meeting with what he considered promising success, he prosecuted his experiments with increasing vigor and enthusiasm and to-day has a large experimental plant at his residence.

He had successfully proved that he can produce tool steel, directly from the ore, in a 5 ton electric furnace, at 2 cents a lb., which is just about as cheap as ordinary pig-iron can be produced, and claims that this is the first time that tool-steel has been made directly from any description of iron ore.

The furnace experimented with at McGill on Saturday was a ½ ton furnace, into which 230 lbs. of ore was placed and from which 110 lbs. of steel was run out into moulds. The moulds were of the same shape as lathe and planer tools and all that was required after the molten metal was tapped into the moulds was to have the tools finished off ready for use. The plant is stated to be simple and cheap.

Patents have been taken out in Canada and the United States for this process in the name of J. W. Evans and Dr. Stanfield, of McGill University, and negotiations are proceeding for patent rights in the United Kingdom.

—The late Lord Young of the Scottish bench was responsible for enlivening many a dull case. One of the remarks that fell from his lips was the reply to a counsel who urged on behalf of a plaintiff of very bibulous appearance: "My client, my lord, is a most remarkable man, and holds a very responsible position; he is manager of some water works."

After a long look the judge answered: "Yes, he looks like a man who could be trusted with any amount of water."

Disillusioned

"Do you know anything about flirting."

"No," he replied. "I thought I did, but when I tried it the girl married me."

That absence makes the heart grow fonder but presents have been known to have the same effect.

LAST LINK FORGED IN BEATTIE CASE

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 10—The last link in the circumstantial case against Henry Clay Beattie, jr. was forged for the prosecution yesteday when two physicians were found who will testify that there was not a grain of powder on young Mrs. Beattie's face but that inside the gaping wound both gunpowder stains and the wadding from the cartridge were found.

Had the weapon been leveled at a distnce of a foot or more the face would have borne some traces of powder. Beattie will be indicted next Monday. Both sides declare that they are ready for trial.

These witnesses leave no room for doubt that the shotgun used was presed against Mrs. Beattie's face and discharged.

PUBLIC TO PARTICIPATE IN CANADA BREAD COMPANY LTD.

CAWTHRA MULOCK & CO. TORONTO, OFFER $1,250,000 OF THE 6 PER CENT. BONDS OF THE COMPANY. BONDS ARE TO BE ISSUED. IN DENOMINATIONS OF $100 EACH, SO THAT SMALL INVESTORS MAY BENEFIT.

TORONTO, August 11.—(Special)—Following on the successful organization here of Canada Bread Company Limited, the new big company which will have its modern plants in all the larger cities of Canada, Messrs. Cawthra Mulock & Co., members Toronto Stock Exchange, announce an offering of $1,250,000 of the 6% First Mortgage Sinking Fund Thirty Year Gold Bonds of the company at 98½ the same to carry with them a bonus of 25% of common stock.

Canada Bread Company, Limited starts out with plants in Montreal Toronto, and Winnipeg, and these will be added to forthwith so as to bring the total output of the different plants up to one million loaves of bread per week before the end of the company's fiscal year. The $1,000,000 being placed in the treasury will be sufficient, according to Mr Mark Bredin the vice-president and general manager, to gradually increase the company's output to two million loaves a week, which would make an annual production of one hundred million loaves.

On the present plants and additional ones that will be erected forthwith Mr. Mark Bredin estimates that the earnings of the company by the end of its fiscal year should amount to $260,000, equal to over three and one-half times the interest requirements on the entire bond issue, and with its present capital should steadily expand until its earnings reach over $530,000 a year, which is equal to over seven and one-half times the bond interest.

With a view of making the bonds more particularly popular with small investors the company has arranged to issue them in denominations of $100 as well as of $500 and $1000.

CURRENT COMMENT

NOT AN ELECTION DODGE

The importation of sheep from the United States for slaughter and consumption in Canada is not, as the Globe and the Toronto Star have asserted, a mere dodge for election purposes. The Intelligencer has been enabled to state on unquestionable authority that mutton of United States origin has been sold in Belleville SINCE NOVEMBER LAST. Beef has also, for several months past, been imported from the United States into Canada, and sold in large quantities in this country. This information is furnished free of charge to the papers named and to the local Grits who have been snooping about the butcher shops making inquiries on the subject, to which they added false statements.

Laurier and the neutral navy.

People have been drowned in a bath tub before now, but it takes a Liberal M. P. to commit political suicide in a can of paint.—Ottawa Journal.

Well-digging, gardening and general repairs around your premises have been added to ice cream swallowing as legal Sunday occupations, by a Toronto judge. This should put time-honored fishing almost in the Sunday school class.—Ottawa Journal.

LAURIER AND LOOT!

Some United States travellers in Canada are expressing their surprise that there should be any opposition to the reciprocity agreement Mr Fielding made at Washington. They may still be further surprised on September 21. All Canadians are not as easy for a foreigner to "work" as is the present Minister of Finance.

Reciprocity is not a party question nor is it a question to be considered with regard to its effects in individual interests. It is a national question It involves the integrity of our country, and should have the same consideration from every thinking man as would the intrusion of a stranger into his household.

LAURIER AND LARGER MARKETS FOR YANKEES.

CHICAGO BEEF IN CANADA.

In the wider market—Chicago.

Where will all the hotels buy their meat when reciprocity comes in?

In the wider market—Chicago.

Why, how does that help the Canadia farmer, Mr. Globe?

Why, he gets a wider market for his beans.

Greater Montreal now boasts a population of 554,000. If Greater Toronto comes within 100,000 of her older sister in the new census; it means that these two cities contain one million inhabitants. Should "rep. by prop." apply impartially to city and country? Assuming that Canada numbers eight millions, one-eighth of the new parliament, or twenty-seven members should be shared between the Ontario and Quebec capitals.—Spectator.

The Toronto Globe and Star are still involved in a pipe dream about barley. Barley such as the U. S maltsters require cannot now be profitably grown in this district, because it will not yield more than ten bushels per acre, and the Globe and its confrere are aware of the fact. The price which was realized for eighteen years previous to the stoppage of export by the McKinley tariff, was from 70 to 74 cents per bushel, not 90 cents as stated by the Grit papers.

Reciprocity is now being defended as a "back to the land" measure This is getting a little ahead of the train, however. The first effect of reciprocity will be to decrease the winnings of the real farmer by letting the competition of the cheaper American farm products, and the dumping of the twelve most favored nations into his market. But the next step—the smashing of our industries—will send us "back to the land" or over to the American cities.—Montreal Star.

W. K. George, ex-president of the Toronto Reform Association:—We have been growing in the belief that on this continent we were developing a great, strong, self-reliant, clean nation—men of the north, unconquered and unconquerable, destined to become one of the foremost nations of the earth, with the prospect of becoming the dominant partner in the grandest empire the world has known. I dread this agreement as the first step away from those ideals.

Word is coming in of the splendidly organized condition of the province of Ontario from a Conservative standpoint. The party is in a much better position to put up a winning fight than it was in 1908, and while it is true that the time for prediction with many candidates not yet nominated, is not yet ripe, there is a feeling of buoyant optimism among the organizers that the banner province will on this occasion do much to drive the nails home in the lid of the Laurier coffin.

A telegram from Montreal states that Mr. J. Adelard Lanctot, the former member for Richelieu, who was rejected by his party convention for corruption of which the Grits in Parliament acquitted him, has declared his intention to run against the candidate whom the convention chose in preference to him. What will the Globe now do? It declared that Lanctot, who appeared to be a man after its own heart, ought to have his majority of a thousand or more doubled in the forthcoming election.

A telgeram from Montreal says: The legal profession is sending in protests against the elevation of the Hon Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, to the Supreme Court of Canada, on the ground of his unfitness for the position. It is a known fact that the bench is disgusted with the manner in which judicial positions have been filled; political claims, not legal ability, having been the grounds upon which judges have of late been appointed. One thing is certain—if Mr. Brodeur makes no better judge than he did Minister of the Crown God help the litigants.

President Taft in his article in Leslie's Weekly points out that, compared with the United States, Canada is no longer a cheap country to live in. A main reason for this new state of affairs is that the Laurier Government has increased the amount collected in federal taxes from the Canadian people till it exceeds the amount collected in federal taxes from the people of the United States. The yearly rate in the United States is only $33.35 per family. In Canada it is $50.20 a family. The $22.85 difference against Canada, if remitted would make many a family more comfortable.—Monteral Gazette.

Miss Skeeter's Death

When the summer sky is azure blue
When your heart is light and your love is true;
When you sole idea of a joyous lark
Is a slender waist in a spot quite dark;
When you have the place and the girl and that,
And you're sitting there for a quiet chat;
When you scratch and thrash, and slap and swear,
And you claw and slash, and he's not there.
If you want relief invest a quarter—
And SKEETER SKOOT will complete the slaughter.

DON'T LET THE FARMER HAVE A "TURN-DOWN"

From the Toronto World:—

"Let the farmer have his turn, to export wheat, barley, rye and oats to the United States at a high price," say the advocates of "Reciprocity."

"The world price of wheat, barley rye and oats is fixed abroad where the surplus from the producing countries is disposed of, and is little affected by the place from which the supply is derived," says President Taft.

"Let the farmer have his turn" to export cattle to the United States say the advocates of "Reciprocity."

"Canada cannot fatten cattle as they are fattened in the United States, and therefore, it has become very profitable to import young cattle from Canada, even with the duty on them, and to fatten them for the Chicago market," says President Taft.

"Let the farmer have his turn," to sell his hogs in the United States, say the advocates of "Reciprocity."

"A very material benefit to all the farmers of the country, especially the stock and cattle raisers and the dairy farmers, will be the by-products of bran and shorts from the flour mills likely to follow the free exports of wheat from Canada to those mills These by-products are now so scarce that many farmers are unable to procure them," says President Taft.

"Let the farmer have his turn" to export horses to the United States, say the advocates of "Reciprocity."

"The United States exports to Canada a great many more horses than she imports from Canada," says President Taft.

"Let the farmer have his turn," at exporting meat and dairy products to the United States, say the advocates of "Reciprocity."

"The United States exports to Canada about fifteen times as much of meat and dairy products as Canada exports to the United States," says President Taft.

"Let the farmer have his turn" to export potatoes to the United States say the advocates of "Reciprocity."

"The United States send to Canada a much larger amount of potatoes than she receives from her," says President Taft.

"Let the farmer have his turn," at competing with the farmers of the United States in the market of ninety millions, say the advocates of "Reciprocity."

"The argument that to give free trade in fram products to the Canadian farmer, is to give him an advantage, is not true," says President Taft.

"Let the farmer have his turn," in building up a market for the future say the advocates of "Reciprocity."

"If Canada continues to grow, what may we not expect to sell her if we reduce the tariff wall, introduce as near as we can our free trade, and she increases her population from 7,000,000 to 30,000,000? Shall we not be flying in the face of Providence to maintain a wall between us and such a profitable market as she will furnish us?" says President Taft.

If the American farmer is able to get his "turn" in the Canadian market to-day, with the handicap of the restrictive tariff, how much of a "turn" will he leave for the Canadian farmer when the restriction is removed?

BRITISH JOURNALISTS TOURING CANADA

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—Twelve British newspapermen, members of the British Press Association representing some of the principal British newspapers, who as guests of the Dominion Government will spend the next two months touring Canada and writing their impressions for their papers, arrived this morning at Rimouski aboard the SS. Victorian and left at once for Prince Edward Island and the Maritime Provinces.

The party, which is in charge of Mr. Obed Smith, Canadian Superintendent of Immigration at Liverpool is made up of Messrs. William Alexander, of the Aberdeen Free Press; R H. H. Baird, of the Belfast Evening Telegraph; J. F. Chapter, of the Westminster Gazette; J. P. Croal, of The Scotsman; W. J. Hudson, of the Western Mail; Charles Lucas, of Titbits; Thomas Noles, of the Irish Post; H. C. Patton, representing several Norfolk papers; John Roberts, North Wales Times; Edgar Rowan, London Chronicle, Wilfred Rutherford, Financial News, London; C. W. Starmer Sheffield Independent.

The party will arrive in Montreal on the 21st, and spend the 22nd in St Anne de Bellevue where they will inspect the Macdonald College. On the evening of the 23rd they will leave for Ottawa and thence westerly through Ontario and Manitoba.

The purpose of the tour, which will close on the first of October will be to acquaint the newspaper men with Canadian conditions and to give them every opportunity to see Canada as it is, and the opportunities which it offers to the emigrating portion of the population of Great Britain and Ireland. Each of the newspaper men making the tour will write a series of articles for his paper during the tour. In this way the immigration department of the Department of the Interior will be given a perfect opportunity to become acquainted with Canada as a possible home.

LETITIA

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

Copyright 1908 by the C. M. Clark Pub. Co., Boston, Mass. Used by Permission

In a few moments Grant appeared shook hands in a friendly manner, and sat down, facing him. The Frenchman opened the subject without delay.

"You have arrived at a decision?" he asked in a low voice.

"Yes; I am prepared to pay for all the pleasure I enjoy."

"That is well."

"What are your terms?"

"Vell, de lady is my wife, and it is not right for anodder man to take up all her time; but as she prefer your company to mine, it does not seem that she would be satisfied to life wit her husband any more. I feel de loss of her presence so much dat I I cannot sleep me at night, nor take pleasure in de day. I am a forsaken man, wit no home pleasures, for she is not dere. But if she will not life wit me, I cannot compel her, as she say dis is a free country, and de wife has rights as vell as de husband. I tinks de matter ofer very much last night, and decide, if you like to gif me two tousand dollars I vill not trouble you any more, but go away and leave you to enjoy life togedder."

"A very reasonable offer, considering the loss of your home's happiness," replied Grant sympathetically. "And for how long will that sum satisfy you?"

"For effer. I vill not trouble you so long as I life. I vill leaf de ceety at once, and nefer come back."

"And you agree to refrain from interfering with the lady or myself directly or indirectly?"

"Absolutely."

"I want that distinctly understood If I am to buy you off, I shall expect you to keep out of our way. We cannot for an instant countenance a repetition of your demands. You must leave the city at once."

He looked at Grant suspiciously but his apparent wish to retain the lady's company at any cost satisfied him, and he agreed to leave.

"My money is deposited in the hotel safe. As it would not, under the circumstances be proper to give you a check, I provided the cash. Please remain here. I will return presently."

He went directly to the lady's sitting-room and found Miss Whiting dressed for the street and awaiting his coming. On pretense of wishing to speak to the landlord he led her through the office, and then into the reception room by way of a side door near where DeLaurie was seated, and they were close to him before he was aware of their presence.

"Miss Whiting, do you know this man?" he asked as they stood before him.

She looked straight into the Frenchman's face and answered without a change of countenance or hesitancy in voice:

"No——I do not."

"Have you ever seen him before?"

"Never to my knowledge."

"He claims to be your husband, and is here by appointment to receive two thousand dollars as satisfaction for the loss of hapiness, and my continued pleasure of your company."

An indignant flush spread over her beautiful features as she met his defiant look. He realized his position but determined to brazen it out.

"And do you believe him?" she asked, looking calmly into her companion's face.

"Not for an instant. I simply brought you before him, feeling satisfied as to the result. If it were true I would pay double the demand to liberate you from such a wretch."

Miss Whiting began to tremble and grasped Grant's arm for support. He led her to a seat and then turned to DeLaurie.

"What have you to say?"

"She is my wife," he persisted in a loud voice, springing to his feet and facing his opponent.

"Where did you meet her?" asked Grant, leading him on.

"In Denver."

"How long ago?"

"Two years."

"Is she an eastern lady?"

"She is from Virginia."

"Then how does it occur that she came from Alabama to meet her brother and father?"

"She is not from Alabama, and has no fadder nor brudder."

"She has ample proof."

"If she say she come from Alabama she is a liar. I——"

The back of Grant's hand struck his mouth with sufficient force to start the blood.

His hand went to his hip pocket but a quick blow sent him to the floor, and before he could recover, Grant had snatched the weapon from his hand, and coolly handed it to Mr Mansfield, who was a close and interested spectator.

Instantly the lithe Frenchman was upon his feet and rushed at his antagonist, but the equally supple product of the Green Mountains met his thrusts, blocking and side-stepping with an ease that surprised and puzzled the scienced professor, who anticipated an easy victory.

Suddenly Grant's vicious right shot through an opening and the professor again went to the floor. Then, as DeLaurie rose again and clenched, Grant threw him with the utmost ease.

By this time the guests and outsiders had gathered to witness the contest, and recognizing the handsome Easterner as one of the participants the interest became intense.

BIG RANSOM FOR GERMAN PROFESSOR

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 10.—An offer of a ransom of $15,000 has been made by friends on behalf of Professor Edourd Richter, a German geologist who was captured by brigands two months ago while making the ascent of Mount Olympus, near Thessaly.

The brgiands have demanded $250,000 as well as presents of jewels, but the Turkish Government have declined to recognize any claims, and has sent two bodies of troops to capture the brigands.

In order to obtain information of the brigands' whereabouts the inhabitants of the surrounding villages were soundly flogged, although without effect.

The professor has now wirtten a letter beseeching payment of the ransom to put an end to his sufferings Negotiations are proceeding between the brigands and the professor's friends.

WOMAN KILLED BOY AND HERSELF

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—After two unsuccessful atempts Mrs. Sara Sautek of Hibing, Minn., succeeded in ending her life and that of her six-year-old son Leo to-day in a room in a Broadwey hotel. Mrs. Sautek registered yesterday and she was to have sailed this morning for her old home in Austria.

By inhaling gas the woman killed her son and herself. When the odor of gas was noticed the first two times she was warned to be careful, it being thought she was not familiar with the workings of the jet. No reason is known for her act.

SON FINDS FORTUNE HIDDEN BY FATHER

IOWA CITY, Ia., Aug. 10.—While digging up the foundation of an old barn which is to be replaced by a new structure, T. T. Mead, a farmer residing just north of the city, saw something shining in a spadeful of earth which he was about to throw to one side, and, making a closer examination found it to be a five dollar gold piece.

Digging depeer, he finally unearthed a small wooden box, which contained $3,000, all in gold.

Mr. Mead said last night that there is no question but that the money was "cached" there by his father, who died a few years ago. He can give no reason for this strange procedure on the part of his parent, however, who followed modern business methods, and usually deposited his money in one of the Iowa City banks.

FLOUR FROM THE MILL direct to us is naturally cleaner than if it had been subjected to many handlings. Cleanliness, however, is not its only virtue. It makes better, and goes farther than any other flour we know. If you make good bread now, try our flour and make better. You'll save a little, too, because you can make the same sized loaf with less flour.

The Real Side of The Shield

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his organs have been telling our farmers all about getting free entrance into the market of ninety millions: Look at the tariff bars the Yankees are taking down. They do not tell them about the bars that protect the Canadian farmers' home market and which are to be taken down by reciprocity. Here they are:

Cattle	25 per cent.	Free
Horses, value less than $50	$12.50 each	"
Other horses	25 per cent.	"
Swine	1 1-4c. a lb.	"
Sheep and lambs	25 per cent.	"
Other live animals	25 per cent.	"
Poultry, alive	25 per cent.	"
Poultry, dead	20 per cent.	"
Meats, fresh	3c. a lb.	1 1-4c. a lb.
Meats, canned	27 1-2 per cent.	20 per cent.
Bacon and hams	2c. a lb.	1 1-4c. a lb.
Butter	4c. a lb.	Free
Cheese	3c. a lb.	"
Eggs	3c. a doz.	"
Honey	3c. a lb.	"
Apples	40c. a bbl.	"
Peaches	$1 per 100 lbs.	"
Grapes	2c. a lb.	"
Berries	2c. a lb.	"

On all these things we are giving the American farmer free entrance into the Canadian market. He can beat the Canadian on:

BEEF,
LAMBS,
BACON,
EGGS,
BUTTER,
FRESH FRUIT,
SHEEP,
HOGS,
HAMS,
POULTRY,
HONEY, VEGETABLES.

Sifton And Reciprocity

Hon. Clifford Sifton, who in the past has been one of the stunchest supporters and admirers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and who was in fact one of his Ministers for years, has given his reasons to his former constituents why he opposes reciprocity and why he is not a candidate at the coming election. It were well if every Liberal in the Dominion would weigh thoroughly the reasons he advances for the position he has taken. He says:—

"As you are aware, I have, after the fullest consideration, deemed it my duty to oppose the leading feature of the policy of the government, the reciprocity treaty, which is now before the country. The reasons for this decision have been stated in Parliament and steps have been taken to place them in your hands. It is therefore unnecessary to state the questions here. It is sufficient to say that I regard the treaty as commercially of no advantage, from a national standpoint, disastrous in the extreme. I believe that it will, if carried into effect, have the most prejudicial effect upon our progress towards a strong, independent influential position in the British Empire, a position towards which we have lately been advancing with wonderful rapidity. The principle involved is much more important than the continuance in power, or even the existence of any party. It is a question which goes to the root of our national life and development. Holding this opinion, it is obvious that the principle of party loyalty could not be invoked to guide my actions, and it became my plain duty to act upon my convictions and offer the strongest possible resistance to the ratifying of the treaty.

"CLIFFORD SIFTON."

Sir Allan Aylesworth.

Many reasons have been advanced for the retirement of the Hon. Sir Allan Aylsworth from the Laurier Government. It is an open secret that it was not until he had been coaxed and flattered that he accepted the office of Minister of Justice. His reluctance to enter the Cabinet was not because he had any objections to the Laurier combination, for he is as tightlaced a Grit as is to be found in the Province, but private reasons weighed with him, probably his unfortunate deafness, which is now given as a reason for his retirement. It is believed, however, there is another reason. He is proud of his profession, and stands high in the ranks of the legal lights of the Province, hence he has, it is said, become disgusted and ashamed of the task of defending the many illegal and shady transactions of his political associates, so that what conscience he has left has compelled him, in order to save his legal reputation from further smerging, to leave the sinking ship. It is to be hoped that we are not too charitable. Fear of re-election may have had some weight in leading him to retire. Other reasons, such as we have indicated, we incline to believe prevailed.

The Farmers' Bank Promises.

The Government is trying to make its peace with and mollify the losers by the failure of the Farmers' Bank, a bank established through fraud, the responsibility for which rests in a great measure upon the Finance Department of the Dominion.

A story comes from Ottawa that some of the heaviest losers by the failure of the bank were sent for by some member of the Government to "talk the matter over," and that when they reached the city they were most cordially received by one of the Ministers, who toadied them round in the most loving manner, and, with soft words, did everything but directly promise to come to the aid of the unfortunates. Consideration of the most drastic character was promised, which did not satisfy the hard-headed, honest farmer who had entrusted his money to the safe keeping of a bank to which Mr. Fielding, the Finance Minister, had given a charter to do business, though warned by responsible men not to do so on the ground that it was being organized in fraud and iniquity.

Dealing with this subject, the Montreal Gazette says:

"Depositors and stockholders in the Farmers' Bank seem to have chosen the election campaign period as a promising time for pressing the Government for relief. They may get some sympathy, and even some promises; but only from men who wish to deceive them. There is no law that will permit the Government to assume and pay private debts; and if any law is sought to be passed for the Farmers' Bank it will have to include the shareholders and depositors of the St. Jean, the St. Hyacinthe, the Yarmouth, the St. Stephen, the Ontario, the Sovereign, the Ville Marie and all the other broken institutions whose managers were unfortunate, or incapable or dishonest. Politicians' promises will only cheat them."

HON. C. S. HYMAN IS SELLING KISSES

Former Cabinet Minister Offers Candies for Kisses and Gets Many Takers

LONDON, Aug. 10.—In London pigs' feet and beer have supplanted candy and kisses in the Liberal calendar of corruption.

Let there be no mistake. The kisses were not of the candy variety. They were real genuine, honest to goodness kisses, ladened with germs.

Last night they had a real value for Chas. S. Hyman stood in front of Boomer's confectionery store advising all who passed that for each kiss he received he would give a box of candy. In his arms he had several packages of "Boomer's Best," and it was evident he stood ready to back up his declaration.

Ald. Hyman got his opportunity—sixty-three opportunities to be exact—for that is the number of candy boxes he gave away, and Mr. Hyman is a business man. He hands out nothing without a return.

When the offer was first made by this London edition of Lieutenant Hobson there came titters from the girls. They wanted the candy. They wanted the amusement—some of them But they were bashful. A leader was needed. And in a coy little maid the leader turned up. She got on her tip toes and kissed the former Minister a good resounding kiss. She got her box of candy.

Then they came in clusters.

ARE PLANNING A SECRET MARRIAGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Colonel John Jacob Astor, according to a despatch from Newport to-day, is planning a secret marriage with Miss Madeline T. Force. Whether the ceremony is to be performed in Europe or the United States has not yet been definitely decided upon by Colonel Astor. It was planned to have an elaborate wedding in Newport, but the "fuss and feather" idea was given up William H. Force, the father of Colonel Astor's fiancee, said he could not tell whether the marriage would take place in the United States or Europe

The denouncement of the proposed marriage by the Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, of Philadelphia, followed by the statement of bishops of the Episcopal Church that the marriage could not be performed by an Episcopal clergyman, gave rise to a report that Colonel Astor and Miss Force would be married in Europe. Mr. Force's statement leaves the matter in doubt

Rev. Mr. Richmond, in Philadelphia to-day renewed his attack on Astor and incidentally scored Trinity Church again. He said he would preach another sermon Sunday against the marriage, which he characterized as "a scandalous alliance."

BRITISH TRADE WITH CANADA

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.—John Bain Imperial trade correspondent for this district, to-day issued a report on the external trade of the United Kingdom as it affects Canada for the six months ending June 30.

The total values of the merchandise imported into the United Kingdom from Canada, and exported from the United Kingdom to Canada, during the first six months of each of the years 1910 and 1911 were as follows:

The figures given being in pounds sterling—Imports in to the United Kingdom from Canada, 1910, 10,599,000; 1911, 8,481,000.

Exports from the United Kingdom to Canada, of United Kingdom produce, 1910, 9,511,000; 1911, 9,464,000; of foreign and colonial produce, 1910 1,489,000; 1911, 1,478,000.

The exports to Canada were thus about the same in value as last year but the imports from Canada were lower by two millions sterling, of which nearly one and one-half millions were due to diminished imports of wheat. Britain's wheat imports from Canada were £3,825,000 in the first six months last year, while in the same period this year they were only £2,422,000. Bacon and hams, however show an increase from £695,000 to £1,027,000.

AGREE ON THE FARMERS' FREE LIST

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—A complete agreement on the farmers' free list was reached to-day by Senator Lafollette, (Wisconsin), representing the insurgents in the Senate and Representative Underwood, (Alabama), representing the Democratic House. They will report to the full conference committee to-morrow, and the bill will probably be in the hands of the President bfeore the end of the week.

No agreement has yet been reached on the wool bill, but it is likely that there will be a break in this deadlock to-morrow. Lafollette is fearful lest his insistence on the higher duties in the Senate bill may result in a failure of his plan to send the bill to Taft which he wishes to do in order to "put Taft in a hole." On this account he is expected to yield when the show down comes.

The cotton bill was brought into the Senate to-day with an adverse report from the finance committee. In the next few days it will be called up for debate. Senator Overman (North Carolina), although a Democrat, is opposing the cotton bill because there are large mills in his State. As this despatch is written it is reported that Underwood and Lafollette have agreed on the wool bill on a basis of 28 per cent. ad valorem on raw wool.

ANNEXATION WILL FOLLOW RECIPROCITY

Hamilton Spectator: The brutal frankness of the press across the border in discussing the recoprocity agreement in the same breath with the ultimate annexation of Canada, must be extremely disconcerting to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his supporters, who are protesting that such a contingency could never have been dreamed of.

That the annexation of Canada by the United States is no chimera, as far as our neighbors are concerned is made very evident by the following editorial reference wihch appeared in the Mount Clemens, Mich, Monitor of July 23:

"The outcome of the whole business if reciproctiy is ratified by the Canadians,—and it may be at the general election will decide the question—will be annexation. The friends and foes of reciprocity in this country would send up a unanimous shout of welcome if the whole of Canada will come right into the union. That's where it belongs, and is likely to be."

ITALIAN COMES BACK

Frank Griro Gives Himself Up on Murder Charge.

Alleged Slayer of Frank Tarro In Toronto Keeps Promise Made Four Days Ago to Policemen—Says the Black Hand Society Bled Him, and He Promises Revelations Concerning That Organization In Canada.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Because he would rather die than live, hounded as he was by daily terror was Frank Griro's reason for shooting Frank Tarro, at the corner of Church and Front streets, on Sunday, July 30 last. Then, haunted by the dread of vengeance at the hands of the brother of the man, whom he killed, Gax Griro kept his promise to the police and gave himself up at the Agnes street station last night at 9.55. He had posted this letter from Detroit, on August 5.

"Dear Chief I will come soon to have mine sentence. I am Frank Griro."

This note was received at the Agnes street station on the 6th and Griro made good last night. He declared that no trouble regarding Rosa Brunet had anything to do with the shooting of Tarra.

Being kept informed of the movements of the Italians in Toronto, he had heard that the dead man's brother had left in pursuit of him under a vow to seek him to the end of the earth and cut him to pieces. Hearing this, even after he had written the letter, he fled wildly and aimlessly from Detroit to Chicago, to St. Louis, from which place he returned equally desperate to seek shelter in the hands of the police.

"I'm Frank," he said, on entering the station. "I'm the man who shot Tarro. I told you I was coming and here I am; come for sentence."

He was a member of the Black Hand Society and that organization tormented him day and night demanding $5 and $10 at a time to keep quiet.

Griro said he had over a hundred dollars at the time he left Toronto and last night had only $21.10 left. The rest was used to keep the society quiet and in railway fares.

"I've got a lot to tell about the Black Hand," he went on. "There's a lot of them who should be arrested."

After being searched, he was taken to Inspector Duncan's office, where he was cross-examined for three hours. He is stated to have made revelations regarding Black Hand bands in Toronto and elsewhere, which will doubtless prove of great worth to the police.

Just when Griro intended to return was unknown to the police. In his letter he merely stated that he would return and give himself up at the place he did. He arrived at the Union Station and went to Agnes street in a hack, for which he paid before entering the station.

Sergt. Snyder of Agnes street station said last evening that the prisoner walked quietly into the station. He told who he was and put up his hands as if to swear to his identity and also that the officers might search him."

Griro did not live at the York street restaurant, but at 175 Jarvis street, where Rosa Brunet was taken into custody as a material witness.

Interesting to Motorists.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—E. H. Dale, of Brampton, Ont., whose automobile struck and seriously injured Mrs. Jos. McCracken on a street crossing here, was before the magistrate in the Police Court yesterday morning. The case was adjourned pending the outcome of Mrs. McCracken's injuries, which are reported serious.

The prosecution is based on section seven of the Ontario regulations respecting motor traffic. This section makes it an offence to recklessly or negligently drive a motor car at a speed dangerous to the public, having regard to all circumstances and the condition and use of the highway. The accident occurred as the woman was alighting from a street car.

LORDS TAKE MEDICINE

British Peers Accept Veto by 131 Votes to 114.

Greatest Event In British History Since Reform Bill Is Consummated When Upper House Agrees to Limit Its Power—Halsbury Faction Musters Big Following, But Many Tories Vote Liberal.

London, Aug. 11.—Premier Asquith's Government, which claims to represent the democracy of Great Britain, last night enforced its will upon the peerage by the narrow vote of 131 to 114. By this vote the House of Lords decided to accept what the Liberals contend is the will of the people, and adopted Viscount Morley's motion not to insist upon the Lords' amendments to the Parliamentary bill, which practically limits the power of the House of Lords to a two years' suspensory veto and vastly increases the prerogatives of the House of Commons.

The great constitutional struggle, which began when the House of Lords nearly two years ago rejected the budget of David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is ended for a time at least, with the greatest change to Great Britain's working constitution since the passing of the reform bill.

The process of voting consumed nearly an hour and the result trembled in the balance until the last moment. The "die hards" mustered greater strength than the prophets had anticipated, and the Government owes its victory to the votes of between twenty and thirty Conservatives who threw in their lot with the Liberals to save their own caste from loss of prestige by a great increase in its numbers and the King from the necessity of the exercise of the royal prerogative, from which everyone believes he was most anxious to be saved.

The Archbishops of Canterbury and York and nine bishops lined up with the Government, although the ecclesiastical lords generally keep aloof from party questions. The Bishops of Bangor and Worcester went with the Halsburyites, "the last ditchers."

It was noticeable that the highest ranks of the nobility furnished the fewest supporters of the Government. The Dukes of Norfolk, Leeds, Marlborough, Newcastle, Northumberland, Somerset and Westminster voted with the Oppostion, while the remainder abstained from voting.

"Drinking the hemlock" had become an historic phrase in past months, and the gathering in the ancient chamber last night to witness this memorable humiliation was worthy of the occasion. Peeresses, ambassadors and commoners packed the galleries, and a group of private counsellors, exercising the prerogatives of their position, sat upon the steps of the throne. The benches, aisles and floor were crowded

Lt.-Col Arthur Lee, in speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, said this would be a black day in England's history if the House of Lords accepted the veto bill and the House of Commons cut adrift from the traditions of centuries to bestow salaries upon its members. Apparently the sentiment of the peers was in full accord with this description of the occasion. Lords frequently forgot the oppressive dignity which customarily marks the proceedings in the Upper Chamber, and fought for a hearing with the strenuousness of an American Congressman who has cherished a public building bill and sees the last hours of the session slipping past.

The Earl of Halsbury once went so far as to make a formal motion that one of his supporter be heard in preference to one peer who favored the Government.

When the voting began, Lord Lansdowne withdrew to a position behind the throne, but his followers watched the issue eagerly. The bishops on both sides walked through the tellers first. A thrill of excitement marked the appearance of each notable, but none was greater than when Lord Rosebery appeared as a supporter of the Government.

As soon as the result was known, several members of the House of Commons rushed from the galleries and into their own chamber and whispered the news to the members. A great cheer followed the announcement of the Government's victory.

The question of the hour is what effect last night's decision will have upon the future fortunes of the Conservative party. Viscount Morley's definite announcement that enough peers would be created permanently to swamp the Upper House if the Government did not prevail, apparently swayed a few waverers and decided the issue.

WILL PAY MEMBERS.

British Commons Votes For a Salary of $2,000 Per Year.

London, Aug. 11.—A resolution to pay members of the House of Commons $2,000 annually for their services was carried by a vote of 156 to 159.

The resolution was moved by Chancellor David Lloyd-George, in the House of Commons yesterday. The Chancellor said that Great Britain was the only country in the world that did not pay members for their work in Parliament, which nowadays was so strenuous that the members had little time to attend to anything else.

The Unionists opposed the payment plan on the ground that it would be a violation of the principle of gratuitous public service as well as improper for members to vote themselves salaries. Arthur Hamilton Lee, Unionist member for the Fareham division of Hants, who moved the official Unionist amendment against salaries, argued that the effect of the Chancellor's bill would be to keep out the best types and fill Parliament with professional politicians.

James Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, denied that the measure would cause corruption, and said that it would "tend to help the tide of purity which is flowing over American politics."

The imperial consul-general of Japan will come down from Ottawa to meet the admiral and will attend the luncheon. The consul, Hon. Nakamura, will speak at the luncheon, Count Togo, however, will not make a speech, as his knowledge of English, though fair, makes him hesitate to speak in public.

On Monday afternoon Count Togo will be the guest of the city of Montreal, and Ald. Dandurand is of the opinion that a drive around the city, with tea on the mountain observatory, will be the program of the city's reception.

Man Thrown Overboard.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 11.—Capt. E. McMullen of the British tug Bermuda, which arrived here yesterday from Texada Island, reported that at six o'clock Tuesday evening, in the vicinity of Active Pass, in the Straits of Juan de Fuca, there was a man thrown overboard from a tramp steamer flying a foreign flag, which was passing out to sea from Victoria or Vancouver.

"I was looking at the vessel through the binoculars," said Capt. McMullen, "when I observed a commotion on the forward deck, and from the struggling mass of sailors a man was seen hoisted over the bulwarks, with a rope around his neck. He was lowered to within a few feet of the water, and then the rope broke or was cut."

The Canadian authorities have been notified.

YOUNG MAN MURDERED

Tragedy at a Dance Startles Orillia Citizens.

Ross Ford is Dead From a Knife Wound in His Throat and Arthur Sheridan, His Chum, Is a Fugitive From Justice—The Pair Had Quarrelled at a Previous Party Over a Girl, It Is Said.

Orillia, Aug. 11.—A quarrel between chums is thought to have been the cause of one man murdering the other in South Orillia, three miles from here, on Wednesday night, when Arthur Sheridan, a young man, stabbed Ross Ford in the throat. Sheridan was at a party at the house of George Duff. Ford arrived at 11.30 p.m., and Sheridan went out and met him. They walked down the road together for quite a distance and Sheridan returned alone, saying that he was afraid he had "done for" Ford, and asked them to call a doctor.

The deed was apparently committed in cold blood. There did not seem to be any quarrel at the time of the stabbing and Sheridan did not seem to be very perturbed when he returned to the house.

Several members of the house party hurried with Sheridan down the road. They found Ford lying face downward in the ditch beside the road. There was a large wound close to the juncture of the neck and the body. Life was soon found to be extinct.

Sheridan remained at the scene for a few moments, talking with the others. Then he went off alone and has not yet been heard from. Searching parties are now out combing the district in an effort to locate him. It is felt that he cannot possibly escape owing to the well settled nature of that part of the country.

It is said that the two men had a disagreement at another party several nights before. It is thought that it was over two sisters with whom the two boy companions had been familiar.

The increase is due to the rise in the price of wheat, October option being particularly responsible.

JOY AT REAL MEAL CAUSED QUICK END

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.—An epic of hunger, grim humor, commingled with sadness, is the strange tale emanating from the morgue, whither was this mornig conveyed a man whose joy in having hunger assuaged was cut off by sudden death.

This morning an unknown man entered the cafe of C. E. Walsh, 375 Bleury street, and pleaded for work His was a tale oft told, and almost monotonous to those who come in contact with the seamy side of life. For two days he had not tasted food, and for several months he had wandered the streets without a place to sleep, save where he might be dislodged at any moment by a vigilant constable.

He was given work about nine-thirty o'clock after having been permitted to comfort the long-neglected inner man. Shortly after ten o'clock while stirring a large caldron of soup, he was obsreved to totter and fall. When he was picked up life had fled. Whether the reaction of such an abundance of food after so little caused his demise or that he was dying when he entered the cafe, may never be known. He was removed to the morgue, where an autopsy revealed that death had been due to natural causes. Nothing on his person could identify him in any particular; and he will doubtless be one more to add to the roster of the Unknown collected in such numebrs from the river, from the highways and byways of a metropolis.

There are few people living now who saw that phenomenon, and I know that the end will come before all of them are gone."

THAT MIXED MARRIAGE QUESTION

Toronto News: Sir Allen Aylesworth has written a letter dealing with the Ne Temere decree. It is supposed to be an answer to a resolution of protest passed by the Baptist Association and sent to the Minister In some respects it is assuredly an answer. The retiring Minister is quick to deny the allegation that the Federal Government had left all its legislation with respect to marriage to the Provinces, but he does not define the nature of the laws which the Dominion Parliament has passed. If he had done so he might have left an opening. Already the Federal House has passed a law validating certain marriages, whether contracted with or without the regulations of the Provinces. For the purpose of a bigamy prosecution, a marriage de facto is considered as such, even though the ceremony may have been irregular in some respects. The claim of irregularity will not be accepted as a defence.

Soppose, for instance, that a Roman Catholic couple are married in Quebec by a Protestant minister. The church declares the marriage null The courts, following canon law, confirm that judgment. Suppose the husband marries again. Then the Dominion Parliament, to preserve the rights of the injured and innocent party to a bigamous marriage, overrides the declaration of the church quashes the judgment of the Provincial courts, and declares definitely and categorically that the irregular marriage is void.

If such legislation is intra vires for criminal prosecutions it cannot be ultra vires for general purposes. Briefly the Dominion Parliament has power to declare that any couple entering into matrimony in good faith in the presence of witnesses, by banns or by special license, is married, in spite of the canon law of any church or of the Provincial law which slavishly copies it.

Mr. Aylesworth does not cite these facts. On the contrary he points out not briefly, that the solemnization of matrimony is a Provincial affair, exclusively so. No one had questioned this. Mr. Aylesworth wastes time and "threshes an old dust heap." He says that the decree touches on the solemnization of matrimony and that the Dominion has no right to encroach on the jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislatures. This is neat dodging The point at issue is not the solemnization of matrimony, but the dissolution of it. A church is presuming to declare certain marriages null and void, even when contracted in good faith. The Federal authorities can validate marriages already contracted and questioned by some arrogant ecclesiastic. Not for a moment would it be dealing with "solemnization." The laws against bigamy provide a precedent.

But from another standpoint. Divorce is exclusively a Federal matter A church is presuming to nullify marriages without Federal authority. The Baptist resolution asked the Government to bring pressure to bear on the Roman Catholic Church to withdraw the decree or else to make one marriage law for all Canada. The first could be accomplished if the Government were interested, but it would not be good politics to still further estrange the church The latter could be effected by legislation validating all marriages decently celebrated in good faith before witnesses, by banns or license, and according to any recognized religious rite.

LITTLE BOY DROWNED

Fell from a Pier of the C. N. R. Bridge—Inquest not Necessary

A drowning accident occurred in the city last night shortly after eight o'clock, the victim being James Stark, a lad 9 years of age, whose parents reside on the corner of Mary and Dundas streets in West Belleville

It appears that a number of boys were in bathing at the foot of Mary street, near the C. N. O. R. western pier, amongst them being the victim Mr. Edward Kelloway, who is an expert swimmer, was in company with the boys and was endeavoring to teach some of them to swim. Stark was with the boys and was sitting on an old pier. Suddenly he was missed and the boys raised an alarm. Kelloway, who was near by was shown where the lad was last seen, and he dived and succeeded in bringing up the body. Although the victim had been the water but a short time life was extinct.

Dr. Yeomans, coroner, was called and for half an hour or more used every effort to resuscitate the victim but to no avail. The body was then removed to the home of the grief stricken parents and prepared for burial. The coroner, after hearing the circumstances of the unfortunate affair, decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The father of the deceased is an engineer employed at the cement works at Point Ann. The family have not long been residents of the city.

MOTHER DISLIKED SON'S WEDDING

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 10.—"I don't see why my boy married that society girl. He is a good, honest clean boy with no bad habits and the hardest kind of a worker. And he has been a good son to his father and me."

Wtih traces of tears in her eye Mrs. John G. Geroghty, wife of the village livery stable proprietor and mother of "Handsome Jack" Geraghty the chauffeur who ysterday eloped with and married Miss Julia, Stella French, heiress and debutante of last winter, expressed this sentiment to day as she asked if any news had been received of her son and his bride The marriage following the elopement from Newport, if distasteful to the society element, and the family of the young heiresschauffeur vbgkqj bgkq lage liveryman and his good wife.

LOVE FUNNY THING.

"We wanted our boy to marry a girl of his own kind," Mrs. Geraghty continued. "Last week Stuyvesant Leroy, Miss French's uncle, came here and ordered Jack to keep away from his relative. I told Jack to do so, but love is a funny thing, they say."

John G. Geraghty, the father of the boy, is a Newport character. He has a good business and drives his own hack when a driver 'lays down on him. The son drove one of his father's rigs until this year, when he became a chauffeur. The Geraghtys are highly respected as honest, hard working people.

Meanwhile there is the utmost consternation in society circles.

BACHELOR CHAUFFEURS BOUNCED.

Anxious mothers are safeguarding their "eligible daughters" whom they hope to marry to Astors or at least to millionaires, and young chauffeurs are being hastily displaced by staid married men selected for their excessive homeliness.

All those related to the bride, including her aunt, Miss Elise French Vanderbilt, divorced wife of Alfred G Vanderbilt, who drives a society stage between London and Brighton, were in retirement to-day. They sent word that under no circumstances would they discuss the wedding or the report that the bride's father intends applying to have the marriage annulled.

Meanwhile the young couple are believed to be honeymooning in Boston indifferent to the stir their wedding has caused.

MANGLED BODIES FOUND ON TRAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—When a fast express train which runs between Buffalo and New York pulled into the High Bridge station to-day, the bodies of two boys, terribly mangled, were found lying on the top of the third coach.

It is believed that the youngsters crawled on top of the coach at Syracuse, and that, while sitting there they were struck by a tunnel or bridge and almost instantly killed. One of them was about 18 and the other appeared to be 16 years of age.

In a pocket of the older boy's clothing was found a book bearing the title, "Rules for Holy Living," which contained the following names and addresses: 'Robert Crosby, 1,010 South Granger street, Syracuse; Lester Markel, 103 Oakwood Avenue, Syracuse.'

The younger lad wore a pair of long trousers over knickerbockers and stockings The police said this indicated that he was on his way to New York with his companion in search of employment, and was trying to keep his knickerbockers from getting soiled, so his appearance would be neat when he applied for work.

The train on which the bodies were found is known as No. 32, and carries only mail and express matter. It left Buffalo at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and arrived at Syracuse at 8.40 o'clock. It was scheduled to reach the Grand Central station at 4.01 this morning. From the top of the third coach, Conductor Reid, while inspecting the train this morning, saw a human leg protruding. He called Engineer R. Sampson and they clmbed up on the coach, where they found the bodies, which were cold. Reid then decided to run his train into the Grand Central Station without removing them. He telephoned down to the Grand Central Emergency Hospital and when the train arrived, Dr. McCleod was awaiting it.

The physician said the boys had been dead about three hours. Their skulls had been crushed and the upper parts of their bodies were mangled.

BOYS FROM SYRACUSE.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The boys found dead on top of a New York Central train in New York this morning are believed to be Robert Crosby and Mortimer Hunt, of this city, who disappeared last evening from their home, 103 South Granger street Crosby was 16 years old and the Hunt boy a little older.

Young Crosby lived with his parents and Mortimer Hunt was a lodger in their house. The Crosbys believe that the lads had been planning to go to New York in search of work. The prayer book which Robert Crosby carried with the name of Lester Merkel 103 Oakmond Avenue, had been found by him. Lester Merkel is the son of a local mail carrier and never knew either of the dead boys.

CONSERVATIVES REGISTER

To all Conservative Electors of Belleville:—

Gentlemen,—I wish respectfully to call your attention to the position in which we are placed in regard to voting at the approaching General Election to be held on the 21st Sept. next.

The Voters' Lists for the City which will be used in this election, were prepared in 1909, over two years ago, and any person whose name does not appear upon that list will not be allowed to vote unless he takes advantage of the sittings of the Registration Board, which will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, to have his name entered upon the list.

It must be apparent that many changes have taken place in the two years that have elapsed since these lists were prepared, both by removals, changes of residence, and the coming into the city of new residents, all which will be prevented from voting unless they take the precaution to register.

This I consider to be a turning point in the history of Canada and a time when every true Canadian and British subject in Canada who values his freedom under our Constitution should see that he has the opportunity to vote, and on Election Day exercise his franchise to maintain and strengthen our British connection rather than cast in our lot with the United States by an entangling commercial alliance such as is proposed by the Laurier Government with its reciprocity agreement.

I am particularly anxious that all Conservative young men of the city who are qualified should have the franchise placed in their hands and thus have a voice in determining the future of their great country at the next election.

The only qualification required is to be a British subject, 21 years of age, and 3 months resident in Belleville.

The fact that you were registered before for an election will not help you any. You must be entered on the list for this election, and at the sittings of the Board this week .

The Board will sit during the above days at the City Hall, the Court House and No. 2 Fire Hall, at which my agents will be present to render any assistance.

Let me again urge you to register. You may consult a Voters' List at my offices, Front Street, or at either of the above places for the sittings of the Board to see whether you are on the list or not.

Please do your country the justice, yourself the honor, and the Conservative party and myself the favor of having your name put on the list.

This is the first, last and only opportunity you will have of doing so for this election, and don't let it be said that you neglected the opportunity.

Your obedient servant,
au9,11d2t E. GUSS PORTER.

THIS ORPHAN IS A PRINCE

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 10.—From a New York orphan home to the head of the Prussian Principality of Lichtenburg with the title of Prince Von Gunther is the strange and fascinating story of the life of a boy reared by foster parents at North East, this county.

Fifteen years ago the Second Avenue Baptist church of New York sent little Harry Schultz, as he was then known, to the home of Dr. and Mrs W. L. Adams, at North East. His mother had died in poverty and his real identity was unknown. Harry grew up and returned to New York He has been writing to Mrs. Adams of late telling what a wonderful discovery he has made.

He found an uncle who told him that he was heir to the title of Lichtenburg. He took the matter up with the Prussian authorities and it has all come true. His mother was the Princess Van Gunther, and was disowned for marrying an army officer who died in this country after the boy's birth.

The young man writes that he is engaged to Miss Emma Binley, of Pittsburgh, a young lady of high standing and wealth, but the Prussian authorities insist that he must give the Pitsburgh girl up if he asumes his title and estates. He writse "Mothre Adams" as he has always called Mrs. Adams, for advice. He is undecided as yet. He is employed at the New York Lake Shore terminal offices.

More than 15 years in the major leagues, and still rated among the shining stars in the baseball firmament. That is the record attained by Fred Clarke, manager of the Pittsburg National Leaguers and Frederick Wallace, the manager of the St. Louis Americans. Clarke is classed among the diamond's best managers, while Wallace is best known as one of the best shortstops the game has ever produced.

For 16 years Clarke has played left field as best could be desired. He has has been manager for almost 10 years and in that period has kept Pittsburg near the top of the game. Wallace on the other hand has been a failure in managing the Browns; but it is through no fault of his. The material is lacking. That concisely tells the tale of Wallace's ill success as leader.

Clarke and Wallace are really the oldest players in point of active service in the two big leagues. They never ceased playing day in and day out for over 15 years. Clarke has been a conspicuous figure on the diamond in the National League for 16 years, while Wallace has been cavorting around the major organizations for 19 years.

Clarke is the eldest active player in the National, while Wallace bears that proud distinction in the American. Some may contend that Denton Tecumseh ("Old Cy") Young is entitled to the laurels, owing to his 21 years pitching. But it must be remembered that the famous old veteran has participated in less than a thousand games while Wallace has been presenting himself before major league populaces for 19 years in which time he has participated in close to 3,000 games.

Clarke began as an outfielder and has continued in that position all these years. Wallace began as a pitcher but was converted into a third baseman when Pat Tebeau needed a third baseman badly. Wallace then shifted to shortstop, which position he has occupied for years.

has pased the council. It provides that

JORDAN AND MILLER ARE LEAGUE LEADERS.

Looking over the Eastern League statistics one is forced to give some credit to Ward Miller, the Montreal outfielder Without a doubt, he is some ball player and will be in the fast class next year.

While he doesn't appear a speedy one he stands head of the list in the league with 45 stolen bases. The nearest man to him is Cozy Dolan of Jersey City, who has nipped 38 bags. One may judge how fast he is when Herb Moran, the racer of the Hustlers and admired for his speed, has purloined only 31 bags.

The other "thieves" of the league of 40 in number, are: Truesdale, Buffalo, 31; Bree, Jersey City, 25; Abstein, Jersey City, 24; Louden, Newark, 24; and Gandill, Montreal, 22, the same as Kid Foster

The best run-getter in the league is Tim Jordan of the Maple Leafs, who leads all with 79 to his credit. Shaw is next with 77. Charley Hanford, of the Royals, is third, with 73, while Bill O'Hara, a Leaf, is fourth with 75. No wonder Toronto wins games. Moran of the Champs is fifth with 73.

Besides run-getting, Jordan leads in another respect. He has the most hits of any man in the circuit, 128. Miller is only 5 behind him. The others are Deininger, 122; Rath, 116; Osborn, 114; and Joe Yeager, 113. These figures do not include this week's games of course.

The Champion Martyr of the league is Roy Rock of Providence, who has made 21 sarifices and Bill Bradley is trailing him with 20.

THE TURF

WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—Another record was smashed at the North Randall Grand Circuit races today. The three miles of the free-for-all championship pace with such speeders as Independence Boy, Earl Jr., The Eel, and Evlyn W. contending, were paced respectively in 2.01 1-2, 2.02 1-2, and 2.03 1-4, a world's record for pacing three heats in a race. Earl Jr. was the winner.

GREAT RACING AT LANSING

The pacing stake won by Sylvia T., after two heats had gone to Furicso, both horses being Canadian entries. Furicso was full of pepper for two heats but after that he was easy and handily beaten by the good Sylvia T. This mare is owned by Miss Wilks, of Galt, Ont., whose Vanity Oro was best of the stake and should have won.

WM. GERMAN M. P. STANDS TO HIS GUNS

Grit Member Frankly Expresses His Views Against Reciprocity

WELLAND, Aug. 10.—Great interest has been taken throughout the county and in other districts as to the attitude that W. M. German, late M. P. for Welland county, would take in reference to reciprocity in the coming elections, and he to-day has issued the following letter:—

To the electors of the county of Welland:

Gentlemen:—As you are aware Parliament is dissolved and a new general election ordered, to be held on the 14th and 21st of September next. After consultation with many of my friends, I have decided to announce that I am a candidate for the representation of Welland county in the next Parliament. The reasons which actuate me to make this announcement at the present time appear to me good and sufficient seasons, and such as I hope to be able to justify hereafter, if necessary.

The sole issues between parties in this contest is the reciprocity agreement made between the Governments of Canada and the United States As you know, I am opposed to that agreement. I do not believe it will result in any lasting practical benefits the farmers of Canada, or even of this county, and I feel confident that its general effect will be detrimental to the whole business interests of the country. I gave some reasons for my opposition to the government in the speech I made on the question in Parliament, and this having been published in the county papers these reasons are no doubt known to most of you, and I may have further occasion to discuss the question and express my views thereon hereafter. The question is now before the electors of Canada for their opinion and approval or disapproval. If the majority of the electorate favor the agreement it will, no doubt, become law and it will then be my duty, and pleasure as well, if I am your representative, as it will be the duty of every other member of Parliament to see to it that the agreement is carried out as to bring the greatest possible advantages, if any, to the farmers of Canada, that can be derived from its operations.

ARTIFICAL GENERATION BY ELECTRICITY

Scientist Announces Success of Experiments

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Success in experiments leading toward artificial generation of life is now claimed by a biologist of Dijon, Professor Betaillon, who has just carried out a curious experiment in the artificial stimulation of living embryos.

Going a step further than Professor Delage, of Paris, who a couple of years ago asserted that he had obtained artificial fecundation of eggs of sea urchins, a very low form of life, Professor Betaillon has tried his hand on frogs' eggs, and now announces that he has obtained tadpoles by pricking the eggs with a very fine platinum needle.

He afterward subjected the pricked eggs, he says, to electric discharges and was much more successful. Thus he came to the concluion that two processes were requisite for the development of a living being from the eggs. These processes, he conceives, as first, a shock that sets the segmentation process in motion, and second, a factor which accelerates the evolution.

Professor Betaillon has also experimented on fish eggs, but without result, owing, he believes, to difficulties connected with the heat.

In September, 1907, Professor Delage, of the Sorbonne, completed a series of remarkable experiments in the chemical development of life. In his laboratory at Roscoff, Brittany, he placed the unfertilized eggs of the sea urchin and the starfish in sea water, adding a solution of sugar with a few drops of ammonia and tannin. In about an hour segmentation, the first sign of life, set in and the eggs produced larvae. The majority of these larvae soon died, but by constant care, according to his report, Professor Delage brought four of the sea urchins and two of the starfish through the larvae stage, and they became healthy growing specimens. It was noted that one of the sea urchins had six pairs of tentacles and six pairs of spikes, whereas those which are produced by natural means have only five. The experiments of Professor Delage showed that the vital impulses began as soon as the fecundating liquid touched the ovule.

Professor Jacques Loeb, of the University of California, also carried on experiments for years in artificial fetilization at the Marine Laboratory at Wood's Hole, California, where he convinced himself that it is possible to perform by chemical or mechanical means male functions in the propogation of life.

LONDON, Aug., 10.—Considerable interest has been aroused among Swedish scientists in regard to the remarkable electrical experiments which have been carried on for some years in one of the public schools in Stockholm. The object has been to test the beneficial influence of electricity on the development of the human body.

Hitherto it had been found possible to force the growth of vegetables by means of electrical currents distributed from a powerful dynamo. This idea has been carried out with signal success in several places.

It was accordingly contended that the human organism was equally susceptible to "expedited growth" as it has been called, through practically continuous applications of an electrically charged atmosphere to the body. Two groups of 25 children were selected, as nearly alike as possible in general health, size and in weight. The respective groups received their instruction in two rooms, both equal in size, ventilation, lighting and other general conditions. But the group in one was constantly exposed to the influence of electric currents, while the other group pursued its studies under normal conditions.

After a test of several years the two groups of children have been compared, and it is claimed that the electrified children have outstripped the others mentally and physically; that they have grown faster, put on weight more quickly, and have shown more physical fitness generally, besides possessing superior mentality.

Skepticism is displayed in some quarter, and the result of the experiment is not altogether regarded as decisive. It is expected, however, that similar experiments will be conducted in some other schools in order to demonstrate the supposed efficacy of the electrifying process in improving the mental and physical condition of the rising population.

FOR ART LOVERS.

This Year's Exhibit at C. N. E. to Surpass All Others.

Art has been a feature of the Canadian National for years. The art galleries of Europe have give their treasure to please the eye and inspire the soul of the lovers of the beautiful, and the year 1911 is to see the greatest art exhibit of them all. For not only will Europe loan her choicest pictures and Canada present the best works of her artists, but a number of the millionaire art collectors of Canada and the United States have consented to loan their paintings to make yet more complete the art exhibit of the year. Space does not permit of even a mention of titles. Do not miss this year's art exhibit.

All supporters of reciprocity are not annexationists, but all annexationists are supporters of reciprocity.

What's in a name? Annexation by any other name would smell as bad even if it is spelled R-E-C-I-P-R-O-C-I-T-Y.

A VERY CLOSE CALL

Mr. John Kelly living on the Bridgewater road had a very close call for his life Tuesday. It was simply a marvel that he escaped death. He was digging a well and was being assisted by his son who was looking after the windlass. He was using a horse on the windlass. For some reason he failed to stop the horse when the bucket came up and it was overturned by the windlass and was pitched with its contents of dirt and stone into the well. Mr. Kelly was 18 feet below it with nothing to protect him. He was very badly bruised about the head and shoulders but fortunaely no bones were broken. He may truly say that he escaped by the skin of his teeth. We are glad to report that no permanent injury is likely to be sustained by Mr. Kelly.—Tweed News.

HOUSE AND BARN BURNED

On Tuesday of this week the house and barn on the farm of Mr. Robert Bell, lot 19 in the 7th, con. of Marmora were burned to the ground.

The fire started from a defective chimney. Mrs. Bell was in the house at the time and when the fire was discovered ran to a neighbor's for help but before it could arrive the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to extinguish it. The barn also took fire from the flying cinders and the high wind made it impossible to save it. Both buildings were burned to the ground.

B. Northrup, K.C., ex-M.P., as their standard bearer at the approaching Dominion election. No other name was mentioned, the honor going to Mr. Northrup freely and sincerely. In the midst of the harvest season it was most gratifying to see such a representative gathering of the yeomanry and others from various parts of the extensive riding. The veterans who had been active in every election campaign in the northern part of the county for the long period of 64 years, namely since 1847, were vociferously

CANADIAN NORTHERN DIVISIONAL POINT

Says the Trenton Courier:

The Canadian Northern has decided to make Trenton its divisional point, provided the town will agree to the following conditions, viz.,

1 To pay the Railway Company $14,000 on completion of the building of the repair shops and roundhouse capable of looking after 30 engines.

2 To exempt the Railway properties, including the present Central Ontario Railway property which is now controlled by the C. N. R., from all taxation, except school taxes, for a period of 10 years, i. e., from the year 1912 to the year 1921 inclusive.

3 For a further period of 10 years, beginning with the year 1922, to fix the total Company's assessment at $50,000,00 for municipal purposes.

In addition, the town is to grant the Railway the right to lay another track across Dufferin avenue, to close permanently those portions of Wilkins, Shuter and McGill sts., lying between Stewart and Division sts. and to convey same to the Railway, and to permit the Railway to lay a "Y" connection across Front st. from the present C. O. R. (north) tracks to the new bridge across the river.

The Railway by making this a divisional point agrees to build the roundhouse and shops as mentioned and any "other buildings necessary for the operation of a divisional point" and the requirements of the two railways. It agrees to employ at least 100 men immediately the shops are completed on the premises and also refund to the town the $14,000 grant if at any time within 20 years the shops should be removed from Trenton or leased, to perform the work for which they are to be built.

Further than this the railway company is to present to the town about 25 acres of the Simpson farm for public park purposes.

In effect these are the conditions embodied in the by-law on which the electorate will vote.

Laurier and Loot.

Laurier and a larger market for the Yankees.

A St. Louis woman has asked for divorce on the ground that her husband beats her regularly on the 15th of each month. Evidently there is such a thing as being too methodical

"Two markets are better than one." is one of the parrot cries of the Grit press. That is why President Taft and other "slim" Yankees support the pact. It gives a second market in Canada to the farmers of the United States.

A Cincinnati man forgot to bring his marriage license with him and it was necessary to postpone the wedding ceremony. It is easy to guess what will happen to the letters his wife gives him to mail afaer they are married.

The reduction in taxation on farm implements will not cause an inflow but a corresponding reduction in local prices.—Globe.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier sent to Toronto the message, "We have not hurt the manufacturers." Somebody is prevaricating.

There is one country whose standard of living is as high as the United States, and whose wage scale is on the same level, where it is not higher That country is Canada. To say that reciprocity with Canada is the same as with Mexico, for example, is purposely to shut one's eyes to facts.—Buffalo News.

Much is being said in some quarters about what, between 1854 and 18[illegible] the former reciprocity treaty did for Canada. One thing it did was to make some weak-kneed Canadians of the day think that their country could not progress without the commercial good-will of the United States; and in spite of forty-five years of going ahead there are some of the tribe left However, no one who can see with his eyes needs to pay heed to their wails Canada as a whole has learned that Canadians can take care of themselves.—Montreal Gazette.

Here is another Buffalo press opinion, namely, that of the Express which is in consonance with that of the Buffalo News, which is quoted in the editorial columns of The Intelligencer to-day: "The National Wool Growers 'Association has sent a formal protest to Washington against the pending wool bill. Apparently these wool-growing farmers are not at all impressed by the assertion of of the wool duties is to compensate of the woll duties is to compensate the farmers for their "losses" on account of the Canadian reciprocity bill. More likely they are looking upon the reciprocity bill as compensation for prospective losses on acdount of the wool bill."

Unclaimed money to the value of over half a million dollars lies in the Canadian Banks. Why not devote this amount to some philanthropic purpose such as the fight against tuberculosis? The banks are certainly not entitled to the accounts which fall to their credit through the death of depositors, nor do they require this extra source of profits, the older and wealthier banks being invariably the ones which have these unclaimed balances in their possession. And as to the disposition of the funds, Canada might well make a start of fighting the white plague, for which the British Government at the instance of Lloyd-George has set aside a large appropriation.

LETITIA

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

Copyright 1909 by the C. M. Clark Pub. Co., Boston, Mass. Used by Permission

It was plain that the Frenchman had met his superior in the science of self-defence, and while not wishing to give up the battle at so early a stage, sparred cautiously, hoping to send home a blow, which as yet he had failed to accomplish. But Grant was anxious to end the scene, and letting loose all his forces, rushed at DeLaurie like a cyclone, beating his face and breast as he willed. The professor's guard was completely broken. He was utterly unable to protect himself. Gradually he worked toward the wide stairway descending to the street, and as he turned to avoid further punishment, the merciless Easterner gave him a parting kick, sending him in a most inglorious manner to the hallway below.

For a moment it was thought he had been killed, as he lay quite still but suddenly springing up, he bolted through the door, leaving a silk hat as a memento of the well-deserved whipping he had received at the hands of a prospective victim.

A deafening cheer, led by Landlord Mansfield, greeted the victory, as DeLaurie disappeared, and Grant would have been heartily congratulated had he not returned to Miss Whiting, who, with face beaming with gratitude and pride, linked her arm within his, and together they left the room.

As they disappeared the voice of Greer rang through the room. "Aye mon, but he's a daundy," he roared and all knew that the canny Scot was well pleased with the showing of his young employer.

Nothing more was seen of the young people during the day, as they had taken a train ride several miles out of town, not wishing ot face the curiosity which they knew must result from the affair.

Never in the history of the St Nicholas Hotel had such a scene ever before occurred within its walls. The excitement was intense. While the cause of the encounter was known to but a few people, all acquainted with Grant, and familiar with his genial disposition, were fully persuaded that the provocation was sufficient to arouse his anger; and the sanctioning attitude of Mr. Mansfield went far to establish an opinion favorable to the Vermonter. His aptitude as a scienced athlete took the spectators by storm. None had the slightest inkling of his ability and were jubilant at his onslaught against the professed master of the art. The fact that not a blow had reached him, and DeLaurie had thrice been floored, was evidence of a skill possessed by few outside the ring. The kick which sent the Frenchman sprawling to the lower hall, was too ludicrous to be passed by without an outbreak of merriment, and the shouts of laughter which greeted the fallen champion were lusty and prolonged.

Nor did the incident remain within the range of those who had witnessed the fight. A reporter of the Daily Chronicle was an interested spectator and when DeLaurie disappeared through the door after the encounter, he was immediately followed, his version of the story given, and the next issue of the paper, had it set up in a two-column article, under large, black headliners. It was an exclusive article and sold the evening edition like hot cakes. It was anything but complimentary to Grant and the lady in wording, and, of course, set the whole city in commotion. The St. Nicholas management was censured by many for allowing such a disgraceful occurrence to come off in its rooms.

The young couple returned early in the evening, and upon entering the hotel, found the reception room full of indignant guests. A meeting was in session and resolutions of condemnation were being passed, together with the demand that a contra article be published in the morning paper. The true version of the affair should be made known, they insisted hotly.

Greer was making a fiery speech, in which Scotch adjectives predominated. He advocated the demolition of the Chronicle office; the banishment of its editors, and the extinction of the reporter who wrote the article, unless a retraction, an apology, and correct account of the merited chastisement appeared in the morning addition of that paper.

Speeches were also made by Mr. Mansfield, and several influential guests waxed eloquent over the wrong done the estimable young couple.

The result of the meeting was that the landlord, Greer, and two guests were appointed a committee to wait upon the city editor, relate the circumstances, and demand an article in accordance with the facts. Their mission was carried out with alacrity and the following morning a glowing four-column article appeared, giving a complimentary sketch of the now popular affair, an elaborate account of the attempt to blackmail them, the interview in the hotel reception room, and the humiliation of the Frenchman.

Meanwhile DeLaurie was not idle. His vicious nature called for revenge. He must have some satisfaction for his public humiliation. He thought not of the act that had caused his downfall; the results were what troubled him. Not only had he failed to replenish his pockets, but he had been completely outwitted—led openly into a trap by an apparent stripling from a rural state known as the "Green Mountains." But the innocent-looking product of that portion of America had proved less green than his nativity suggested.

Indemnity Was Paid.

London, Aug. 12.—The indemnity of £184,637 (approximately $909,000) awarded by King George as arbitrator, to the United States in settlement of the Alsop claim against Chile, was paid at the American Embassy yesterday by Augustin Edwards, the Chilean Minister to Great Britain. The money was tendered last Wednesday, but some question as to the rate of exchange was raised and the transaction was not completed. The differences were subsequently settled.

Held Twelfth In Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—There was a preliminary meeting Thursday of the members of the Orange Order to consider the holding of a procession and demonstration next year on July 12th. It is a good many years since there was an Orange demonstration on the streets here, and the meeting Thursday night merely talked of the scheme indefinitely.

Differing Doctors

The reciprocity agreement is in the position of a patient concerning whose treatment the physicians in attendance are at extreme variance—that is to say, it is in great danger of death at the hands of those who would fain preserve its life.

The Globe and its echoes are daily proclaiming in large type the advantages which they assume will flow from "tariff relief," as they phrase it, in the repeal of duties on agricultural products of the United States (incidentally they fail to mention those of the twelve other countries with which we have commercial treaties), and a reduction of duties on certain classes of machinery of general use in agriculture. On the other hand the U. S. newspapers which support the pact express an exactly contrary opinion.

For instance, the Buffalo Evening News, which has consistently supported the agreement, and is exceedingly anxious for its adoption by the people of Canada, said in its issue of the 10th inst.:

"The opponents of reciprocity may study market rates to advantage. Some of them are telling farmers that it means loss in price of their goods, but in spite of the apparent nearness of the change in relation between the two countries, prices of grains and of all dairy products continue to advance and are nearing their highest former figure.

There is no idea that reciprocity will affect American markets because they who make prices know perfectly well that they are just as high in Canada as they are in the United States and always have been.

Canada is not a country of cheap labor, like some in Europe and some in the republics to the south of us. It is a country in which labor is paid as well as in the United States and where the standard of comfort is no lower than here. In fact, in some parts of the Dominion it is even higher with corresponding scale of pay for service.

At any rate prices do not shrink at the near prospect of reciprocity.

• • •

Newspapers that constantly insist that reciprocity means cheaper living especially along the borders of the two countries interested in the plan, just now, will do well to compare market prices in Buffalo and Toronto any day...Then they will know better even if they keep on making that absurd statement."

It stands to reason that the assertions of the Grit press of Canada and those of our Buffalo contemporary cannot be correct—prices of farm products cannot be higher in the United States than they are in Canada and higher in Canada than they are in the United States.

There is only one method by which a decision can be reached and that is, as the News with perfect fairness suggests, namely, a comparison of market prices on both sides of the border. Will the Canadian faddists agree to the test being made? Not at all. They will continue to make false assertions and to ignore the exposure of their untruths, relying on the ignorance of their readers in the premises. In this confident belief, however, they will find themselves mistaken, as the people are thoroughly considering the subject in all its bearings, and the result will be a shock to the would-be deceivers on the day following the polling of the votes, namely, the 22nd of September next.

In Fighting Trim

That the Liberal-Conservatives of East Hastings are in first-class condition for the coming bout with the Government's past record and reciprocity proposals, and will fight the Laurier Administration to a finish on that pact and on their scandalous record of graft and corruption was clearly made apparent at the great nominating convention which was held at Madoc on the 11th inst.

In nominating for re-election their talented and eloquent representative in former Parliaments, Mr. W. B. Northrup, K.C., the party evidenced their determination to stand firm and united in this great crisis of the country's history.

Though Mr. Northrup's election is certain, it is the duty of every well-wisher of his country to put his foot upon a scheme that, if carried out, will put it under the heel of a foreign power, and to make his majority ov- they will not be found wanting in they will not be found wainting in that respect.

THOSE $500 PRIZES

At Canadian National Exhibition will go to Shorthorns and Holsteins

The special prizes of $500, each given by the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, go to the cattle classes that last year had the largest number of entries in the beef and dairy breeds respectively.

The prize will go to the best animal exhibited in Shorthorns or Holsteins without regard to sex, and the value of it assures a wide range of competition. It should prove a great incentive to cattlemen to put their best in great condition for showing.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2963 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS IN SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUG. 13th, 1911.

Jehoiakim Burns the Prophet's Book. Jer. xxxvi.

Golden Text—The word of our God shall stand forever, Isa. xl:8.

(1) Verses 1-3—What was the character of Jehoiakim?

(2) Why is it that God bears so long and patiently with sinners, and takes such loving pains to save them?

(3) What advantage is it to us that men like Jeremiah wrote the history of God's dealing with his people and that we have these records in the Bible?

(4) Who had been the kings of Judah since the death of Josiah, and what had been their characters?

(5) Verse 4—What was the chief purpose of the Lord in commanding Jeremiah to write a book, containing what God had revealed to him, concerning the sin and the coming punishment of Judah?

(6) Jeremiah had previously delivered these messages orally and had been tried for his life on account of it; why was it important that they should be written?

(7) Why is it necessary that such important messages should always be writen?

(8) Verses 5-6—Why could Jeremiah not read the roll personally in the temple?

(9) If we cannot go personally as missionaries, what is our duty in the circumstances?

(10) Why is every Christian in duty bound to be a missionary, either in person or by proxy?

(11) Verse 7—God was very anxious to save these sinners from the doom they were bringing on themselves—how does he show the same anxiety to-day?

(12) Verse 8—Which was the more meritorious in the sight of God; Jeremiah or Baruch; the man who writes a book at God's command, or the man who publishes it at God's command?

(13) Verse 9—The king, the priests and people were rebels against God yet they proclaimed a religious fast for they were likely in great national peril. Do the prayers and fasts of the impenitent wicked, please or insult God? Why?

(14) Verse 10—The Salvation Army and some others take advantage of every public gathering to preach the gospel; is it not the duty of all the Christian churchs to do the same? Why?

(15) Verses 11-19— What was the first effect of Baruch publicly reading Jeremiah's book to the people?

(16) Which secures the more converts, the direct or the indirect results of preaching the gospel?

(17) Verses 20-25—What effect had the reading of the book upon the great men who stood round the king, and upon the king himself?

(18) Why did the king have the book burned?

(19) What has been the result in all the atempts that have been made to suppress the word of God?

(20) What is the effect of sin, long continued, upon the conscience and moral sense?

(21) Verse 26—How is it that sometimes God hides his servants from the vengeance of their enemies, and at other times allows them to suffer?

(22) Verses 27-32—What resulted from the burning of the roll?

(23) What is always the final result of sinning against God? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

Cholera Morbus

The first thing to be done is to check the diarrhœa. This can be affected beyond all peradventure, by administering frequent doses of the Ready Relief internally, and applying it externally, with friction, as vigorous as the patient can bear, to the whole surface of the abdomen and to the spine. The patient must be kept in a horizontal position.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF

For Sore Muscles, Sprains and Strains Rub down with Radway's Ready Relief.

Apply the relief to the affected parts unmixed or diluted, according to the condition of the surface and the nerve of the sufferer.

FOR THE OFFICE'S BOYS BOSS.

Instead of reprimanding the office boy for soldiering over his work, the manager unctuously requested him to count the ticking of the clock for five minutes. During the time he first attacked his work with unusual earnestness, and for the rest of the day his intreest never flagged.

"That is a scheme they tried on me when I was young and inclined to be lazy," the manager said. "To this day I do not know the secret of its success but I know that to deliberately count the ticking of a clock will cure the worst spell of indolence."—New York Sun.

Fierce Electric Storm.

Woodstock, Aug. 12.—A fierce electric storm visited this section between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock Thursday night and considerable damage to the crops was done.

During the storm, the fine barn belonging to A. W. Huntley of West Oxford, was struck by lightning, and despite the efforts of the owner and a party of the A.O.U.W. members who were returning from Woodstock to Ingersoll at the time, the building and contents, including the entire season's crop, were destroyed.

Several surrounding buildings were saved as a result of hard work by a bucket brigade. Mr. Huntley had just threshed on Thursday and lost everything. There was $500 insurance on the building, but none on the contents.

James Tully, a man 72 years of age and well known in and around the Town of Ingersoll, was found dead in the barn of R. Crptty at an early hour yesterday morning. Heart failure is supposed to have been the cause of death and no inquest will be held.

ITALIANS ROUNDED UP

Toronto Police Capture Black Hand Suspects.

Frank Griro Is Arraigned In Court Charged With the Murder of Frank Tarro and Is Committed For Trial—Raid on Resorts In Italian Quarter of City Results In Eight Men Being Arrested.

Toronto, Aug. 12.—Following upon the information given to Inspector of Detectives Duncan by Frank Griro, self-confessed murderer of Frank Sciarone or Tarro, eight Italians were arrested in a raid on three York street resorts by pretty much the whole detective force yesterday afternoon.

The prisoners up to date are: Joseph Rapola, a barber, 174 York street; Joseph Muselino, boarding-house keeper, said to be an influential member of the Black Hand; Jim Vecari, roomer at 160 York street; Mrs. Mary Clark, lives at 160 York street; Ruffino Raffale, 146 Christie street; Salvatore Sciarone, or Tarro, brother of murdered man; Sam Carollo, and Joseph Dolzini.

Griro, who was committed for trial upon the murder charge in the Police Court yesterday, at the request of W. A. Henderson, counsel for the defence, made a long statement regarding the killing of Tarro, and the workings of the Black Hand in Toronto, to the inspector after his surrender Thursday night, and it was upon this and other information given that the arrests were made yesterday. All the prisoners but Joseph Rapola are charged with vagrancy.

Rapola, who is an Italian barber, with a shop at 174 York street, is charged with selling the gun which killed Tarro to the murderer on the morning of the killing. He says that he received $10 for it and that Griro came to his shop, saying that his own gun was out of order and that he wanted to buy Rapolo's because it would be sure not to fail. Rapola says that Griro was always telling him that he intended to shoot someone, but that he did not say so on the morning that he bought the revlover. The penalty for selling such a weapon when the purchaser exhibits no permits from the police, is a fine of from $25 to $200, or six months imprisonment, or both. The seller may also be deported.

The other eight are believed to be connected with the Black Hand more or less closely and are charged with vagrancy.

Joseph Muselino is 32 years of age. He has been in this country for several years, and is a naturalized citizen. When the police descended upon his fruit store and boarding-house at 160 York street, they found him and several others there. A number of vicious looking knives and stilettos made of filed were found, which Muselino says belonged to his boarders. In the fruit store were found only three bunches of bananas and a box of macaroni. The police believe that this store is not a real one. Muselino declared that if not wanted he would go to the States or to Italy. He said that he made his living from his boarders' fees.

Jim Vecari, who lives at this house, is a sickly looking lad. He says that he has an order from the city for admission to the hospital and that he has not worked recently through ill-health.

Ruffino Raffaele was picked up at the same place, but says he lives at 146 Christie street. He is believed to have been engaged in the white slave trade. He is 22 years and single.

Mrs. Mary Clarke says that she lives with her husband at the Muselino house.

Niobe Enquiry.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—Deputy Minister Desbarats issued a further statement yesterday afternoon in which he characterized as false stories said to have emanated from Halifax, one to the effect that Commander McDonald, of the Niobe had surrendered his sword to Admiral Kingsmill, and the other that officers of the Niobe had been to a ball in Yarmouth the night of the accident.

"If Commander McDonald left his sword behind him it was because he found it inconvenient to carry it," said the deputy.

An enquiry into the accident is being conducted, but pending its outcome there will be no action against anyone. "I have yet to receive evidence that any officers of the Niobe were to blame."

Met Terrible Death.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—Orville Larose, a carpenter, living at 737 Aylmer street, met with a terrible death at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when working on a gallery at the back of the residence of Mr. L. Fortin, 91 Fifth avenue, Viaville.

Larose lost his balance and fell from the gallery, which was on the third storey, to the court below. When picked up he was in a dying condition, as his skull had been fractured. He died in the ambulance on the way to the hospital. Larose leaves a widow and four young children.

Woman Stonebreaker Pardoned.

Iola, Kansas, Aug. 12.—Upsetting the decree of Judge Smeltzer of the Iola Municipal Court that Mrs. Reese should work out a fine imposed on her last Monday on the rock pile, like a man, Mayor Boltinger pardoned the woman at noon yesterday. He ordered her release yesterday afternoon, thus ending a controversy of four days' standing between the judge, the street commissioners, the police, the public of Iola and some of the public outside as to whether it was indelicate to compel a woman to don bloomers and break rocks.

That never worries the man with a GILLETTE Safety Razor in his grip or his pocket. In lurching cabin or swaying Pullman—on the back porch or beside a convenient stump—wherever the morning finds him—he can enjoy his regular three-minute GILLETTE shave in solid comfort, with a lordly independence of place or circumstance.

Pack your grip with discrimination. Travel light. Leave out the "unnecessaries" of life. But whatever you do, don't discount your holiday by starting out without "The Razor of To-day."

Sheridan Is Captured.

Orillia, Aug. 12.—Arthur Sheridan, charged with the murder of Ross H. Ford at a country dance in North Orillia on Wednesday night, was lodged in jail here at noon yesterday. Sheridan was captured near Washago by two farmers who detained him and telephoned to Orillia for help.

Chief Reid brought the prisoner to town, and he will come up for examination before Police Magistrate Clark. At the inquest held yesterday afternoon a post-mortem was ordered to be made, and an order for the burial of the body this afternoon was issued. The only witnesses examined were the chief of police and the undertaker, who testified to bringing the body to Orillia. The inquest will be resumed on Monday.

There was intense excitement when Sheridan was brought into town.

Search For an Heiress.

Paris, Aug. 12.—A search is being made in France for an Englishwoman who is an heiress to considerable property.

Twenty-five years ago an English girl of fifteen named Crosskill, came to Paris to live with an uncle whose name is unknown. Her mother had just been killed in a railway accident, and the girl's father, Walter Crosskill, a carpenter by trade, went to Canada, where he lately died intestate.

It is his daughter who is now being sought for to receive the estate. Nothing was ever heard of Miss Crosskill after she came to Paris, and the search, which has extended over two continents, has so far proved fruitless. She would now be a woman of about forty.

All Crops In All Provinces Promise to Be Exceptionally Successful, According to the Record Issued at Ottawa — Hard Winter In Ontario Hurt the Fall Wheat, But Did No Harm In Alberta.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The condition of field crops in Canada is presented in a bulletin of the census and statistics office issued yesterday for July 31, and shows good averages for all provinces as well as for all crops. Fall wheat was hurt by the hard winter in Ontario, but fared better in Alberta. The estimated yield is 23.24 bushels for the former province, and 27.89 bushels for the latter. The total estimated yield is 17,705,000 bushels.

The condition of spring wheat at the end of July was 90, for the whole of Canada, being 85 to 95 in the Maritime Provinces, 80 to 89 in Ontario and Quebec, 90 to 96 in the Northwest provinces and 85 in British Columbia.

Gladys Terryberry Home.

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 12.—Fred Wilson and 15-year-old Gladys Terryberry, whom he lured away from her home here three weeks ago arrived in St. Catharines, from Ann Arbor, Mich., yesterday morning at 3 o'clock, in charge of an officer. In the Police Court, Wilson, in answer to the charge of abducting a girl under 16, said he wanted to see a lawyer and was remanded for a week.

Both Wilson and the girl spent the remainder of the night in the cells. The girl was examined by the magistrate in private court. Wilson who had been working as lock-tender up to recently, tramped for five years.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The Canadian section of the International Waterways Commission has been appointed under the new treaty. It consists of Sir George Gibbons, London, Aime Geiffrion, K.C., Montreal, and A. P. Barnhill, St. John, N.B. The United States will also appoint three members. The commision will have jurisdiction over all matters relating to the International waterways of the two countries. Sir George Gibbons is the only reappointed member of the old commission.

Still Hot In Germany.

Berlin, Aug. 12.—The heated term continues unabated throughout Germany, and during the past few days the temperature has been higher than before. Deaths from sunstroke are reported from all sections. A water famine threatens some districts where the brooks are drying up. The thermometer in the side streets of Berlin yesterday registered 99 in the shade.

Pope Much Better.

Rome, Aug. 12.—The condition of Pope Pius took a decided turn for the better yesterday afternoon. So well satisfied were the Vatican physicians with the improvement that they predicted a recovery within ten days, barring unforeseen complications.

Following this encouraging declaration, Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, who has remained constantly near the Pope since the latter's illness, definitely decided to go to his villa at Montemario next Sunday for the remainder of the summer.

GOOD FIGHT PROMISED.

Preparations Being Made for Lemieux —Bourassa Debate.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—Everywhere there is plenty of comment preparatory to the selection of candidates. Beyond that, however, the surface is calm as neither side is divulging anything of real importance.

The joint meeting Sunday next at St. Hyacinthe, when Henry Bourassa, the Nationalist leader, will reply to Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux on the naval policy and reciprocity programs of the Government, promises to be a big affair. It will be a keen battle of wits, as both men are able speakers. So great is the interest, that special trains will leave Montreal to accommodate the crowds who like to listen to wit and repartee.

Le Devoir, Mr. Bourassa's paper, announces it hears a gang of toughs will endeavor to break up the meeting, and recalls certain past gatherings wherein stones were hurled on the platform. The meeting will most likely be lively enough, but as to violence it is not expected it will go beyond words.

Half a dozen speakers will be heard before Mr. Lemiux is to make his long-expected attack on Henry Bourassa, and the Nationalist leader, will, it is promised, be in fighting form and so will the Minister of Marine.

Lemieux Nominated.

Perce, Quebec, Aug. 12.—At the Liberal convention held here Thursday, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux was unanimously chosen as the Liberal candi-

[illegible] Mr. Perron made a strong speech on reciprocity and the marine bill.

The Conservative convention, held at Grand River, nominated W. A. E. Flynn, advocate, of Perce, as Conservative candidate in Gaspe County.

Sin of Hon. Charles Murphy.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—Rev. Father Forget, of Embrium, Russell County, yesterday declared that the reason that the French people of that constituency could not support Hon. Chas. Murphy was that the Secretary of State had in 1900 signed the petition presented by leading Irishmen of Ottawa to Rome, calling for the conversion of Ottawa University into an English-speaking institution. Father Forget said he spoke not only for himself but for the whole body of the French-Canadian Educational Association of Ontario. Officers of the latter, however, declare it is taking no part in politics. Alleged copies of the petition to Rome are in circulation in Russell.

Clifford at Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—Private W. J. Clifford of Toronto, the hero of the Bisley meet, winner of the King's and Prince of Wales' prizes, returned to Canada by the steamer Victorian last night. Private Clifford returns with over $2,000 in prize money and a cabin full of cups, medals and badges.

Commenting on his trip, he said that the only thing of which he had to complain was the interference of some of the inexperienced range officers, who had evidently not mastered the whole book of the somewhat complicated Bisley rules. He said that he had been somewhat handicapped in the King's, especially by range officers, who took objection to his using the low position.

In this match, he said, a range officer stood over him at every shot and timed him with a stop watch, which naturally proved somewhat disconcerting. Apart from this, however, he had a royal time.

Private Clifford will not proceed to Toronto until Monday night, as by doing so he would anticipate the big civic reception prepared for that date.

At a meeting held yesterday morning at the Point Aux Trembles ranges by the P.Q.R.A., it was decided to give a dinner this evening at Cooper's to Private Clifford.

Curlers Honor Earl Grey.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—The Canadian branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Society will make a unique presentation to Earl Grey as a souvenir of Canada and a token of appreciation for the interest he has taken in the game.

In former years these presentations have taken place in Montreal when the Governor-General passed through on his way back to the Old Country, but this will take place in Ottawa as soon as His Excellency sets the date.

The souvenir will be a jewelled curling stone in miniature, the stone part being made of a Canadian pearl weighing some thirty-six grains. An address by Rev. Mr. Barclay will accompany the jewel.

Wife-Beater Gets the Limit.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—"I am forced to give you the maximum sentence," said Judge Bazin to Raoul Nivervill, charged with beating his wife, "six months hard labor. I am sorry that the law will not allow me to make the sentence more severe, because you certainly deserve it. I should like to see you given the lash."

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK.

NORTHRUP WAS THE UNANIMOUS CHOICE

At two o'clock, when the meeting was called to order by Dr. Harper, President of the Association, upwards of 500 were in the hall, including a number of ladies.

Those occupying seats on the platform were the President, W. B. Northrup, ex-M.P.P.; Sir M. Bowell, Messrs. J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., A. A. Richardson, M.P.P., Rev. M. Sanderson, G. Campbell, J. F. Hill and John R Ketcheson.

The first business was the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Dr. Newton, of Deseronto.
President—Dr. Harper, of Madoc.
First Vice Pres.—Dr. Bowlby, of Tweed.
Second Vice Pres.—J. A. Gunter of Tudor.
Secretary—W. J. Hill, of Madoc.
Treasurer—J. F. Hill, of Tyendinaga.

Selection of Candidate.

Dr. Harper, chairman, expressed his pleasure at seeing such a representative gathering present. It augured well for the success of the candidate, no matter who it might be. He then called for nominations.

Mr. F. J. Thompson, ex-Reeve of Elzevir township, moved, seconded by Mr. A. D. McIntyre, of Deseronto, that Mr. W. B. NORTHRUP be the candidate.

The President—"Are there any other nominations?"

"No, No!" from all parts of the hall.

Amidst great enthusiasm Dr. Harper then declared Mr. Northrup to be the candidate and in a few appropriate words introduced the coming M. P. for East Hastings.

Mr. Northrup's Speech.

Mr. Northrup, upon coming forward to speak, was accorded a most flattering reception, and in a vigorous speech reviewed briefly the political situation in his usual masterly manner. He thanked the Conservatives of East Hastings for the honor they had conferred upon him, and, with their assistance, he would carry the flag to victory. (Loud applause). The omen of success in this campaign was in the air and it was the duty of all present and their friends to see that the principles of Conservatism should govern this country. He would not discuss the question of reciprocity now, as at a later date he would have an opportunity of doing so. He would, however, speak upon some of the misdeeds or political sins of the Government. The members of the Government will tell you that it is simply reciprocity in this campaign and nothing else that is the issue. Was this the fact? For fifteen years the Laurier Government had been in power and during that time had it kept one promise? An honest and economical administration was promised. Have we had it? He thought not. Have we had a loyal government? Sir Wilfrid, a few years ago at an Imperial Conference, spoke strongly of loyalty and what Canada would do if it was necessary for the Empire. A blow was aimed at the mother land when the South African war broke out. At such a time as that Joseph Chamberlain, that great British statesman, stated that it was an object lesson whereby the colonies could assist the mother land. Here was an opportunity for Sir Wilfrid to demonstrate his loyalty. Did he do so? No! He said Canada could not legally send troops to South Africa. There was, however, such a feeling aroused in the country that either the troops or the Government had to go, and the troops went. At such a time as this you are asked why Parliament was so suddenly dissolved. Was the Government afraid of more scandals being exposed? The Government cannot escape its misdoings. The question of reciprocity is not the main issue in this campaign. The Government has borrowed this word for a purpose. Where has it been borrowed fom? The Republican handbook in the last election in the United States heralded reciprocity. What is the meaning of reciprocity? It means to look to another country for a fair exchange in trade. The speaker then referred to the harm the proposed agreement would do to at least one industry in this country. If there was free trade in sulphuric acid the great works at Sulphide in this county would remain in existence but a short time. It would close down the Canadian industry and double the American industry. A few months ago two Ministers of the Government, Hon. Mr. Fielding and Hon. Mr. Paterson were sent down to Washington and they met President Taft and Secretary Knox, two able and shrewd men. Our Government representatives went there and did what they possibly considered was a good stroke of business. Hon. Mr. Paterson made a fine bargain for the goods he is interested in, namely, biscuits. The duty on biscuits going into the United States was 50 per cent., and on American biscuits coming in here, 35 per cent. Hon. Mr. Paterson said "we will compromise in this matter, and make the duty 32½ per cent. each way," thus lowering the U. S. duty 17½ per cent. and the Canadian duty 2½ per cent. That was a fine stroke of business. Hon. Mr. Fielding was the other representative. This is the same gentleman, who, when Premier of Nova Scotia, in 1895 moved to take Nova Scotia out of the Dominion of Canada. This country is at least entitled to have a man who is loyal to the Dominion to take part in such an important trade arrangement. Mr. Fielding had been a life-long free trader. Was he the right man to send to make a bargain between Canada and another country? The speaker, in referring to Hon. Mr. Fielding, spoke of another matter, namely the failure of the Farmers' Bank. Mr. Fielding was warned that the Farmers' Bank had not obtained the money which was necessary for the issue of a charter rightly. Despite all the warnings by men who were in a position to sound a warning note, the Hon. Mr. Fielding gave the certificate for the bank to do business. This is the man who is sent to Washington to make a trade bargain for us. A bargain such as is proposed we should not accept. Why did the United States make this treaty? What have President Taft and Senator Champ Clarke said about it? The latter said: "I am supporting this reciprocity agreement because it is the first step to the time when the stars and stripes shall float from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the ends of the United States. President Taft says accept it now. The real object of their making the pact was that this was to them the parting of the ways. (Cries of "No, never!") It was to them the first step for the union of the two countries. The Unionist press of the mother land says it is first and last against preferential trade within the Empire. Mr. Northrup referred to the by-election in Drummond and Arthabasca, a constituency which had been represented by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who had a majority of 2,500. In a bye-election that majority had not only melted away, but the candidate of the Liberal Government was defeated by the Nationalist candidate by 300 majority. This was a rebuff to the Government's naval policy. In concluding his address Mr. Northrup said he would do all he could in the campaign for the success of Conservative principles and if those present would do the same he had no doubt but; as their standard-bearer, he would, with their united assistance, be able once again to carry their flag to victory. (Loud applause and cheering.)

SIR M. BOWELL'S SPEEECH.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, upon rising to speak, was received in a most cordial manner. In his opening remarks he referred to the pleasure it gave him to be in Madoc and in the riding of old North Hastings, which he stumped 64 years ago, in defence of Conservative principles. Few of the old stalwarts with whom he did battle, he regretted, were left. It was a great pleasure, however, to see upon the platform one of the old boys who had never flinched in his duty to Queen and country, John R. Ketcheson, Esq., now in his 94th year, hale and hearty, who, it is to be hoped, might live to cast many more ballots in the interests of good and honest government. Referring to political question, Sir Mackenzie, among other things, said it was a serious and most important question which was now before the electorate. He had no doubt whatever but that the descendants of the stalwarts of the good old riding would adhere to the principles of their forefathers. The victories of the past, he prophesied, would be repeated on the 21st day of September. The question is why have we an election now The Government evidently feared further-ed investigations and had a dread of going to the country on its record. A serious charge was made against a minister of the Government that he had procured from the United States a large sum of money, between $60,000 and $70,000, to be used for election purposes. This charge was referred to a committee of the House of Commons, the majority of which committee were Liberals. The members of that committee pledged the Conservative members of the committee that the enquiry should go on before prorogation, and upon this being done an adjournment was agreed to. Immediately afterwards the House was dissolved, and the committee ceased to exist, hence the investigation could not be proceeded with, nor the charges proven to be true! Remember, added Sir Mackenzie, this charge was laid against the Minister by an old time Liberal, not by a Conservative. He (Sir Mackenzie) then proceeded to point out how the public chest had been plundered to fill the pockets of certain hangers-on of the Government. There were numerous other scandals, such as the printing bureau scandal, the Quebec and Halifax scandals. In short, the air was full of them. In the present campaign he (the speaker) would not be surprised if the country was flooded with money from the United States, as of yore when unrestricted reciprocity was before the people. The acts of the Government are such that leading Liberals have publicly stated that they could not support the pact, nor the Government in its policy. In speaking of reciprocity, he said that Canadians could not benefit by selling to a country articles which that country produced in excess of its requirements and which had to be exported. If a farmer, he added, had potatoes for sale he would not go to his neighboring farmer, who also had potatoes to sell, to find a market, but to communities who do not raise that product. The United States raises millions of bushels of wheat more than is required for home consumption, which has to be exported. If then we have 100,000,000 bushels of wheat to export, would it be profitable for the farmer to go to the United States to dispose of our surplus? He thought not. Referring to favored nations treaties, Sir Mackenzie pointed out that all of them had under the present agreement with the United States the same advantages in the way of markets in Canada under the favored nations clause as had the United States, without giving to Canada a single concession in return therefor. The speaker referred to Australia as a large and growing country and one of the most posperous countries of the day, agriculturally. Canada was the same. Argentina was still more so. In concluding his address Sir Mackenzie enjoined upon all present to follow in the footsteps of their forefathers in the love and veneration they had for the old cause and the flag that has flown over us, and vote so that it may be unsullied by contact with any other. He was delighted to have the opportunity of speaking to his old supporters and friends again in Madoc, and he hoped to have the opportunity of seeing them again after the 21st of September to congratulate them upon the victory achieved. Do not be content with the majority recorded for Mr. Northrup at the last election, but roll up for him and the cause a larger majority, no matter who his opponent might be. (Loud applause.)

MR. PEARCE.

Mr. J. W. Pearce, M.P.P., was warmly received upon rising to speak. In his opening remarks he congratulated Dr. Harper upon his election as President of the Conservative Association for greater East Hastings. He (the speaker) was proud of the fact that he was a Conservative. To-day we were a prosperous people and did not desire to have reciprocity with the United States. He urged upon all present to rally around to the support of Mr. Northrup and to roll up for him on the 21st of September a rousing majority.

MR. RICHARDSON.

Mr. A. A. Richardson, M.P.P. of Deseronto, said he never felt so keenly the position Canada was occupying as it is to-day Sir Wilfrid Laurier has endeavored to make a change in Canada, by changing the whole fiscal policy. All honor to Hon Mr. Borden and his supporters who have forced the issue to the electors. The question was, will we cling to the Empire or will we leave it. As far as he ((the speaker) was concerned he would fight against reciprocity with all his might. Reciprocity, he believed, spelled annexation. He believed the Laurier Government would be overthrown in this contest. The Americans hold out the olive branch and desire us to take it, but we will not do so under the conditions attached. He had unbounded confidence in the Hon. Mr. Borden, who was an honorable and upright man, loving law and justice.

MR. HUDSON.

Mr. W. P. Hudson, ex-M.P.P., said we had a heritage which we are proud of We must vote against reciprocity because the Americans were trickey. We are proud of the past history of this country in every respect. One of the noblest characteristics of the Canadians is loyalty and law, and we intend to be patriots and loyal to this country. He appealed to all present to vote against the Laurier Government.

DR. NEWTON.

Dr. Newton, of Deseronto, was well received and delivered a brief but stirring address. He said the Conservatives were assured of victory in the coming contest. We are Canadians and Canada is our home. (Applause.) Why should we now tear down the wall and allow strangers to come in and destroy our markets. We want no other flag but our own red cross flag, and no other protection but that of Great Britain, and we do not have to pay her for the protection she affords us. If reciprocity with the United States go into effect that country would swamp this country with their goods and destroy our industries. It was time that Sir Wilfrid and his Government was turned out of office and he (the speaker) believed it would be done on the 21st of September. The Doctor referred to Hon. A. B. Aylsworth leaving the Government after endeavoring to build a dry ditch near Newmarket. Other Liberals were also leaving the ship. What did Sir Wilfrid do at the Imperial Conference but endeavor to destroy British connection which we enjoy? In concluding, he thanked those present for the honor conferred upon him by electing him as Hon. President of the Association.

This closed the speech making and the meeting was closed with hearty cheers for Mr. Northrup, Hon. Mr. Borden, the King and the chairman.

"I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost."

STRONGER THAN MEAT.
A Judge's Opinion of Grape-Nuts.

A gentleman who has acquired a judicial turn of mind from experience on the bench out in the Sunflower State writes a carefully considered opinion as to the value of Grape-Nuts as food. He says:

"For the past 5 years Grape-Nuts has been a prominet feature in our bill of fare.

"The crisp food with the delicious nutty flavor has become an indispensable necessity of my family's every day life.

"It has proved to be most healthful and beneficial, and has enabled us to practically abolish pastry and pies from our table for the children prefer Grape-Nuts and do not crave rich and unwholesome food.

"Grape-Nuts keeps us all in perfect physical condition—as a preventive of disease it is beyond value. I have been particularly impressed by the beneficial effects of Grape-Nuts when used by ladies who are troubled with face blemishes, skin eruptions, etc It clears up the complexion wonderfully.

"As to its nutritive qualities, my experience is that one small dish of Grape-Nuts is much superior to a pound of meat for breakfast, which is an important consideration for anyone. It satisfies the appetite and strengthens the power of resisting fatigue, while its use involves none of the disagreeable consequences that sometimes follow a meat breakfast." Sir James Watson

THIS EMINENT ENGLISH PHYSICIAN IS ONE OF THE GREATEST AUTHORITIES ON DISEASES OF THE RESPIRATORY ORGANS.

In a recent address Sir James Watson stated that the commonest of all diseases is Catarrh, and that not one person in ten thousand passes the winter without an attack of some sort

Sir James advocates local treatment very strongly, and says that it is all nonsense trying to treat Catarrhal diseases by stomach medicines, atomizers, douches and snuffs.

Local treatment is applied most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which is inhaled into the nose, throat and lungs, and drives the disease completely out of the system.

Catarrhozone is a rational, common sense treatment; it clears the air passages, makes breathing easy, and relieves at once. Physicians prescribe it with gratifying results, and pronounce it a specific for Catarrh in any part of the system.

Mr. Thomas Cox, one of the most prominent citizens of Minden, Ont says: "I want to recommend Catarrhozone. It is a nice, clean cure for Catarrh. Cured me perfectly, and is well-deserving of a trial from every one at all affected by Catarrh or throat trouble."

Mr. G. F. Fadden of Royan, Que. writes: "In my opinion Catarrhozone is the only cure for Catarrh. I had the disease in its worst form but only got relief from Catarrhozone. It cured me quickly and permanently and I have no fear of the Catarrh ever returning.

The foregoing brief extracts, like thousands of others that the proprietors of Catarrhozone have received, prove that the proper remedy to use is Catarrhozone. It is quite different from the ordinary Catarrh preparations, and is warranted to prove entirely satisfactory. If it fails your money will be refunded, so if not benefitted you won't be out of pocket.

All druggists sell Catarrhozone Complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler liquid for recharging, ets., costs $1.00 trial size, 50c.

DYING SAILOR'S MESSAGES CARVED ON FLOATING HATCH

Crew of Schooner Lived for Days Without Food or Water and They All Finally Died

GALVESTON, Aug. 13.—Picked out of the West Texas coast, where it had been deposited by the gulf, was found the hatch cover of a vessel by the name of Kate Fear or Flare, evidently wrecked at sea, and upon which are carved on the wooden hatch the last messages of members of the crew It was evidently a schooner and the dates of the messages are from Sept 26 to Oct. 1, but the year is not given The crew must have been afloat without food and water for many days without having been picked up for the message of Sept. 26 says:—"Waterlogged six days. Beginning to suffer agony for water and food."

The name attached to the message was E. J. Whitman. None of the others are signed. The following, another message, was crudely traced with a pocketknife on the hatch cover which reads, "Nothing in sight, suffering intense and hope fading. Bill is dead."

The gruesome diary of the date indicates the condition of mind and body of the author's scrawling, which reads, "Water, water, water, agony agony."

Two days elapsed without any notes on the improvised tablet, but attempts to chronicle a message can be seen, mutely telling of the fate of the men. One sentence indicates that only one survivor remained. It read: "The boys are gone, and I am alone."

The last message is a farewell to the family of the survivor, and the scribbling, though plain enough is extended, and shows the feebleness of the hand that traced the knife over the wood tablet. This message reads: "About gone. Good-bye, wife mother and babies."

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY IN FAR NORTH

DAWSON, Y. T., Aug. 12—Mr. D. N. Allison is here from Ft. McPherson, at the mouth of the Mackenzie river, and reports that a prospector named Oliver from Edmonton and his partner, were victims of a double tragedy, when one killed the other with his gun and then committed suicide.

An Indian found the bodies in a cabin at the mouth of the Salt River, 500 miles up the Mackenzie from the mouth of the Peel River. It is reported that Capt. Beytz of the Mounted Police, who was en route from Edmonton to succeed Capt. Fitzgerald who perished on the trail last winter, buried the bodies.

One of the prospectors left a note saying that he had killed his partner because he himself had been taken sick and his partner had refused to go for a doctor.

Details, it is explained will be received at police headquarters at Regina during September, via Hudson Bay steamer now en route up the Mackenzie.

SCOTLAND YARD NOW INVOLVED IN SCANDAL

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Particulars have just leaked out of an extraordinary police scandal in connection wtih the Coronation ceremonies at Westminster Abbey.

In official circles the utmost reticence is shown in regard to the matter, but it appears that immediately after the ceremony at the Abbey a lady picked up a diamond brooch worth about $1,500 and handed it to one of the gold stick-in-waiting.

The latter, a well-known army officer, after an unsuccessful endeavor to find the lost property office at the Abbey, handed the brooch to a police constable in uniform, with a request that he would hand it over to his superiors with a view to its restoration to the owner.

Some days later, curious to know to whom the brooch belonged, he applied at Cannon Row police station and was surprised to find that the jewel had not been handed in.

Superintendent Wells was informed of the serious nature of such a complaint, and the whole of the constables on duty in the Abbey—fifty in number—who had been selected, not only on account of their good service, but of their stature, were requested to make a special report on the matter This was done, but all denied any knowledge of the brooch in question

In consequence all the men were paraded at Cannon Row station, and the army officer was present. What happened is not definitely stated, but there are suggestions that on three occasions he expressed a decided opinion as to a certain constable, who happened to be on duty in uniform at a particular spot.

The extraordinary part of the affair is that, although the real reason of the parade and inquiry was only known to a limited number of constables paraded, all of whom indignantly denied any knowledge of the jewel, the next day the brooch was returned anonymously in a match box to the lost property office at Scotland Yard, by whom it was forwarded to the owner who had reported her loss.

Many of the police who were on duty in the Abbey are long service men, and they naturally feel very incensed at an reflection cast on their character, and they hold a decided view as to what punishment should be awarded to any person found to have been responsible.

GERMAN EMPEROR IS GREAT LAND OWNER

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—Emperor William is by far the largest landowner in the Empire and possibly the greatest in Europe, except the Czar. His property in Europe is spread over 8,000 square miles, and yields a ground rent of $200,000 a year. In Potsdam the Emperor has thirteen mansions, for the most part occupied by members of his family. They are the new palace Babelsbert Castle, the Orangerie, the Marble palace, San Souci castle, the Stadt Schloss, the hunting-box, Pestar, Peacock Island, Wildpark, Charlottenhof castle, the Belvedere, Sakrow castle, and a mansion used as the headquarters of the whole estate Hanover has an estate which goes with the Crown; as have Stettin and Cassel, though His Majesty has also a private residence at the last named place. The famous Wilhelmshohe near Hamburg is the sole property of the sovereign.

So also are the domains at Wiesbaden, Koenigsberg, Zelle, Strasburg Koenigswusterhausen, Osnabruck, Trouville, Rouminten on the Russian frontier; Schoenhausen, Charlotten. Schwedt, Homburg on the Hill, Olvia Coblenz, and the famous Cadinen William's hunting-boxes—in reality gigantic mansions, capable of holding a house part of fifty—are located at Hubertusstock, Soerde, Springe, Letzlingen, Georgsgarten, Bruchl, and Bemath.

LUMBERMEN OPPOSED

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—Your correspondent is in a position to state that J. R. Booth, the well-known lumber operator, is absolutely opposed to reciprocity. "It would be the worst thing that ever happed to the country," is his expression of opinion.

This brings Mr. Booth into line with a group of large pulp and lumber operators who have declared against the pact. W. H. Rowley, head of the E B. Eddy Co., G. H Perley, of Perley & Pathe, Wm. Rice, of Quebec, and Mr. Booth make a formidable weight of opinion adverse to the agreement.

Every Province in the Dominion will have a composite exhibit of its resources at the Canadian National Exhibition this year.

The model of the Titanic, the largest ship afloat, will be on exhibition at the Canadian National this year.

Laurier and Loot.

Laurier and a larger market for the Yankees.

That Newport heiress may have known what she was doing, after all. Good chauffeurs are hard to get.

"Reciprocity should be nipped in the bud," says one paper. What's the matter with pulling it out by the roots?

Canada has a greater railway mileage than Australia and New Zealand or Italy and Spain combined, and more than all the South American countries.

The Chicago man who increased his weight by drinking water so that he passed the police examination will discover, after he lands the job, that water is not the only beverage used on the police force, there, or elsewhere.

It is not surprising that the British born are throwing in their lot in the present election with the Conservative party. Britishers have been accustomed to personal honesty and honor in their public men—not to such men as Pugsley, Oliver and the like.—Kingston Standard.

Dominion customs figures for July totalled $6,697,489, an increase of $972,775 over July of last year. For the first four months of the current fiscal year the receipts totalled $25,917,749, as against $22,611,807 in the same period of 1910, an increase of $3,305,942.

A trunk belonging to some vaudeville actors exploded at a railroad station in Pennsylvania. The police think that the explosion was caused by peroxide, whose chief use in dramatic art is gild the lilies—or the topknots thereof. But it may be that some of the jokes had been kept too long.

Two men who advertised and were selling stock in an alleged invention for generating electricity from the sun's rays have been arrested on a charge of using the United States mails to defraud. Nothing is too fabulous to catch credulous investors, not even the idea that Canada will profit by reciprocity with the United States.

If the women of Canada had votes there would not be a chance for the passing of the reciprocity arrangement. The ladies of Toronto and those of Montreal very soon after the project was made public, passed resolutions strongly opposing closer relations with a country in which divorce and moral depravity are so widely prevalent.

Let the U. S. level their tariff before Canada touches hers. Speaking of the unfairness of trade conditions between Canada and the United States as it affects their goods, Mr Orme, a manufacturer of St. Thomas told the Times man that, when sending goods from the Dunnville factory to Buffalo they have to payy 44 cents duty and 60 per cent. ad valorem on the goods, whereas on goods coming from their Buffalo factory into Canada only a straight 25 per cent. duty is demanded, yet they talk of fair trade between the two countries.

The St. John Standard can read but one result from the enthusiastic manner in which the Liberal-Conservatives of New Brunswick have entered into the contest—success. It says:—"The Conservative campaign, which opened in earnest this week in the constituencies has started with unbounded enthusiasm. Reports from the different centres tell of a strong determination to muster the full strength of the party at the polls and with many old-time Liberals joining in the fight against reciprocity a sweeping victory over the policy of continentalism is assured. It is noticeable that the electors are taking a more active interest in the issues of the present campaign than at any time in the past twenty years."

LIFE IS CHEAP IN GERMANY

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—The small value which German military men place upon human life has again been demonstrated by a military court which convende here recently. Sentence of two years' detention in a fortress has been passed by the military court on Baron von Richtofen for killing Herr Gaffron in a duel. The victim was an ex-cavalry officer. The baron is a lieutenant in the Hussar Guards reserve The duel arose out of a money affair, the baron having given Gaffron an I. O. U. for $12,500, receiving in return half that amount. Silence had been agreed upon as to the transaction but Richtofen told his brother of it and the latter got back the I. O. U. at a usurious rate. Whispers circulated and Gaffron's situation became unbearable, with the result that he boxed the baron's ears in public Gaffron at first refused to fight the baron, but after having been fined for the assault agreed to meet him. The conditions were unusually severe, namely the exchange of shots at 15 paces until one of the combatants was disabled. Gaffron's lungs were pierced at the second shot and he died two hours later.

GREAT GATHERING OF BOY SCOUTS AT TORONTO EXHIBITION.

That the Boy Scouts are now a national institution no one will attempt to deny. They are doing great work, giving an educational value to the amusements of the boys of Canada. They have come to stay and they are coming to the Canadian National Exhibition in their uniforms and in thousands.

To put it in a nutshell, the Canadian National Exhibition will this year have the greatest gathering of Boy Scouts ever brought together in Canada or any where else. A feature of the second day's ceremony will be the grand review by his Excellency the Governor General in which Boy Scouts from all parts of Canada will take part. There will also be competitions in the various branches of their work.

The Boy Scouts will occupy the Model Military Camp the first three days of the Exhibition and it is estimated that five thousand of them will live under canvas on the grounds.

The Boy Scouts will be the guests of the Canadian National Exhibition authorities, having free access to the grounds, tent accommodation and all meals will be provided. This will be a banner three days in the history of the Movement and it is requested that all scouts throughout the Province endeavor to be present. For further information apply to H. G. MADE A BURGLAR CRY FOR MERCY

VERONA, N. J., Aug. 12.—Mrs. John Dox, tall and athletic, was notified this afternoon by her little daughter that a burglar had entered her home. Mrs. Dox left work in the back yard, ran into the building and after a ten minute fight had the intruder crying for mercy. She tied him hand and foot, pummelled him into obedience to her order to stand up, and completed the operation by binding him in a chair. Then she walked to a nearby field where her husband was at work and told him what she had done.

Dox ran to the house, and after giving the thief another thrashing notified the police. The prisoner was bruised and bleeding when led to a cell. He said he was Thomas Keller of Newark, and that Mrs. Dox had interrupted him while he was looting the second floor.

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

In a most forceful sense his seeming innocence and ignorance of the world's dark ways were the deceptive characteristics which had effected the undoing of a deep-dyed villain. He could not but admire the keenness of his antagonist, and he was too much of a sportsman not to recognise the ability he exhibited. But the exhibition had not been to his liking, as the marks upon his face clearly showed. He admitted defeat, but it should not end there. His heart cried out for revenge, and he would never rest until a successful blow had been struck by him and his hatred satisfied. Following his interview with the Chronicle reporter, he went directly to his lodgings in the Olympia building, as so far as possible eliminated the bruises he had received in his encounter with Grant—and was so far successful, that when later in the day he appeared before his students, there were scarcely any marks upon him that spoke of the encounter. But before the morning edition of the Chronicle was sold, he had severed his connection with the Club, knowing that his usefulness was at an end, in that his prowess as an undefeated athlete was departed, and the fact that officers were upon his track made him more anxious than ever to retire from public notice.

His one ambition was to shadow Grant, and for days he hung around the St. Nicholas, yet careful to keep from sight. Twice he was close up on the heels of the young Vermonter but each time Greer faced him, and he took refuge in an alleyway. The wily Scotchman, suspecting a cowardly blow, determined to keep near his young friend and if possible catch the Frenchman in some criminal act that he might put him where he rightly belonged. Grant was warned to be watchful lest the fellow should lunge at him from the back, but he laughed at the suggestion and continued his free jaunts through the city as usual Had he not promised to remain until Miss Whiting's relatives arrived, Alex would have used the precautions as an excuse to resume his search for his cousin; but to him a promise was sacred and under no circumstances would he forfeit her high regard which now meant more to him than he was willing to admit.

So the rides and the strolls continued; the attendance at worship kept up; and as the time drew near for her departure and their consequent separation—for a time, at least—their interest in each other increased until their thoughts of friendship and those of love were divided only by the merest formality. But each felt that the time for an avowal of affection was not yet; both were discreet; both were cautious—and each felt in their heart of hearts, it was best to wait!

CHAPTER IX.

THE FATHER AND BROTHER.

For the first time in his life Alex Grant was experiencing the power of love. Battle as he would against the increasing affection for his fair southern friend, he could not still the longing for her presence, now that the hour for departure was near at hand

While recognizing that move must be made toward fulfilling his duty to the anxious uncle,—for five weeks had elapsed since his coming to San Francisco,—and the search must be resumed without further delay, and the very thought of a prolonged separation from Marian well-nigh overpowered him.

So many incidents had been crowded into his short acquaintance with her; so much had transpired to reveal her exceptional qualities; to him her womanliness, her depth of character were as manifest as though he had known her for years.

True, her natural modesty and consequent aloofness served to keep the heart-feelings in reserve, but the readiness with which she accepted his company, her graciousness in inviting him to drives, messages which gave her an excuse to seek him when his absence seemed prolonged,—all allowed him a glimpse behind the heart-scenes that otherwise might have remained unknown.

The ready appreciation of his slightest attention, the apparent contentment when in his company, her plans never fully decided upon without his approval, and her confidence in his integrity, were but the surface results of an inner regard that was deep and lasting.

When it became known that Mr Whiting and son were to expected at any hour, and that she must be prepared to leave for home immediately upon their arrival, he was on the verge of an avowal of love. But, his better judgment predominating, he resolved to abide his promise to his uncle that nothing should come between him and the purpose which had led him so far from his eastern home.

For an hour he had been seated in a little nook of the parlor—a favorite resort of the young friends—thinking over all that had happened during the last five weeks, and trying to sum up the results of their romantic meeting and subsequent enjoyments, when a familiar voice sounded near.

"I wonder if he is not here," and the object of his thoughts stood before him. "You runaway," she laughed. "I have been hunting for you for fifteen minutes! But I should have known you were here. A dispatch has just been received that Father and Frederick will arrive within two hours, and I must be ready leave for home to-morrow morning."

ALL IS POLITICS AND FINANCES IN THE WESTERN PROVINCES

Commerce is Buoyant in Winnipeg—Proposed Trade Pact Would Interfere With Development—What the Feeling in the West is—Mixed Farming Advocated for Manitoba—Protection for Western Canada is Making Progress in the Public Mind

Special Correspondence to The Toronto News and The Intelligencer.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 2.—With a hot sun, sending beams of gladness into the multitude of optimistic hearts that are yearning for a perfect crop, and with the political pot boiling over, the atmosphere in Winnipeg is full of steam, which promises to be a great source of power within the next two or three months. Commercially speaking there is no thought in this city of a depession; all is buoyant and hopeful. And let it be said, this sanguine view is not an outcome of any agitation in the West for freer trade with the United States. On the contrary, a strong feeling prevails in Winnipeg against the Reciprocity Agreement because of the belief in the minds of many prominent business men that the proposed tariff pact would seriously interfere with the wonderful industrial development of their city. While everyone here realizes most fully the importance of a bumper crop and of its distribution, every one is also deeply conscious of the fact that a policy of free trade with the United States even in natural products, is not the right way to plan for the increased pay roll and the greater pospeity of the 237 manufacturing inductries which have sprung into being in the last few years, gathering under their roofs some 15,000 workmen.

Winnipeg, in many respects is the most truly Canadian city in the Dominion, despite the claims of many in Ontario, that he who settles anywhere west of Lake of the Woods regards the older provinces as dead, old East. The East is East and West is West idea does not express the view of Winnipeg's best and most influential men. Their conception of Canada is that expressed by the old philosopher in the words: "There be three things which make a nation great—a fertile soil, busy workshops, and easy transportation for man and goods from place to place." This is a vision, too, which the business man in Winnipeg, because of his unique position in the country, is more qualified to frame than others less fortunately situated. Here he is with his interests and sympathies fairly divided between the vast farming areas of the Prairie Provinces and the industrial activities close at hand The wholesale merchant, the banker, the insurance and real estate agents, are vitally connected with the growth of the West. In fact nearly every person of any financial worth has one or more strings fastened in some promising town or district on the prairies. For years he has been depending on the prosperity of the farmer, and his heart, and his pocket also, feels for the man on the land.

Industrial expansion on the other hand, is a more recent factor in the general scheme of Western development, and of course, manufacturing is receiving the greatest impetus from the experienced citizen of Winnipeg. He sees in other towns and cities throughout the West, possibilities for the same phenomenal results that have been realized here. Since 1906 factories and shops numbering 109 have been added to Winnipeg's industrial roll; nearly forty were established in 1910 alone. Just this week a contract was closed with the city by a prospective gypsum manufacturer for the installation of a 400-horse power plant. That this period of four years between 1906 and 1910 has been responsible for the great strengthening of Winnipeg, changing it from a mere distributing centre to a solid commercial city is proven by the increase of assessment values of nearly 100 per cent. and the advance in bank clearings from 500 to 900 millions.

A large body of consumers, who have no connection with agricultural interests, has arisen in this city, and the cost of living is a consideration now that was not so much complained of before. Hence, one hears on every side an urgent demand for the adoption of mixed farming in Manitoba. People are realizing more and more the absurdity of importing eggs, meat, cheese, butter, fruit and so on from far away regions in the United States and Eastern Canada. Winnipeg sees its future handicapped without more abundant and cheaper supplies of food from its own province, and this desire, whether understood now or not is the strong and irresistible step towards protection in Western Canada. To be the force and power that such a country as the West should be, the thorough Canadian out here sees the absolute necessity for self-sufficiency. He has everything to help him develop; a soil fit for any kind of agricultural products save the tropical varieties, coal, timber, iron ore, and magnificent water power. Why then should he not build up these resources, a millionth part of which has not yet been utilized, to be turned to the exclusive use of Canada, making her not simply a producer of grain for other countries, but a mighty commercial power, supported by a variety of interests

Such a national future has arisen in the mind of Winnipeg, and gradually, if even ever so slowly against the agrarian forces of the Grain Growers' Association, that vision must inevitably move westward toward the mountains where it will find a more encouraging support again in the province of British Columbia. This note was struck intensely a few weeks ago when he toured Western Canada, and in this city, at least, his speech was appreciated and will be remembered as that of a Canadian statesman. His avowed support of the Hudsons Bay Railroad', terminal elevators and cold storage plants was taken as a constructive scheme for this new country, which, though perhaps submerged for the time being under the straight issue of Reciprocity will predominate later, because it had first place in the minds of the people, especially the farmer.

Just now all is politics and finances, the latter being slightly more dependent on the crops. A big fuss has arisen in Winnipeg over the arrangement of the voters' lists. The Dominion ocicials have stepped in to say that the Provincial lists arranged by Hon. Robt. Rogers are out of date, and that they and not Mr. Rogers shall fix up the new ones for the Federal election. It is quite likely that there will be much clashing before suitable lists are compiled. In financial quarters the word is of the best. "There will be lots of money in the country," said a leading banker here to-day. "We have all increased our capital, and it only remains for the railroads to move the grain. "It will take," said he, "fully fifty million dollars to send the crop to the head of the lakes, and there alone you have a large amount to be released into channels of circulation within the next month or two." The only serious feature of the whole commercial situation is the coal famine which threatens the West, for this means that transportation of coal from the East for the bodily welfare of the Western citizen will have a prior claim over the wheat crop.

Altogether, however, there is much resource in Winnipeg, financially and politically, that promises to go a long way in tiding Canada over the stormy period of the next two months

WOMAN WON BATTLE AGAINST THE FARMER

MONTREAL, Aug. 12—Mrs. Rachael Hotner and Leon Trudeau, a farmer, got mixed up in a fight on the Bonsecours market over ahe purchase of some fruit, and both combatants were placed under arrest by Lieutenant Savard. Later they were both arranged in the Recorder's Court before Judge Leet.

Mrs. Hootner told the court that the apples on the top of the baskets looked good to her, but when she examined the bottoms of the baskets she found that most of the fruit was in a decayed condition. She said she remonstrated with the farmer, but he would not give her the mony back She admitted that she was mixed up in tussle, but claimed that she was fighting for her rights.

Trudeau declared that he was only defending himself from the attack and claimed that he was getting the worst of the battle when the police officer interfered. His face was scratched.

The woman was discharged but Trudeau was condemned to pay a fine of $15.

The Ninety Million Market

There are 70,000 abandoned farms in one portion of the United States due to the "ninety million market."

Nort Dakota farmers are suffering from hard times and they have the "ninety million market."

Nearly all the farm products command a better price in Canada than in the United States. Will adding to the supply increase the price in the "ninety million market"?

To secure lower prices and the "ninety million market" the Canadian Government propose throwing open our markets to Argentina, Russia, Hungary, Denmark, Sweden, Spain, Japan, Norway, Australia and New Zealand, without securing similar concessions in those countries for the Canadians.

Disease, Not a Crime

After a century or more of failure in treating alcoholism as a crime punishable by the penitentiary, instead of a disease to be scientifically trated, New York City has officially recognized that it is a disease and should be thus treated. In following out this idea, there recently has been appointed a Board of Inebriety to establish a hospital and industrial colony for habitual drunkards, and it is expected that the work of this commission will serve a two-fold purpose. In the first place, it will put the victim of the liquor habit in a position where, by careful medical treatment and proper environment, he may overcome his craving for strong drink, and during this process of rehabilitation his influence on society will be removed.

This board is composed of two physicians, two clergymen, one business man and the Commissioners of Charity and Correction as ex-officio members. It is proposed that hereafter whenever a man is arrested for intoxication his case shall be immediately eported to the board and an investigation will be made. If the man is not an habitual drunkard, and the circumstances of the case warrant, he may sign a request for his release and this request the court is expected to recognize.

Where it is learned, however, that the offender is a confirmed alcoholic he may upon his own application, the petition of a relative or a demand from either the Commissioner of Public Charities or the board of trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals, be examined by a commission in lunacy, and if adjudged a victim of the disease, he may be committed to the board for a period of not less than one year and not more than three.

From a theoretical standpoint this appears to be a sensible method of dealing with the question. The fact that a confirmed drunkard is not only an incubus, but a positive menace to society, is too generally recognized to admit of argument. The law, upon which society itself depends, should take care of his case. But his treatment should be conducted along humanitarian lines because except in unusual instances, this is the only way in which reformation may be effected. This is what the board proposes. While for a time he will be removed from harmful influences and given work in healthful surroundings he is not to be considered a pariah. Instead an earnest effort will be made to raise his moral standard and inspire in him a keener respect of self and the duty he owes to society.

The New York experiment will be watched with great interest in other cities.

The Big Issue

Mr. Oliver has been adding his voice to those of other ministers in an effort to make reciprocity the one issue for discussion during the election campaign. Mr. Oliver's old friend, Mr. Dan McGillicuddy, may be behind this attitude of the Minister of the Interior; because, says the Montreal Gazette, if what is alleged be true, Mr. Oliver cannot well afford to have the discussion deal with the personal disbursements of himself and his colleagues. Nor is he alone in this regard. The people have some right to ask Mr. Templeman about the graft in connection with Chinese immigration at Vancouver, and why he and his ministerial colleagues failed to stop it before it became so notorious as to be a matter of common gossip and cause of quarrelling on the coast. The people of the West, also, may reasonably ask why that world-famed settler of strikes, Mr. William Lyon Mackenzie King, does not settle, or try to settle, the strike of coal miners, which is likely to be a cause of grave trouble. The people of other and all parts of the country also have their special interests in Government failures. For instance, they want to know why the militia service costs so much and shows such poor results, why sawdust wharves are bought by the Government and paid for at prices that should secure good timber structures, why ministers when they undertake a big business job make a botch of it, as in the case of the Quebec bridge and the National Transcontinental Railway, and why the federal taxes in Canada are so much higher a head of the population than those of the United States, and why there is no sufficient return for the surplus. All these and many other things require explaining and will be discussed and set in array against the ministers; and rightly. The elections give Canadians an opportunity to get a national administration they will not blush for when they think of it, and the opportunity may not recur for years. Any year they please their Parliament can put foodstuffs on the customs free list, not only from the United States, but from all the world.

KING AND IRELAND

His Majesty Will Visit the Emerald Isle Again Next Spring

So pleased was King George with his recent visit to Ireland that he has already set a date for his next visit to the Emerald Isle. It will take place in the spring of next year. It is the King's present intention to spend about a fortnight in the Sister Isle, a week of this time being devoted to Dublin, and the remainder to brief visits to several of the larger provincial centres, such as Belfast, Waterford, and probably Cork. While the King is in the Irish capital a Court and a Levee will be held there, and it is his intention that these shall be annual ceremonies in the future. The lists of those anxious to appear at Courts or levees in London during the season grows longer every year, and it is a difficult problem to provide for the reception of all the applicants. However, King George has solved the difficulty by determining that for the future he will receive his Irish and Scottish subjects in their own capitals. It is expected that this will work very well and that it may be possible to reduce the number of London Courts each year from four to three.

BIG PIANO SMASH

The well-known Berlin pianoforte factory, Carl Hinze, has stopped payment. The liabilities are estimated at nearly $5,000,000. A recent failure, it now transpires, was connected with the present smash, and ten to fifteen more expected as the result. Fraulein Quandt, owner of a pianoforte business, who had invested her entire fortune of $50,000 in Hinze's concern, has committed suicide. Hinze, who has been for some years in great financial difficulties, put himself in the hands of extortionate moneylenders, and this brought about the catastrophe.

The attendance at the Canadian National Exhibition is junping up at the rate of 100,000 a year. In 1908 it was 650,000; in 1909 it was 752,000; in 1910 it was 837,000. This year it should hit the million mark.

Three Aeroplanes Wrecked.

PURPOSES OF COMPANY

Canada Bread Company, Limited, has acquired as going concerns the plants and the businesses of the Bredin Bread Company, Limited, of Toronto; Geo. Weston, (The Model Bakery) of Toronto; H. C. Tomlin (Toronto Bakery) of Toronto; Stuarts, Limited, of Montreal, and W. J, Boyd of Winnipeg. In the case of Boyd the real propertp is excluded, but a parcel of land in the City of Winnipeg, about two acres in extent, is substituted. The first three companies have been in operation for almost thirty years and the last two for close to twenty years. They have all grown from small beginnings till they are now among the largest in their respective fields in Canada. The combined output of the companies at present is, approximately, 600,000 loaves of bread per week. It is intended, by extensions to the present plants and the erection or acquisition of new plants, to forthwith increase the output of the Company to one million loaves per week, with other extensions to follow in the other large cities at a later date.

POSITION OF BONDS

For full particulars reference may be made to our prospectus which is accompanied by a letter from Mr. Mark Bredin, the Vice-President and General Manager of the Company. We draw attention to the following points:—

1. The present $1,250,000 of 6 per cent. First Mortgage Sinking Fund thirty-year gold bonds are secured by trust deeds to Guarkian Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, constituting a first mortgage on all the property, real, personal, or mixed, now owned or hereafter acquired by the Company, as more fully described in said trust deeds. In the trust deeds it is specially stipulated that of the $1,000,000 cash being placed in the treasury, the sum of $500,000 shall be held by the Trustee, to be used only in the redemption of bonds or in investment in additional plants and real estate, thus increasing the fixed assets under the mortgage. A Sinking Fund of 1 per cent. is operative from August 1, 1911.

2. The assets of the companies already taken over stand in excess of all liabilities, and without any allowance for good will, trade-marks, etc., at $841,428.70. There has also been placed in the treasury $1,066,221.08 of cash which, besides furnishing funds for the the purchasing of construction of additional plants, will provide ample working capital.

3. The earnings of the present plants, as per certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., after allowing for depreciation, amounted, from April 30th, 1910 to April 30th, 1911, to $107,016.14, to which may be added $35,000, being interest at the rate of 3 1-2 per cent. on $1,000,000 cash in the treasury pending its employment on extensions. It is estimated that, with the economies to be effected, the earnings on these plants will shortly amo nt to $180,000 a year, or nearly two and one-half times the bond interest.

4. With the extensions that it is proposed to effect forthwith, the company by the end of its first fiscal years should be in a position to show earnings of $260,000 a year, eqcal to three and one-half times the interest requirements on the bond issue, and with all the additional plants that will be provided with the cash in the treasury the earnings should steadily gain to over $530,000 a year, or more than seven times the bond interest requirements.

5. The company, with its plants situated in the larger cities of the different Provinces of Canada, will be in an exceptionally favorable position to benefit by the marked economies that will be possible in manufacturing, and more especially in distribution, and all the time will be turning out a more uniform product under the most sanitary conditions.

6. The practical men who have made the different companies particularly successful will oe identified with the management and direction of the new company. Mr. Mark Bredin, who is probably one of the most successful bread manufacturers in Canada, will occupy the position of Vice-President and General Manager, while the services of the heads of four of the different companies taken over and of an efficient representative of the fifth have been assured to the company

ANGLICANS ALTER MARRIAGE SERVICE

Important alterations in the form of the Anglican Church marriage service have been agreed upon in the lower house of convocation. One of the clauses altered is that exhorting:

And therefore (marriage) is not by any to be enterprised, nor taken in hand, unadvisedly, lightly, or wantonly to satisfy men's carnal lusts and appetites like brute beasts that have no understanding; but reverently, discreetly, advisedly, soberly and in the fear of God.

The clause is altered to read: "is not by any to be taken in hand unadvisedly lightly, or wantonly; but reverently, discreetly advisedly soberly and in the fear of God."

On the part of the marriage exhortation, which describes the first clause for which marriage was ordained, it was agreed that the clause should begin: "It was ordained for the increase of mankind," instead of "It was ordained for the procreation of children," thus getting rid of the word "procreation."

Another amendment was to omit entirely the paragraph indicating the second cause of matrimony, and beginning: "Secondly, it was ordained for a remedy against sin."

Further discussion on the Prayer Book was adjourned till next February.

We don't need reciprocity Occasionally a car might be shipped but for every one shipped out we get three in. What we need is protection, and West Elgin will stand for Canada first. RIOTS IN LIVERPOOL

Strike Results in Death of Policeman and Many Injuries.

Altercation Between Constable and Strikers Results in Fight and General Melee Occurs — Riot Act is Read and Troops Are Called Out—Crowds Barricade Themselves in Narrow Slum Streets and Fight.

Liverpool, Aug. 14.—Serious rioting growing out of the strike which is in progress here occurred yesterday afternoon. One policeman was killed, by being struck on the head with a brick, and many persons were injured.

An altercation between a policeman and strikers during a transport workers' demonstration at St. George's Hall started the trouble, which culminated in a general melee. When, after this disorder had been put down and the strikers scattered, they gathered again in the Islington quarter and resumed their attacks upon the minions of the law and with serious results.

One hundred thousand men were gathered in groups about St. George's Hall listening to speeches by labor agitators, and the scenes of violence following the attack upon a policeman necessitated the calling out of the police reserves. When they arrived one party of fifteen policemen were surrounded and disarmed, the rioters attacking them with their own batons. In the fight the commanding officer of the police was dangerously wounded.

So great was the disorder that the Riot Act was read and the troops were called out to assist the police. The mob fought desperately with sticks and stones, and, in fact, with any handy missiles. Gradually, however, by the combined efforts of the troops and police, the crowds, which were surrounding seven speakers' platforms erected on the plateau fronting the hall, were cleared away. Many policemen and rioters were injured in the hand-to-hand fighting. The rioters have threatened to attack the newspaper offices, which are closely guarded. After the fight St. George's Hall was converted into a temporary hospital and the wounds of many persons were attended to by physicians.

Driven from the centre of the city the crowd sullenly repaired to the Islington quarter, one of the lowest and roughest in Liverpool. Here the police were baffled in the narrow streets, for the desperate rioters barricaded themselves in the houses and volleyed down bricks, slates and chimney pots from the roofs upon their heads.

While the details as to casualties still are incomplete, Constable Cookson was killed by a blow on the head, and Superintendent of Police Bolton was taken to a hospital in a precarious condition. It is rumored that some houses were set on fire during the disturbances.

The outbreak, it is alleged, was largely due to the strikers' resentment of indiscreet conduct on the part of members of the police force brought here from Birmingham to assist in maintaining order. Tom Mann, who was one of the leaders of the demonstration, has lodged a formal protest with the chief constable against what he describes as a brutal attack by a Birmingham constable on one of the strikers.

Disorders at Glasgow.

London, Aug. 14.—While the strike troubles in London are ended, the situation in the provinces is rapidly growing worse. In addition to rioting yesterday at Liverpool, there were serious disorders at Glasgow, where the street car service had to be completely closed down. Thirty thousand workmen met on Glasgow Green, and the strike leaders threatened drastic measures if the non-union men continued to take the place of strikers. Scuffles with the police led to wild scenes of disorder, in which there was stone-throwing on the part of the workmen and baton charges by the police. Much damage was done to street cars by the strikers before the service was suspended. Cars were pulled off the tracks and their trolley poles removed, windows were smashed and timbers were laid on the rails or strikers sat on the tracks in a body in order to impede the progress of the cars. Many persons were injured.

The transport and railway workers of Manchester and Salford have resolved to strike this evening if the Liverpool and Manchester disputes are not settled in the meantime.

A labor demonstration was held in Trafalgar Square here yesterday afternoon to welcome a party of laborite members of the French Chamber of Deputies. The speakers included Ramsay Macdonald, Ben Tillett and J. K. Hardie, all of whom emphasized the importance of the triumph of the workmen in the London strike and the uniting of international workers, who would have a good deal to say in international politics. Mr. Tillett said that before long the railway workers would join the transport federation and then if soldiers were summoned to the scene of a strike they would have to walk in order to get there.

Scots Greys Guard Food.

Liverpool, Aug. 14.—Armed with sabres and carbines and furnished with ball cartridges, strong detachments of the Royal Scots Greys succeeded in effecting the removal on Saturday of goods, which had been tied up at the central depots by the striking dockmen and carriers.

Six hundred tons of foodstuffs were moved in one procession, which was accompanied by magistrates, who were mounted, and as they rode along carried in their hands copies of the Riot Act. The strikers looked on sullenly, but showed no disposition for a conflict with the well-armed soldiers.

Died Suddenly.

Gananoque, Aug. 14.—Edward A. Dorman, for twenty years agent for the G.T.R. at Gananoque Junction, died suddenly Saturday night. He was born in Whitby 52 years ago, his father having been an old newspaper man.

CAN'T GET CANDIDATE

Lloyd Harris Refuses to Run in Brantford.

Young Liberal Who Opposed Reciprocity in the Commons Declines to Take Brantford Nomination on That Platform and Convention Breaks Up Without Naming a Man—Conservatives Jubilant.

Brantford, Aug. 14.—The hopes of the Liberal party to capture the riding of Brantford were shattered here on Saturday, when, after a fighting convention of several hours' duration, an adjournment for one week was taken without a candidate having been named. Lloyd Harris, the sitting member, who openly opposed the reciprocity pact, refused absolutely to again become a candidate, his refusal being based on the split existing in the party ranks over the reciprocity question. The result leaves the local Conservatives in a jubilant mood, as it is freely conceded by prominent Liberals that Brantford will be redeemed by the Conservatives.

Jacob Messecar presided at the convention, in which great interest centered. E. Sweet, T. H. Preston and John Muir, in addressing the gathering, declared that Mr. Harris had not broken faith with his constituents in opposing reciprocity. The issue was not in the air at the time of his election in 1908. Col. Spence, C. W. Gurney, J. G. Hanmer and others declared for an out and out reciprocity candidate, but it was admitted that there was no nominee in sight who would accept the nomination and who could be depended upon to carry the riding.

At this stage Mr. Harris was called and asked if he would support reciprocity if the Laurier Government were returned. Mr. Harris replied that he would not He asked that his name be dropped as a possible candidate.

Nominations were then called for, and T. H. Preston, C. B. Heyd, C. W. Gurney, M. W. McEwen, John Muir, J. A. Messecar and Mr. Harris were named, but all retired. An effort was made to get Mr. Harris to consent by an unanimous vote, but this failed, and the gathering was adjourned.

Brantford Conservatives, by an unanimous vote on Saturday nominated W. F. Cockshutt as their standard-bearer in the approaching federal election.

Nominations in Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 14.—Three Conservative nominations were made on Saturday in Nova Scotia. The Lunenburg convention was held at Mahone Bay, where Dr. Dugald Stewart was nominated. Dr. Stewart is an ex-mayor of Bridgewater, and for six years was in the Town Council.

Dr. J. J. Cameron was nominated by the Conservatives of Antigonish.

In Guysboro conventions were held in two districts of the county at the same time, St. Mary's and Sherbrooke. They both named G. A. R. Rowlings, who was the Conservative candidate at the last general election.

Again the Candidate.

Cobourg, Aug. 14.—As was expected at the West Northumberland Liberal convention, held here Saturday afternoon, the nomination was given to J. B. McColl, who has represented the riding in three Parliaments.

H. M. Mowat to Run.

Beaverton, Aug. 14.—H. M. Mowat of Toronto, president of the Ontario Reform Association, was chosen at the Liberal convention yesterday to contest North Ontario against Major Sam Sharpe.

McMillan for Glengarry.

Alexandria, Aug. 14.—At a well-attended Liberal convention here yesterday afternoon, A. A. McMillan, the former member, was unanimously chosen to contest Glengarry. He is an agent for the sale of agricultural implements.

Andrew McMaster, Montreal, was one of the speakers.

East Middlesex Conservatives.

London, Ont., Aug. 14.—The East Middlesex Conservatives yesterday afternoon nominated Peter Elson, M.P. of London Township, for the Commons, and the Liberals of the same riding named Dr. Reutledge of Lambeth. Mr. Elson defeated Dr. Reutledge at the general election before the last one.

Gordon Again Named.

North Bay, Aug. 14.—Nipissing Conservative delegates on Saturday nominated George Gordon, who represented the riding in the Parliament just dissolved. Hon. George E. Foster, Hon. Frank Cochrane, Harry Morel, M.P.P., R. T. Shillington, MP.P., and A. A. Aubin, M.P.P., were among the speakers.

Strikes Come Expensive.

London, Aug. 14.—London is almost its self again to-day. A few hours sufficed to release the flood of traffic which had been held up for several days, and supplies were rushed out to replenish the empty markets and stores shortly after the settlement of the strike was officially announced.

It is estimated that the week's strike of the dockmen and carriers has cost the metropolis at least $7,500,000. The carmen employed by two railroad companies claim to have private grievances, and refuse to return to work under the general settlement. They threatened to again paralyze the city traffic. It is generally recognized that the effect of the substantial increase in wages which has been conceded the strikers, will be to considerably enhance the already high cost of living in London.

First Car of New Wheat.

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—The first car of new wheat was received on the Winnipeg market on Saturday. It is from Southern Manitoba, grade No. 1 hard, and averaged 27 bushels to the acre. The berry is firm and large, with no evidence of rust.

A farmer near Carman who shipped the car has 300 acres in wheat, and the whole of it is declared to be equally good. It weighs above the average and is considered a fair indication of the Manitoba crops.

UNCHARTED SHOAL.

H.M.S. Cornwall Said to Have Struck One.

Halifax, Aug. 14.—That H.M.S. Cornwall struck on a shoal that is uncharted when she went to the relief of the Niobe, is the report of Captain Bankhouse of the Canadian Government steamer Petrel, who was detailed to investigate. Captain Bankhouse has notified the authorities that he found a shoal within seventeen feet at low water not on the chart. That this is the shoal touched by the Cornwall is shown by the course given by Captain Ley of the warship as having been steered by him. The charts show no shallow water between Southwest Lead Buoy from which the Cornwall started in approaching the Niobe and Bon Portage Lodge, Whistling Buoy. This part of the Nova Scotia coast has not been surveyed for more than fifty years, and the work was then only partially done. No vessel drawing as much as the Cornwall or Niobe was ever in those waters before. The Cornwall draws 27 feet. Mariners here say the discovery by the Petrel should be a reason for the Canadian Government to ask that Captain Ley and his officers be exonerated. The Cornwall went into drydock on Saturday. She is found to be badly damaged.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Three Chinese anarchists made an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Admiral Li Chun, commander of the Chinese Southern Squadron, with a bomb.

The unusual heat and resultant droughts in France continues without interruption. Lack of water has been responsible for a series of costly village and forest fires.

A child playing with matches caused a fire in a Toronto residence Saturday night, which gutted a bedroom in the house and for a time threatened to become serious.

The body of Harry Hughes, late of 1,246 West Bloor street, Toronto, who, in company with Edward Goby, was drowned off Sunnyside on July 22, was recovered about 5.30 yesterday.

The third fatal switchback accident to occur at Montreal this summer, took place last night at Dominion Park, when E. J. Long, 32 years of age, was thrown from his seat and instantly killed.

Zachariah Walker, a negro desperado, was carried on a cot from the hospital at Coatesville, Penna., last night and burned to a crisp by a frenzied mob. The negro had shot and killed Edgar Rice, a policeman.

The Pope Is Better.

Rome, Aug. 14.—The condition of Pope Pius yesterday was almost stationary but with a tendency toward slow, though general, improvement. His temperature was 98.7, and while the pains in the gouty knee still prevailed, the pontiff suffered much less from pain than on the preceding days of his illness. He also took a greater amount of nourishment and his strength was well maintained.

Although the general condition of his holiness is not yet such as to justify absolute optimism for his recovery, his physicians believe that if there is no relapse he will be able next week to entirely abandon his bed. They say, however, that his convalescence will be a long one, as it will be necessary for him to submit to a severe regimen with regard to both food and work.

Clifford's Home Coming.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—At eight o'clock to-night, Private Clifford, winner of the King's prize at Bisley, will arrive at the North Toronto station, where he will be received by the City Council, the militia and the citizens. Montreal gave him a great reception on Saturday. He was entertained at a banquet in his honor by the Montreal militia. Clifford's wife and mother went to Montreal to meet him.

The cavalry will be represented by the Governor-General's Body Guard and the Ninth Mississauga Horse. It is expected that the 48th Highlanders and the 10th Royal Grenadiers, to which Clifford belongs, will turn out in full force.

Clifford will be drawn in a carriage by a number of his comrades of the Grenadiers.

Incendiary Fire at Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 14.—The western half of the medical building, one of the oldest structures on the University of Michigan grounds, was destroyed last night by a fire thought to be of incendiary origin.

The flames originated on the fourth floor, which was unoccupied at the time and where there were no live electric wires.

The eastern section of the building, which is to be equipped as a medical museum by funds now being raised by Michigan alumni in all parts of the world, was saved. No estimate of the loss has yet been made.

Bumper Crop of Apples.

Detroit, Aug. 14.—According to the official forecast of the International Apple Shippers' Association which closed its annual convention here on Saturday, Canada and the United States will have a bumper apple crop this year, exceeding last year's crop by at least 35 per cent., or 500,000 barrels.

The eastern section of Canada shows an increase of at least 100 per cent. The crop is reported to be generally of good quality.

The 1912 convention will be held in Chicago.

OHIO EDITORS ARE ON A VISIT TO CANADA'S WESTERN PROVINCES

Moneyed Immigrants are Bad for Our Western Country—How the Real Estate Men Operate—British Theorists Spreading Reciprocity Idea—They are Not Likely to Win Out in the End—Manitoba Is Turning Strongly Against the Pact

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO THE TORONTO NEWS AND THE INTELLIGENCER.

WINNIPEG, August 3.—Early this week a train-load of editors from Ohio passed through Winnipeg on their way to see the Canadian Northwest which has become the home of so many farmers from the buck-eye state. Another party of 150 men from Montana toured Alberta this week in a special train, which carried the fiery cross of free trade in its midst in the form of a large streamer bearing the significant exhortation—"Let us have reciprocity." These are simply instances to show how the wind is blowing in the prairie provinces under the directing influence of the great trek northward from the United States. The character of the immigration into Canada during the past three years, involving a steadily increasing percentage of American settlers, has a very important connection with the Western farmer's agitation for free trade.

In the first place the rich American settler is not the remarkable asset to Canada that many people think he is. As the manager of one of the banks told me to-day, the monied immigrant is a bad thing for our Western country. "What we want," said he "is the class of people who will have to work all the year round on their farms." As it is now, the big farmer form the States thinks nothing of breaking up a thousand extra acres every year, taking a crop off it in the fall, and then leaving everything in idleness until the spring when another inroad is made upon the virgin prairie. Their presence in the Western country is a fine instrument for the real estate man, who has capital enough to do a little colonizing on the side. For instance one of the strongest advocates of reciprocity, that I met in Winnipeg, was the manager of a large land company who has made himself fabulously wealthy through organizing excursions to Western Canada, of farmers from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, and various other parts of the States. He has an army of agents and sub-agents scattered all through the agricultural states and this year he has been bringing in the American farmers at the rate of a train load a week. Of course this gentleman has farms ready for all of them; that is the way he makes his money. Speaking of reciprocity, he said, "Oh it has been a splendid advertisement for Canada. We find that it has turned the mind of the American farmer towards our lands, and he regards Canada in the friendly way he looks on one of his own states." Thus one finds that the American farmer is "boosting" Western Canada, and like the enterprising real estate manager I referred to, he is bound to make as much out of wheat and wheat lands as he can, while the fun lasts. The connection between this Americanizing movement and the free trade propaganda is not hard to perceive.

There is another strong hinge on which the free trade door is swinging. It is the sentimental harrangue of the British radical, who is neither by birth or inclination, a farmer. If he had been a farmer in Britain, the chances are his ideas of tariff reform would be different from those he is now advocating. He, however, has become one of the party, which the Grain Growers' Association seems to be bent upon organizing.

But will the British free trader on the prairies win out in the end? It is doubtful, for his natural place is in the town and city, not on the farm and daily in the larger centres such as Winnipeg an opposing tide of sentiment is rising amongst the industrial class who have also come out from the old country. This uprising of national feeling for Canada and the Empire has received great impetus as the result of a new phase of immigration, which has lately been initiated by seventy-five public-spirited citizens of Winnipeg and which incidentally, is demonstrating that the English woman is needed more urgently in the West now than the Englishman. The Imperial Home Reunion Association, as the seventy-five men call themselves, have adopted a practical plan of assisting worthy Britishers in bringing their families to settle in Canada. So successfully has the work of this Association proven that since November, 1910, the date of inception, 1,200 women and children have been brought to Winnipeg and in the case of every family the father has paid back the money borrowed from the Association to aid him in transporting his family. In this way over two hundred loyal British homes have been established here and the Board of Education has been obliged to build a new primary school which will be opened this year.

In each of the 212 men, who have brought families to Winnipeg evidence has been gathered to show how infinitely superior industrial conditions are in Canada compared with those prevailing in free trade England. Just last night the Executive of the Association were considering two applications from workingmen who wanted to bring their wives and children to Winnipeg. One applicant had secured a millinery position for his daughter at $12 a week, "my being asked the nature of her position in England, the father said, "my daughter has been working and living in the old country on eight shillings per week." Such testimonials as this have been frequent, and the various contrasts provided are winning converts to the national policy which has made Canada the land of hope and opportunity for the poor family from Britain.

Winnipeg's experience of the past year in helping to establish British homes has stimulated other Western towns to the same endeavor, and the immigration of women is being generally recognized as one of the most urgent requirements of the country. Where she is, the home is, and where the shack is synonymous with home the smaller the number of indigents to be thrown back on the cities in the winter time after the harvest has been reaped.

While money and railroad facilities are vital to the progress of Western Canada, in the long run, the character of her new settlers is the most important factor of all.

We have a remedy that has a record of growing hair in 93 out of every 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so certain Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will cure dandruff, prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, stop falling hair and grow new hair, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for it in every instance where it does not give entire satisfaction.

Rexall "93" Har Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is delightfully perfumed, and does not grease or gum the hair. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. With our guarantee back of it, you certainly take no risk. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store—J. S. McKeown.

Sacrament at Sea.

New York, Aug. 14.—Altogether charmed by pretty ten-year-old Mathilde Sinclair, who was the life and the light of the steamship Bremen of the North German Lloyd Line, which arrived yeserday, Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal, who made the little girl his companion and pet all the way over, conferred the extraordinary honor of personally giving the child her first communion aboard ship. The ceremony has few, if any, precedents.

Mathilde was taken abroad seven years ago by her mother, Mrs. Thos. I. Sinclair, the daughter of a judge, in Amsterdam, N.Y., to be educated. The mother brought her back for a six months' vacation. She is pretty, bright, and speaks several languages. She was easily the most popular passenger on the ship.

In talking with her one day the archbishop discovered she was a Catholic. He was delighted by the coincidence. That this was also the anniversary of the mother's birthday, and the captain added this fact as one of the motives for giving his special spread.

Boy Charged With Arson.

Montreal, Aug. 14.—Camille Ouimet, a boy nine years of age, living at 336 East Sherbrooke street, was arrested on Saturday as a result of statements made at an investigation held by Fire Commissioner Latulippe into the fire that destroyed the factory of Mr. Ledue in Berri lane on Monday last.

Four boys were summoned to attend the court, their names being Camille Ouimet and Alfred, his brother, aged 9 and 8 respectively, Henri Viau and Arthur Belisle, of 252 Berri lane, 12 and 10 years of age.

Belisle told a story of having given matches to Camille Ouimet, who first tried to light a gas jet but failed to do so owing to the meter being turned off. He then got hold of a barrel containing varnish and emptied the contents and threw a burning match on the liquid. The witness stated that Ouimet had twitted his mates for being afraid to join in the doings.

The boy comes up this afternoon for preliminary examination before Fire Commissioner Latulippe.

The Coronation Cup will be contested first; then follows the City of Toronto, after which comes the Hamilton trophy, and the day will close with the match for the Osler cabinet.

Lemieux and Bourassa Meet in Joint Debate.

Thousands Turn Out to Hear New Minister of Marine and Fisheries Exchange Personalities With the National Leader—Crowds Are Noisy But Refrain From Violence—Stand Breaks Down.

Ste. Hyacinthe, Que., Aug. 14.—A political meeting, probably unprecedented in the province as regards the amount of invective and vituperation injected into the speeches and the amount of bad temper displayed, occurred here yesterday afternon, when Messrs. Bourassa and Lemieux, together with lesser lights, met in joint debate.

From the very outset it was seen that the occasion would be an unusual one, the speakers spending scanty time in the usual words of appreciation, but coming down to pointed personalities at once.

The crowd seemed to take to this style of debate, and cheered wildly, surging around the improvised platform so that it was in imminent danger of collapse.

Mayor Payan presided over the gathering, and had a difficult time in preserving order, the 20,000 people who listened to the speeches proving a somewhat turbulent crowd.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux made a notable speech and attacked Mr. Bourassa with intense vigor. Mr. Bourassa responded in kind, while Mr. Armand Lavergne at times interrupted Mr. Lemieux, who spoke in caustic vein, and several that that gentleman informed him and his supporters that he could use his hands as well as his voice to reply to insults.

Fortunately the threat was not carried out, and the only mishap of the afternoon was the falling away of a portion of the stage, under pressure from the crowd, precipitating a number of newspaper men into the audience.

Mysterious Ailment.

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—Several boys, who frequent the city's swimming bath, at the end of Bank street, have during the past few days been the victims of ugly looking sores and scabs on their faces, legs and other portions of their bodies.

One young lad, an employe in a busy section of the city, has six ulcers on his face. These have developed within the past two days, and five or six of his companions are similarly affected, the skin being affected within the same period of time.

All these youths are regular attendants at the swimming bath. The city medical authorities have been asked to investigate. The bath is located near one of the city sewer outlets.

The man who gets away with it is the man who lies clumsily to his wife about little things. She never suspects him of the big ones.

PRIEST MURDERED BY PARIS TEACHER

PARIS, Aug. 12.—A Paris priest the Abbe Henri Garnier, cure of the Church of Sainte Genevieve des Grandes Carriers, in the Montmartre quarter, was murdered yesterday by a schoolmaster named Joseph Levesques Levesques had been for three years the teacher of the school dependent on the church of Ste. Genevieve, but a few days ago he was informed by Abbe Garnier that he would be dismissed at the end of the term owing to his irritability and violent character.

Yesterday Levesques called at the vicarage, and was shown into the abbe's office. After a few minutes' conversation the teacher drew a revolver and fired three times. The murderer on being arrested said he much regretted his act. He said that on his expressing a desire to know the real reasons for his dismissal the abbe insulted him, whereupon he lost control of himself and fired.

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE AGAINST RECIPROCITY

The Reasons Given by Eighteen of Toronto's Leading Liberals

Following is the statement issued last February by eighteen of the leading Liberals of Toronto, in which they declared their opposition to reciprocity:—

"We oppose ratification of the proposed reciprocity agreement with the United States of America—

"1. Because in the year 1897 the Parliament of Canada repealed the legislation then existing relating to reciprocity and since such repeal neither the people of Canada, nor their Parliament have entrusted the Government with any duty or authority to negotiate with respect to any agreement on the subject.

"2. Because the present unexampled prosperity of Canada is the result of a policy which has been pursued in the development of her trade and of her natural resources. Because this has involved the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars upon railways, canals, steamships and other means of transportation between East and West and West and East, and the obligation to incur further great expenditures for the same purpose, and because further development along the same lines would be seriously checked by the proposed reciprocity agreement, and the benefits of the expenditures referred to would be to a great extent lost.

"3. Because it is essential to the continued national unity and development of Canada that no trade relations with any country should be agreed to by Canada on any basis which would check the growth and development of trade between the various parts of Canada with each other, or between Canada and the various parts of the Empire; and because the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States of America would seriously check the growth and development of this trade.

"4. Because any present benefit to any section of Canada or to any interests or individuals therein which might accrue from the proposed agreement would be more than offset by the loss and injury which would accrue to other sections and interests and individuals, and because the result to Canada as a whole would be greatly injurious.

"5. Because, as a result of the proposed agreement, the freedom of action possessed by Canada with reference to her tariffs and channels of trade would be greatly curtailed, and she would be hampered in developing her own resources in her own way and by her own people.

"7. Because to avoid such disruption Canada would be forced to extend the scope of the agreement so as to include manufacturies and other things.

"8. Because the agreement as proposed would weaken the ties which bind Canada to the Empire, and because the unrestricted reciprocity which would naturally follow would still further weaken those ties and make it more difficult to avert political union with the United States.

"9. Because the disruption in the channels of Canada's trade, which was caused by the termination of the reciprocity treaty of 1854 and the subsequent establishment of a protective tariff by the United States, gave rise to a decided leaning in many minds towards annexation with the United States, and this a time when Canada was mainly peopled by native-born Canadians and other British subjects, to whom the prospect of annexation was most unwelcome, and because Canada in a comparatively few years will have millions of newcomers, a large percentage of whom will come from foreign countries, and because if Canada should then have to choose between disruption of her channels of trade with the United States or political union with them, the preservation of Canadian autonomy and Canadian nationality would be enormously more difficult.

"10. Believing as we do that Canadian nationality is now threatened with a more serious blow than any it has hitherto met with, and that all Canadians who place the interests of Canada before those of any party or section or individuals therein, should at this crisis state their views openly and fearlessly, we, who have hitherto supported the Liberal party in Canada, subscribe to this statement."

This was signed by:—

SIR EDMUND WALKER, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Gives Clearance to Skin

FEEDS AND PURIFIES BLOOD AND THEREBY KEEPS YOU IN GOOD HEALTH.

Most women and some men try to remove yellowishness of skin, blotches dark lines under the eyes by cosmetics. Such means are as useless as disappointing. When the skin lacks clearness, particularly when the body is emaciated, it is simply the stain upon the skin of impurities in the bowels that are carried about in the blood. Sluggish activity is certainly the cause of bad complexion even if regularity should be pretty fair.

Better than any cosmetique, because they remove the cause of skin discoloration, Dr. Hamilton's Pills ensure inward cleansing and activity. In addition to their laxative action they are a true tonic to all the eliminating organs, liver, kidneys, bowels and glands. Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the cause of all blood troubles that manifest themselves outwardly, and they fortify and strengthen the organs and thereby prevent a return of diseased conditions.

One box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills proves their merit, even one dose shows how different they are from other pills. 25c. per box at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

G. T. R. BEAT COLEMAN'S FLATS IN A FAST GAME OF BALL

It Was nip and tuck Until the Ninth Innings—Then a Wild, Pitch Let in the Winning Run—Great Batting by Gerow Catcher for the Flats—A Protest Entered Against the Grand Trunk's Win

Although the G. T. R. baseball team on Saturday afternoon was strengthened by the addition of Gerow and Connell from the Steel Company of Canada team, it was with difficulty that they succeeded in defeating the Coleman Flats team. The score at the finish was 7 to 6 in favor of the G. T. R. At the commencement of the 9th innings the Coleman Flats were leading by a run, and they were playing good ball. The game was, however, lost by Purtell making a wild throw, which Gerow the catcher, was unable to secure. This allowed a run to come in and passed Gerow to 3rd base, the latter scoring on a hit by Barrett. In their half of the innings the Coleman Flats were unable to score. Gerow, the catcher for the Coleman Flats, played a fine game of ball. He was at bat five times, making three two-baggers, was walked once, and, in his fifth time up, made a long drive to left field, which O'Neil secured. The other members of the team also at times played snappy ball. There were a goodly number of spectators present to witness the game, which was impartially umpired by Mr. Wm. Cochrane. The play by innings was as follows:

Notes.

A protest has been entered against the game on the ground that Gerow and Connell were allowed to play. The manager of the Ontario team asserts that if the game is not disallowed the Ontario team will withdraw from the League.

THE C. P. R. SURVEY THROUGH TRENTON

During the last three weeks a party of fifteen engineers and assistants have been busy running trial lines through the town for the proposed line of the C. P. R. running from Smiths Falls to Toronto.

From what we can learn the general contour of this line between these points and touching the bay and lake cities and towns is more favorable for passenger and freight traffic than the present C. P. R. line running east and west through Peterboro, the grades on the latter places being very heavy.

The great advantages to be gained locally by having a third railway should more than counterbalance the inconveniences and sentimental losses to which some few citizen may be subject. Two lines have been projected through the town, the one following just immediately south and along side of the C. N. R. fom Belleville up to the Barber property, branches off at the latter point, crossing the Belleville road at or near the creek at P. Gunter's place, then circles down to the bay just to the south and west of Bay st., recrosses Bay st. between Campbell and Byron running through the centre of Steve Ireland's house, curves back again across Bay st. where the town line intersects it, then passes between Gill and Fortune's office and planing mill, crossing the river about 60 feet south of the present covered bridge. From there it takes a curve through the Hepburn wharf crossing, the slip at Jackson's boathouse and crossing the Governor Simcoe park the line takes out into the bay just west of Tugnett & Cottrell's factory. Leaving the bay just south of the Cooperage mills it takes another curve to the north, crossing the C. N. R. and keeping north of the Carrying Place Road.

The alternative line following the C. N. R. up near the town limits and then branching off, crosses Marmora st. by the lot recently purchased by Peter Pomery. It trestles the river at a height of 40 ft. striking the bank on the west side near Dan Duff's house, passing through F. Jones' residence, Rixon's, Finkle's, W. Smith's, R. Fraser's J. V. White's, Cam. Young's, and crossing the York road and Hendrick's farm towards Brighton.

It is really a hard matter to judge which would be the better for the town but from an engineering standpoint and all matters connected therewith the latter of these two routes seems the more feasible. No doubt many properties and residences would be seriously affected but personal interests and feelings should not be allowed to become a factor when the public good is at stake.

The cost of building a trestle such as the one proposed would not be as much as the expenses in connecion with the three level crossings and a swing bridge which would be necessary on the low level. The matter of the location of line from Belleville to Cobourg has been referred to the Board of Railway Commissioners to decide upon and no doubt we will hear from them at an early date.

There is no doubt but what this line will be built as construction work is being pushed forward with all possible speed between Smith's Falls and Belleville.

The fact that Trenton is exactly half way between Smith's Falls and Toronto, a distance of 206 miles, makes it look rosy for a second divisional point in Trenton, probably on the east side of the river.

The surveyors have removed temporily to Colborne and epect to meet the party running out of Toronto about or to the east of Cobourg.—Trenton Courier.

ATTEMPTS BLACKMAIL OF ROYAL PRINCESS

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—A charge of attempting to blackmail the widowed Duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha (the Duchess of Edinburgh) has been brought against a Jena advocate named Dr. Julius Wernsdorf in curious circumstances.

Three or four years ago the duchess commissioned a certain Baroness von der Brinken to buy some Russian lace for her. The baroness procured the lace and required 10,985 rubles in payment. The duchess refused to take the lace on the ground that a much simpler article had been ordered. Litigation ensued, and the court held that the duchess must take the lace and pay 3,440 marks, the actual value of the lace to be ascertained later.

During the proceedings before the Appeal Court, counsel for the parties came to an agreement that the baroness should take back the lace, the duchess to pay the costs of the litigation. The baroness, however, refused to recognize the agreement, but the courts held that it was binding.

The baroness then entrusted her case to Doctor Wernsdorf, who is well known for his attacks on the administration of justice in Germany, and has been imprisoned for libelling judges. Dr. Wernsdorf wrote to the duchess, declaring that his client would not rest until she had obtained the rights of which she had been deprived by a criminal act on the part of the Jena Appeal-court, but that his client was desirous of avoiding an otherwise inevitable public sensation. He therefore proposed a peaceful settlement.

The public prosecutor regarded the letter as an attempt at blackmail, and the trial of Doctor Wernsdorf on that charge began to-day at Weimar. He is further charged with libelling the courts of Jena and Gotha.

THE WORLD OF SPORT

THE TURF

The Hamilton Jockey Club's meeting opened with fine weather, a big crowd, keen racing. Superstition won the Brantford Handicap by a head from Bob R. and Aylmer. Campeon defeated Restigouche and Stilly Night in the first race and Sal Volatile equalled the track record of 1.06 1-5 for 5 1-2 furlongs. Other winners were Puggins, Commola, Lizzie Flint, Eeagle Bird and Michael Angelo.

Lord Derby heads the list of winning owners in England with $117,000 earned by his horses this year.

ATHLETICS

LONGBOAT BEAT SHRUBB.

Longboat won the twelve-mile race at the Island Stadium at Toronto on Saturday night in 1 hour, 4 minutes and 28 seconds, by almost half a lap, after a really exciting race, in which it was impossible to form any opinion as to the winner until the eleventh mile, when it was seen that Shrubb's left leg was giving him trouble. It is possible that this was caused by the long sprint which lasted almost two miles. From the third to the eighth mile Shrubb had held the lead, but just before the ninth Longboat stretched out and took the Premier place. The next mile was indeed a battle royal, ending as it did in a tie. It was covered in the record time of 4.57, though the average for the whole race was 5.22. Early in the eleventh Longboat regained the lead but his effort to regain probably cost Shrubb the race. He passed the time keepers a few inches ahead in the eleventh, and then fell behind suddenly, limping slightly, and altogether out of his usual form. Longboat, on the other hand seemed as fresh as before, running the last mile in 5.1, and finishing half a lap ahead of his competitor.

The Art Loan Exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition this year will be made up of pictures of the year from the European galleries and a selection from the private collections of Canadian and American millionaires.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

Settling Carpenters' Strike.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—The harbor commissioners have signed the agreement with the carpenters' union calling for a 35 cent per hour wage all through the winter months, and yesterday 150 men returned to work at the new elevator now in course of construction at the harbor.

There now only remains the firm of Peter Lyall & Sons to sign, when the carpenters' strike will be a thing of the past.

Human Voice the Sweetest Music.

The sweetest music is not in the oratorio, but in the human voice when it speaks from its instant life, tones of tenderness, truth or courage. The oratorio has already lost its relation to the morning, to the sun, and the earth, but that persuading voice is in tune with these.

"QUEEN" OF ITALIANS CHARGED WITH MURDER OF WOMAN IN DENVER

"Subject" Breaks Down and Tells of the Horrible Killing in Order to Rob Victim of $320—Confession Said to Clear up Mysteries Shrouding Deaths in Foreign Colony

GOLDEN, Col., Aug. 12.—In a confession, alleged by the police to have been secured from Mrs. Concetti Forgione, an Italian woman of Denver, is told the story of the murder of Mrs Maria Laguardia, a well-to-do member of Denver's Italian colony whose dismembered body was found a week ago on the mountain side where it had lain for nearly a year.

The alleged confession, which is said to have been corroborated by the woman's 12-year old daughter Stella throws light on several mysteries among Denver's Italian colony and accuses Mrs. Angelina Garrome, the "Queen" of Denver's Italian colony who is now serving a term for forgery of the crime.

According to Mrs. Forgione's alleged confession, Mrs. Laguardia, who was Mrs. Garrome's godmother, was lured to the place under pretext that Mrs. Garrome would lead her to her husband, who had left Denver when an indictment was found against him In the party was Mrs. Laguardia Mrs. Forgione and Stella Forgione The four-months old child of Mrs Garrome was also taken along, according to Mrs. Forgione, who declared that she and her daughter went to care for the child, and had no suspicion that anything was wrong.

Mrs. Garrome, according to the confession, took a long butcher knife that had been brought to prepare their food with, cut Mrs. Laguardia's throat, and pushed the body into an arroyo, kicking down enough earth from above to cover it.

Brandishing her bloody knife, she is declared to have sworn Mrs. Forgione and her daughter to secrecy, an oath that was kept until yesterday when a trip to the scene of the murder caused a break down on the part of Mrs. Forgione, who, with her daughter and four other Italians had been charged with the crime.

According to the woman's statement, the possession of a considerable amount of money that the Laguardia woman was known to carry about with her, was the sole motive for the murder. Mrs. Garrome, it was declared, secured $320 from the murdered woman's clothes.

The alleged confession also purports to relate the circumstances surrounding the murder of Mrs. Corcinto Celanto, an Italian woman, whose body was found in a lonely spot on the outskirts of Denver last November and to furnish several clews to several mysterious disappearances in the Italian colony in the last few years.

ASTOR FARCE ENGAGEMENT AROUSES PROTEST U. S. PRESS AND PULPIT

NEW YORK, Aug.—The announced engagement of John Jacob Astor, the millionaire hero of one divorce and several scandals, to Miss Madeline Force, a young Brooklyn girl, has aroused an unprecendented protest from press and pulpit.

Bishop Burch, of the Episcopal diocese, New York, declares: "Before Col. Astor and Madeline Force can be married by an Episcopal clergyman he must convince a council of Episcopal Bishops that he was the innocent party in the divorce proceedings that resulted in the annulment of his marriage to his former wife."

Rev. Dr. Richmond, of Philadelphia, is the leader of the campaign against what he calls the "Astor-Force disgrace."

"My congregation fully approves my denunciation of the projected Aster-Force disgrace," he says today. "My Bishop understands me and my views, and approves them. I intend to denounce the Astor bargain again and again and to do all I can to make it impossibe for that wedding to be solemnized by a clergyman of any faith."

Threatens Unfrocking

"This Astor matter has to do with the integrity and vitality of the Episcopal church. The Astors, including John Jacob Aster, are professed members of our communion. I don't know anything about the Force family, but they appear to be merely climbers, dazzled by the Astor millions. It is impossible, under all the conditions, that an Episcopal clergyman should marry them. Such an act would be in absolute defiance of the church laws, and the one who performed the ceremony would be promptly unfrocked.

"Let me tell you who are responsible for the scandals, divorces and demoralization of American society. It is the women of this country. They are money-mad. They hunger and thirst for the limelight. The home is a place just to merely eat and sleep in. They scheme for automobiles, for notoriety. They dress with such immodesty that their limbs and bodies are exposed to the gaze of all who wish to look. They lust for wealth and for the evil leaderships in fashionable society.

"In all these things they outstrip the women of all other nations. Nowhere else may be found women who frankly sell themselves to the highest bidder.

"The women of our smart set are fast deteriorating morally and spiritually. They spend more time before the mirror than at prayer. They think more of big hats than their husbands; more of fast autos than their babies, and more of 'bully' company than home nature. They are foolish, flippant, morally careless and without conscience. They love 'feeds,' fun, frolic and fast life. Their motto is: 'Tickle me and I'll tickle you.'"

PATENTS NEW BALL CONSTRUCTION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—E. B. Moore, Commissioner of Patents, through the office of Robert H. Young, son of the former president of the National league, has issued letters of patent to Ben Shibe, of Philadelphia, for a new centre for use in baseballs which is expected to radically change the spheres now in use in the national sport.

In 1883 the first patent for a baseball was issued to Shibe, calling for a rubber centre, and this was used continually until two years ago, when the cork centre was substituted. Immediately this added greatly to the free hitting and from many quarters there were demands for changes. It was maintained that the flight of the ball has been uncertain, that while long drives were increased, the fielding suffered and that the science of the game was greatly interfered with.

At different times there have been reports the cork centre had been discarded and the rubber substituted for the game. This, however, has been denied by the manufacturers, and President Johnson, fo the American league, is the latest to announce that the cork centre is still in use and will remain so for the rest of the season at least.

The ball which was patented is expected to prove a compromise, and now that it is properly protected by the Government, the manufacturers, in which Ben Shibe, who is also president of the Philadelphia Athletics, is interested, will immediately begin the work of making the ball for use in the various leagues during 1912.

Experiments at Shibe's place convinced him that rubber absorbed much of the force of the blow and did not react until the ball had left the bat. He also found the yielding centres would not hold shape sufficently long to satisfy those who were forced to buy them.

And so it was that he started a course of experiments about a year ago which has resulted in him patenting a ball with a centre of vitrified rubber and highly seasoned wood, which not only adds to the resiliency of the whole missile, but the ball will be so built around the hard centre that its structure will be maintained, as has been shown in the experiments, which have been demonstrated that it will not lose its shape until the cover is either torn or ripped.

Furthermore, the unyielding nature of the centre will make it possible for the tension of the yarn between the cover and the centre to be so arranged that the whole ball can be reduced to such a science that it will be possible to approximate the liveliness of the ball, something that, apparently, cannot be gauged in the one which is now in use, and which has caused so much dispute. The ball will leave the bat quicker and will reach the infielders with speed that it is expected to add to the opportunities for spectacular work by the quartet on the inner breastworks.

Boy Fatally Burned

Montreal, Aug. 10.—The nine-year-old son of J. E. Beaudry, real estate agent of St. James street, was so severely burned when a can of methylated spirits exploded yesterday morning at the country residence of the family, Riviere des Prairies, that he died on his way to the hospital.

One of the servants was also severely burned and lies in the hospital in a precarious state.

300 FRONT STREET

Thrown From Train.

Montreal, Aug. 14.—Harry Maynew, 19 Market street, Sherbrook, was found lying on the C.P.R. tracks a few hundred feet out of Windsor station at 9.30 Friday night, having evidently been run over by a passing train.

He suffered amputation of one of his legs and when taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital he was in a weak condition through loss of blood. The story told by the victim at the hospital indicates that he was coming to the city on one of the trains when he was thrown from the steps by a sudden jolt of the cars. His condition is critical.

Somnambulist Falls.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Walking in his sleep early yesterday morning, John Reynolds, 20 years, fell from a third-storey window at Abraham Bornstein's rooming house, 133 York street. His escape from death was little short of miraculous.

He was removed to St. Michael's Hospital, where he is in a serious condition from shock, but it is said that no bones are broken.

TROOPS AND THE MOB ARE STILL FIGHTING

Serious State of Affairs at Liverpool—Premier Asquith Gives Warning

(Intelligencer Special.)

LIVERPOOL, Eng. Aug. 15.—Fighting between the troops and the mob continued to-day, six soldiers and two policemen being injured. Although volleys were fired over the heads of the crowds early this morning none of them are believed to have been struck by bullets. The hoodlums accompanying made the shopkeepers hand over food without payment.

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 15.—The Premier in conference with the Labor leaders to-day, intimated that the Government are prepared to adopt the most repressive measures unless the situation at Liverpool is improved immediately.

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—Mount Asamayama, a long passive volcano, 90 miles from Tokio, burst into violent eruption to-day. Molten lava is flowing from the crater and side fissures Thirty tourists, half of them Europeans, are believed to have lost their lives near the summit.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

(Intelligencer Special).

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—Edward Wilkie, and Frank Perie, Italians, are both charged with the murder of Wilkie's wife. They have been remanded until the 22nd. Perie was a neighbor. The police allege that he helped Wilkie to kick and beat the woman to death.

FORMER RESIDENT KILLED BY A TRAIN

VICTOR, N.Y., Aug. 8.—William Barnum was fatally injured at seven o'clock this morning by a westbound passenger train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Mr. Barnum, who was employed as watchman at the School Street crossing of the Lehigh, was engaged in piloting a party of Polanders (who are employed in the plant of the Victor Preserving Co.) across the tracks at the crossing and flagging an eastbound freight, when he was struck by a westbound passenger train, which was running late. On schedule time this fast train would have passed the crossing before Mr. Barnum went on duty at 7 o'clock.

He was struck over the heart, that organ being punctured by a rib. He suffered internal hemorrhages, causing his death.

The injured man was taken to Dr Clapper's office, where he died at about 7.30 o'clock, being conscious until the last.

Mr. Barnum, who was 75 years of age, was born and lived in the vicinity of Belleville for the greater portion of his life, having moved here with his family three years ago. He had made many friends since making his residence here. He was twice married. He is survived by his second wife, two sons by his first marriage, Charles, of Kingston, Ont., and Harry, of Knowlesville, N.Y.; three children by his second marriage Cora, who recently came here from Buffalo; Fred and Lottie, both employed in Rochester.

TAKEN FROM SHEEP'S BACK.

The Process of Manufacture Building at the Canadian National Exhibition promises to be unusually interesting this year. Take for instance the work of the Toronto Carpet Co. At one end of their exhibit will be a pen of sheep and the wool as taken from their backs will pass through every phase of manufacture till it finally appears in the finest carpets made. Other interesting machinery at work will produce silk cotton, woollens, automobile tires, shoes surgical glassware, etc. There will be forty different manufactures in operation..

Many of the lingerie dresses are distinguished by the new collar. This latest evolution of the collar is a deep square or rounded lace cape collar reaching the belt at the back, and sometimes just a little below it.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

MADE NIGHT HIDEOUS

Last evening a number of boys congregated on the corner of Albert and Dundas streets, and made such a noise that the police were sent for When the officer arrived upon the scene there was not a boy in sight.

A FALSE ALARM

Yesterday afternoon the police answered a call to Mill Street, it being reported that a Mr. Whiteman had been assaulted by two men. The officer responding to the call reported that no assault had been committed upon Mr. Whiteman and that there was no need of a call for the police.

PENDANT PRESENTED

Presentation took place yesterday afternoon at the Ontario Business College to Miss Purdy, who for the past five years has been at the head of the shorthand and typewriting department, and who is about to leave to accept a similar position in a Western college. The presentation was made after college hours and was the gift of the staff and the students. Mr Conmee read an appropriate address and Miss Ritchie presented Miss Purdy with a handsome pearl pendant. The recipient, who was taken by surprise made a feeling reply, thanking the donors for the handsome gift and the kind reference made to her in the address.

BRITISH FLEET OFF FOR MOROCCO

Interest in German Occupation of Agadir Has Been Revived

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Interest was taken to-day in the German occupation of Agadir, Morocco, from which position Germany refuses to budge when the announcement was received from Gibraltar that the British Mediterranean cruiser fleet had sailed for Tetuan, Morocco.

The French warships Lansquenet Surprise and Corbin have also sailed for Casa Blanca.

Germany has two or three warships at other Moroccan ports the Moroccan Great Britain and France assembled t other Moroccan ports, the Moroccan situation has an ugly appearance.

MARQUIS OF QUEENSBURY IS COMING TO CANADA

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Among the passengers on the steamship Mauretania which sailed for New York to-day, who assembled at Easton station, was the Marquis of Queensberry, who is on his way to Canada. Standing with an old friend and his two sons, the holder of one of the oldest titles in Scotland, was a depressing sight in a slouchy and ill-fitting flannel suit of blue and white stripe, and a well discolored straw hat. "Yes," he said to a correspondent "I am going to Porcupine. The length of my stay depends on what turns up. Frankly, I am going to look for something to do, and if there is an opening I will stay, then bring over my two sons, who will grow up in the country.

"There is no room for me here. The old order is passing and I feel at 43 that it is up to me to try my luck in new fields. I am sick of it all here and have been trimmed thoroughly. What is there for me to do? I am the only Marquis in the United Kingdom who has not a seat in the House of Lords. I am a Scottish peer but I will not be elected to one of the 16 alloted by my fellow peers. Scotland is almost entirely radical."

The Marquis of Queensbury continued: "I realize the changes which the fools of my class have not seen. A decade ago a change in the House of Lords was inevitable, and they then could have entrenched themselves more solidly but the fools could not see. I am in hopes of a chance to do something or other."

BEATS WIFE TO DEATH.

Edward Wilkie of Toronto Charged With Murder.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Because there was a can of beer and a bottle of whisky on his table at 254 Claremont street, but no fire in the stove and no supper ready for him when he arrived home at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Edward Wilkie, 33 years of age, an American laborer, is in the cells at the Esther street station, charged with murder of his wife, whose body lies in the city morgue.

When Wilkie arrived home, he says he found his wife drunk and when he asked for his supper, she abused him. A quarrel ensued and the police came in to make peace. Later the quarrelling was resumed and about 1.20 last night, the woman was heard screaming for help. Policeman Smith (86) forced an entry and found Wilkie pinning his wife to the stairway by the throat. Blood was running from her nose and mouth.

The policeman separated them and the woman demanded that the husband be locked up and charged with assault. There was considerable discussion, and Smith was just about to leave with Wilkie when the woman collapsed. Dr. Webster of College street was called, but when he arrived life was extinct. Wilkie admitted to the police that he had struck his wife with his fists, but said that he had used no weapon. There are two daughters, 14 and 16 years of age.

HON. MR. ROBLIN JUMPS INTO FIGHT

Says West Will go Solid Conservative in Opposition to Reciprocity

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—"Injury loss, and the final destruction of our home market," is the state of affairs which would follow the adoption of the Taft-Fielding proposals, according to Hon. R. P. Roblin, Premier of Manitoba.

Mr. Roblin arrived in the city Saturday afternoon on his way home from a three months' trip in Great Britain and the Continent, and expressed himself as eager to join in the fight against reciprocity on behalf of the people of his province in the west.

"I can conceive of no more generous, but misdirected philanthropy toward the United States agriculturist and absolute disaster to our own than this reciprocity pact proposes," said Hon. Mr. Roblin. "I am certain the farmers of Manitoba do not want it and am convinced that the representation at Ottawa in the next Parliament will be a solid Conservative one.

"A majority of the constituencies," continued the Manitoba Premier "will declare against reciprocity in Alberta, while from British Columbia every seat will be represented in the House of Commons by those opposed to reciprocity. In Saskatchewan the outcome is not certain, but the Liberals have little to hope for there, because of the fact that they have nine out of the ten seats now. The method of registering votes permits of much irregularity, and it is hard to say what unscrupulous methods may be employed by the agents of the Government."

Hon. Mr. Roblin stated that he had been struck forcibly on his arrival in New York on the Campania last week with the amount of attention the papers there were devoting to Canadian politics and was amused at the threatening tone of some of the newspapers when they considered the possible defeat of the proposal after the United States Congress had passed it in a specially called session. Some of the reprisals hinted at, he said, would be interesting to Candians.

The Western Premier will join Mr R. L. Borden in Toronto to-morrow, after which he will proceed to Winnipeg, and from there will start his participation in the fight against reciprocity.

W. A. HUNGERFORD SUDDENLY CALLED

Passed Away After Illness of a Few Days—Sketch of His Career

Citizens generally were this morning shocked when it became noised about that a telephone message from Madoc village conveyed the sad intelligence that Mr. Wm. A. Hungerford had suddenly passed away at his home in that village. The immediate cause of death was hemorrhage of the heart.

On Friday last the deceased was in attendance at the Conservative convention at Madoc village, apparently hale and hearty. On Saturday he was taken ill whilst at his talc mine at Eldorado and as speedily as possible was conveyed to his home. It was not thought, even by the physicians who were called in consultation, that the case was of a serious nature, and last evening and during the night his condition did not assume a serious aspect At about 6 o'clock this morning, however, the end came with awful suddenness.

Mr. Hungerford, who was about 70 years of age, was a gentleman who was well known in this city and in Hastings County. He was born in the northern part of Ireland, but had resided in this city and Hastings county the greater portion of his life. Deceased was at one time in business in Madoc village and was also much interested in mining matters in the northern part of the county. Since the year 1866, when the Richardson gold mine was discovered, Mr. Hungerford had more or less to do with mining gold, arsenic, pyrites and recently talc. The latter mine was situated at Eldorado and was one of the most extensive deposits of the kind ever discovered. Mr. Hungerford had refused $50,000 for it and had formed a company which had installed mining machinery and a mill, and were just about to commence grinding.

The deceased was for a few years a resident of this city, being then engaged as a traveller for a large mercantile firm. In the years 1896 and 1897 he was a member of the City Council, being one of the three representatives from Samson Ward. In civic motters he was as assiduous as he was in his commercial enterprises Mr. Hungerford was a member of the Anglican church and always took a deep interest in the welfare of that church. In society he was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and also belonged to the Independent Ordeer of Foresters. In politics he was a firm supporter of the Conservative party For the past 13 years he had been residing in Madoc village, where he had a host of friends.

Surviving are a widow and a family of three sons and three daughters The sons are, Walter, of Montreal; Harry, of Chicago; and John of London. The daughters are, Mrs. J. McDonald, of Toronto (at whose home Mrs. Hungerford was when the end came), Mrs. E. W. Sibbald and Miss Kathleen, of Madoc. To the members of the family who have been thus suddenly bereft of a faithful husband and a loving father, will be extended the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of friends in which The Intelligencer sincerely joins.

The date of the funeral has not got been decided upon.

MADOC.

Mr. Robert O'Riordan sold out his egg business to Mr. Roy Clark recently. Mr. Clark was formerly with Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Charles Gray has sold out his harness business to Mr. Clarence Kilpatrick.

The funeral of the late Mr. W. Bristol, who died at Vancouver, was to have taken place to-day. Owing to the non-arrival of the remains, the funeral was put off till Tuesday.

The covering of the new bridge at the lake with cement will commence in a few days.

Grain cutting is nearly completed and threshing has commenced. We learn that some of the grain is not turning out as expected. Oats are light and very disappointing. The early potato crop is almost a failure. The late ones look as if they would be all right.

The Longenecker Iron Company are hard at work getting out ore. They have not all the men they want and expect to be able to get men after the harvest.

Mr. Frank Smith has purchased from the village the power house.

The talc mill addition is nearly completed. They will greatly increase the output, which is in great demand.

A large shipment of hay was made to the Montreal market.

LET BORDEN HAVE HIS TURN.

Laurier and larger trusts.

Laurier and a leap in the dark.

LAURIER AND LARGER COMPETITION.

Reject reciprocity before the republic gets a strangle-hold on the Dominion.

The Globe has not as yet called out for "Laurier and a larger Taft!"

Taft calls his new horse "Reciprocity." Isn't the whole deal a horse trade, anyway?—Ottawa Journal.

In our fear of the Black Hand let us not forget the baleful enticements of the American Glad Hand.—Toronto Telegram.

"Mr. Drury has tried to tell you that because we needed recoprocity in the days immediately following reciprocity we need it now. Canada has grown up and out grown reciprocity."—A. W. Wright at Hagersville.

A change of less than 3,000 votes would have sent the Conservatives back at the last election with an adequate working majority. Which is food for thought for both Liberals and Conservatives !—Kingston Standard.

Hardy well flowers are Mr .Hartley Dewart and Mr. T. C. Robinette, who are now trying to get their programmes filled up in North York and Centre York, respectively. Vainly did they press themsleves on the attention of the voters of South and Centre Toronto. Their agility in the reciprocity step will not win for them in the Yorks. Both spoke out against reciprocity, and both are now speaking for it.—Mail and Empire.

Why if, as the Department of Labor and The Globe assert, the prices of farmers' products in the United States are higher than in Canada, have thousands of farms in the New England States been abandoned, and why have hundreds of thousands of farmers emigrated from the Western States into Canada? Will any member of the Government, any newspaper advocate of the pact, or any supporter of the Government please answer?' We pause for a reply.

In view of the candidacy of Hon Wm. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, for St. John, N. B., the following headings in the St. John Telegraph are more than suggestive:—"Great Harbor Works at Port of St John." "Ready for Tenders Soon as Transfer is Completed." "Extend Breakwater." "Hon. Mr. Pugsley Plans to Make Thoroughly Commodious and Up-to-Date Harbor—New Post Office to Be Handsome Large Building, Much Like that of Winnipeg—Report on Site Likely in Few Days."

Naturally the British market is the Canadian farmers' market. In 1910 some of our agricultural exports to these two markets were as follows:—

	To Britain	To U. S.
Apples..	$4,184,878	$ 132,210
Wheat	49,267,736	1,883,647
Flour	8,872,698	571,938
Cattle	9,979,918	642,674
Bacon	6,422,747	7,338
Cheese	21,481,566	23,995

When we come to totals, our total export of agricultural produce, and animals and their produce, to Britain reached $112,865,393, while we only sent $18,833,864 worth of them to the United States.

Miss Skeeter's Death

When the summer sky is azure blue
When your heart is light and your love is true;
When you sold idea of a joyous lark is a slender waist in a spot quite dark;
When you have the place and the girl and that,
And you're sitting there for a quiet chat;
When you scratch and thrash, and slap and swear,
And you claw and slash, and he's not there.
If you want relief invest a quarter—
And SKEETER SKOOT will complete the slaughter.

FOREIGN PEOPLE IN CANADIAN WEST

It may be news to many in this city that the immigration of foreigners into Canada has proceeded so rapidly that there are now large areas in our Canadian West so thoroughly and completely foreign that it has become necessary for the churches to send missionaries to them, and that these missionaries encounter the same difficulties of language, racial prejudice and prior religious beliefs, as if they had been sent to Africa or China. But such is the case, as was clearly brought out by the Bridge Street Epworth Leaguers in their meeting last evening. Just think of it. The Missionary Board of the Methodist Church supports no less than eight men who are working among the people of Austria, who have been transplanted into Canada. And this is not all, for the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church supports six women in the same work, a total of fourteen Missionaries of the Methodist church now at work among the people of this European country. And there are other countries represented in this country to nearly as large an extent.

These workers among the Canadian Austrians have to spend their first year with them in the study of their language, showing that it will be some time yet before they become real Canadian citizens.

All this, and much more most interesting information was given by three young ladies, Misses Nina Yeomans Myrtle Davidson, and Louie Steele supplemented by the remarks of the chairman, Miss Florence Adams. A map of Europe showing from whence the people came, added much to the interest of the addresses.

Next Monday evening the subject will be continued by Mr. S. R. Johnson, of Gorrie, Ont., who will deliver a lantern lecture on the foreign population of the Canadian West, showing one hundred splendid views.—'Com.'

The Lemieux and Bourassa meeting at St. Hyacinthe on Sunday last was a battle royal, exemplifying the political character of the Laurierite combination of political grafters and public plunderers who have been and still are governing the Dominion Desperate indeed must be the feeling in the Laurier camp when such disreputable tactics were resorted to by Lemieux, Minister of Marine and Fisheries in accusing Bourassa of having been an applicant for the deptuy speakership, as if that were a crime Such a position is the laudable ambition of every member of a party while a member. Bourassa retorted on the Lanctot and Oliver scandals Finally Lavergne charged that Laurier sought to buy him by the offer that, if he would be silent, his father would be appointed Chief Justice of the Court of Appeal. He did not take the bait and the position was given last week to Mr. Justice Archambeault. The "party of purity" are now, as ever, cankered with corruption, and it will be the duty of the electors to finish the crooked work of Laurier & Co. on the 21st inst. Judging by the sort of language used by Mr. Lemieux, he must have lost his head completely. The Montreal Gazette says: "From the very outset Hon. Mr. Lemieux, who opened the meeting, made a fierce attack upon Mr. Bourassa, denquncing him in unmeasured language. Fool. Liar Idiot, a lunatic, leading a flock of sheep who he was incapable of advising; robber, bandit, and even more unpleasant epithets figured amongst the compliments exchanged during the afternoon."

The Face and the Clock.

Miss Passee tittered.

"The dear little fellow is going to try an experiment!" she gushed. "How clever of him!"

While Miss Passee was speaking, Tommy had carefully placed the clock on the table in front of her. With a mysterious gesture he laid his finger on his lips and enjoined silence. No one stirred.

After about two minutes, Tommy's trained expression relaxed, and he clapped his hands in exultation.

"It goes!" he cried, triumphantly. "It goes! You were wrong, papa!"

"Of course it goes, child," laughed Miss Passee. "What made your father think it wouldn't?"

"Well," replied the little fellow, simply, "he said your face would stop a clock!"

Coops in Fields for Babies.

That necessity is the mother of invention is shown by the hundreds of little buildings resembling chicken coops which are scattered over the wheat fields of Weld county to provide daytime homes for the babies of the Russians who work in the wheat fields.

The Russian mothers are obliged to take their babies to the fields and have built these little structures of wood, covering them with canvas. At noon and once in the morning and in the afternoon the mothers visit their children, leaving them alone for the remainder of the day.

The youngsters are apparently contented and remain in their little coops without a cry, gazing through the slats at the [illegible]

LETITIA

A THRILLING NOVEL OF WESTERN LIFE

By CHARLES A. MACFARLANE

Copyright 1908 by the C. M. Clark Pub. Co., Boston, Mass. Used by Permission

"I am very glad for you, Miss Marian. But I shall miss you so much. Our five weeks' acquaintance has been a pleasure to me. I shall never forget our associations in this city." He looked up into her face with a smile but, woman-like, her intuition penetrated the thin veiling, and she read his heart as if it were an open book

"I could never have existed without you, dear friend," she replied softly. "From the very first you have been a protector, until it has become quite natural for me to turn to you. Our first meeting was so peculiar, and our associations have been so enjoyable to me at least,—your numberless favors so spontaneous, that it all seems like a delightful dream. When Father and Frederick return they will never cease to praise you for the excellent care you have taken of me The one green spot in my memory will be our stay in San Francisco."

"With a Green Mountain innocent as guardian," laughed Grant.

"My regard for the Green Mountain people has increased an hundred fold," she said, a perceptible tenderness in her voice. "You have gallantly upheld their reputation for noble qualities. But not one in a thousand could have been to me what you have been—I appreciate your worth—Alex more than words can say."

The sound of his name upon her lips startled him. Then a glad light came into his eyes as he looked up and met her earnest gaze. Surely his inner feelings were known to her, and this was the way she took to give him a glimpse of her own heart. For an instant he could scarcely refrain from taking her in his arms and telling her of his love, which he felt could not be refused. She was so close to him; the beautiful eyes looked so trustingly into his own, that they seemed to tell him all that he wished to know. Should he hear it? His heart was beating high, threatening an outbreak. Her near presence, soon to be torn from him, called for some token more than hope. A declaration of love trembled upon his lips; he was about to speak from the fulness of his heart when the promise to his uncle again loomed up like a mountain before him, and turning abruptly from her, he walked to the window and stood there, a picture of desperation. Love invisible but all-powerful, pressed him without mercy. A great lump rose in his throat; he trembled like a leaf in a breeze. Before him floated his uncle's face, the lines of grief deepened, the erect body, bent and enfeebled, and the greying hair white from anxiety The lips moved in a piteous appeal· "Your promise, Alex; your promise to me: give me my boy; my life and your faith are at stake." Bracing himself, Grant turned impulsively to his companion, who had been watching him from beside the chair he had vacated. "Miss Whiting, you are a beautiful, pure, noble-hearted girl As such I could but befriend you—and in so doing, I have doubled my own enjoyment. To know you is to esteem you. Your companionship has been at once an honor and a privilege. I shall always keep the influence of your friendship before me in the work I am again to take up. It will aid in cheering me when I am once more alone. It will encourage me to push forward with continuous energy; and when my mission is ended I shall keep my promise to visit you in your southern home. Until then, remember me earnestly in your prayers; and that the God of Heaven may watch over and keep me from harm. I shall need His protection, for the regions I am about to traverse are filled with dangers. I, too, will pray for you, that God's richest blessings may be yours."

"And, pray—pray that He may bring you to—to me." She was again at his side, the beautiful face uplifted to his. She had not been blind to his struggle, and readily divined the cause. Her admiration for his undoubted victory over self increased her regard, if that were possible,—and his personal sacrifice in behalf of duty was a pleasing revelation to her. He was her ideal of splendid manhood

The tender heart throbbed, but with that government of self best known to her sex, she calmly met his gaze, while a smile of infinite happiness rested upon her lips. "Alex, I shall await your coming. And in the interval my prayers for your safety shall be laid at the throne of God. Our associations have been very precious thus far, but let them not end here. I appreciate our friendship and admire your manhood. I shall expect you at the earliest moment following the end of your search. In the meantime, be true to our God: be true to yourself and you duty; and be true to our friendship. I shall not forget you. I——' the voice choked and tears filled her eyes. "I——"

"Massa Whiting come. Massa Fred come. Whar be ya, Miss Marian?" and the bright, colored maid appeared, almost beside herself with joyous excitement.

"I am coming, Dinah," and requesting Alex to await her return Marian hurried out of the room, glad to hide the tears that were trickling down her cheeks.

The tourists were seated at the extreme end of the room, listening to an elaborate account of Grant's encounter with DeLaurie, as only Landlord Mansfield could recite it. Both father and son were intensely interested, and noting the father's gratified expression, the hotel man took occasion to enlarge upon the young Easterner's excellent qualities, feeling sure that a timely recommendation would not be amiss, considering the most cordial relations existing between the young couple.

Creeps Like a Serpent

CATARRH IS AN INSIDIOUS DISEASE, SCARCELY NOTICEABLE AT FIRST, BUT HORRIBLY RELENTLESS IF NOT CHECKED.

No disease makes such inroads into weak constitutions as Catarrh. It spreads from the place of beginning to the lungs, bronchial tubes, stomach intestines, and before long all the organs of the body are affected.

A splendid remedy, attended with remarkable success in curing Catarrh has lately come prominently to the front. Its name is Catarrhozone, and no case is recorded where it failed to quickly relieve and cure.

The strong points about Catarrhozone are that it is both a local and a constitutional treatment. It not only affords quick relief to the local symptoms, but also purifies the blood of all Catarrhal poisons, builds up and strengthens the system.

Catarrhozone inhaler supplies an abundance of medicated air which is breathed in at the mouth, and after passing through every air cell and air passage of the breathing organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

This pentarating, volatile antiseptic at once kill the germs that cause Catarrh, and prevents the disease from spreading when once established. It is so healing and soothing that the inflamed membranes and sore spots are restored to normal and healthy condition in a few days.

Catarrhozone cleanses the nose and throat and keeps them entirely free from mucous discharge. It prevents dropping in the throat, cures headache and makes breathing easy and the breath pure and sweet.

To build up and invigorate the system, a blood purifier and tonic called Ferrozone should be taken after each meal. In conjunction with Catarrhozone it is a valuable aid in establishing such a healthy condition of the body that Catarrh cannot exist.

Other remedies have been known to give relief, but to permanently eradicate every trace of Catarrh you must use Catarrhozone. It is a commonsense, convenient, clean method of cure that is endorsed by the profession and all intelligent pharmacists.

You are sure to be benefitted quickly and positively cured by Catarrhozone. The complete outfit costs only $1.00. Trial size 50c. At all druggists.

Drowned While Bathing.

Barrie, Aug. 15.—Hezeska Gray, an Englishman, 27 years of age, came to his death by drowning while bathing in Kempenfeldt Bay at Fisherman's Point on Sunday morning about 11 o'clock. Gray was accompanied by Dalton Dunsmore, a young lad 14 years of age, and a son of his employer, who, being familiar with the water in that vicinity, warned Gray against going out too far, as there are some deep holes around there. They had not been in the water long before young Dunsmore heard a splash and on looking around saw his companion struggling to reach the shore. Being unable to swim himself, Dunsmore called to some campers along the shore for help, but before assistance could reach him Gray had gone down for the last time. His body was afterwards recovered in about ten feet of water.

The young man's only relatives are an aged mother and a brother, who live in England. He had been employed ever since coming to Canada by W. H. Dunsmore, a farmer, living a short distance from Barrie on the Penetang road.

To Tempt Death Again.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 15.—Captain Klaus Larsen, Cleveland, who last September successfully navigated the whirlpool rapids in the motor boat Ferro, arrived here yesterday to arrange another trip through the torrent in his new boat, the Niagara. He told a reporter last night he felt confident of success. Larsen's new boat has five feet six inches beam, and with the exception of two circular hatches, is decked over. She measures four feet from the crown of her deck to the bottom of her keel, and is propelled by a 13 horse-power engine, with a speed of a little better than nine miles an hour. The after hatch is also used as a cockpit. When the Niagara starts on her perilous journey through the rapids her forward hatch will be hermetically sealed, while the after hatch will be fitted with a canvas hood with an opening for the navigator's head and arms.

Plucky Italian.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—With the shreds of his right arm which had been torn away above the elbow hanging from his sleeve and the blood gushing from severed arteries, Joseph Steele, 24 years of age, an Italian employed at the Port Credit Brick Works, stepped up to his foreman and shamefacedly remarked that he was afraid he would have to quit work for a time. He was rushed to St. Michael's Hospital in A. W. Miles' motor ambulance, where it is thought that he will recover although very weak from loss of blood. His arm had been caught in the belting of some machinery at the plant.

What Yankees Believe

The Mount Clemens, Mich., Monitor says:—

"The outcome of the whole business, if reciprocity is ratified by the Canadians—and it may be at the general election which will decide the question—will be annexation. The friends and foes of reciprocity in this country would send up a unanimous shout of welcome if the whole of Canada will come right into the Union. Thats 'where it belongs, and is likely to be."

Champ Clark, the Democratic leader, who is an advocate of Canada's future, remarked the other day:

"I guess we fellows in the United States who want Canada to ratify the agreement ought to keep still."

These opinions are entertained and expressed by all United States public men, from the President down.

A Question of Fact

There was published in the Ministerial press on Saturday a statement issued by the Department of Labor that the average of yearly prices of grain from 1906 to 1911 had been as follows:

Wheat—Winnipeg, 95; Minneapolis, 104.
Oats—Toronto, 40; Buffalo, 46.
Barley—Toronto, 57; Winnipeg, 49; Buffalo, 76; Duluth, 61.
Rye—Toronto, 71; Buffalo, 88.

Hay (per ton)—St. John, $12.87; Montreal, $12.98; Boston, $19.69; New York, $21.89; Toronto, $12.57; Buffallo, $16.30.

The Department is uncandid in failing to state that the ton in the United States is 2,240 lbs., or one-eighth greater than the Canadian ton, which is 2,000 lbs. Therefore, one-eighth should be added to the Canadian price. "False in one thing, false to all," is a proverb which applies inthis case.

As to dairy produce, the report says:

In dairy produce, average prices as compared among the various cities show on the whole a fairly stable equilibrium, with market prices sometimes slightly higher on one side of the line and sometimes vice versa, but the general average is about the same on both sides.

This statement confutes the wild and totally unfounded assertions of the faddists as to there being a great market in the United States for the Canadian product. The fact is that Canadian cheese, like Canadian bacon, commands a considerably higher price than do the U. S. products in Liverpool, which market regulates the prices of those articles. And here it may be remarked that the publication of comparative prices of Canadian and American cheese and bacon, which used to be published in the Census and Statistics Monthly, issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, have not been given for some months past. Another petty trick of the powers that be. Nothing is too small for the Hon. Sidney Fisher and his Grit subordinates.

There is a little show of fairness in the report as to live stock, which is as follows:

In regard to live stock, the comparison of average prices for the period covered shows the following:

Cattle, export steers (per cwt.)—Toronto, $5.51; Buffalo, $6.48; Chicago, $7.04.

Hogs (per cwt.)—Toronto, $6.96; Buffalo, $7.35; Winnipeg, $5.60.

The significance of the omission of horses and dairy cows, which are among the most valuable animals on the farm, cannot be overlooked. Why it was done will presently be made apparent.

While the Ottawa Government were, while the negotiations were in progress, ignorant of the effects of the agreement into which they were blindly entering, it was otherwise with the Government of the United States. President Taft had, long previous, appointed a Tariff Commission of experts to examine into the subject, and after a lengthened inquiry they reported in February last at great length. Their report, which was, in a condensed form, published at the time in these columns, gives tables and statistics relating to the various articles covered by the agreement and shows that in almost everything the farmer produces the price is higher in Canada than in the United States. The table relating to animals gives these figures:—

Average Value Per Head.

Year 1909:—

	Horses.	Dairy Cows.	Other Cattle.	Sheep.	Hogs.
United States—	$108.19	$35.73	$19.41	$4.08	$9.14
Canada—	$133.00	$43.00	$31.00	$6.00	$11.00
